The cause of Hemorrhagic Septicemia is an organism known as the bacillus septicus. This organism has no special powers of resistance and is readily destroyed by exposure to sunlight, drying or ordinary disinfectants. This germ is frequently found in the lungs of normal healthy hogs, and appears to cause little or no inconvenience. This, however, may be the reason that pigs which have had their resistance reduced from other causes frequently develop the disease. As a rule the infection enters the body by being inhaled with particles of dust from the respiratory passages during dry weather.

Symptoms: The symptoms of this disease are usually divided into acute and chronic forms. In the acute form the course is rapid and very generally fatal in a few hours. Temperatures range from 104 to 106 degrees. Loss of appetite, weakness and inanitude are noticed. The skin may take on a reddish or bluish tinge just before death. In the ordinary form of Hemorrhagic Septicemia the usual symptoms are those of pneumonia. High fever, short dry cough, rapid heavy breathing; discharges from the nose and in some cases, swelling of the eyes. Constipation and diarrhoea, and in some cases, vomiting may be noticed. Affected pigs lie in their beds and refuse food, moving the skin under the throat, the belly and around the ears may turn a red or bluish colour. Pigs may affected die or show evidence of improvement within a few days, or there may be a gradual improvement may be noticed and the pigs begin into the chronic form of the disease. The chronic form usually follows an acute attack; animals cough, and gradually lose flesh. The hair coat is rough and long, and they either die or remain permanently stunted.

Blood Lesions: In post mortems held on hogs dying from Hemorrhagic Septicemia large portions of the lungs are found to be dark red in colour, solid or liver-like, if a portion of the lung is removed it will sink in water. The lungs are frequently stuck to the chest wall, and small hemorrhages may be found in various parts of the body.

Diagnosis: The diagnosis of this disease is always difficult and should never be positive unless confirmed by a laboratory examination.

Treatment: All affected hogs should be isolated from healthy animals, placed on soft, easily digested food and kept in comfortable surroundings. In the acute form Anti Hemorrhagic Septicemia Serum is helpful in the early stages if given in doses of 20 to 30 c.c. per 100 lbs. of pig, injected deeply under the skin. This serum is also useful to give immediate protection to hogs which have been exposed to an outbreak of this disease, for this purpose 10 to 20 c.c. injected under the skin is sufficient. Healthy animals may be protected from this disease by injections of Hemorrhagic Septicemia Bacterin. This product, however, does not give any protection for from one to ten days after the injection has been given and is of no value in the treatment of sick hogs.

Prevention: Treatment of sucking pigs when six to ten days old with injections of Hemorrhagic Septicemia Bacterin, and repeating these injections when the pigs are two and a half months old, is recommended for the prevention of this disease in swine. If this policy were adopted as a general practice by swine breeders this disease could be effectively controlled.

Note: All hog houses, pens, etc., which have been occupied by hogs suffering from this disease should be cleaned and disinfected before being used for healthy swine.

BABY PIG DISEASE

Pigs from twenty-four to seventy-two hours old show symptoms of shivering, dullness and loss of appetite. They have a tendency to burrow into the straw, and when disturbed emit a weak, crying squeal. The hair coat becomes rough, the skin cold and clammy and finally the pigs' lamps into a coma. Death of new all pigs in the litter occurs in from twenty four to forty-eight hours after the first symptoms.

Recent investigations have shown that the blood of affected pigs contains much less blood sugar than that of normal pigs. The cause of this disease is not known, but it seems to occur more frequently in sucky pigs which have either been starved or not had sufficient milk during the first twenty-four hours of life.

Treatment: Treatment has not proved very successful except in the very early stages. In cases where there do not appear to give enough milk to properly nourish the small pigs, hand feeding of pigs with cow's milk spread over a twenty-four hour period and continued for three or four days until the baby pigs learn to drink out of a shallow pan, is recommended.

Lesson To Be Learned

Blitzer Finding Out Brute Force Cannot Conquer Free People

Hitler swore that Leningrad would fall. When his armies had all but surrounded it, when the city's only means of getting supplies was over waters under German bombers, he had American correspondents flown from Berlin (the United States was not yet at war with Germany) to witness its surrender. The surrender never came. Hitler was to learn that the spirit of man, his inborn love of liberty, is mightier than brute strength; the force of right stronger than the right of force. Immortal Leningrad taught them that; on other fields by other men the lesson will be driven home.—Ottawa Journal

Britain's Food Supply Presents Dual Problem

London.—Since the war began the ministry of agriculture has faced the dual problem of keeping the country fed and cutting down the number of tons of shipping required to bring food to Britain.

Before the war Britain produced less than 40 per cent. of its own food and imported annually some 70,000,000 to 8,000,000 tons of feeding stuffs for farm animals. In 4942 home production was raised to 53 per cent. of consumption and reduction of feeding stuffs has dropped proportionately.

When surveying the British agricultural picture it must be remembered that this, a country of small farmers, some 300,000 of them in England and Wales alone. There are few big farms such as are common in Canada.

These thousands of little men had to be mobilized on a wartime basis and their complete cooperation was essential to the success of the government's food growing scheme.

Centrally controlled and directed, the plan has been locally directed by county war agricultural committees composed of local farmers, both large farm workers and such technical personnel as was available.

Out of these grew district committees and sometimes even parish subcommittees, whose job was to visit farms in their areas, see that programs for increasing production and see that these were maintained.

When Australian Minister R. G. H. Hudson said in an interview that there was complete control over farmers he meant it.

Committees entrusted with supervision of the management and production of farming in their counties and some have even powers of control, ranging from giving directions to the number of cattle which might be kept, down to corn cultivation, to taking possession of any land and buildings.

Listed available figures reveal ... more than 2,000 inefficient farmers have been turned off their land. Therefore been left to kid-glove methods where the ministry of agriculture is concerned.

Government schemes of assistance, however, have gone hand in hand with control. Major assistance, of course, is the system of fixed prices and an assured market for the principal agricultural products—guaranteed until at least a year after the war ends

Seattle.—The Alaskan Eskimos put to shame the white men in their patriotic duty is done when he invests 10 per cent of his wages in war bonds.

Maj Gd R. Marston, Alaska defence command officer, suggested that the Eskimos invest 10 per cent. of their income in bonds. An old chief replied, "we put it all in bonds," and asked for $10,000 worth.

"When I tell them we needed a road to a certain point the Eskimos said 'United States—she good,' and ignored a threat to withhold from themselves to complete the road with volunteer labor," Major Marston said

She returned to Winnipeg by river boat.

British Have Won Many Battles With Nazi Submarines

London. A. V. Alexander first lord of the admiralty, told the House of Commons that there had been "periods of the most heartening success" in the fight against Axis submarines.

Because of the difficulty of combating him in "all the numerous attacks on enemy U-boats," however, it is not possible to say whether they are being sunk faster than they are being built, he said.

COST OF LIVING

No Rise In Excess Of The Next Three Months

Ottawa.—The Dominion bureau of statistics cost-of-living index dropped from 118.8 to 117.1 during December—largely due to government action in reducing prices of certain staple foods—and as a result the cost-of-living bonuses paid to Canadian workers will remain unchanged for the three-month period starting Feb. 15.

"The January decrease was due entirely to a drop in the food index from 123.8 to 127.4," the bureau of statistics said. "The two-cent reduction in milk prices was the most important factor in the January decline, but prices were lower also for eggs, butter, tea, coffee and oranges."

"The index now stands 53 per cent. of the start of the war was 100.8, and the wartime increase in the cost of living in Canada thus has been 18.2 points or 16.2 per cent. Last July the cost of living was 17 per cent. higher than it was at the start of the war, and it was the July figure on which the last revision of cost-of-living bonuses was made.

Four of the items mentioned by the bureau of statistics as responsible for the drop in the food index were subject to recent government price-reduction action

Early in December Finance Minister Ilsley announced that "by reduction of duties and taxes, and by subsidies to keep" the cost of tea would be reduced 10 cents a pound, coffee by four cents a pound, sugar by one cent a pound, canned pears, and oranges to "about the levels of September and October, 1941."

These moves, Mr. Ilsley said, were to offset increases in the cost of living due to price rises in spite of price-ceiling control, with the aim of bringing the cost of living "at least part of the way back to the level of the base period (Sept. 15-Oct. 15, 1941)."

In accordance with order-in-council P.C. 8219, the bureau of statistics will, price of cigarettes and tobacco in the January index does not include the tax imposed in the 1942-43 budget under the Special War Revenue Act.

The Farm Labor Problem Needs More Attention

Ottawa - Delegates attending the 21st annual meeting of the Canadian Horticultural Council here appealed for a definite statement upon the classification of farmers as essential to the war effort or otherwise and expressed the opinion that the present deferment regulations are unsatisfactory, since a farmer is obliged to apply periodically for further deferment from military service

Delegates claimed that if the farming industry were essential farmers should be given military deferment for the duration of the war

Hanlity Sharpe, assistant director of national selective service, told the meeting that all farmers were entitled to claim deferment from military service but were required to apply for deferments before they would be allowed.

"Present regulations," he said, "provide that the board may give an indefinite deferment if they wish. It is left to their discretion. You understand that it is the military authorities who wish to keep an eye on applications for deferment the board military is represented on the board and they have a say as to whether or not a man is essential"

The council passed the following resolution

"That this council endorse and strongly support representations made by Canadian food producing, processing and distributing organizations to the prime minister and members of his cabinet on Jan. 19, 1943, requesting the appointment of one cabinet minister and a food board definitely charged with the responsibility of obtaining an adequate food supply, and the maintenance of means and facilities for its procurement and distribution."

SYNTHETIC RUBBER

Montreal.—Canada and U.S. will not be able to produce sufficient synthetic rubber to take care of military and essential civilian needs until 1945, Dr. R. V. V. Nichols, assistant professor of chemistry at McGill University, said.

Until then rubber for these uses must be drawn from the stockpiles and from what can be reclaimed, he said.

CANADIAN ARMY

British Officer Has High Praise For Force Overseas

Somewhere in England.—Canadian officers and men are the finest material in the world, says Lt.-Col. Cyril Lloyd, British officer who served in the Battle of France, and now is on the Canadian overseas army's headquarters staff.

Col. Lloyd, seconded by the British army to the Canadian army, was awarded the O.B.E. in the recent New Year's honors list in recognition of his services to the Canadian force.

He says his ambition when the war is over is to go to Canada which he has never seen. He declares he likes the "Canadian method of work, the atmosphere of getting things done, the direct approach to problems."

Col. Lloyd believes that the Canadian army's staff work is as good as exists in any army because the greatest advantage was taken of the months the army has spent in Britain.

PLACE DISCUSSED

Churchill And Roosevelt Probably Between Washington and Bermuda

Washington.—Walter Nash, New Zealand minister, said President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill discussed at Casablanca whether to strike at Germany from the Mediterranean or the whole Atlantic coast or from both of these regions.

He said the time and place for invading Europe could not be published in advance since it would be valuable information for the enemy to know, but that it could be said the Casablanca meeting discussed all possibilities and "which was the best place to strike first."

"It was pretty well settled," Nash added with further reference to the possible point of invasion.

He described the Atlantic coast as that region from the top of Norway to the bottom of the Bay of Biscay

LEAN DAYS AHEAD

Says Some Stores Using Tin To Be Out Of Canned Goods

Vancouver.—Lean days are ahead for civilians with some stores going so far as completely out of canned goods before the pangles bloom again," W. B. Robinson, foods supply officer of the prices board predicted at a meeting of the women's regional advisory committee here

The day of canned goods for the civilian is practically gone," he said. Workers in construction and essential industries as well as members of the armed forces must be supplied first Civilians have no right to demand luxuries or even essentials when workers in war industries need them. In 1943 we will be without a lot of things and it's up to us to make a nothing else do."

MALTA DEFENCE

915 Enemy Planes Were Destroyed In 1942

Valetta, Malta - Air Vice-Marshal R. K. Park, air officer commanding in the Mediterranean, said that fighter squadrons and anti-aircraft guns on Malta had destroyed 915 Axis planes in 1942 against a loss of only 195 British planes and 100 pilots.

During 1942, he disclosed, the enemy dropped 12,300 tons of bombs on Malta.

Britain Offensive To Decimate Enemy Planes

London.—Maxim of offensive air fighting is that the enemy must be made to take the air before he can be knocked down and on this basis the R.A.F.'s first raid of 1943 on Berlin may be considered a two-fold success

In the Berlin raid on Jan. 16, when for the first time newspapermen were taken along on an operational trip of Bomber Command Berlin was attacked and more German planes than Britain has seen for months were enticed into the air, many of them to be knocked down.

The Berlin raid brought the now-famous reprisal" raids on London and gave Fighter Command and the country's other defences their best chance to work over the German air force since Dieppe

At Dieppe, while Canadian assault troops stormed the French beaches and the German gun sites Allied fighters of the battled planes and it has been estimated destroyed anything up to one third of the front line air strength Germany then possessed

It is a subject open to argument, but one that must be held that the air operations were a greater benefit to the Allies at Dieppe than the actual landing

Since then presumably because the output of German plane factories has increased more newly needed air fronts, Marshal Otto Sperrle, Nazi air commander in western Europe, has put only a few planes in the air at any one time

Some months ago, when there was no sign of an air raid on London, I talked to a high air force authority talk about the air war. He and nobody should expect that the blitz had ended for London for keeps, that actually its return was something for which preparations were going on night and day.

He did not mean merely that more and more shelters were being built. He meant the R.A.F. was becoming more and more offensive. He warned that when and if the Germans regained its strength it should not be expected that none would get through "But," he added, "we shall knock down more and more of them, in ever increasing numbers and that's what we want - a chance to really hit at them"

An Estimate Of German Losses On All Fronts

New York The New York Times said in a despatch from London that more than 4,000 000 German soldiers are estimated to have been killed captured or permanently crippled so far in this war

The figures were assembled by an intelligence section of a United Nations general staff from insurance statistics smuggled out of Germany and from secret estimates in London, the despatch said

The staff investigating toll was amassed reports of the Russian front and the figure is equivalent to two-thirds of the present size of the country's army it was said.

Total Nazi casualties were put at 8,000,000, but this figure included many who only wounded or temporarily ill who can be fitted for fighting again

Basing its figures on estimates until June 30 1942, and then computing German losses at the same rate for the second half of the year, the report suggested the total breakdown to the start of 1943 included absolute losses of 3,75,000, comprising 1,750,000 dead and 2,000,000 incapacitated, or more than 4,000,000 when prisoners and missing are added

If the figures err, the despatch reported it is on the side of conservatism.

It was estimated Germany now has under arms about 6,000,000, in the army alone, figured at about 360 divisions, and representing almost 12 per cent of the country's population

WILLIAM HARRIS CALLED BY DEATH

First Person To Play Musical Instrument over Telephone — Father of Local Man, L. Harris

Death came Saturday evening, Jan. 16th to one of the oldest residents of Ferrance Hill, in the person of William Harris, 43 Grand Street, who passed away in his eighty-ninth year.

Deceased was born in England, and in his younger days had been a sailor in the Royal Navy. He had made his home on Grand Street for the past thirty-two years.

A former member of the Township and County Councils, Mr. Harris was also a member of Court Sussex, Ancient Order of Foresters, and a Trustee of Grand View school for thirty-eight years. In politics he was a staunch Conservative.

Mr Harris was keenly interested in music and was well known as the first person to play a musical instrument over the telephone, having played the cornet in a concert arranged by Alexander Graham Bell to prove the success of his invention. For many years he was organist and choirmaster of St. James' Anglican church, as well as bandmaster of the Battenin Rifle Band.

Mrs Harris passed away fifteen years ago. Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. B. Morris, Brantford, and three sons, Lloyd Harris, Vermilion, Alta., and Ernest Harris and E. G. Schetterberg, Brantford. One brother, Harry Harris, in England, also survives, as do nine grandchildren.

Funeral services for William Harris were conducted Tuesday afternoon at the residence of his son-in-law, Mr. J. W. Schofield of Sydenham United church officiated, and a duet, "Lead Kindly Light", was rendered by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mann. Miss Mann played at the piano by Mrs. G. M. Cook. A favorite hymn of the deceased was also sung, Many friends were in attendance, and the profusion of floral tributes was indicative of esteem in which deceased was held. The pallbearers were Robert Dwyer, Harry Phipps, Gordon Schertz berg, Robert North, Garnet North and Edward North. Interment was made in Mount Hope cemetery.

C. G. I. T. NOTES

This week 40-odd girls, members of C.G.I.T. groups, have been celebrating C.G.I.T. week. On Monday the Vermilion group remembered the celebration in their own meeting. They planned also to further the activities in giving the people of Vermilion an opportunity to support their work. Next week the girls will be selling "Stars". The returns from these sales help to support the work in Alberta.

The Uniform of Canadian Girls in Training was adapted from the Royal Navy and carries traditions. The collar was designed to protect the blouse of the sailors from the tar of their pigtails. The three stripes in the collar are in memory of the three great battles won by Lord Nelson — Copenhagen, The Nile and Trafalgar. The black tie is worn in memory of this great admiral. The knot in the tie is not the sailor's knot but the true square knot of friendship as it is also symbolic of the fulness of purpose, intellectual, spiritual and social life.

Hello Vermilion! Here we are again! And after that bright and cheery greeting, nothing else seemed forthcoming. Usually I am all full of exciting important and interesting stuff enthusiastically as if I hadn't an inhibition in the world. However, this week it is a bit of a problem.

There wasn't a concert (usual good old stand-by). Of course there is going to be one Friday, but it is rather hard to tell you how a concert was when it just isn't until sometime in the future. In fact all we can do to tell you it promises to be one of our best and contains several surprises. Even the officers feel a certain amount of trepidation in anticipation of those surprises. Be sure to attend for some real entertainment.

There is a new class in—yes—but although individuals are always new and interesting, as a whole each draft seems to be just a new draft. The girls also seem to be left bewildered by the maze of corridors and passages that stretch endlessly in every direction except the right one. Most of them confuse officers with corporals, and sergeant majors with "guppies". They all seem highly dubious of their ability to learn the intricacies of blanket rolls. They all fall into bed and asleep as soon as "Lights Out" is sounded. No, there isn't anything new to write about that.

I might tell you about the giggling and talking that went on Monday afternoon as one platoon after another balanced uncertainly upon beams of different heights. What was happening? All the primping and posing before overcrowded mirrors made me wonder that pictures were the order of the day.

o o o

Also I could tell you about the two new officers who have come to the Centre — 2nd. Lieut. Standford of Personnel Selection who is visiting here for two weeks, and 2nd Lieut. Richards who has been posted here as a Platoon Officer in one of the Training Companies.

Or perhaps you would like to hear about some of our distinguished visitors. The Canteen has had far more than the usual number. First of all we had four officers who arrived with the new draft. They included Captain Brent, Staff Officer C.W.A.C. of M.D. 13, and Captain Mellrose, Staff Officer C.W.A.C. of M.D. 11. They were here in time to see the Centre and see just how things were run. With them came Lieutenant Bullock-Webster whose chief interest was the story night of the draft, and also 2nd Lieut. Hodge from Regina.

That morning four other officers arrived, three Ordnance Personnel Colonel Parsons, Captain Langstaff, and Lieut. Grant, and Major Woods, the District Army Examiner.

Later on in the week we were favored with a visit from Major Geraldine Maloney, the first woman Doctor to join the C.W.A.C., who is on a tour of inspection of all C.W.A.C. hospitals across Canada.

There! I think that about covers

Ice Carnival Called Off

At a committee meeting of the Vermilion Elks Lodge held on Tuesday evening, it was decided that, "Owing to the difficulties experienced in securing suitable attractions, and other factors", not to hold the annual ice carnival this year.

For the past four or five winters the Elks have staged Vermilion's winter carnival and donated fifty per cent of the net proceeds to the Public School Athletic Equipment fund. Last year they donated the entire net proceeds equally between the Public school fund and the local Air Cadets.

BOARD OF TRADE NOTES

Attendance at the Board of Trade meetings since the change to the new venue has been very satisfactory. In fact the attendance and interest existing in the Manville bespeaks there were 36 in attendance on Wednesday. The newly elected vice-president J.D. Fraser was in the chair and the meeting somewhat resembled a "get together" meeting. Work accomplished on our present behalf, Mr. Hewlett, Mr. McLachlan and comments have been on invaluable assistance to us and as you remember him, I would seriously recommend that a committee be appointed to wait on him and discuss the matter as soon as reasonably expected.

One of your first duties will be to decide on the date of the annual meeting. This is usually the first meeting in March but as the annual meeting is the business session of the year, it may be necessary to change this date. Please let me have your views on this matter.

Final action on the By-law providing for compensation to the members of the "Council will be presented you at the next meeting.

The Cemetery By-law will be resubmitted to you also for consideration. In regard this as a matter that should be given more thought than has been the case heretofore. I feel the government of the cemetery should be lifted from the Council body and placed in the hands of a committee who might be in a position to give it attention not possible by the Council.

There will also be submitted to you a By-law or resolution creating a body of citizens who will undertake to study and advise on a post-war program. The Committee would not only be to draw up a program but to not expect there will be any money from hostess or even government after the war is over, no matter how good your requirements may be. I think we shall have to make preparations ourselves to meet problems with which we may be confronted. The matter of creating a reserve fund might well engage your attention. This can be provided by adding an extra mill or two to your tax rate and with any excess profits from our municipal industries build up a fund that can be utilized for these purposes. It simply means an investment on the part of the taxpayers for post-war needs.

A further study of a water and sewer system will also be a matter for your earnest thought. Plans and specifications for this purpose have been on file with us since before the war, of course, consideration of them had to be laid aside. This problem is one that the Utilities committee which I trust you will assume this year to accept. The money will there will be to secure the necessary funds to carry out the project.

A taxing By-law was prepared last year but held in abeyance and this might also very well be attended. We have no strict regulations of the rising of buildings which may or may not be built in certain areas and I feel that while the necessity of this may not be felt in one, two or more years yet the people who will reside here 15 or 20 years hence will appreciate the forethought of the Council that passed these regulations.

Amendments will be presented to you from time to time covering some of our existing by-laws to bring them in line with present day requirements.

In connection with our public works the recent chairman felt the advisability of adopting a definite policy for the continuance of that policy from one Council to the other. I think the Council would then be well advised to study the whole panorama of public works for the town, outline what has to be done early in the spring to the superintendents and see that this is adhered to and carried out without the necessity of the chairman being consulted every time a job has to be done. The work of the Public Works and Parks should be co-ordinated and the Public Works superintendent should be open to suggestions, instead of engaging extra help for the latter as is very often done.

The establishment of an Health unit may be submitted you for such action as may be necessary. This is a very important development in health services and deserves the support and sympathy and support. I would suggest that a committee be appointed from the Council to co-operate with any other body interested in the formation of such unit to study the scheme and advise or recommend to the Council. This is a matter that is advisable on its part to take As this involves the expenditure on public money, it will necessarily have to have the amount required of us, placed in the estimates and the matter of this can be arranged for the current year. The details of the scheme have not yet been considered fully.

As to our housing field, this should be one of the very important matters such that after the war, a site or sites readily available for use in all are between Edmonton and points East, which is considered a good idea. In this connection, it may be necessary for local purposes to keep the prices to proper business conditions.

As to sanitation, I think the work of removing ashes should be included with that of the scavenging contractor. It is my belief to have in mind that both of these branches of public service are interesting in so far as the public especially is concerned or our premises and therefore would be better and cheaper done by one and would be more satisfactorily carried out. There is much work in the Town to keep a man or two busy the year round, but the cleaning and sanitation is good sanitarium is not to look after the control of garbage. We should be interested in a by-law to provide for a town clean and healthy and would appreciate your views on this matter.

I would strongly recommend to the Public Works Committee that they be attending to which will be a real help to the people with [illegible] Committee of Assistance [illegible] Committee [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Canada Fights Inflation

WHILE INCREASED taxes and restriction of the supply of civilian goods have brought inconvenient economic aspects of the war forcibly home to the people of Canada, we have so far avoided inflation, an evil that in the past has always accompanied a war. Inflation involves a series of rapid rises in prices and wages which ultimately results in economic chaos. Through increased taxation, restriction of production of civilian goods, and control of prices and wages, inflation has been prevented from affecting us here. However, as the amount of goods available to the civilian population becomes more and more scarce there is a strong tendency for prices to rise and great pressure is brought to bear against the price ceiling. It is to the interest of all of us at this time to endeavor to keep our wartime economic system as stable as possible and to condemn any practices which may lead to inflation.

Cost Of Living Increase Small

The cost of living in Canada has risen very slightly considering the fact that we are at war. Mr. J. A. McLeod, president of the Bank of Nova Scotia, gave some interesting figures regarding living costs at the record annual meeting of the shareholders of the bank. These included the facts that between November 1, 1941, which was the "high point" prior to the imposition of the price ceiling, to December 1, 1942, the rise in the cost of living was only a little more than 3%. In the United States during the same period, the rise was nearly 10%, and in the corresponding time during the last war the rise in the cost of living in Canada was 30%. More recent figures reveal that in January of this year there was a slight decrease in the cost of living index, due largely to the reduction in price of certain staple foods in December.

Further Price Control Likely

Although heavy taxation, and restriction of civilian buying causes personal inconvenience to many, this is infinitely preferable to the economic upheaval caused by inflation. Donald J. L. Daley, Minister of Finance in a recent address before the Ontario Federation of Agriculture made this clear from the point of view of the farmer. While agriculture might benefit for a while, if the prices of farm products were allowed to rise, the ultimate effect of goods which farmers must buy would also rise, perhaps even more rapidly, and the farmers would suffer greatly in the ultimate economic collapse. If our present financial stability is to be maintained we are told that we must expect to have further restrictions placed on civilian purchasing power. This is not an altogether pleasant outlook, but it is all part of the determination of the people of Canada to put all our available resources into the winning of the war, and to have a firm basis on which to rebuild after victory is achieved.

Wartime shortages and restrictions bid fair to give oatmeal the place it really deserves in the Canadian diet. This humble cereal is always highly recommended by nutritionists for its valuable content of iron and the B vitamins. There is and will be no shortage of oatmeal in this country and it should become a staple food in every Canadian home. It can be used in many ways and should not be thought of solely as a breakfast cereal. Oatmeal porridge every day might not be regarded with favour. Why not try an oatmeal pudding as one of your mealtime dsgrt? It is delicious, nourishing and has good "staying" qualities.
Here is a recipe that is easy to make. Children and grown-ups both will like it.

SIMPLE FRUIT PUDDING

1 cup quick cooking oats
1 cup raisins or currants
1 tbsps. brown sugar or honey
1 cup buttermilk or thick milk
1 tsp. of baking soda

To make thick milk (if you can't get buttermilk), put 1 teaspoonful of vinegar in 1 cup of whole milk and let it sit in a warm place until it sours and thickens.
Method—1. Dissolve the soda in the sour milk.
2. Mix all the other ingredients together in the top of a double boiler. If you can't get raisins or currants use peel.
3. Add the milk to the mixture and stir until smooth.
4. Cook over boiling water for one hour. Serve with cream or sauce. This will serve 4 to 6 people.

Farm Butter

Ration Rationing Regulations For Home Producers Outlined

Many inquiries are coming into Ottawa from the rural districts where people who make their own butter are apparently not sure as to what they are expected to do under the butter rationing order.

Answers to the six main points on the rationing as it applies to the Canadian rural population are given by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board as follows:

(1) All butter producers should have registered with the local rationing board before January 31st, whether butter is made on the farm to be sold or not.

(2) The local ration board should receive enough of the brown coupons from one to nine, according to the number of cattle on hand according to the number of people in the household.

(3) When these coupons are turned in, they should be accompanied by a statement as to the amount of butter on hand. The new ruling is that consumption per person is ten pound for every three weeks.

(4) If butter is made and sold to consumers, coupons must be collected from the customers to cover their purchases at the proper rate.

(5) If butter is made and traded in at a neighborhood store, or sold to a storekeeper for cash, the proper amount of coupons or the proper documents to cover these purchases must be collected from the storekeeper.

(6) The coupons collected from the storekeeper, together with the cash from the household must be turned in to the local ration board at the end of each month.

Here is one very important point to be remembered. If butter is made on the farm, the butter coupons from the consumer's ration books cannot be used to buy butter anywhere else. Household needs must be supplied from the butter made on the farm.

Rations in Britain

Would Look Pretty Small To Canadians Say Food Experts

Other members of the United Nations are managing to keep healthy and fighting fit on what the average Canadian consumer would regard as a shockingly small food ration, food experts point out. The following is a list of the rations at present obtainable in Great Britain:

Meat—1s. 2d. (28c) worth for adults per week.
Meat—7d. (16c) worth for children per week.
Butter and margarine—3 oz. only per week.
Cooking fats—2 oz. per week.
Bacon and Ham—4 oz. per week.
Sugar—8 oz. per week
Tea—2 oz. per week.
Jam—½ pound per week.
Cheese—3 oz. per week.
Eggs—1 shell egg per month for adults.

Canned foods—1 pound (approximately) per month.

From 18 to 36 pounds of rendered lard are yielded by a 200-pound live hog.

SWINE DISEASES

Common Things Found In A Pathological Laboratory Described

This is the second of a series of articles by J. K. Millar, V.S., Provincial veterinarian, Regina, describing the common things found in diseased pigs. The remaining articles will appear weekly in the following order: Enteritis; Erysipelas; Worms; Anaemia; Lice and Cattre. Previously published: Pneumonia; Septicemia; Baby Pig Diseases.

Sarcoptic or common mange of hogs is a contagious disease caused by a small almost invisible parasite known as a mange mite. These mites live in the skin of infested swine, and when mange is once established in a herd it spreads rapidly and is the cause of heavy losses to swine producers.

Mange is quite prevalent in parts of the United States and not uncommon in this province. Swine suffering from mange are unthrifty, lack vitality and are very susceptible to other outbreaks of disease.

The mange mites spend their entire life on the host animal. They burrow in the deep layers of the skin, and, unlike lice, are not found on the surface of the body. The mites penetrate through the outer layers of the skin, and excavate burrows where they lay their eggs. These eggs hatch in from three to ten days and the young mites grow to maturity in from ten to twelve days, when they begin to lay eggs.

Symptoms: Sarcoptic mange of hogs may start on any part of the body, but in the early stages the disease usually makes its appearance on the head, around the eyes, ears or snout. From these parts it spreads over the entire body, eventually affecting the back and sides, finally involving the entire body.

In the early stages small pimples are noticed covered by a small crust or scab. As the disease increases the number larger areas become involved. The skin becomes thickened, and often falls out or is rubbed off. The affected areas of skin now show only a dry scurfy or leather-like appearance. A very considerable deep wrinkling in the surface of the skin may be noticed. Intense itching causes the animals to rub and scratch, so that the affected parts often become raw and sore. An offensive odor is frequently noticed in old chronic cases.

Treatment: Cure of mange can be confirmed by scraping the affected area with a dull knife until the blood appears and sending these scrapings to a laboratory for examination for the presence of mange mites.

Mange is more common and spreads more rapidly during the winter months when hogs are closely confined. It is spread through direct contact with infected animals. Pigs however, may contract the disease when they are placed in houses or pens previously occupied by infected swine.

Treatment: The treatments for mange have been many and varied. The cheapest and most effective treatment is the application of crude petroleum. Used crank case oil is a good substitute. Where this oil is found to be too heavy for easy application it can be thinned down by the addition of kerosene or distillate, one gallon to ten of crank case oil. The most effective method of applying oil is by dipping, but hand application, when carried out thoroughly, are effective. All parts of the body, including the head and ears must be covered. All hogs in the herd should be treated. The following treatment is also recommended for mange. Sulphur—two lbs., oil of tar—eight ounces, raw linseed oil—one gallon. This mixture is best used during warm weather. Pigs should be well washed with soap and warm water to remove all dirt before the treatment is given. When dry apply the mixture with a stiff brush. Repeat ten days later, washing off and repeat the treatment.

Treatment for mange should be repeated every ten days until the cure is effective.

While mange is chiefly transmitted by contact with infected animals it is always wise to cleanse and disinfect any premises which have been occupied by mange. Where the coal tar creosote dips, diluted according to instructions on the container, are suitable for this purpose.

DIARRHOEA OR SCOURS

Diarrhoea or scours affecting pigs from one to four weeks old is very common and is responsible for heavy losses in sucking pigs.

There are two types of scours, one which is due to a faulty diet, in which pigs get either too much milk or where the sow's milk appears to cause a digestive disturbance. The other type, usually associated with unsanitary premises, is caused by a bacterial infection.

Symptoms: The symptoms are those of severe diarrhoea, with depression and lack of appetite. The hair coat is rough, and the hind parts become smeared with liquid feces. Rapid loss of weight followed by death in from two to ten days. Pigs recovering often remain stunted for a time.

Treatment: A general clean-up and disinfection of the house and pen should be carried out. Where faulty diet is suspected as the cause, starve the sow for twenty-four hours; allow plenty of drinking water to which some baking soda or a small quantity of formalin has been added. For the next few days feed the sow only dry whole oats, then gradually return to full feed. Treat the young pigs with small quantities of blue water. I have found small doses of extract of wild strawberry helpful. In the bacterial type, small doses of Swine mixed bacterin should be used.

HAD ANSWER READY

A girl met an old flame who had turned her down, and decided to highhat him. "Sorry," she murmured when the hostess introduced him to her, "I didn't get your name."

"I know you didn't," replied the ex-boy friend, "but you certainly tried hard enough."

A Drastic Order

Nazis Put Ban On All Business Not Absolutely Essential

The German radio broadcast official orders closing a long list of non-essential businesses under economic ministry's austerity decrees.

"All trade enterprises which are not absolutely essential for supplying the population will be closed down," it was announced.

Food, coal and agricultural enterprises were exempted, but furniture making, book publishing and tobacco manufacture were restricted sharply.

Cosmetic selling luxury porcelain, gold and silver goods, stamps or even sweets, which cannot be justified, will be closed," the broadcast said.

German Army In Russia On The Defensive

London.—Germany's misadventures in Russia have cost her many of the moment big-scale land offensives in 1943, in the belief of a diplomatic and military source with access to continental information. It is likely, therefore, he said, that Hitler's hinted plan to follow a defensive strategy this year was dictated by a real shortage of manpower.

This source said extremely reliable information from inside Germany supported by the recent Nazi order for a complete civilian mobilization by March 15—indicates that Hitler has agreed to follow a high command recommendation to shorten defensive lines in the east simply because Germany lacks the men and material for the longer ones held in 1941 and 1942.

Hitler agreed the German army withdraw to a winter line running roughly from Sevastopol through Dnepropetrovsk, Kursk, Kharkov, Orel and Bryansk, according to this source.

As the disaster of Stalingrad was followed by threats of similar debacles, the source said, a new line running from Nikolaev through Gomel and Kiev to Smolensk was reported to have been agreed upon, and this is the line the German army apparently is digging in.

But the Germans, he continued, are so hard pressed by the Russians, who already have gained the Kursk line, that the Nazis are losing more troops and equipment than they expected any may have to abandon holding the Nikolaev-Vitebsk line.

If the Nazis do reach it and restore stability, he said, the best indications are they still won't have much punch for anything like their old-time 1,000-mile thrusts.

Reliable reports indicate the high command will dictate the old rationing rules only in 1943 as defensive measures rather than for the acquisition of territory.

Nazi Air Force Now In The Role Of The Defender

London. — The German air force which once gloried in the role of the great destroyer has been driven into that of defender, but those of its enemies who know it best feel that its bombing ability will have to be beaten down in one more formidable offensive.

The feeling is strong in authoritative circles that the main weight of the bombers' bid for victory will not fall on Britain, although sharp retaliation may be expected if Allied air pressure increases on Germany. This feeling is based mainly on the fact that no large food reserve is left to the Nazis from their previous all-out assault on the island

The Nazis have an elaborate system of airfields stretching from Greece to Norway to southern France. This makes it possible for Germany to shift great strength to almost any point at short notice, as was one in the case of Tunisia.

Rough approximations of German air strength show: Heavy bombers, 1,000 to 1,200; fighter bombers 300 to 500; daylighters, 800 to 1,200; night-fighters, 400 to 500, transport aircraft, 600 to 1,000.

These figures do not include such numerous categories as army co-operation planes and the coastal command planes, such as torpedo bombers and dive-bombers; nor do they include non-operational reserves.

It is learned definitely that a high percentage of night-fighters are concentrated in western Europe across the Allied night bombing routes — perhaps as many as 350 or 400 of them.

The daylighter strength also is known to be heavy in western Europe, particularly in northern France, and 300 or 350 may be operating there with the remainder fairly evenly divided between Russia and the Sicily-Tunisia theatre.

It is apparent where the bulk of the bomber strength lies, although informed circles would be surprised if more than 300 are currently in northern France. A maximum of about 60, used in reprisal raids of London last month, was accepted as the best the Nazis could launch on short notice from those bases.

To play an offensive-defensive part in Tunisia, perhaps as many as 300 or 400 bombers are based in Sicily

NEW SUB BASES

Are Being Built By Germans So Naval Observers Believe

London.—Naval observers estimated the capacity of the great German submarine base at Lorient, France, had been reduced 75 per cent. by Allied aerial hammering, but they expressed the belief new bases were being built, and mentioned Marseilles on the French Mediterranean coast, as the possible site of a new and powerful U-boat base.

The evacuation of 45,000 persons from the old port district of Marseilles may mean, said these observers, that Hitler intends to expand the submarine facilities there to provide a great base for pack attacks on Allied shipping in the Mediterranean.

The new base at Marseille, it was said, probably would be patterned after the U-boat base at Lorient on the Atlantic coast of France.

Although the evacuation of civilians from Lorient is under way, observers said this does not mean the Germans have plan to give up the base despite the terrific punishment it has been taking. It would be a difficult job to remove the base completely since the submarines are built under 12 feet of concrete and hard to find.

FEAR INVASION

German Troops Take Up Positions In Western Europe

Stockholm.—German troops have taken up defensive positions in fortified areas of western Europe because they fear the leadership expects a large-scale Anglo-American action in the coming months, the Berlin correspondent of the Aftonbladet Sydsvar said, quoting "well-informed German sources."

"It is evident the Allies will try an invasion as soon as possible before the Russian offensive loses momentum," the correspondent quoted them as saying.

He added that "it shouldn't be surprising if the Germans consider the points where the biggest German U-boat bases are situated on the Atlantic coast."

It was claimed that fortification work is being rushed day and night with a highly-developed system of highways built as mobile forces could be sped to critical points.

Field Marshal Gen. Karl Rudolf Gerd von Rundstedt has just finished a tour of inspection of French coastal defences in the Atlantic and Mediterranean, the report added.

WAR TAXES

Although German bombing efforts have been relatively light on the Russian front recently, it is assumed that 200 or 300 or perhaps more are in that area, but many have been moved far to the rear as a result of the bitter experience of losing grounded planes to the swiftly advancing Red army.

These figures leave a large number of Nazi planes unaccounted for in the present operations, and these presumably are dispersed at numerous airfields awaiting tasks to be assigned when Hitler starts his final big gamble.

B.C. DEVELOPMENT

Government To Send Survey Parties North In The Spring

Victoria.—Premier Hart told the British Columbia legislature that this province must share in northland development and said United States authorities are surveying three routes that would link the Alaska highway with the British Columbia road system at Prince George, and are considering a railway to Alaska. If not as an immediate defence project then as part of a postwar reconstruction program.

For its part, he said, the British Columbia government will send survey parties north as soon as the weather permits to make its own survey of highway routes "so that, if this defence road is not completed out as a war measure, this province will be in a position at the earliest opportunity to embark on a public works program so that the business arising from the great development of the Yukon and Peace River district and northern British Columbia will be held within this province."

GIVEN NEW JOB

Kenneth W. Taylor Takes Over Work Of Food Administrator

Ottawa.—K. W. Taylor, 43, secretary of the prices board since its formation in 1939, has been appointed food administrator, it was announced.

Mr. Taylor, who is on leave from MacMaster University, Hamilton, where he was dean of arts and professor of political economy, succeeds Hon. J. G. Taggart, who has returned to his position as Saskatchewan minister of agriculture.

Mr. Taylor joined the Canadian army in the First Great War and went overseas in 1916. After the war he spent some time in England and later joined the Brookings Institute, a post-graduate research organization in Washington. He joined the staff of McMaster University in 1925.

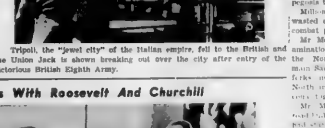
Sultan Dines With Roosevelt And Churchill



An event of historic importance to the Moslem and western world, was the appearance of the Sultan of Morocco at dinner in Casablanca, with President Roosevelt, and Prime Minister Churchill. The Sultan sits on the divan with the two United Nations leaders who broadcast their "unconditional surrender" ultimatum to Hitler. Standing, (left to right), Harry Hopkins, the young crown prince of Morocco, Jean Mogues, governor-general of French Morocco; the Grand Vizier of Morocco; the Chief of Protocol of Morocco; Lieut.-Col. Elliott Roosevelt.

CANADIAN FRIGATES

Name Is Applied To The Faster And More Powerful Corvettes

Ottawa.—The designation Frigate now has been officially adopted for the new, faster and more powerful corvettes which Canada is sending to sea and building for the Allied nations.

It is understood that the new name represented a victory for Canadian naval authorities They are said to have had to persuade the British admiralty to accept the new designation for the vessels now replacing the first corvettes built in Canadian yards.

The name frigate was first used for ships in war by the Portuguese in the 16th and 17th centuries. Later the French and British adopted it to designate a definite class of warship —ships next in class to ships of the line. The frigate was used for cruising and scouting and carried anywhere from 24 to 50 guns.

FOR FARM WORK

Plan To Use Prisoners Of War Is Being Discussed

Ottawa.—Discussions are taking place with a view to the employment of prisoners of war on farms during the coming crop season but so far no definite plans have been reached, it was learned

The selective service branch of the labor department, the department of agriculture and the defence department which has custody of the prisoners are involved.

"We have plenty of prisoners in Canada" officials say, "but if great American flow of shipbuilding is keeping up month by month and losses in the last few months are the lowest for over a year."

"We have had hardly any losses in the last few months of the troop convoys," he said. "Out of about 3,000,000 souls who have been moved under protection of the British navy, only 1,945 have been killed or drowned, including the missing

"The rate of killing U-boats has steadily improved. From January to October, 1942, inclusive, a period of ten months, the rate of destruction certain and probable—was the best we have seen so far in this war. But from November to the end of December, a period of three months, the rate has improved more than half as much again."

At the same time, Mr. Churchill said, "the destructive power of the U-boat has undergone a steady diminution. In the first year of the war the operational U-boat accounted for an average of 18 ships. In the second year 12 and in the third 7½."

Mr. Churchill predicted: "We shall be definitely better off as far as shipping is concerned at the end of 1943 than now."

He did not give specific figures and regretted his optimistic picture of U-boat warfare he warned: "The losses we suffer at sea are very heavy and are a hamper to and delay our operations, and thus prolong the war."

He declared the enemy cannot avert the defeat he hopes by U-boat warfare U-boat warfare takes first place in our thoughts," he said. "There is no need to exaggerate the danger of U-boats, or worry our seamen by harping upon it unduly, because the British and American governments have known for some time past that there were these U-boats and have been the task of overcoming them first priority in all their plans

This was reaffirmed most explicitly by the combined staffs at Casablanca.

River Project Is Advocated For The West

Ottawa —Immediate study looking toward development of the Saskatchewan river to provide irrigation water, power and transportation services for the prairie provinces was urged in the House of Commons by John R. Macnicol (Prog. Con., Toronto Davenport).

Dominion and provincial governments should co-operate on studies into the possibility of carrying out rehabilitation of the river area in a manner similar to that practised on river projects sponsored by the United States government.

Mr. MacNicol said major outlays on the project would be warranted since a prosperous west meant a prosperous east and the western provinces were entitled to economic advantages they did not at present enjoy.

He discussed possible dam locations and said it should be possible to develop a boat route from the mouth of the river at Lake Winnipegosis to Prince Albert, Sask.

Millions of cubic feet of water now wasted could be saved and used to control prairie drought.

Mr MacNicol said his personal examination of the river had included the North Saskatchewan and the main Saskatchewan river east of the forks at Saskatchewan where the North and South Saskatchewan rivers unite to form it.

Mr MacNicol said United States authorities in connection with Canada had already completed surveys of routes into connection with everything in connection with materials sum needed for various points along the route.

We too, must forthwith commence to plan definite projects," he said.

We must have the men to carry out the necessary jobs. The men are of overnight and we must be ready.

He said he had made a study of Tennessee valley authority and Tva. It started at the time had some when Canada should plan similar kind especially as Saskatchewan.

Mr. MacNicol continued: Instead of Canada as a whole to the use Saskatchewan, Canada should be established a western province.

Mr. MacNicol said he has not yet got any definite operation against the west, said Mr MacNicol The Saskatchewan river could be developed.

Such projects would make possible decent homegrown from Baltic steel plants which would pay for all river rehabilitation expenses in considerable.

The three provincial governments on the prairies and the Dominion should co-operate in planning the rehabilitation, with government engineers appointed to make surveys.

Battle Against Enemy U-Boats Makes Progress

London.—Prime Minister Churchill told the House of Commons that "progress is being made" in the battle against enemy submarines and said that in the last six months new building of ships in Britain U.S. and Canada "exceeded all losses of the United Nations by over 1,250,000 tons."

"That is the average per month is 1,250,000 tons bigger today than it was six months ago."

He said he intended "to leave the enemy guessing at the real figures" in U-boat warfare to let him be the victim of his own devices.

It was revealed that Mr Churchill had previously received the German lack of knowledge of the Allied shipping situation for the man in which North Africa was occupied by a joint Anglo-American army.

Mr. Churchill also said: "The great American flow of shipbuilding is keeping up month by month and losses in the last few months are the lowest for over a year."

"We have had hardly any losses in the last few months of the troop convoys," he said. "Out of about 3,000,000 souls who have been moved under protection of the British navy, only 1,945 have been killed or drowned, including the missing

MARRY DIXON

The funeral of the late Harry Dixon was held at the First United church on Wednesday Feb. 3 at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. The Rev. L. G. Hicks conducted the services. Interment took place in the Vermilion cemetery.

The deceased was born in Cheshire (England and came to Canada in 1920. He farmed for 15 years in the Ruskin district, subsequently moving to Vermilion. For the past two years he has been working at the Agricultural farm.

In 1918 he was married to May Minerva Fry, who is left to mourn his loss as well as three children, Alice, Stewart and Stanley.

The pall bearers were George Taylor, Ross Taylor, George Maggs, Billie McLaughlin, Russell Carroll and Bert Mosier.

Beautiful floral tributes were received from: Mary and the Children; Father and Mother Clements and Mona, Everett and Ila and family, Mike and Mary and the Baby, Louis and Jennie, Joyce and George, Ida and Zella and family; Pat and Margaret and the Baby; Mr. and Mrs. Peter Wilkinson (Jr.) and the Baby; The Farm Staff, Vermilion; Mrs. J. Wener and Mr. Ostry; Mr. and Mrs. Hank Hagen; Mr. and Mrs. Norman Green and family; The Peck Sunpouch Family.

J. Waring had charge of arrangements.

TURKEY HILL TID-BITS

We have one more to add to the population in our now very small district in the person of a baby daughter born Feb. 9 to Mr. and Mrs. Orel Stewart. Congratulations Mr. and Mrs. Stewart.

Jim Powell shipped a car load of horses one day last week. Feb. 16. We wish him every success in disposing of them.

Mac Thrall returned from Islay on Feb. 13 after having spent about two weeks with her sister Mrs. Carey.

Gerald Powell is at present quarantined at home with the mumps.

Harry up and get well again Gerald.

There was a dance at Turkey Hill some two weeks ago at which there was a good turn out. Still, all dances these days look like war time as we look out over crowd and notice the absence of young men and the predominance of girls. Mr and Mrs. League, Jimmy and Jack Schaumleffe supplied the music, and very good music too. There is to be another dance here on March 17, so keep the date open for another good time at Turkey Hill. Since the school is closed there are no desks but benches have been used and the brave more floor space for dancing.

A few Turkey Hillites went to the card party on Feb. 5 at Union and at least one prize came back here as Donald Davis brought home the consolation prize. We were unable to learn the other prize winners. A very good time was reported by all who attended, and all proceeds go to a very worthy cause.

There is to be a bingo party at Union on Feb. 19 and we hope there will be a good crowd turn out to it too. Bingo may not be as much fun as dancing or cards to some, but after all we should consider what the proceeds are to be used for, and we all know that all proceeds from bingo parties is certainly used to do a great deal of good in sending bundles to Britain. Everyone should be proud of the way Union district has done and do all we can to help them in the future. One way will be to turn out on Feb 19 and play bingo, and then play again.

Mr Mills has returned home after spending two weeks with her mother Mrs Hooper in Edmonton. While there Terrance their second son had the measles which delayed her return home for a week.

Several from Turkey Hill went to the dance at Thorncliffe on Friday, Feb 12. A fair crowd was reported in spite of the bad roads. The Logan family and Jack Schaumleffe again supplied the music.

THE ANNUAL RATEPAYERS' MEETING —

A sadly misused article for the past two weeks has been the report of the annual ratepayers' meeting held in the Municipal hall on Friday evening Jan. 29. A somewhat lengthy item, it was crowded out on two successive weeks until now it seems at most a waste of space to use it.

In addition to the regular financial matters the annual routine which came up at every annual meeting, there were several resolutions discussed which are deserving of considerable attention by the people of Vermilion

The first is the resolution asking that the town council do all necessary ground work for the installation of a water and sewerage system, with a view to having work on the project commenced as soon as the materials and labor become available. The Mayor informed the meeting that much data had already been secured and that complete blue prints were even now on file at the town hall for Vermilion's future water and sewerage system. It seemed to be the general opinion that cheap money would be available after the war for just such undertakings as these. Projects which not only improved the living standard of the people but provided much labor. This resolution was enthusiastically received and carried unanimously.

Ratepayers also went on record as approving the payment of the Mayor and Councillors for the numerous meetings attended on their behalf.

According to the town art this remuneration can be up to the rate of $2 per meeting. As one ratepayer stated, this was more a gesture of appreciation than the actual value of the remuneration. A by-law covering this has already been drawn up.

Receiving strong support was a resolution recommending that medical inspection of all public school children be undertaken.

These resolutions formed a few of the highlights of the annual meeting which drew an attendance of 40 men and one lady. Mrs. Annie Cameron braved the male element in order to get an inkling of how town affairs had been conducted for the past year. Mr. C.M. Laverty made a very capable chairman while J. R. Hudson acted as secretary of the meeting.

The annual gathering ended with votes of thanks to the Mayor, councillors, school trustees and hospital board member. Pervading the meeting was a keen sense of the very fine services being rendered to Vermilion by the public spirited men on our municipal bodies.

Mild weather with no sub zero temperatures has prevailed all week

NEW
Gasoline Rationing Plan Goes into Effect
APRIL FIRST

ON MARCH 1st the present gasoline ration licenses and coupons will expire, and no gasoline will be sold except on the presentation of a 1943-1944 ration book.

In his own interests, every vehicle owner is asked to apply at once for a new gasoline license and ration coupon book for each of his vehicles.

Under the new system, effective April 1, all commercial vehicles will be rationed. All non-commercial vehicles will be granted a basic "AA" gasoline license and ration coupon book, containing 40 coupons for a passenger car, or 16 for a motorcycle. Owners of non-commercial vehicles eligible for a special category, who can prove their need, will be granted an extra vocational allowance, fixed in advance for the year ending March 31, 1944.

The extra allowance for a special category car will be tailored to meet individual needs. In determining this allowance the previous category and mileage of the car will not be considered. Instead the vocational allowance will be based on two factors: (1) The gravity of the oil shortage with which Canada is faced, and (2) the importance of the vehicle to its owner in a country at war.

The extra vocational coupons will be issued in books labelled "Special", and each such book will contain not more than 60 coupons. Only one "Special" book, or portion of such book, will be issued at a time, and hence the case history of each special category applicant will be under constant review.

Under provisions of the rationing order, the Oil Controller will have the right to refuse any application for a special category, or to suspend any ration book for an infraction of the regulations.

Every motor vehicle, other than a motorcycle, must bear on its windshield a sticker indicating its category. After April 1, service station attendants will not be permitted to serve gasoline to a car which does not bear the sticker which corresponds to the ration book submitted at the time of the purchase.

To obtain a gasoline license and ration coupon book, secure an application form at your nearest Post Office. Study the form and follow the instructions contained therein.

When you receive your ration coupon book, guard it carefully. It may not be replaced if, because of your negligence, it is lost or stolen. Do not leave it in your car; keep it on your person at all times.

Canton-Watson Red Cross Auxiliary Elects New President

The annual meeting took place on Feb. 10th at the home of Mrs. T. Preston, after having been postponed from Jan. 20th, due to unfavorable weather.

The members there were very busy all afternoon finishing another quilt, electing new officers, making plans for a concert and dance to be held at Watson school on March 19th and trying to collect enough washed wool for work in February. The next meeting, also a quilting bee will be held at the home of Mrs. R. Hind on March 3rd. Anyone unable to come can get work to do from any of the members. Please let us know and we'll be only too glad to have articles delivered to you. We need all the help in the district we can get. Also if anyone has any old washed woollen articles we would like to receive them for our blanket shipment; or anyone having 7 lbs. of them can ship them with us for a blanket of their own.

The new officers elected are: Mrs D. Watson of Hinsville, President; Mrs. Perfenidi, Hinsville, Vice-President; Mrs. F. Van Waeminck, Tulland, Sec.-Treasurer; Miss T. War has upset local cultivation in towns and cities throughout Canada. When the war is over and won, according to a report given by an I.H. committee, who have been studying the subject for over twelve months, things will be vastly different. Here is what the committee reports: Airplanes can be used for local pick-up to and from a store to a customer's back yard. Gosh — It will be easy then to pick up a good motor car in the junk pile.

We see that school boys may be allowed time from school this spring to help out farmers. Unless the boys are farming some they will be of little use. With all the work the farmer has this year with ordinary spring work and threshing on top of it, he will need experienced help in the worst way but won't have any time to break in inexperienced help. It is time the Government woke up to the fact that it is too much to expect agriculture to carry the load of this war and raise all the extra food necessary, and steps will have to be taken to provide some real help on the farms

Wartime Traffic Brings C.N.R. Promotions

D. P. PRINGLE

The vital part which the Canadian National system is playing in Canada's war effort is graphically shown in a review of the branch of the railway's activities which comes under the direct supervision of Norman R. Walton, whose promotion to the position of executive vice-president was recently announced by President S. C. Vaughan. Mr. Walton, vice-president of operation, maintenance and construction prior to this appointment, will continue to exercise jurisdiction over this department, and perform such other duties as the president may delegate to him.

Under the direction of Mr. Walton are the forces concerned with the operation of trains, the maintenance of track and structures, and the company's motive power and car shops. He also has charge of the company's shipbuilding operations.

During the year 1942, this force moved more than 72,000,000 tons of munitions of war and other products of industry agriculture and natural resources. More than 2,500 locomotives and some 80,000 freight cars were in continuous service to handle this traffic. If all C.N.R. freight and passenger equipment, locomotives and work cars, could be set out on a single line of track, buffer to buffer, they would reach from Toronto to Minaki, almost 1,100 miles.

Two other important staff appointments resulting from the tremendous increase in wartime traffic were also announced, that of J. F. Pringle to be general manager of the Atlantic

A. P. JOHNSTON

Region, and A. P. Johnston to succeed him as chief of transportation for the System. The latter was formerly general superintendent of the Southern Ontario district. Mr. Pringle will relieve W. U. Appleton, vice-president of the region of much of the direct work connected with the extensive traffic over the railway's eastern lines. Mr. Appleton formerly carried on the duties both of vice-president and general manager.

Mr. Walton, a native of Palmerston, Ont., has had 42 years' experience in railroading. He advanced from his first job as clerk and stenographer through the despatcher's office to many supervisory positions which provided him with a wide knowledge of operating and traffic conditions. He has held important posts at Winnipeg, Edmonton, Prince Rupert and other points in western Canada.

Mr. Pringle began his service with the Canadian National Railways in 1919 as an assistant engineer at Montreal. After filling important positions in that city and in Ontario he was appointed chief of transportation for the System in 1941.

Mr. Johnson, commencing as a telegrapher with the Grand Trunk in 1903, has had a railway career which gained him an intimate knowledge of the National System in Ontario and Quebec, where he has occupied important supervisory positions for 17 years before his appointment to North Bay in 1936, and to Toronto five years later.

Has Become Popular

Canadian Troops In Britain Have Introduced Eccentric Dance

According to the Manchester Guardian Canadian troops have given one popular item to the programs of the London dance halls. It is an eccentric dance called "the Canadian Crawl." In this the dancers form around a "crocodile" by each holding the waist of the dancer in front, and sway from the floor in a "follow my leader" game to the rhythm of "Ellsner's Tune". It is generally performed towards the end of the evening.

Really Silent Airplane

Cannot Be Developed Until Aircraft Noise Is Fully Understood

The London News Chronicle says an English scientist has devised a method of photographing sound waves generated by the propeller blades of aircraft running at 10,000 revolutions a minute by means of an electric spark lasting only one-millionth of a second. The purpose of these photographs is to study the mechanism of noise made by running aircraft, for until this is fully understood it is impossible to design a really silent airplane.

Health League of Canada presents TOPICS of VITAL INTEREST

PROPOSED MEDICAL REFORM IN GREAT BRITAIN

According to an article by Charles Hill, M.D., Deputy Secretary of the British Medical Association, received from the British Ministry of Information by the Health League of Canada, British doctors are proposing that far-reaching changes be made in the present medical services in Great Britain. The article quoting the first Report of the Doctors' Planning Commission, recently published, says that it is urged that an era of centrally controlled, co-operative medical practice be ushered in.

The nation's health services, say the British doctors, should be based upon the family and upon the family doctor as the normal medical attendant and guardian. The first essential is not hospital service, they declare, but personal service which can be rendered by a family doctor who has the continuous care of the health of the families in his charge. They want group medical practice rather than individual medical practice.

The two great hospital services of Great Britain, say the doctors, should be assimilated into one united hospital service, with the same conditions and high standards of service of the voluntary hospital and backed by the same central authority across the nation. They also urge the extension of National Health Insurance to wives and children, so as to bring within its ambit nine-tenths of the people of Britain. They argue that National Health Insurance has stood the test of thirty years and has proved itself sound, efficient and capable of development.

Most interesting proposal contained in the report, according to Dr. Hill, is that there should be set up a new central governmental authority concerned only with health and adequately advised on medical practice. This new authority would be assisted by a Medical Advisory Committee. There would be established new local authorities large and rich enough to administer in their areas complete health services, and also advised by Medical Committees in every district, except the most sparsely populated, the focus of medical practice would be the health centre. At each centre a group of doctors, backed by auxiliaries of all kinds, dispensers, nurses, etc., would provide a complete medical service. This centre would be the first line of defence against disease, and the whole population, it is proposed, would be their work. Here the doctors would do their work for the vast majority of the community. The patients would be free to consult the doctor of their choice, and the doctors free to select the patients of their choice.

Under this scheme the medical inspection of school children, the examination of expectant mothers, immunisation against diphtheria and other diseases, etc., would all be undertaken at the health centre. There would be special facilities for tuberculosis, venereal disease, child guidance and mental deficiency. Doctors would no longer buy and sell practices, and vacancies would be filled by appointment to a National Health Service and posted by the local health centre. There would be paid on the basis of a part-time salary plus an amount variable in proportion to the number of persons or families who have entrusted their care to them.

The central affairs of the centre would be in the hands of the doctors themselves, but there would be central administrative control of the area administrative unit. It is urged that what the doctors would like in personal freedom, they would gain in freedom to do better work, untrammelled by the financial and other burdens of private practice.

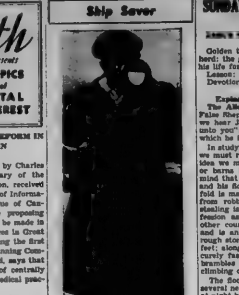
Ship Saver



Members of the Royal Canadian Navy's mine clearance squad, who are constantly exploding mines that carry sudden death for any ship afloat, are Canada's unsung and unheralded heroes. They are recruited by the direction of Lieut. George Randle, above, shown using a blinker sign to warn ships in the Old Testament, needing to engage in daily activities, enjoy full freedom and shall find pasin which its ambit nine-tenths of the people of Britain. They argue that National Health Insurance has stood the test of thirty years and has proved itself sound, efficient and capable of development.

Most interesting proposal contained in the report, according to Dr. Hill, is that there should be set up a new central governmental authority concerned only with health and adequately advised on medical practice. This new authority would be assisted by a Medical Advisory Committee. There would be established new local authorities large and rich enough to administer in their areas complete health services, and also advised by Medical Committees in every district, except the most sparsely populated, the focus of medical practice would be the health centre. JESUS THE GOOD SHEPHERD

Golden text: I am the good shepherd: the good shepherd layeth down his life for the sheep. John 10:11.

Lesson John 10.

Devotional reading: Psalm 23.

Explanations and Comments

The Allegory of the True and the False Shepherds. John 10:1-5. Again we hear Jesus' "Verily, verily, I say unto you": it is an important lesson which he is about to teach.

In studying this parable or allegory, we must remove from our minds any idea we may have of sheep pastures or barns in our land, and keep in mind that it is the Oriental shepherd and his flock that are pictured. A fold is mainly a means of protection from robbers, for in Syria sheep stealing is said to be as much a profession as horse stealing in some other country. The fold is roofless, and is an enclosure stoutly built of rough stones to a height of about five feet; along the top of this wall is securely fastened a hedge of thorny brambles to prevent thieves from climbing over into the fold.

The flocks of sheep are small, and several neighboring flocks are brought at night by their shepherds to the one fold. There may be a hired watchman at the door, but usually there is only the opening where one shepherd stands and blocks the way with his own body to allow admission or departure, and he has himself virtually the door.

Jesus as the Door. John 10:6-10. The people to whom Jesus uttered this allegory did not understand its purpose, and he therefore began to explain it by saying, "Verily, verily, I say unto you, I am the door of the sheep." All that had come before him (who wrongly claimed authority over thieves and robbers) but the sheep did not hear them. Compare Jesus' characterization of the Pharisees as "ravening wolves," "robbers," in Mt. 7:15; 23:13; Lk. 11:52, and Jn. 8:44. "I am" if any man enter in [if any one believe in me as the Christ] he shall be accepted by the Father and live according to that belief. He shall be saved, and shall go in and go out (an expression often used with him in the Old Testament, meaning to engage in daily activities, enjoy full freedom) and shall find pasture.

The thief comes only to steal and kill and destroy, whereas the purpose of Jesus' coming was to give life, and to give it abundantly.

Jesus is the Good Shepherd. John 10:10-16. Jesus now changes the figure of himself as the Door to that of himself as the Good Shepherd. I am the Good Shepherd. "Good" here does not mean here kind, but rather "genuine, true, as is shown by the contrast with the hired man in suffering. Compare Ps. 23, 80; Isa. 40:11; Ezek. 34:12, 37:24.

CHAPTER VII

ANNETTE stirred in Storey's arms, took a deep breath and raised her head. "Where" she said, with relief, "I hope I don't have as much trouble getting out of jail next time—"

A sudden exclamation from Storey interrupted her. "The silver!" he ejaculated. "Now that I think of it, the money is not at the caravanserai."

Mohammed Ibn Mulai, squatting beside the fire, looked up. "The baggage-camels outside the gate" He grabbed the camel-stick and slapped the dromedary smartly, forcing the beast to break into a run in spite of the narrowness of the street. "Those fellows will be after us as quickly as they can turn around"

Mohammed Ibn Mulai, squatting beside the fire, looked up. "The baggage-camels outside the gate" He grabbed the camel-stick and slapped the dromedary smartly, forcing the beast to break into a run in spite of the narrowness of the street. "Those fellows will be after us as quickly as they can turn around"

Storey leaped to the ground, leaving Annette on the saddle of the sheik's dromedary. "They're after us, Mohammed!" the American exclaimed. "We'll have to abandon the baggage! Get a water-bag and some food."

The shepherd sprang into action with Storey, slinging goat-skin girbas and sacks of dates on the saddles of their own beasts. Storey, finishing first, tossed the prism keys on the ground beside Capt. Lebeau "Your men will be there shortly, monsieur, to release you."

The long legs of the dromedaries carried the three fugitives swiftly over the sand, away from the oasis. The moonless dark blotted out the dull hulk of the town. "Our best bet is to turn east," said Storey. "If we can reach the Libyan border we shall be safe from pursuit."

For Jack Storey, in liberating Annette Fournier, had made himself outlaw, to be hunted throughout French Africa.

"Only the speed of these camels can save us, monsieur" said Annette. "On each main route or in the water we leave a trail that can be followed.

"The desert is all soft sand. There will be rack and gravel where we can baffle pursuit if Lebeau and Lieutenant Lobelle follow"

"And if you do that," she said, "the work of Andre Ribott cannot be halted." Her eyes fell to the churned and underfoot. "Monsieur Storey, when I tried to save you from Ribott, I was looking forward to enlisting your aid against this renegade. Will you help me—will you follow the trail of those sheep?"

She waited hopefully, her dark eyes on Storey's face, but when the man made no response, she went on: "Follow this trail at least for one day, monsieur. Andre Ribott may be the enemy of your country as well as mine. If you prevent the delivery of those sheep to the Fascists and Nazis you will be aiding the United States in its war."

Storey found himself nodding. "It's very reasonable," he admitted. "We shall do as you wish. In addition to what you say, I do not take kindly to the thought that Ribott may have obtained those sheep from me under false pretenses."

WITH the climbing of the sun, the day's heat grew intense. The riders have been expected. A breeze, gentle and refreshing, had come whispering out of the southwest, making the desert morning a thing of delight.

They were many hours' kilometers along the Touggourt trail, far in advance of the point to which Sergeant Jardin had carried his investigations. But if the party of Andre Ribott did not change. Twice, since sunrise, they had passed broad, flat-bottomed wadis, the dry beds of the trail of the east, and still the trail of the sheep continued.

But Annette was not disheartened. "He will make haste, monsieur," Another hour, Monsieur Jacques. Until noon we will make progress, Andre Ribott."

Mohammed Ibn Mulai, riding close to Storey's dromedary, grunted. "Then it must be within that hour, O Bitt. I shall believe you."

With the girl, Storey followed the gesture of the Arab. Ahead, a cloud puffs, like brown smoke, were appearing on the expanse of the desert sky and. "The wind rises, aid," said Mohammed, "and the desert is in motion. A sandstorm is brewing."

Storey nodded, and Annette, equally concerned, stared ahead. "Hurry" she said. "We must find where Ribott leaves the trail before the sand wipes out the tracks of the sheep."

The trail was barely visible through the swirling mark. Already sand was filling the countless tracks of the sheep like drifting brown snow. The American halted the dromedary.

"It's no use, Annette," he said, through a lull in the wind. "We can hardly see the ground here. This storm will last for hours, and when it clears Ribott's trail will be wiped clean as a slate. We'll never be able to tell when he turns off."

The girl nodded miserably. This storm was to the advantage of anyone wishing to move surreptitiously through the desert.

"We behind you, sidi," came the voice of Mohammed.

Storey lowered the cloth of his headdress and quickly saw what had caught the attention of Mohammed.

Through the sulphurous murk drifted phantom shapes, figures still distinct enough to be recognized as men on camel-back.

"Lebeau and his soldiers!" said Storey

But Mohammed, with his shepherd's eyes, shook his head. "No, sidi, it is the Kahirf of Iamedidn the Lawlem. I can distinguish the Berber scarf."

The camel shifted uneasily under Storey, obeying his instinct to keep moved during a sandstorm. "I don't believe they've seen us yet," Storey had to shout to be heard. "We can lose them as soon as the storm increases."

THEY pressed on through that blinding sand of mind and gravel, following the obliterated trail as though unaware of the pursuers in their rear, until at last Storey headed his dromedary into the choking cloud between the two riders. Neither seemed to make no protest at this abandoning of the trail. The chance of finding Andre Ribott was gone now, and if they persisted in following the route of Sergeant Kahir, would be be on their heels with the lifts of the storm.

Hour after hour the storm raged, hammering beast and rider into apathy bordering on insensibility. Then, as quickly as the wind died, ending with the suddenness of a stilled fan.

"Well, Mohammed," grinned Storey, "I don't think Lebeau or Iamedidn will bother us now."

The shepherd wiped clinging sand from his beard and eyelids. "May it please Allah that we can find ourselves, sidi," said he, adjusting at the unfamiliar terrain visible in the shrouding mist of suspended sand. "I have never been this way before"

"We can only push on to the east," stated Storey. "We have enough water for several days and the camels can hold out that long. We should and someone who can put us on the track of an oasis"

"It is barren ground, sidi. There are no people between here and Tripolitania. We should turn south circle Ain Safia, and take our original route across Libya."

"This is strange country to me sidi," said Annette Fournier. "But if we are sure I think we are, according to maps I have studied, we should find three days' travel ahead of us Ifr Mezaul"

"Ifr Mezaul!" exclaimed Mohammed. "The Lonely Wall! And what shall it profit us to gain Ifr Mezaul" We should only find ourselves stranded in the midst of desolation. From Ifr Mezaul only Allah knows where the next water can be found."

The argument of Mohammed prevailed, and the camels moved south ward.

After an hour or so Storey ordered a halt when they came upon a hollow filled with scrub acacia. An hour of daylight remained, but the brushwood would furnish fuel for a fire and the camels could feed.

A meal of tea and dates was eaten; then Storey began setting up a low camel-skin tent while Mohammed climbed the nearest knoll to keep an eye on the grazing dromedaries. The centre pole of the tent was erected and Annette was helping Storey peg the corners when the voice of Mohammed came in a shout through the still air.

Plan Has Worked

Subsidies Paid To Protect Prices Ceiling Work In The Money

From the end of March last year to the present time, according to a House of Commons return, the prices board has paid out $50,000,000 in subsidies to protect its prices "ceiling".

This looks like a lot of money; it is lot of money, at any rate, to protect a ceiling. Actually, it is but a bagatelle in comparison with what the people of Canada would have had to pay out if there had been no prices ceiling.

A jump of one point in the cost of living index means roughly $30,000,000 more of the pockets of Canadian consumers. Therefore, if we were without a prices ceiling and the cost of living had gone up, say, four points (which would not have been extraordinary) what we would have paid would not have been $50,000,000, but $120,000,000. If, as would not have been impossible, the jump in the cost of living reached 10 points (it has gone up that far in some other countries) our bill would be $300,000,000.

The truth is that a prices ceiling in Canada has worked. It has not worked as easily as its authors hoped it would, has brought a lot of grief and difficulty; but it has kept prices down and inflation, away—perhaps saved all of us from a major economic disaster. The Ottawa Journal.

No Place In Society

British People Have A Very Definite Idea About Crime

One of those things practically beyond the grasping ability of the American mind is the Englishman's disapproval of crime.

Last year in all of London there were only 39 murders (only five of which more are smothered) and 15 follow-ups in which the bandits were armed. Robbery accompanied by violence occurred only 150 times among the city's 8,000,000 inhabitants — in general rectitude might be supposed to have been somewhat undermined by stringent war hardships. As a matter of fact, the crime rate for London was lower than in the preceding year.

To an English really don't think crime has a place in society; it's banned as much as treason, and whenever it is merely pretend toward that view. — Detroit Free Press.

GENERAL ORDER

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics has found that the cost of living index number for January 1, 1943, is 117.1 (adjusted index 116.2) as compared with the cost of living index number for July 2, 1942, of 117.9 (adjusted index 117).

MR. AND MRS. JAMES CAVE ON THEIR 57th ANNIVERSARY

I wonder what are your thoughts today
Bride and groom of so long ago to you passe on a road with miles ahead
And look back on a long full row
Of milestones, marking every year
While the evening sun's gold ray
Smooths all the bumps that were griefs you met
Through the years since your wedding day
The rain on the way that looks smooth from here,
May have seemed too deep to bridge.
The rises may have filled you with dread
Of what waited over the ridge.
But the Father hid up has his plans all laid
For every soul, weak or great
And the load they carry, the grief they bear
Accents with their character's weight.
You must have been very strong, I'm sure
To weather so many long years
I can fancy you then, just the same as now
The laughter more ready than tears.
A ready hand and a humorous sense
Are God's own gift to mankind
It will help you bear whatever care
That to you has been consigned.
I've heard that it's not the things that change with time
As new takes place of old
But happy thoughts and memories ever
That touch the years with gold!
So on this anniversary day
When good wishes are your due
May you find your thoughts go winging back that the Board held a convention and banquet in the dining room or the old Vermilion hotel. The late Mr. H. W. Stephens was chairman at that time. The hotel staff had to prepare the repast with only a half hour's notice. The cup of the delegates asked if wine might be served as that they could drink some toasts but the chairman stated that toasts could be drunk with water which was better for all. Quite a number present away back at that time are still active in town life and others while gone are well remembered for their good deeds and kindnesses.

Tales from the Training Centre

By Lieut. Dorothy A. Trebum

Hello Vermilion — Again we come to the end of a course, a very good class too from reports of "A" Company officers and R. C. O.'s. The company brought their course to a grand finish by a splendidly staged concert (wonderful and stupendous it was advertised). The various decorations made an attractive setting and the running intervenes especially were a pleasant contrast to the overwhelming majority in khaki.

Early in the evening Lieut. Loversedge presented the cups and prizes to the following platoons: — No. 1 Section:—No. 3 Platoon; Gas—No. 1; First Aid—No. 3; Interest Economy—No. 3; Organized Sports—No. 1; Basketball—No. 1; Drill—No. 4; Grand Challenge—No. 3. Pte. Marie Chaplin, from Vancouver, winner of the prize for the smartest "A" girl on parade was an excellent example of how a well dressed Crwc should look. The results of the poster contest were announced and Pte. Mary Burghardt (Winnipeg) received this prize for her poster on Security. Pte. Lillian Fry of Red Deer presented an interesting talk on Security.

The last number of the evening was filled to the brim with skits and songs. Cpl Menda had trained a choir of ten girls who sang "Shoulder to Shoulder" the C.W.A.C recruiting song and "Whispering Hope". Pte. Dorothy (Nell) of Vancouver did her best to make an inexplicably "Awkward Squad". Pte Barbara Reusle of Calgary gave us an idea of a "Night Out on the Gaiety of Liberty" which was very amusing.

Several piano solos sang about their impressions of life in a Basic Training Centre, and then came the item of the surprise of the evening. Perhaps because she is the sweetheart of "A" Company "Mac" Heeney so appeared with a decorated valentine box and proceeded to distribute valentines to some of the officers. Whether it was in appreciation of past favors, or anticipation of future ones, Cpl. Timms received a beautiful big valentine box and from all of "A" Company officers and N.C.O.'s on the front of it.

We were pleased to recognize Capt. down our section, in the garb of a French Habitant as he presented a recitation about life in those early days.

It was with mixed feelings that we received the Cpl. May Menda, as she "Rose Marie, and Are Marie". Cpl. Menda left Monday to join the Army Show in Toronto. We'll keep our radios tuned into the show, and good luck May.

Pte. Fry appeared again in a skit, "Another Night in Barracks" which proved very entertaining as it included singing, dancing and reciting.

We were pleased to hear Cpl. Belle Maxwell sing "My Alle Polk Dot Cowboy Boy. We dont hear you often enough Cpl. Maxwell.

MUSKRAT AT HOME IN SHED ON WOODVALE FARM

Makes Interesting Nature Study

(Extract from Woodvale News)

A muskrat got cornered by the dog on the farm of Mr. and Mrs. P. Van Wageningen in the Woodvale district a short time ago and was killed by the lad and carried around in that position for a while the muskrat seemed quite happy to settle down in Billy Buck sled, where deep and cuts cannot reach him. One would think that he would feel just a little upset after such an experience, but no, Mr. Rat made himself a fine mossy den of paper, rags, new dust, etc. within half an hour and seems that is standing to one end of the shed.

He buries his carrots and food in it and does not seem at a bit if you watch him he long as you keep quiet. He seems to prefer eating with his head under all the lights he has in there, he sleeps a lot and does even more pushing and scratching than a rat to keep tidy. It is to be hoped that he will stay alive until he can return to his slough, which is now frozen right to the bottom.

C. G. I. T. NOTES

Canadian Girls in Training are girls of Sunday school classes meeting during the week. You know that Sunday school work is learning of Scripture and the lessons of the New Testament for everyday living, worship and singing and inspiration.

At the midweek meetings there is an opportunity to practise what was learned at Sunday school. The programme are made to meet the needs of the girls where they seek to practice Christian attitudes in games, sing-songs, business procedure, projects and worship. Just being a member of such a group makes it easier to do the right thing.

Throughout the province the larger activities include Conferences, Trail Rides, Rallies, Vesper Services, Camps, etc. These all help the girls to see that Christian living is possible and happy.

The C.G.I.T. Purpose begins: As a Canadian Girl in Training under the leadership of Jesus, it is my purpose with His help become the little variety as Cpl. Helen Mathews put her appeal through their paces accompanied on the piano by Lieut. Betty Lough.

We found the N.C.O.'s in a very serious frame of mind as they ended the program with a very lovely candle lighting ceremony. Thank you Vermilion for your kind attendance.

Of special interest to her many friends, is the return to Lieut. L. Logan, formerly H.M.S., now a commissioned officer with the rank of 2nd Lieutenant. We are also pleased to welcome our new officers: 2nd Lieut. Jean MacFarlane of Montreal; 2nd Lieut. Olive Barrington-Foote of Victoria; 2nd Lieut. Constance Richards of Winnipeg; 2nd Lieut. Olga Smith of Vancouver.

Many Vermilion folk will be sorry to hear that Sgt. Joan Warburton, Cpl. Doris Mahan and Cpl. Marjorie Bradshaw have left for Ste. Anne de Bellevue, P. Q. to instruct in the Training Centre there.

The price of RHUBARB has concentrate was incorrectly stated last week in George Webb's advertisement as $3.00 per Ont. This should have read $3.35 per Ont.

Plan Your Victory Farm Now — Farmers Urged to Raise More Necessary Food—And Save All

Food is being rationed in the land of plenty; Canada is at war, and food is a weapon as powerful as all our planes and warships. If food fails we cannot win the peace.

This year farm production will be strained to the utmost, but farmers of Alberta are confident enough God to meet the nation's needs in 1943.

The proposed quotas for 1943 in Crop District No. 10 which takes in the Vermilion district are as follows:

Oats	6% more; Cultre same or less; Sheep 10% more; Hogs 21% more.

Raise more calves but try not to sell any more than you did in 1942.

Flax was grown on 2300 acres in 1942, 1943 quota is 4700 acres

RED CROSS CAMPAIGN MANAGER APPEALS FOR GENEROUS SUPPORT

V. H. S. Students Make First Donation

W. P. Pilkie, campaign manager for the Red Cross Drive for funds which is due to commence March 1 has a personal message for everyone, and appeals as follows:

"Again I wish to say that no man ever had a better line up of canvassers both men and women, in town and country, with ideas to help in every way to put this drive over the top. I took this drive for the third time on the condition that every one who put the drive over before, would dig in and do the same again. This is no time to break in new recruits except in cases where former canvassers need help. We need lots of help. Just canvass the same ones and the same houses, and get enough additional money subscribed to go over the top comfortably. The Red Cross receives absolutely no help from any government. They are in recreational and neutral and under the terms of the Geneva conference cannot receive financial help from any country. The Red Cross must rely entirely on the people to carry on their wonderful work of relieving human suffering."

The High School Students' Union made the first donation to the 1943 drive by donating half of the proceeds from the recent raffle of a pen and pencil set. The donation was $18.00 and a like sum was donated to the Red Shield. The boys and girls worked hard on this project and are to be commended for their splendid effort.

The Red Cross

DURING THE FIRST THREE WEEKS of March a national appeal for funds is being made by the Canadian Red Cross Society. The Society is asking for $10,000,000 and if this objective is to be reached, the campaign must receive whole-hearted support in all parts of the Dominion. The finances of the society are based entirely on voluntary subscription, and the need for the $10,000,000 which is now being sought is urgent, for the many humanitarian services which are now being maintained. Mr. Jackson Dodds, chairman of the Central Committee of the Canadian Red Cross Society, and Mr. Justice P. H. Gordon, chairman of the national executive, have issued the following statement concerning the appeal for funds: "The Red Cross is an international organization, and under the Conventions of Geneva is required to obtain its support by voluntary subscriptions to preserve its rights, privileges and immunities guaranteed under international law. No belligerent government may finance a Red Cross Society; to do so would destroy the international status of the society and even wipe out its humanity under fire

* * * * *

Demands Heavy At This Time

The present campaign for funds is being made with the full co-operation of the Government to avoid conflict with the plans of the National War Finance Committee. The money is to be used to carry on the activities of the Red Cross Society in the home front, as well as to maintain its many wartime obligations. Needless to say, the demands upon the Society are great at this time and it is most urgent that its financial needs be met in full throughout the year commencing April 1, 1943, is for $11,650,000. Of this $1,650,000 is now at hand. One of the greatest services given by the Society in time of war is the supplying of parcels to Canadian, British, and Empire prisoners of war in Germany and the Far East. Of the total budget, $5,500,000, or about 47% , is designated for this very important work. Another valuable wartime work carried on by the Red Cross, is the Blood Donor Service by which blood is made available for the use of the armed forces of Canada.

* * * * *

Society Serves In Many Ways

The wide scope of the service rendered to humanity by the Red Cross both in peace and war is well known. The International Red Cross, of which the Canadian society is a branch, was founded on February 9, 1863, just eighty years ago. It was organized by a group of five men in Geneva, Switzerland, and this group later became the first International Red Cross Committee. Jean Henri Dunant, a citizen and philanthropist of Geneva, was said to be the founder. The activities of the organization were expanded greatly during the first Great War, and the now well-known Central Information Bureau for Prisoners of War was set up. The main purpose of this bureau is to act as an intermediary between prisoners of war, or interned civilians and their families and friends. It was immediately set up again at the beginning of the present war, and Canada with her known love of fair play, has become the recipient of many enemy countries know the great service which the Society renders in this connection. For this, and the many other acts of mercy which the Red Cross is carrying on in these troubled times, we owe a debt which we can pay in part by responding generously to the present appeal for funds.

ODD FACTS ABOUT FOOD

Science has found by investigation that a good many of the beliefs cherished by a lot of people regarding food are far from being correct. There is, for example, the common idea that milk is composed mostly of water and therefore does not leave any significant waste for the intestines. As a matter of fact, milk leaves a great amount of residue much more than that left by meat or eggs.

Dr. James S. McLester, U.S. authority, has summarized the investigations of dozens of scientists who have experimented with various types of food. It has been discovered that:

Meat is the most satisfying food in that it calls forth the greatest activity on the part of the stomach.

Milk ranks next to meat. Cooked eggs are more satisfying than raw eggs; the latter leave the stomach rapidly and are not easily digested.

Bread, especially if toasted, has poor appetite-satisfying qualities. Potatoes are only a little higher. Both become more satisfying if a little butter is used with them, which is poor consolation in these days of rationing. Green vegetables are low in satisfying qualities, though high in vitamin content.

If eggs are eaten raw, beat them in order to get full value. Plain raw egg white apparently runs through the system so rapidly that it is hardly digested at all.

Cooking loosens the connective tissue of meat so that the digestive juices reach it more readily. Cooking causes the starch cells of vegetables to burst and become accessible to digestive fluids.

Foods that are most likely to cause distress because of individual sensitivities are, in relative order according to one test involving 500 people: onions, radish apples, cabbage, chocolate, tomatoes, cucumbers, eggs, and fats. Milk is more easily digested when mixed with other foods, take a cracker with your milk.

Hot fresh breads were found to be just as digestible as cold if they are chewed thoroughly and are properly light in texture.

Maryland Professor Thinks He Can Make Sun Water Drinkable

One of the greatest terrors of being shipwrecked—having water, under everywhere and not a drop to drink —is on the way to being overcome by naval medical research.

Dr. A. C. Ivy, of Northwestern University, director of research at the United States navy's new medical research institute at Bethesda, Md., said studies there on the problem of making salt water fit to drink by persons cast adrift in the open sea have progressed to such a point that "I think it's hopeful—somebody."

Although he could not disclose details of the methods under study, Dr. Ivy said 10 different processes are being tested either mechanical, chemical, electrical, or heat-employing.

A Changeable Date

Why Easter Sometimes Comes Very Late In April

Good Friday this year falls on April 23, which, according to Dr. H. R. Knipstein, head of the department of mathematics and astronomy at the University of Western Ontario, is within a day of the latest date on which it can come on the present calendar. Easter Sunday, by which the Good Friday date is calculated, explained by Dr Kingston, is the first Sunday after the first full moon following the vernal equinox (the day when the sun crosses the equator, marking the first day of spring) may occur on either March 21 or 22. When spring begins on the latter date, the first full moon following may occur as late as April 20. Should this date come on a Monday, then six days must elapse until Easter Sunday. Good Friday would then fall on April 24.

SWINE DISEASES

Enteritis, An Inflammation Of The Intestines The Cause Of Heavy Losses

This is the third of a series of six articles by J. L. Miller, B.S.A., provincial veterinarian, Regina, dealing with the more prevalent swine diseases. The remaining articles will appear weekly in the following order: Erysipelas; Worms; Anemia; Lice and Mange; Pneumonia; Rheumatism and Arthritis; Septicemia and Baby Pig Diseases; Mange and Diarrhoea.

Enteritis is an inflammation of the intestine and is the cause of heavy losses to young swine. The symptoms are those of severe diarrhoea followed by rapid loss of weight, and in the severer form, death in from three to ten days. As there are several different kinds of enteritis we will discuss them separately.

Simple Scours: This condition is usually observed in weanling pigs, and the cause can generally be traced to errors in diet. Over-feeding of coarse feed of poor quality, or excessive amounts of cereals in skim milk commence cause. Symptoms are those of diarrhoea, loss of appetite and loss of weight.

Treatment: Correct the diet, giving milk and a limited amount of solid food. Lime water added to the food and small quantities of either formalin or blue stone added to the drinking water will usually correct this form of scours. A desert spoonful of formalin to a gallon of water or blue stone to a gallon of water are used.

Necrotic Enteritis: Necrotic Enteritis is an infectious disease affecting pigs from six weeks to four months of age. It is caused by a bacterial infection and spreads rapidly in a herd of young swine. The disease is usually observed in districts where hogs have been kept for years on premises where sanitation has been neglected.

Symptoms: The onset of the disease is sudden and a number of pigs will show symptoms about the same time. In the acute form the passing of black liquid feces is the most constant symptom. The fever, weakening with staggering gait is often noticed, and in this form death may occur in thirty-six to forty-eight hours. In the chronic form there is a persistent diarrhoea and the hair coat becomes rough and dull. Pigs eat sparingly and there is a gradual tucking up of the abdomen and general emaciation.

Post Mortem: Post mortems reveal an inflamed condition of the large intestine. The walls of the intestine are thickened and the lining of the bowel is often covered with a tissue-like material and ulcerated areas of dead tissue and ulceration may be found.

Treatment: A general clean-up of the premises should be carried out, pure pigs to clean ground if possible, supply a balanced ration of soft easily digested food. Recently a new form of treatment has been used with some success in this disease. It is called the Salt Treatment and is given as follows: Animals are given all the buttermilk they can drink and three times a day, with three and a half pounds of salt added to fifteen gallons of buttermilk. This treatment is repeated daily for four days, for the next three days nothing but plain buttermilk is given. The salt treatment is again repeated for an additional four days, at the end of this time some solid food may be added. If this treatment is used it is necessary to have a plentiful supply of drinking water within twenty feet of these pigs, if bad results are to be avoided. If buttermilk is not available, whole cow's milk and salt solution can be used in the same way as above mentioned.

Pig Pellagra: A disease closely resembling Necrotic Enteritis is called pig pellagra. The symptoms and post mortem findings are similar to the chronic form of Necrotic Enteritis. The cause of Swine Pellagra is a vitamin deficiency. This appearance is slow and gradual, quite in contrast to the infectious form of Enteritis, where the onset is sudden and severe. Animals suffering from pellagra in their ration rarely suffer from this disease.

Symptoms: Pig Pellagra has a slow, gradual onset. There is loss of weight, lack of appetite, accompanied by watery diarrhoeas. The hair becomes dry and a scaly inflammation of the skin is usually noticed about the ears and parts of the body. Animals lose weight and gradually become emaciated.

Treatment: Treatment in the early stages consists of making up the lack of vitamin B in the diet, and when this is done prompt improvement usually takes place. When available, fresh raw liver is the best remedy. A half pound a day, fed ground and well mixed with the grain, has proven valuable in the treatment of this disease Dried brewers' yeast given in doses of three ounces daily, mixed with the feed, is a good substitute if liver cannot be obtained

The Big Crop

Prairie Provinces Produced Greatest Crop in 1942

Prairie Provinces of Canada produced the greatest crop of all time in 1942—6 total of 1,995,000,000 bushels, the Winnipeg Free Press agricultural and business review for the past year tells us.

Of this 960,000,000 bushels were wheat.

That leaves 779,000,000 bushels of coarse grains and flax produced in 1942—enough to produce 39,000,000 two hundred pound hogs against a production of only 8,000,000 asked for the whole of Canada in 1943.

Those persons who are so fond of telling us that the Western farmer will produce wheat and nothing else should go and bury their heads in the sand.—Lethbridge Herald.

Group Captain Ashton Now In Charge Of No. 2 Training Command At Winnipeg

Group Captain A. J. Ashton, former Commanding Officer of the Patricia Bay Air Station, Victoria, B.C., has taken over the position of officer in charge administration of No. 2 Training Command at Winnipeg.

Born in Wiltshire, England, Group Captain Ashton came to Canada as a young man in 1911. Following the last war, he became attached to the Canadian Air Board in 1920 and served with the Canadian Air Force in 1921, continuing with the R.C.A.F. when it was formed in 1924. He was engaged in various flying duties, including an aerial survey which was conducted over the Hudson Straits in 1927 and 1928. He flew in Northern Manitoba in the following year and in 1931 was on exchange to the Royal Air Force where he served with the Coastal Command. He took part in an aerial survey of Newfoundland in 1933, and just before the war was in charge of a flying boat squadron in Vancouver.

At the outbreak of hostilities, he was stationed in charge of Canadian Air Station at Rockcliffe and later took command of the Jericho Beach Station at Vancouver. Following the great expansion of the Air Training Plan he was made Commanding Officer of No. 3 Bombing and Gunnery School at Mossbank, Saskatchewan, from which post he went to Patricia Bay, where he was in command before coming to Winnipeg.

Group Captain Ashton served in the last war, enlisting in August 1914 and proceeding overseas with the 11th Battalion. He transferred to the 8th Battalion of Winnipeg and went to France with that unit. In 1917 he became attached to the Royal Flying Corps serving with the air force for the rest of the war and returning to Canada at the end of 1919.

Contains Three Brigades And Composes About 13,000 Men

The British Army units consist of the battalion, the brigade and the division. The corps is a formation, usually having recently two, has frequently three, divisions.

The battalion has, at present, a strength of about 750 officers and men. The brigade contains three battalions, with services and ancillary troops which bring it up to about 3,600. The division contains three brigades and, with its various divisional troops, amounts in all to about 12,000.

Each of the units from the battalion upwards, it will be observed, has troops attached for special purposes; and this applies also to the corps, which has its artillery, signaller, engineers, and so on. This seems as specific as it is possible to be.—London Spectator.

Many of the country stores in the motoring days lost most of their steady customers. Some of them had to install gasoline pumps in order to stay in business. Now the store has revolved again and the farmers cannot afford to use their cars freely. German Morale Hits The Lowest Level Of The War

Stockholm.—German morale has hit the lowest level of the war, and it is questionable whether Hitler can lift it out of the depths as he has in the past with successful campaigns.

People who have recently been in Germany, the Nazi press and Swedish newspapers confirm this view. Perhaps especially significant are reports of how heavily the terror of bombings is hitting the German people, and how wounded soldiers describe the "hell" on the eastern front as a place where they won't have to go back.

There is shaken confidence in Hitler as a soldier-genius, especially among the officers, as a result of military defeats.

Although morale is bad, no cracking should be expected before a decisive military defeat becomes plain to every German. In this connection it must be remembered always that the Nazis disarmed the Germans and wiped out the oppositional political leadership so effectively that there are no signs of counter-organization in strength.

Himmler, Hitler's watchdog, is taking no chances. A press campaign, to draw recruits for his private army intended mainly for use during internal crises has been running for weeks. He is releasing police and SS troops from clerical and other work for the field by recruiting women.

He sealed many loopholes in the police network by abolishing the "Aldwacht" of "several hundred thousands" strong for security of the homeland. This was obligatory in addition to regular work, principally for men who fought in the last war and now enlisted for military service.

For years the SS. has been quietly taking over hundreds of shops, stores and apartments for use as small arsenals and strongpoints in case of trouble.

How hard the war has struck German homes is openly described by the paper, Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung:

Many Germans evacuated from bombed districts were "described as "too shaken to give a coherent picture of what happens during a heavy raid."

The effects, however, are reflected in advertisements now appearing regularly in west German newspapers offering to exchange homes in Dusseldorf, Bremen, Kiel, Essen, Hannover, Cologne and other hard-hit cities for homes in middle or southern Germany or in small towns with good communications to the big cities. Cities such as Berlin and Vienna are overcrowded.

The housing shortage in Vienna, the Voelkischer Beobachter disclosed, is acute—70,000 families are living in homes, 13,000 of them urgently.

Wounded soldiers spread uneasiness at home by telling as a typical instance of a company twice reinforced with 100 men yet reduced to 18 men when it left the Donetz fighting area.

Last April's reduction in food rations is beginning to have effects now on health. The people are suffering due to colds and illness, and are constantly tired, nervous and irritable.

Meanwhile there is widespread black marketing, blackout thefts and burglaries, and disregard of war regulations—are steadily increasing.

Sir Gerald Campbell Says Germany May Sink To Communism

San Francisco.—Sir Gerald Campbell, British minister to U.S., told the Commonwealth club that he would not be surprised "if Germany sank to Communism after the war and Russia became worried about Communism in Europe."

"Tied not Germany gone to war twice," he said, "she might have led the world in production. Russia is a great producing country. She will have Europe and Asia as markets for her production."

REPORT DENIED

Berlin Radio Says Hitler Not Giving Up Army Command

New York.—Rumors that Hitler is preparing to relinquish command of the German armed forces to a fighting general drew a curt denial from the Berlin radio.

The broadcast, recorded by the Associated Press here, quoted "competent military quarters" as declaring that reports "spread abroad" concerning the appointment of a new commander for the eastern front "are devoid of foundation."

PREFERS ACTION

Flying Officer Bentley Wants To Get Back To Job

Montreal.—Canada's most decorated air hero, Flying Officer George "Buzz" Beurling, has started his 6,000-mile coast-to-coast trip around Canada's air training schools.

But the top-ranking Canadian ace ace, who has 30 enemy planes to his credit, doesn't like the job he's been handed. He would sooner be shooting down more enemy planes.

"Any front will do," he said. "Preferably, Russia or my old field over Malta."

Beurling says that after his tour of duty he will be the guest of Governor-General Lord Athlone and Princess Alice. Prime Minister Mackenzie King, on behalf of the government, will entertain her at dinner.

SHORTAGE OF LUMBER

Ban On Construction To Continue In British Columbia

Vancouver.—At least several months will elapse before the lumber controller lifts a ban on new construction by private individuals or companies in British Columbia, D. M. Rosenberry, assistant timber controller, said, and the prohibition may be in effect "for the duration."

An unprecedented shortage of lumber caused by the manpower shift from woods to war work and by production necessitated the ban on private building, which was announced last week. Only construction related to the war effort may be commenced until further notice.

A British Sub Tanker Goes To Rescue Of Malta

A British Port.—Save some laurels for the Porpoise, the Royal Navy's first submarine tanker, which is credited to distributing honors for the historic defence of Malta, Britain's George Cross island.

For without the Porpoise the Royal Air Force and dare-devil pilots like V.O. George (Screwball) Beurling, of Verdun, Que., "Here of Malta," wouldn't have been able to stem vicious Axis air onslaught during the garrison's blackest hour

APPEAL FOR CANADA

Madame Chiang Kai Shek To Come Here In March

Ottawa.—Naval headquarters disclosed that PO. John Brown, 22-year-old naval diver from Ingersoll, Ont., averted the threat of a serious explosion in Halifax harbor by recovering from the sea bottom an accidentally released depth charge.

Brown was awarded the British Empire Medal for his act. The depth charge threatened to blast nearby piers and shipping when it rolled from the stern of a converted United States destroyer. It was loaded with several hundred pounds of high explosive, primed and equipped with detonator and delicate firing mechanism to set it off.

"I landed on a knoll," said Brown, describing his descent. "I could make out the depth charge lying half on its side a few feet away. I went over to it and made a line fast to it. Then I stood by and made a signal to the Americans to pull it up."

Brown, who received the excited congratulations of American officers and men described it as "a routine job."

Says Alaska Is To Be Used For Attack On Japan

Ottawa.—The Tokyo radio broadcast a warning to the Japanese people by a high imperial headquarters official that United States is planning "a mortal attack upon the mainland of Japan" and that it would come from the north.

Col. Nassiu Yahagi chief of the Japanese army press section, declared in a speech recited by the federal communications commission that Alaska is to be the headquarters for attack against Japan."

He cited the almost daily landings of Japanese forces in the Aleutians by United States forces in the building of "17 new air fields in China and progress in railroads between Alaska and China.

He described the air field construction and telephone work as attempted preparation of airbases to the continent from Alaska."

The Chungking radio announced some time ago that radio, telephone facilities were being constructed for communication between China and the United States.

According to the recently announced Roosevelt-Churchill strategy Yahagi said, Australia is prepared to make the war 1943 a year of final battles of the Pacific war.

Yahagi charged the Free reported that the United States was stressing rapid construction of underground aircraft factories that is land bases."

He asserted according to the Tokyo broadcast that the Allies now have 300 planes in China

Yahagi also foresaw the possibility that Madagascar island also might be used as a base for an attack against Tokyo the broadcast said. He continued: "It appears they (Allies) are trying to make Dutch Harbor and Hawaii into strongholds and move forward with unity of the respective forces."

Beveridge Plan May Be Delayed Until After War

London.—Sir Kingsley Wood chancellor of the exchequer indicated that the British government might have to wait until after the war to act on the Beveridge social security plan

He was answering growing Labor party demands for immediate legislative embodying its recommendations.

The cost of putting into effect the proposal for providing a higher standard of living for all subjects must be considered along with the uncertainties of the war, he told members of commons.

He added that even heavier taxation would result from passage of social legislation at this time and that the government intended to avoid the middle class that addit onal burden

Labor members held a secret meeting earlier to consider a resolution disapproving the government's attitude

Several members urged prompt government action on the legislation and were asserted that many women recognized that "you're dodging the issue."

"Be as brave as you are asking the soldiers to be in battle," Labor-ite George Buchanan said. "If you are this brave will not be hindered by talk about expense."

Wood agreed that finance "shouldn't be our master rather than our servant" but added that the current situation must be used so that he breaks or collapses in the source of his work

Wood said that he shared the view that after the recovery ought to be possible within a reasonable period but added that "we may be only in the middle of this war and the cost of the war still is increasing

Wood denied that the government was seeking to retard the Beveridge proposals

He disclosed that the minister of health and the secretary for Scotland immediately would begin negotiations with the medical profession along the lines of the report but said that negotiations and acting up a new system of medical service will take considerable time

Consumer Credit Rules Tightened

Retail purchases for food, grass and fuel are no longer regarded as instalment consumer credit regulations by a new order of the W. P. & T. board effective Feb. 1. Fuel is exempted when purchased under written agreement.

Down payment on all goods has been standardized at 33⅓ per cent. This relaxes the terms upon which farm machinery and automobiles may be purchased but tightens the terms applying to furniture and household appliances. Charge accounts must now be settled by the 15th of the month following the month of purchase with no days of grace permitted. Stricter terms are imposed for the re-establishment of defaulted charge accounts.

Buying goods valued at under $500 on instalment plan contains the period of credit from twelve months to ten months. When the sum financed is $500 or more the maximum credit period may be 15 months.

New restrictions added relate to advertising, lay-away plans, goods delivered on approval, leases for purchase or goods and selective dating on sales contracts. It is henceforth expressly forbidden to use the Board's name as a means of collecting past due accounts.

Administrator A. O. Gauthier advises retailers affected by the order to obtain copies forthwith from the nearest office of the Board: Williamson Bldg., Edmonton.

Trees For Spring Planting

At this time of the year many letters are being received by the Extension Branch of the Department of Agriculture from farmers who request information about where they can obtain trees from the Government. There are two government sources for trees, the Forestry Branch, Department of Lands and Mines Edmonton, and the Forest Nursery Station at Indian Head, Sask., the latter being operated by the Dominion Department of Agriculture.

Trees from the Forest Branch, Edmonton, may be obtained only for replacements in established windbreaks, or for additions to these windbreaks. They are not provided for new wind breaks. These trees are offered to farmers without cost, except for express charges, and applications should be made to the Director of Forestry, Department of Lands and Mines, Administration Building, Edmonton, at once.

Trees from the Forest Nursery Station at Indian Head will not be supplied unless the applicant has summerfallow land on which to plant them as a means of collecting past due accounts.

Applications for trees from Indian Head should be made at once should be sent to the Superintendent Forest Nursery Station, Indian Head Sask.

First Women Blood Donors at C.P.R. Clinic

MARKING the first time women have had given blood for the Canadian Red Cross Society in an industrial clinic in Quebec, these office workers in the Angus Shops of the Canadian Pacific Railway in Montreal joined 450 men who had gone before them as blood donors in the clinic which has been in operation at the shops since July of 1942. The women, part of a group of 37 who have registered for blood donations from the big clinic total donations pennant of 1,101 made there since the Angus medical centre at the weekly clinic on February 4. The clinic, first to be operated by an industrial enterprise in Quebec and first to be operated by a railway in all of Canada, has resulted in 1,156 donations to supply the blood bank shipped overseas for civilian and military transfusions. An honor roll posted in Angus Shops bears the names of those who have made three donations, with 130 being in that class now while one, Malcolm Hyatt, a mechanic, has given blood six times.

PIONEER RANCHMAN'S DAUGHTER NOW AT C.W.A.C. TRAINING CENTRE

Daughter of the pioneers of the West, Margaret Deane-Freeman is taking her heritage adventure into its modern counterpart — Active Service. Enlisting recently in the Canadian Women's Army Corps, she is now taking her Basic Training at the Vermilion Training Centre.

Miss Deane-Freeman's ranch home is in the Millarville district, near High River, where her grandfather, J. Deane-Freeman, uncle, A.P. Welsh, and Malcolm Millar were the first three settlers on Bruce Creek in 1895. Her father, W.K. Deane-Freeman was a captain of the High River Polo team for years; she, also, is an enthusiastic and expert horsewoman.

Educated at High River schools, Pte. Deane-Freeman was doing ledger work in the Canadian Bank of Commerce prior to enlistment. She began to be posted to the pay office, where her previous training will be useful. Interested in sports, her favorites include badminton, tennis, hockey, basketball and horseback riding; she was Junior Leader for three years, and also a member of the Millarville-Red Cross and the A.Y.P.A. — all activities she stand her in good stead in her new life

With two brothers overseas, Flying Officer Clive Deane-Freeman, R.C.A.F., and Major Peter Deane-Freeman, both good her fiance a prisoner-of-war in Germany (he is Flight-Lt. Winston S. Parker, R.C.A.F., of Midnapore, well known in horseshow circles of Calgary and district). Pte. Deane-Freeman feels her turn had come to lend the call to active service.

Are Foods Which Have Frozen Safe to Use?

Many homes still have foods which have frozen during the recent cold snap. Certain precautions should be taken in the use of these foods, says Vera Richards of the Extension Service, Department of Agriculture.

Frozen foods spoil very quickly if allowed to stand after they have thawed. If possible, they should be kept in the frozen state until ready for use—otherwise they must be used immediately. However, foods in air-tight containers such as home canned fruits and vegetables in glass jars or tin cans are safe to use even after they have thawed, but it is important to watch for spoilage—for if there is the slightest bulging or sliming of the jar or can, the food will spoil.

Once opened, these foods should be used immediately.

In general, it is best to cook frozen foods while still in the frozen state. Vegetables may be plunged directly into boiling water.

Local Nobleite Qualifies in Board of Performers

Trailseed Rag Apple Queen, a member of the purebred Nobleite herd of E. A. Bullis, Elk Point, has just completed an excellent Record of Performance test. Starting as a three-year-old, she produced in 305 days, 12,161 lbs. of milk containing 608 lbs. fat, average test 5.00 per cent butterfat. She was milked twice daily throughout her entire lactation. This was the largest record reported from any part of Alberta during the past month.

MORRISON

Well, a little warm weather in quite welcome now. It seems as though only a few good days get sandwiched in between the weeks of cold snaps.

It appears as if we are still behind on the winners of the raffle. Mrs. A. Gillies was also a winner, her name being omitted previously.

The whist drive on the 5th was fairly successful there being six tables. Everyone seemed tired here over and stayed for only a few dances—there being a scarcity of musicians. Prize were won by Miss Rose Withers first and Mrs. Harry Ketchum; Ladies' consolation went to Mrs. George Monaghan who won the draw over Miss Margaret Gilles. The men's consolation was won by Gerald Miller.

The Valentine party was held at the Morrison school Friday 12th. The school was decorated with red streamers and caught here and there with large yellow bows. There were red and white hearts on the windows and walls and our ever present Y Pe Yo very modern. The prize winners were Mrs. J. Miller, Mrs. T. Giles, Maxine Monaghan, Harvey Anderson and Dorinda Anderson. One thing that caught the attention of the combined efforts of the pupils. Our banner has 12 stars so we have well on our way. Farmers, I reminded these industrial workers, never strike no matter how low their products may be in price;—and today they are low in price compared to the high wages industrial workers are receiving. The farmer's simply "carry on" to the best of their ability producing those food products which the Government tells them are urgently needed. It does seem, therefore, that our farmers are entitled to a great deal of credit for the splendid work they are doing in producing vast quantities of these most important munitions of war — foodstuffs.

I venture the suggestion to the Government, however, that because of all this a modest increase in the price of the products our poor farmers are raising, to bring their net income nearer to those now enjoyed by industrial workers, would be well in order.

Following factors have tended to decrease supplies and in crease demand: Germany's wheat harvest for 1943 was 15 per cent below normal;— Owing to lack of labor, fertilizers and deteriorated equipment, normal yields are not expected in Europe—Alberta's bread grains this season have fallen far below requirements.

Following factors have tended to increase supplies and decrease demand: It is estimated that the U.S.A. bread grain surplus will be more than 400,000,000 bushels by next summer— Uruguay's excellent 1943 wheat harvest is in excess of 15 million bushels (Argentine's 1943 harvest will be reported) — Argentina's new wheat crop is expected to yield 317,000,000 bushels.

No Disguise for Rat or Rabbit

Exotic fur trade names such as Siberian seal and French leopard long added pleasure to the familiar busy beaver, once it became a luxury garment for milady. Recently the Wartime Prices and Trade Board declared that correct fur names must be shown with the trade name, for the protection of milady, herself. Now the Board goes still further and rules that no person shall use on any price ticket, price tag, label, display card, invoice or bill of sale any fur trade name unless the correct fur name is be plainly marked and set forth immediately following the fur trade name.

HARVEST OF BAD STRIKES

Recently in Eastern Canada i was quite close to a town where 13,000 men were working on important war work. In a quite illegal manner struck work for a week for a trivial cause.

I was shocked to see how little these workers seemed to realize the dangers to the life of our soldiers in battle through the possible lack of precious munitions they were making. I could not help but think of the different attitude of our farmers to the fifty million bushels purchased under the ever-present worry due to the lack of their ability producing those food products which the Government tells them are urgently needed. It does seem, therefore, that our farmers are entitled to a great deal of credit for the splendid work they are doing in producing vast quantities of these most important munitions of war — foodstuffs.

I venture the suggestion to the Government, however, that because of all this a modest increase in the price of the products our poor farmers are raising, to bring their net income nearer to those now enjoyed by industrial workers, would be well in order.

CONSERVE HOME FATS

After the largest amount possible of household fats have been handed over to the local salvage organization to be used ultimately in making munitions, the remainder retained for home use purposes should be carefully conserved and not a scrap of it allowed to be wasted Rendered household fats should be stored in tightly covered crocks, tin containers, or opaque , re in a dry cool place away from the light. Lard will keep indefinitely if stored in a refrigerator and for a limited period it kept at room temperature. Shortenings may be kept satisfactorily in closed containers at room temperatures. But ter spoils quickly and absorbs odors readily; so it should be kept closely in the Gingham Dance March 4th and the Board goes still further and rules that no person shall use on any price ticket, price tag, label, display card, invoice or bill of sale any fur trade name unless the correct fur name is be plainly marked and set forth immediately following the fur trade name.

MORRISON

The light flurry of snow has given over to sunshine so maybe the high way which the Monaghan Brothers opened on Friday will remain open for a longer period after all. Here is hoping anyway.

The League meeting was held at the home of Mrs. James Miller on Wednesday Feb. 17th. There was quite a large turn out. A quilt top was well started on being put together. Mrs. Art Rosenhan is to complete it for the next meeting which is to be held in the tea-barge on March 3rd. Plans were made for purchasing wool to knit garments for the boys in the forces. If there are funds enough it is planned to make a complete set for each boy. The second letter was hectographed and sent to each member of the League. By the replies received they enjoy them very much.

The annual school meeting was held on Friday afternoon. About a dozen people turned out. Mr. Bert Gould's term expired and he was returned in office The board now comprises Mr. A. Gillies, Chairman; Mrs. James Miller and Mr. B. Gould, with Mr. I. Woodruff as secretary. There is a tender out for six cords of green wood for the school.

Two people turned out for the dance. They spent the evening playing cards and ping pong and reported a good time.

Many of the Morrison people attended the municipal meeting at Islay on Saturday Feb. 20. It is yet to be determined whether it was this meeting, the obtaining of the ration cards or the fine weather which accounted for the very large crowd in Islay that day

Mrs. Harry Van den Dolder and Mrs. Albert Van den Dolder walked up to see Mrs. Lily Giles. Spring must be just around the corner.

Gerald Miller is in Vermilion staying with his aunt and attending the 2-week course of mechanics. He is enjoying it very much and receiving great help.

This is all for now. Sweet Sixteen

Glycerine Substitute

Will Make Millions Of Pounds Available For War Explosives

Scientists in U.S. department of agriculture's regional experiment station at Philadelphia, started out a year ago to develop a substitute for common table sugar.

They failed—but instead they developed a solution which will free millions of pounds of glycerine normally for use in the manufacture of bombs and other war explosives.

In effect, the solution is a plain syrup, made with apples.

It will be used in tobacco processing—substituting for glycerine, which has been used for years in tobacco manufacture because of its high humidifying qualities.

May Have Been Seven

Historians Say There Were At Least Five Saints Valentine

Lost in the mists of antiquity is the origin of St. Valentine's Day, and the searchings of historians are not aided by the fact that there were at least five saints Valentine—some say seven. Strangely enough, the lives of these saints give no clue to the reason for their selection by the church, nor any hint as to why the day was chosen for the exchange of tender sentiments.

In the gay nineties Valentine cards were of elaborate type—often appearing on lace paper and featuring silks, satins and ribbons, and with mechanical gadgets worked into the scheme Happily, the cheap and often crude "comic" cards of the period have largely passed from the scene.

Today's valentines are often masterpieces of the printer's art, and writers outdo themselves in preparing sentimental messages suitable for the occasion—as I hope expert they become in choosing the right word. With millions of lads and lassies shifted from home scenes by the necessities of war, the demand for valentines this year was greater than ever. It's a pleasant custom, and the growing use of this type of greeting card proves its particular appeal with the young folk.

JESUS RAISING LAZARUS TO LIFE

Golden text: "I am the resurrection, and the life." John 11:25.

Lesson: John 11.

Devotional reading: I Peter 1:3-12.

Explanations and Comments

Jesus Learns of Lazarus' Sickness. Mary, Martha and Lazarus lived in Bethany there was a household beloved of Jesus. "Now Jesus loved Martha, and her sister, and Lazarus," we are told (John 11:5). When Lazarus fell seriously ill the sisters sent word to Jesus, believing that if he only knew of their great need of him he would come immediately to them. Beautiful trust was expressed by their message, "He whom thou lovest is sick." They made no claim upon him. They simply told him the fact. That is the privilege of his disciples that the sickness was "unto the glory of God," that the Son of God may be glorified thereby." Recall his words concerning the affliction of the blind man: "that the works of God should be made manifest in him."

Jesus delayed two days before he started for Bethany. His disciples would have deterred him from going to restless Judea, but they knew that he was seeking to stone him and it seemed like tempting fate for him to go back. Jesus told them plainly that Lazarus was dead, and added: "I am glad for your sakes that I was not there, to the intent that ye may believe; nevertheless, let us go unto him." Then Thomas courageously counseled his fellows, that is the day that we may die with him."

The Situation in the Home at Bethany. John 11:17-19. When Jesus and the disciples arrived, they found that Lazarus had been laid in the tomb four days, for burial took place on the day of his death, as it still customary in Palestine. Bethany being near Jerusalem, only five furlongs (three-fourths of a mile) away, many Jews had arrived from the city to join the sisters in their sorrowing.

Martha's Wonderful Faith in Jesus, John 11:20-27. When she learned that Jesus was approaching, Mary remained in the house with their friends but Martha hastened out at the village to meet him. "Lord, if thou hadst been here, my brother had not died," she cried, and then with wonderful faith she expressed her belief that Jesus could "even now" restore him to life. "I know that whatsoever thou shalt ask of God, God will give thee." were her words. "Thy brother shall rise again," Jesus returned. She took his words to refer to a far-distant, future resurrection, "the resurrection at the last day," and her belief in that resurrection seems to have given her little comfort, for it was false belief, not faith, that she expressed. Belief is a matter of the intellect; faith, a matter of the heart and life. "She was thinking in terms of universal but indiscriminate mass of men, the world's millions everywhere, instead of looking at Jesus who was close at hand and concerned her."

Military Genius

Might Of German Strategy Has Been Overrated, Says Author

Since the days of the great Clausewitz, the Prussian general who wrote the cop-books for modern military strategists, Germany has been looked upon as the land of military genius. The world spoke in awe of "German thoroughness", of German "capality for organization".

What has happened to all this "genius" and "thoroughness" in Russia? Here is what was supposed to be the mightiest and best led army in the world reeling back before the Russians; out-generalled, out-maneuvered, outfought. Hitler's great generals, with their "superiority" behind them, failed to see that Stalin, falling back in the Summer and Fall (just as the Russians fell back before Napoleon) was preparing a great offensive. They obviously failed to grasp, and were powerless to find, the complicated and conceived moves by which the Russians surrounded and annihilated them at Stalingrad; and equally in the future they fell into a trap in the Caucasus.

And as in Russia, so in Egypt and Libya. Rommel was lauded as a "genius", dubbed the "fox of the desert". But Rommel was only a "fox of the desert" and a "genius" so long as he had superiority in aeroplanes and tanks and guns; once the odds became equal the British understood Rommel's every move, and a thousand miles, turned him into (Mr. Churchill's words) "a fugitive from Libya."

Maybe this "German military genius" tale is but a myth; one of many myths about Germany.—Ottawa Journal.

Getting Rid Of Property

Regent Of Hungary Taking His Fortune Out Of Country

The London Daily Sketch says Admiral Horthy, Regent of Hungary, is, significantly, selling by private treaty a large part of his property in his native country. This is causing much uneasiness in Hungarian political circles, where the Zoil has for one common knowledge.

There circles believe the deal signifies that Horthy is anticipating an end of his regime and is preparing to send the remainder of his fortune out of the country. A large part of his personal fortune is now in the Argentine, as we revealed some time ago.

Health League of Canada

presents TOPICS of VITAL INTEREST

NECESSITY FOR GOOD VENTILATION

An article entitled "Housing and Health" appearing in a recent edition of "Better Health," official journal of the National Council for Health Education in Great Britain, calls attention to the necessity for good ventilation in homes as a prerequisite for good health.

Many people, the article declares, sleep with their windows tightly closed, the result being that they breathe stale air throughout the night. A sense of well-being is experienced on entering a well-ventilated room, however, where there is a proper adjustment of air currents with air that is clean, of a suitable temperature and free from dampness. Good ventilation in this sense promotes physical and mental efficiency. Too often, states the item, the fear is blamed for that "out-of-sorts" feeling when it should be lack of ventilation. This is the essential scientific basis for the belief that housing and health are interrelated and that damp, stuffy, dirty, smoky, overcrowded dwellings promote ill-health.

A stuffy atmosphere, it emphasizes, leads to congestion of the lining of the nasal and breathing passages. This congestion makes readily lodge these linings for infection by germs in the atmosphere already or sprayed upon, or by entering a neighbour who sneezes without using a handkerchief. When you go from a stuffy room into the cold air it is not the cold air that gives you the cold, the influenza, or the pneumonia. The germs of these diseases had already gained a foothold in your own body and your companions in the stuffy room.

Overcrowding, says the article, promotes a stuffy atmosphere, rendering it easier for germs to pass from one human being to another. A smoky atmosphere irritates, contributes to stuffiness, to congestion of the linings of the nose and breathing passages and tends to keep out the ultra violet rays coming from the sun when there is sunshine.

Dampness too is named as being a co-factor with poor ventilation in breaking down health. In itself it promotes ill-ventilation by increasing the vapour concentration in the air of the room or building so aggravating the difficulties of that air in carrying off hot, water vapour from the human body.

LOOK OUT FOR YOUR LIVER

Dark Urine and right pain and feel like a million!

Your liver is the largest organ in your body and most important to your health. It passes out into to digest food, gets rid of waste, regulates body processes, manufactures blood and fights poison. When your liver gets out of order, blood decomposes in your bloodstream. Toxic poisons accumulate, stomach and kidneys can't work right, and you feel "rotten"—headache, backache, dizzy, dragged out all the time.

For over 35 years thousands have won praise and relief from these miseries—with Fruit-a-tives. So you can, too. Try Fruit-a-tives—you'll be simply delighted how quickly you'll feel like a million! Fruit-a-tives are famous for their wonderful liver action.

of the problem of getting free, but he couldn't.

He placed his heels on the ground, his knees still up-bent, and shoved himself closer to Jim Reid. Inch by inch he moved, not unlike a crawling worm, toward the sleeping man. His progress was slow, since he must make no sound that might disturb the guard; also, his arms were beneath his sliding body, and the friction twisted and cramped his arms and muscles.

At length he drew up beside Jim Reid. Not an inch separated the two men. Gradually Storey lifted his legs past the Berber's ear, poising them over the sleeping head. His turned his ankles in a move that spread his knees until they were about six inches apart.

Then, swiftly, he brought his legs down upon the Arab.

The Old Homestead

A 50-Acre Farm Within City Limits Of Cleveland

Cleveland.—This city of 1,000,000 has a 50-acre farm, with a 100-year-old farmhouse, well within...its geographic limits.

The farm is owned and operated by William and Lawrence Boyd, bachelor brothers. The homestead was built by their father to replace the log cabin where he built them he and his bride settled about seven miles outside the little village of Cleveland to start life.

Gradually innovations came about —Cleveland's boundaries stretched out to envelop the farm, cows replaced cart and team and family gave way to horses, but the Boyd homestead remained the same. Intermodiin, knowing that Ribolt, his competitor was on the way to Al Mazoul, had simply followed again when he had chosen to ride in the wake of the renegade Frenchman.

Ribolt's size in number, crowded about Immeddin as the sheik removed the knives and guns of Storey and Mohammed. Then the disarmed prisoners were marched back to the small cooking hollow, where the Berbers prepared to establish themselves for the night. But the captives did not share in the meal that was prepared. The two were bound hand and foot and left lying on the bare ground near a wind-worn elevation on the edge of the camp, a point that could be kept under surveillance by the Berbers as they moved about.

When it grew dark Immeddin, to the accompaniment of squealing of escape, ordered one of his men, the black-faced Ibn Zeid, to watch the prisoners and to shoot them at sight. "If they bother you, O Zeid," remarked the sheik, "you are to shoot them or cut their throats."

Ibn Zeid squatted against a rock and placed a pistol in his lap. Mohammed and Annette, like Storey, were stretched on the hard ground but beyond the fellow's crossed knees. By turning his head, Storey could see the profile of the girl silhouetted against the dusk sky.

"Le still!" grunted Ibn Zeid. "If you try to move closer to your friends I shall blow out your brains."

Silence fell over the camp in the dark. Gradually moon rose; the campers made snore. The Berbers rolled themselves in their cloaks; the noise of the hobbled camels died away. . . .

STOREY glanced up at the moon, attempting to gauge the number of hours that remained before dawn. The murmurs of daybreak surprised him. Already the moon had passed its zenith and had covered much of the descent toward the western horizon.

The discovery prompted Storey to shift his attention to Ibn Zeid, posted at the base of the boulder less than 10 feet away. In the shadow of the rock he could see the fellow's hands and pistol resting in his lap. But the man's shoulders were sagged, and the head had slumped forward until his chin touched his chest. By turning his head Storey caught the breath wheezed in an unmistakable manner. Ibn Zeid was asleep. The cloaked figures on the sand about him, the fires, Immeddin and the Kabiri were as motionless as Ibn Zeid.

Storey moved his arms and legs experimentally, testing the ropes that held him. But the knots were tight and well-knotted. He could neither slip them nor tighten enough at the knots to untie them. Nor, anywhere in the level ground around him, were sharp-edged stones against which he might wear the strands of the ropes. Yet few scattered stones he could see were smooth and round.

A second score came from the sleeping Ibn Zeid. A third more followed, louder this time, and the perspicacities of Storey were increased. If Ibn Zeid continued to snore like that, the camping ground would be sure to waken one of the sleeping Berbers, and then this tantalizing opportunity to escape would be gone.

WITH his mind on Ibn Zeid, Storey through he was, Storey inch by inch himself over the ground toward the rock. Lying flat on his back in front of the guard, Storey could bend his knees, lifting his feet on a level with Ibn Zeid's head and ram his heels into the sleeper's face, sending the head of the fellow back against the boulder with a force that would render the Zeid unconscious and put an end to the matter.

Storey raised his knees, studying whether such a procedure was capable of execution. As he flexed his limbs, the robe fell away from his legs and he noted that his knees were slightly separated. It was then that a thought jabbed him like a spur. He could do more than knock out Ibn Zeid. . . . He forced his legs apart as far as his bound ankles would permit, but, then nodded to himself. . . . Yes it was possible. . . . He had hesitated over knocking Ibn Zeid cold because

SANDS OF HAZARD

By J. B. RYAN

CHAPTER VIII

MOHAMMED Ibn Mulai stood on the crest of a sandy dune, leaned against the setting sun, waving one arm and pointing with the other down the far side of the distant hill. When he saw that he had attracted their attention, Mohammed darted down the curve of the elevation.

Instantly Storey was on his feet, racing up the side of the knoll. The camels must have strayed far, he might even be running away—

Annette was with him when he topped the rise. And there, Storey paused, his anxiety lessened considerably. The camels were less than a stone's throw to his left, their long legs entangled in the bushes that Mohammed Ibn Mulai had pawed also, kneeling on the ground and pretending down close to the sand.

An excitement broke from Jack Storey. The smooth, rippled surface of the sand was cut by the imprint of many hoofs and feet.

"The sheep!" cried Annette. "Andre Ribolt has passed this way!" Her eyes followed the scarred earth, the trail that swept on into the distant east.

"Well, Jacques!" Her dark eyes triumphant now, returned to Storey. "Do you believe now what I said about Monsieur Ribolt?"

Storey nodded, staring in the direction taken by Ribolt. "If that is what he go this way? The only place he can possibly reach is Al Mazoul—"

"Yes." She inclined her head in turn. "The Lonely Well must be his destination. You see, monsieur? There is no railroad to take the sheep to the armies of Hitler and Mussolini. Instead Ibn Mazuk is relying on the vapor of the moon or building so aggravating the difficulties of that air in carrying off hot, water vapour from the human body.

who steal the garments and the embroidery of a sheik of the Kabiri?"

Storey understood why they had run afoul of the Kabiri in the middle of the blinding gibli. Storey had crossed the path of Andre Ribolt and become one of the trail men. Immeddin, knowing that Ribolt, his competitor was on the way to Al Mazoul, had simply followed again when he had chosen to ride in the wake of the renegade Frenchman.

Ribolt's size in number, crowded about Immeddin as the sheik removed the knives and guns of Storey and Mohammed. Seaweed Rocks

Plants Encased In Shell-Like Crust Closely Resemble Coral

We probably are all familiar with the fact that the fossil imprints of plants and animals may be found in rock. Perhaps not so common is the knowledge that seaweeds make rocks. Many seaweeds have a great capacity for extracting limestone from seawater and depositing it as a shell-like crust encasing the plant. Such seaweed rocks are, in some cases, as much like coral as to be mistaken for that substance. Paleontologists have advanced the theory that many of the massive rocks in the older strata of North America are of seaweed origin.

Visit To Marseille

Is Remembered For His Famous Fish Stew

"Marseille is supposed to be one of the wickedest cities in the world. In normal times it does catch a good deal of the human off-scourings from the seven seas.

It is also a pleasant city of fine, shady boulevards, lined with spacious cafes and luxurious shops. The visitor on a sunny day down the Rue Canebiere and its continuation, the Rue Noailles, is one of the most picturesque, colorful and agreeable urban walks in the world. It is a devotedly religious city and its most conspicuous monument is the basilica of Notre Dame de la Garde, situated on a hill rising high above the harbor

In peacetime it was well fed and its menus offered some dishes not procurable at their best anywhere else in France. One of these was bouillabaisse, a fish stew containing a extraordinary variety of delicious fish and of an inimitable flavor. Pascal's restaurant, in the neighborhood of the Old Port, was famous for the best bouillabaise below Heaven.

The people of Marseille must be missing their bouillabaises. That may be another reason for their defiant opposition to the Nazis.—Chevalier Plain Dealer.

MAN RUNS DOWN COPHER

Rodent's Early Spring Sortie Ends In Disaster

Alex Marion, truck driver for Weber's Flour mills at Mayman spied the first gopher of the year running along the road about 5 miles south of Mayman on Saturday last. Feeling the exuberant rush of spring returning from a fine spring day, Alex got out of the truck and gave chase to the short-legged rodent. The animal made a fatal mistake when he left the beaten path and tried to run through deep snow where he promptly bogged down, and his pursuer, spurred him alive and kicking. Mr. Marion, just to prove to doubting Thomases that he wasn't seeing things put the live gopher into the glove compartment of the truck where sundry interested people in Vermilion took a peek at him, thinking that here was the first harbinger of spring.

Possibly little Mr. Gopher now regrets his early sortie which brought him from his comfortable den up into four feet of snow. A guess as to the reason would be that he woke up very hungry one morning and found his cupboard bare due to the exceedingly long winter. The heavy layer of snow which he had to force his way through must also have excited his wonderment.

DEATH OF HARRY ARMSTRONG

Pioneer Citizen and Mail Man

Harry Armstrong, well known pioneer citizen and mailman of the town and district, passed away at the Vermilion municipal hospital on Saturday, Feb. 27 after an illness of two weeks. Mr. Armstrong first came to Vermilion in 1906. He was very active, enjoyed good health and drove two mail routes twice weekly, until two weeks ago when he was taken ill and went to the hospital. He was in his 70th year.

The deceased was born on Sept. 26, 1871 in Peterborough, Ont., where he spent his boyhood days. As a young man he lived in Watertown, leaving there to buy out a store and operate a post office at Michipicoten, an Indian Trading post. Almost continually from that day to this he has been connected with mail services. While at Michipicoten he married Minnetta McGill of Brimley, Mich., in 1902.

In 1906 heeding the call of the West he came to Vermilion and went to work for Mr. Cash in his budget yard. Having a great liking for the outdoors he took up a homestead north of Vermilion where he was post master of the Coyote Valley post office. He sold out there and bought a store at Dorchester where he was also post master and drove the mail to the post offices of Steinkville, Hindville and Tolleston. Selling out again he bought a farm near Bowtell school. About 1920 he moved back to Vermilion to take over the mail contracts here of the Count de Taupe. Shortly after moving in he built the Alberta Lunch which later Mr. George Forbes of Lakefield, Ont., another sister Mrs Ed. Morton of Lakefield, and two brothers, William of Lakefield and Charles in the States.

Funeral services were held from the Gospel hall, Vermilion, on Wednesday, Feb. 24 at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. A large attendance of friends and sympathizers testified to the esteem in which the deceased was held. Interment took place in the Vermilion cemetery.

The sympathy of the community is extended to the sorrowing daughter and family in their sudden and sad bereavement.

The pall-bearers were W. P. Cash, J. Mix, Harold Wilson, N. McCrimmon, Rudolph Hutchison, G. Hilton. ALBERTA LEGISLATURE OPENED ON THURSDAY

Shorn of Pomp and Display

Thursday brought an austere opening to the third session of the ninth Alberta legislature, when His Honour the Lieutenant Governor read the Speech from the Throne before keeping with war time spirit, the ceremony was shorn of the customary pomp and display.

Appearing for the first time was Elmer E. Roper, first C.C.F. member in Alberta, who was present to be inducted into the seat left vacant by the death of D.M. Duggan. Absent were Angus Morrison, Labor member and J. J. Bowlen, Calgary Independent, who both are reported ill.

The Throne Speech, harbinger of government measures to come, told of continued government efforts to relieve the debt situation among farmers, and of further pressure to obtain federal relief from the present crisis.

It was also announced that more nurses will be trained in the Provincial institutions to relieve the scarcity from postcompletion and that the five diagnostic and treatment clinics for cancer would be extended to include free hospitalization of referred cases.

Another project of importance is the building of a 300-bed T.B. sanatorium, and the establishment of a blood plasma plant to supply this product to all hospitals in Alberta.

The number of district nurses is to be increased, and they will be given special training in obstetrics and therapeutics.

Of importance to the provincial economy was the meeting made of the establishment of a special committee to deal with post-war reconstruction.

Stagette Notes

"Imahing through the snow in a one horse open sha" was the popular song for our sleigh ride on Tuesday evening. After exercising huge and enjoying the frosty air for an hour we adjourned to the club room to thaw our noses baked beans and Parker House rolls.

Plans are underway for "Kilarney Kapers" which will be held on Wednesday March 17. Novelty dances and merriment to the tunes of old Ireland will be the order of the evening. Watch for further notice.

133 Graduates

Winters' icy grip has not yet relaxed on northern Alberta, as the Canadian Women's Army Corps girls at Vermilion Basic Training Centre for the past month very well know. One hundred and thirty-three girls graduate from the Centre this week end—an unusually large group of 76 from B.C., 26 from Alberta, 26 from Saskatchewan, and one from western Ontario which is included in Military District No. 10.

Among the graduates are the following Alberta girls:

NEW RATION COUPONS DUE ON SATURDAYS

Will Be Help to Farmers

Farmers and farm housewives who are in the time-honored custom of coming to town every Saturday for their weekly shopping, will be glad to learn that the ration administration of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board have decided that coupons in the new rations books will become good on Saturdays now instead of Mondays as was the case with the old Ration Book. This will be a distinct advantage for rural people who were in many cases considerably inconvenienced by having the coupons become good on Mondays and having to wait until their regular shopping trip on Saturdays or make an extra trip to town during the week to collect their ration supplies. From now on Saturday will be the due date.

Governor-General Asks Support For Red Cross Campaign

In a statement to the press on Wednesday the opening day of the Red Cross campaign, the Governor-General of Canada said:

"The Canadian Red Cross Society urgently needs $10,000,000. About half of this amount is for food parcels to be sent to Canadian and British prisoners of war in the hands of the enemy in Europe and the Far East. This is an absolutely essential service, for as the pressure of the United Nations increases, our men in captivity will become more and more dependent for their food on Red Cross parcels. We must make certain by the generosity of our contributions that this supply is kept going through the splendidly organized chain sets of the International Red Cross.

"We must remember also that many of the comforts for the men in our armed forces are supplied by the Red Cross, and the provision of hospital supplies is a constant drain on our resources.

"Another important item in the Red Cross bill is the Blood donor service, which has meant the saving of many life now and the alleviation of so much pain.

"All these things cost money. As President of the Canadian Red Cross Society, I ask all Canadians to give everything they can to this most worthy cause.

"The longer the war lasts, the greater is the human suffering it brings in its train. The Canadian Red Cross is dedicated to the relief of that suffering, and it is the privilege and responsibility of the Canadian people to see that this work is neither interrupted nor retarded through shortage of funds. I feel sure that I do not appeal to you in vai——

GROWN IN SUNNY SOUTHERN ONTARIO

Nutrition And National Health

IN RECENT WEEKS the subject of nutrition in relation to national health has again been brought before the Canadian public. Since the beginning of the war some surprising facts regarding the health of our people have been revealed. Canada, with its great agricultural development, has always been regarded as "a land of plenty" yet now we know that over half the recruits of the average age of twenty-two and a half years did not qualify for the Grade A physical standards of our armed forces. Mrs. Phyllis Turner, ola and fate administrator of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, has raised the question that if the condition exists among young men just past their majority what would be the figures in other age groups? The problem of raising the standard of physical fitness in this country offers a real challenge to us in these times, when we are striving in every way possible to put forth a maximum effort to win the war.

New System Is Needed

A recent survey among the civilian population showed that the average family here was receiving less than seventy per cent of the foods called for by the Canadian Dietary Standard. In a great many cases this was not due to poverty, but to ignorance, and public education on the subject of nutrition is now being emphasized in order to overcome this ignorance. There are, however, many instances in which the family income is not sufficient to provide an adequate diet. Mrs. Turner, who takes a keen interest in improving Canadian standards of nutrition has pointed out that people who are inadequately fed are not physically fit, and that they become, in time, a liability to the nation. If this condition is to be corrected it appears that some new system for production and distribution of food will have to be devised. This Mrs. Turner suggests should be based on the nutritional needs of the people

Surplus Of Food Not Great

Food production and distribution are linked with agriculture, an industry in which a large proportion of our population is interested. In spite of the fact that our output of food stuffs is very great, we are told that there is not a sufficient surplus of all foods to provide an adequate diet for our population. Hon. Ian Mackenzie, Minister of Pensions and National Health, has stated in this connection that it will be necessary to increase the production of many kinds of food to ensure even "the minimum quantities required for a fair standard diet for all." This raises the question of making increased production economically worth while to the farmer. These means must be found, Mr. Mackenzie believes, and the farmer must be assured a reasonable return on his crops. The whole problem is clearly one of great importance, and the intelligent co-operation of the public is necessary in the effort to raise the standard of our national health as rapidly as possible

LUNCH BOX VARIETY

Variety, we are told is the spice of life and the enjoyment of the worker's mid-day meal. Imagination is a prerequisite for the lunch box planner, for nothing can perk up a jaded appetite like new ideas and innovations introduced into the daily lunch. For example, sandwiches are not, as some people think, a vital necessity in the lunch box. Instead they can be eliminated entirely from time to time and other items of food substituted with gratifying effect. Following are some lunch box menus which do not include sandwiches, yet are very appetizing. Just the same

Cream of Pea Soup
Whole Wheat Bread and Butter
Cabbage and Carrot Salad
Creamed Prunes
Milk

Cream Soup
Deviled Egg and Lettuce Salad with Carrot Strips
Whole Wheat Bread and Butter
Apple

Cream of Tomato Soup
Beet and Celery Salad
Crackers
Whole Wheat Muffins and Butter
Tea and Milk

Fish and Celery Salad
(Pilchards can take place of salmon and sardines)
Whole Wheat Bread and Butter
Coffee or Cocoa
Cake
Canned fruit or left-over pudding

Macaroni with Cheese
Fruit Cup
Bread and Butter
Milk

Potato and Onion Soup
Cabbage and Raw Apple Salad
Bread and Butter
Cocoa

In order to make sure that lunches and salads are packed securely, it will be necessary to have always on hand the proper equipment. This consists of:

1 Standard Lunch Box
2 Thermos bottle for soups and beverages
3 Glass jar with screw top for puddings and fruit. Clean jam or mayonnaise jars are ideal for this purpose.
4. Paper cups for salads
5 Wax paper for salads and sandwiches
6. Spoon and cut fork

Be sure your imagination Mrs. Housewife, and make it a pleasure for the men of the family to open his lunch box when the noonday whistle blows.

SWINE DISEASES

Erysipelas May Attack Hogs Of All Ages—More Prevalent Among Young Pigs

This is the fourth of a series of six articles by J. L. Miller, V.S., Provincial veterinarian, Regina dealing with the more prevalent hog diseases. The first article dealt with Worms, Ascaris Lice and Cattle. Previously published were Hemorrhagic Septicemia and Baby Pig Diseases; Mange and Diarrhoea; Enteritis.

Swine Erysipelas has for many years been one of the most important diseases affecting swine in Continental Europe and the British Isles, and has become so on this continent about 1921 and since that time has become very prevalent in this province. Swine of all ages are susceptible, but the acute outbreaks of Swine Erysipelas are confined to pigs under six months of age. It is more common during the spring, although it may occur at any season of the year

The cause of swine erysipelas is an organism known as the Erysipelothrix rhusiopathiae. It is very resistant to adverse conditions and has been known to live in soil or manure for many months or years. This is important in dealing with outbreaks of this disease, since the organism can live in the soil the infection tends to recur in successive crops of pigs. It is also known that this germ may be harbored in the bodies of apparently healthy swine. These animals act as carriers and may spread the disease to pigs placed in contact with healthy pigs. The disease is thought to be spread by healthy hogs consuming food or water which has become contaminated by discharges from diseased animals.

Symptoms: Symptoms displayed by swine affected with erysipelas are varied and are usually described as being acute, subacute or chronic. In acute type the onset is sudden and affected pigs may be found without any previous symptoms being noted In this acute form the first thing that is found sick with temperatures ranging from 105 to 106 degrees. They may or not eat but will, when disturbed Later they refuse to eat entirely, heavy breathing, vomiting with constipation are usually observed. They develop a stiffness on the legs and the animals appear stiff when forced to move.

Skin Type: From twenty-four to forty-eight hours after the onset of the disease, diamond shaped skin lesions which are lesser swollen nor tender than the rest of the skin are found on the body. These patches are roughly outlined and resemble those of diamond skin disease. They are quite typical of this disease. After suffering from the acute type pig may die in a few days, others may completely recover, but leave a scar as a permanent improvement and lapse into the chronic form

Chronic Type: In this type the joints become enlarged and painful Marked stiffness is noted, and if the animal is forced to exercise may show evidences of great pain. Loss of weight and general unthriftiness are usually observed. In another form of the chronic type there will be well until they are two to three months old, when the whole of good care they become unthrifty, the skin loses its bright, clear appearance, becoming dry and scaly, and the hair appears long and shaggy. Pigs suffering from this type fail to develop and frequently weigh only thirty-five to forty pounds when six months old. Animals suffering from the chronic type of Swine Erysipelas often live for months and then die; some, however, slowly recover but usually remain unthrifty, poor hogs

Post Mortems: Post mortems held on pigs dying from this disease reveal no definite lesions. The spleen is usually enlarged and the pulp of this organ is very dark in colour. The surface of the spleen may be studded with small elevations from the size of a pea to a large bean. Small hemorrhages may be found on the lining of the heart, and in the chronic form cauliflower-like growths may be found on the heart valves.

Diagnosis: The diagnosis of Swine Erysipelas should always be confirmed by isolation of a sick pig in the laboratory for examination.

Treatment: All affected animals should be isolated from healthy hogs in the herd. Place sick pigs in clean, portable quarters and provide soft feed. Anti Swine Erysipelas Serum has proved valuable in the treatment of this disease in many cases. It should be given in doses of not less the 20 cc. per hundred lbs. of pig, injected deeply under the skin. The dose should be repeated every twelve or twenty-four hours until improvement is noted. This serum can also be used to protect healthy swine which have been exposed in an outbreak of this disease In this case a 10 to 20 cc dose should be used.

Prevention: On premises where Swine Erysipelas has been known to exist it is wise to protect young pigs with the following method Inject each pig when one week of age with 10 cc of Anti Swine Erysipelas Serum, 5 cc on each side behind the elbow This dose should be repeated in thirty days This method is effective during the life of the average pig

On premises where the disease has been known to exist, healthy swine should be kept away from contaminated houses pens and pastures which are known to have been there should not be kept for breeding purposes. Contaminated houses, pens etc should be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected.

Bacteriologists Are Studying New Process For Packing Dried Foods

Dehydrated vegetables are being compressed into "bricks" and wrapped with various packing materials which would replace critical metals, especially tin, in the search for a process for packing dried foods under way in the bacteriology laboratories at the State Experiment Station of Geneva, N.Y. After wrapping and sealing, the "bricks" are thrown into tanks of water or stored in a room kept at 100 degrees Fahrenheit and 85 per cent. humidity to simulate tropical conditions, and the contents of the packages sampled from time to time to determine the efficiency of the packing materials.

Dried vegetables, including carrots, beets, cabbage, sauerkraut and other products are being subjected to tremendous pressure to reduce the materials to small "bricks" practically free from air. Then by covering these "bricks" with various moisture proof materials the contents of the packages are protected against deterioration in color, flavor and nutritive value.—St Thomas Times-Journal.

Naval Veterans

Convoy Commodores Have The Spirit Of Drake And Nelson

Admiral Sir Studholme Brownrigg, a naval veteran of the last war, has been reported missing somewhere on active service at sea. Awarded the D.S.O. in the battle of Jutland, Admiral Brownrigg had well earned retirement before the outbreak of this war. He enlisted again, however, to serve as convoy commodore, one of the unknown warriors in the most protracted battle.

The convoy commodore's task is to cross on one of the cargo ships in the front line as they move slowly together on voyages through submarine infested seas. The masters of the ships in convoy are responsible to the commodore. He has to keep the ships together, to make decisions when one or another of the ships is in difficulties, when they are attacked or when they are laboring under the stress of gale weather. Convoy they plod along—sometimes more than 14 days out of sight of land in an Atlantic crossing.

Naval veterans, admirals and captains, have returned to serve with the seafaring men in the merchant marine, truly as unknown warriors, through the long months and years of monotonous crossing and recrossing of bleak and turbulent ocean expanses. They go under no illusions about the probabilities of eventually being torpedoed. One after another they have "come down" on grand men, with none of the thrill of action stations, but truly with the spirit of Drake and Nelson. They should ever be remembered as unknown warriors of the sea.—Ottawa Citizen

Study Is Given To The Problem Of Air Traffic

Ottawa.—The Canadian government has given a considerable study to the problem of the control of international air traffic in the future. It was learned from an authoritative source.

In any discussions looking to an international agreement on civil aviation, Canada, because of its strategic location astride potential air routes between the eastern and western hemispheres and its extensive development of both civil and military aviation within its own borders—will be keenly interested.

With a view to the future, the government has seen to it that Canadian rights have been protected in all agreements with the United States concerning the construction of landing fields and airlines on Canadian territory for war purposes.

In some quarters it is urged that an international agreement be reached before the end of the war in order to avoid complications after the war. It is felt that the negotiation of a reasonable arrangement might be easier now than it would be after hostilities cease and commercial rivalries between the nations become more intense.

So far as can be learned the Canadian government has taken no official position on this matter, although some of its officials are known to be in favor of early negotiations.

Eight Sentenced To Death In India For Murder Of Fellow Prisoner

London.—A Reuters despatch from Delhi, India, said eight persons had been sentenced to death for the murder of two Canadian R.A.F. officers last Aug. 16. The officers were dragged from a train by a mob and beaten to death.

Two others involved were sentenced to life imprisonment and five others got five-year terms.

The Reuters item did not give the names of the officers, but it was believed to be P/O. Joseph Henry Smith, 32, of Kamloops, B.C.

The despatch said the two officers were travelling from Delhi to Calcutta when a mob at Fatwa railway station dragged them from their compartment, killed them and threw their bodies into a river.

Thirty-five persons originally went to trial charged with the killings. Three were discharged at first and 25 acquitted.

AIR BASES

New Zealand Is Willing To Grant Facilities

Washington — Walter Nash, New Zealand minister to the United States, expressed the belief that his government would be willing to grant the United States use of her air and naval bases after the war as part of a mutual defence system

Stressing that such a system should be on a reciprocal basis, he told reporters that he thought his government would be willing to discuss it with all the countries concerned before the end of the war as an important step toward implementing the Atlantic Charter.

The conference which should be included in the negotiations, Nash said, are New Zealand, Australia, the Netherlands East Indies, China, India and the United States

IF THREAT FROM SUES

Might Make It Necessary To Close St. Lawrence, Quebec Says

Quebec.—The Germans may concentrate as many as 500 or 600 submarines around Halifax and Newfoundland next summer to harass Allied convoys, Rear-Admiral V. G. Brodeur, a member of the naval personnel at the Canadian legation in Washington, said in an interview.

Should such a concentration of U-boats come about, he said, it may be necessary to close the St. Lawrence river to navigation in order to give the Atlantic convoys all the protection possible. He spoke while visiting the Canadian naval exhibition here.

"We have a limited number of escort vessels," he said, "and Canadian reverses are relying on Canada to assure protection of the convoys. Canadians and especially Quebec people should understand that it is up to the Canadian navy to decide where the hardest attack can be carried out with the least loss and it is also up to the navy to allot the necessary number of escort vessels in this theatre of operations.

Winnipeg. — The Winnipeg Free Press said a United States army headquarter's stores to supply the needs of army units and civilians working on the Alaska highway may be established in Winnipeg as a result of a proposal now under consideration in Washington.

It added:

"Recent fires on the Alcan highway have made some observers think that a warehouse be established in western Canada . . . ."

"A small staff would be attached to the warehouse.

"United States authorities are known to have been surveying the Winnipeg area for a suitable 50,000 square feet of warehousing on a railway siding here for this purpose."

A DIFFICULT JOB

Finding Enough Workers In France To Meet Nazi Demand

Berne.—Police squads have launched a drive to compel unemployed Frenchmen to work in their latest efforts to conscript French workers for labor in Germany, a despatch from Paris reported.

Pierre Laval's government has found it very difficult to meet a Nazi demand for 250,000 more workmen, that it has threatened to refuse food rations to men who do not register for work, other reports said.

The Geneva Journal reported that many French workers were already engaged by the Germans in building fortifications along the Atlantic coast and the Russian plains.

Hitler Promises Reign Of Terror To Win The War

London. — Reasserting his confidence in victory, Hitler promised a "mobilization of the spiritual and material values of Europe" such as never before witnessed for war, but hinted that the struggle might continue for years and that there still are difficulties on the home front.

He asserted that "the gigantic mass of the German people is standing behind the new Reich and the National Socialist world of thought which is inspiring it," but indicated that all is not well within Nazi Germany and occupied Europe, that the Nazi party must "break terror with terror-tied terror."

Hitler addressed a 1,000-word proclamation to a Munich meeting of party followers. It was read for him before the assembly by German soldiers fighting in the east because it is there that the fate of Germany and Europe will be decided—a decision which must and will end in our victory."

"Neither shall we hesitate a single second to call upon the countless which are responsible for the outbreak of this war to do their bit in the field of battle," he said in an appeal "reference to fallen France.

"We shall not scruple about foreign lives at a time when such hard sacrifices are exacted from our own lives," he declared, but did not amplify that statement.

"As to the home front, Hitler declared that "in these coming months and perhaps years the party will have to fulfill its most great historic task, namely, to rouse the nation to the greatness of its danger, to strengthen the inward faith, to build strength in weak characters and ruthlessly to destroy saboteurs.

"The party has to enlighten in places where enlightenment is being rejected. It has to break terror with ten-fold terror.

Hope To Provide More Information From Japanese Prison Camps

London.—Relatives of servicemen and civilians taken prisoners when Hong Kong fell Dec. 24, 1942, were invited at a meeting to form a "Hong Kong Fellowship" through which it is hoped to provide more regular news from Japanese prison camps

The plan has the support of the admiralty, war office, colonial office and Red Cross.

Little has been learned of the fate or condition of Hong Kong prisoners and many are still officially listed as missing. Mrs. Beryl Tetbury, wife of Brig. O. H. Tetbury, who planned the fellowship said she is hopeful that periodic circulation of available news would soften protracted anxieties.

It is not proposed to furnish news of individual prisoners in the printed news letters which will be distributed, but all available official general information will be given

Membership of the fellowship is expected to be about 3,000 a

Jap Labor May Be Engaged At Lumber Camps

Ottawa — The munitions department announced that an order-in-council has been passed permitting the employment of Japanese and Chinese labor for the duration of the war in the lumber and logging industry on provincial crown lands of British Columbia.

The departmental announcement said the order was passed to assist in effecting the serious shortage of labor in that industry. The new program Japanese labor now is employed in logging operations on freehold lands in non-restricted areas of British Columbia and also is employed there and elsewhere in other essential industries.

The order-in council, it was explained, merely extends to the Japanese the right to engage in such employment on provincial crown lands in the latest campaign, which has frequently involved skirmishes in deep snow across rugged country at an altitude of 4,000 feet.

The Axis-influenced despatch said Partisans had fired supply depots, but did not mention Axis casualties. However, losses of Italian troops given as crown limits in the southern interior of British Columbia an area which annually provides some two billion feet of lumber per year.

The departmental announcement said that without the employment of additional labor there would have been a shortage of boxes for the 1943 Okanagan valley fruit crop

Total cost of the removal of Japanese from the restricted areas of British Columbia up to last Dec. 31 was $4,633,351 said a return tabled in the commons for W. K. Ealing (Prog Con. Kootenay West).

Expenditures reported by the labor department in charge of the movement totalled $3 134 695

Poland Insists On Maintaining Former Frontier

London.—When the war is over—according to a Polish government spokesman — the pre-war frontier must be established between Poland and Russia Russia as an adherent of the Atlantic charter, is committed to accepting these boundaries. And, adds the spokesman, for the sake of Allied unity, Great Britain and America must ask Poland to clarify the demands and implications of the charter

The Polish government says it repudiates most definitely what it calls the malicious propaganda which accuse Poland of unfriendliness toward Soviet Russia.

A statement issued recently says: "It is impossible absurd to suspect Poland of intention to base the east boundaries of the Polish republic on the lines Dnieper and the Black sea, or to impute to Poland any tendencies to move her frontier farther to the east."

The government also denied formally that Poland ever agreed to say co-operation with the Germans war in the lumber and logging industry on provincial crown lands of British Columbia.

A.W.O.L. NOT MILITARY TERM

There is no such phrase as being A.W.O.L. in the Canadian Army, it was pointed out by officials at military headquarters in Calgary today, after seeing that term prominently displayed in several places throughout the province.

A soldier may be "Absent without Leave", he may be on "Absence Without Leave", or he may be charged with "Absence Without Leave", but in each case the "Without" is one word, and so the abbreviation for any one of those three terms so far as the army is concerned is "A.W.L."

The may soon like a small matter to the ordinary civilian, but when a soldier either old or new, sees the abbreviation "A.W.O.L." it strikes him as being very odd indeed.

Dairy Produce Value $31,778,000

Alberta dairy farmers came across with production in great style during 1942, with a record of 1,790,858,666 lbs. of milk for the year. The total value of all dairy products was $31,778,000, an increase of $1,000 over the previous year. This, during a period of acute labor shortage, is considered a notable contribution to the nation's war-time economy. During the year 91 creameries each increased butter output by an average of 18,000 lbs., the total being very close to 40,000,000 lbs. Cheese manufactured reached 2,304,565 lbs., with two new cheddar either old or new, were the factories, bringing the total to 20.

Motor Licenses Available March

Alberta truck licenses will be issued as early as possible in March, it was stated this week by officials of the Highways Board. Licenses will be available drivers and operators to have their licenses on display April 1, the beginning of the next license year. Passenger car licenses will also be available early in March, according to officials of the Prov Secretary's department. The 1943 plates will be orange, with black numerals. Only rear plates will be issued to trucks. There was an increase in the number of farm truck licenses issued last year, the total of 20,000 being 2,000 more than in the previous year. The number of commercial trucks decreased during the year.

CUMMINGS FLASHES

A hot social and dance was held at Willbrook school last week and a large crowd attended as the weather was very nice. The boxes brought quite a large sum, slightly over $25 in all, which will be used for war purposes. Bus Harle and Henry Eyben supplied the music and a really good time was enjoyed

A social and dance was held at the Paradise Valley school last Friday as a farewell to the teacher Miss Ford. She has been teaching here for several months and now returns to the Normal school to complete her teacher's course, another teacher taking over here. The affair was an enjoyable one and well attended.

Brent Macnab is our new representative on the hospital board, succeeding the election by a vote of 99 to 42 from Mr. W.F. Cooper. Mr. Pheasey was re-elected to the municipal council defeating Mr. Castle Scott.

The sympathy of the community is extended to Mr. William Bradshaw and Miss Emma Fitzgerald on the loss of a dear wife and sister, and also to the adopted children Margaret and Francis. Mrs. Bradshaw was of a very retiring nature but was always ready to help in time of trouble. While she taught school in the district many years now the children thought a great deal of her. These children are all scattered now but she always remembered them and had their interest in her heart.

Mrs Wilson received a letter from her brother in the States, he has three sons in the U.S. forces one being in New Guinea, and the latter writes that it took five months to drive the Japs out of there and at the rate they went the war won't last as long as we think. The youngest son, a pilot, survived the bombing of Pearl Harbor, then went to the Philippines where he has been missing since last May. The third son, a lieutenant, has left his base for somewhere in the east. All are fighting for victory with hopes that it will soon be all over.

Bob Wilson and friend Herb drew spent a short visit at the Fred Wilson home over the week end, and took the rest of his furniture to the city by trailer. Fred Wilson went back with them for a few days visit, also reports lots of work in Edmonton and not enough men to do it He now has an aircraft repair shop

Little Freddy Brent feels quite proud these days as he has been saving all the pennies he got which now bored $20, those with a few nickels, purchased a war savings certificate.

KEEP FARM POULTRY AWAY FROM PIG PENS

In spite of the fact that great strides have been made in eradicating bovine tuberculosis, which was formerly believed to be the main source of tuberculous infection in pigs, tuberculosis in hogs is increasing, states Dr A. E. Cameron, Veterinary Director General of Canada. A large percentage of tuberculosis is due to of the avian type and is transmitted to swine by poultry Consequently, farmers raising swine should take measures to prevent poultry having access to the pens If poultry are kept away from swine healthy pigs are prevented from contracting avian tuberculosis

Canada's Wheat Plan for 1943

The Canadian Wheat Board will accept deliveries of wheat from farmers between Aug. 1, 1942 and July 31, 1944, of 780 million bushels. The quota will be 14 bushels to the acre. The price will remain the same as at present, namely 90c a bushel, basis One Northern at the terminals. Wheat will be accepted whether it was grown in 1942 or in previous years. No farm storage will be paid.

The above paragraph briefly summarized the federal government wheat plan for the ensuing crop year as announced in the House of Commons on Jan. 29 by Hon. J. A. Mac Kinnon, minister of trade and commerce. The minister said the policy of paying 82 an acre for reduced wheat acreage below the 1940 basic figures will be continued. The government is asking for a 13 per cent increase in acreage seeded to oats and 21 per cent increase in acreage seeded to barley. It wants the flax acreage to remain the same as last year, and rye acreage to be cut 31 per cent.

Prairie wheat acreage in 1942 totalled 20,653,000, but this year the government wants to get the acreage down to 17,653,000. In 1940 the figure was 27,750,000, so that if the objective is attained this year, the acreage cut in three years will be over 10 millions.

The regulations prevailing in the current crop year (1942-43) restrict deliveries to wheat grown in 1942. This is deleted from the plan for 1943-44. A farmer may grow no wheat at all this year and still hold his right to a 15 bushel to the acre-insured acre delivery quota. The authorized acreage for 1943 will be the same as last year.

It was with deep regret that the children said "pass" to 2,000,000 such parcels. They were packed with 22,000,000 pounds of food and comforts welcomed by men to whom the barest necessities have become luxuries.

But, most of all, to each prisoner every Red Cross parcel is a message from home — a definite assurance that he is not forgotten, a reminder that no captured Canadian soldier is ever marked "left to struggle" by the Red Cross.

Thirty percent of the money you gave to the Red Cross last year was used to provide parcels for prisoners of war. The money you give now will help to keep up and increase this flow of food cheer and hope to these lonely men.

HEAVY PENALTIES FOR CONCEALING DESERTERS

Warning of the heavy penalties to which citizens are liable for concealing or assisting persons known to be deserters from the armed forces has been issued by headquarters of MD No. 13 at Calgary.

Officials stated that it has been brought to the attention of authorities that friends and acquaintances as well as relatives have been assisting men who have deserted from the services. Number of deserters from the army in this district is said to be small.

Section 82b of the Criminal Code sets out that anyone who "conceals or receives or assists any deserter from His Majesty's military or naval service knowing him, to be such deserter, is liable, on conviction, under indictment to fine and imprisonment in the discretion of the court and on summary conviction to a penalty not exceeding two hundred dollars and not less than eighty dollars and costs and in default of payment to imprisonment for any term not exceeding six months."

GAS RATIONING ORDER REVISED

New gas ration regulations have been announced by the dominion government to take effect on April 1, next. So also are of special interest to some 58,000 car owners in Alberta.

The effect of the changes is that there is a basic "AA" category, which will entitle the motorist to 90 coupons. These will be issued to all those in the non-essential category. On the present basis of three gallons per unit, this means that Alberta motorists will receive 150 gallons of gasoline per year. Estimating an average of 20 miles per gallon, this will mean a minimum mileage for non-essential cars of 3,000 a year, though some estimate the mileage at around 2,100.

Persons desiring a higher category must make special application to the regional oil controller at Edmonton.

Officials of the Alberta Motor Association are giving special attention to the effect of the new rationing order. As in past years, Mcmasco will be available at A.M.A. branches.

All owners of non-commercial vehicles must obtain from any office an application for an "AA" ration book. This form when completed is to be submitted with a license fee of $1 and the 1943 vehicle license to the nearest issuer of provincial license plates. An "AA" ration book then will be issued.

"I am a prisoner-of-war. I am not wounded. Health and morale excellent. They have put us in an organized camp. Thanks to Red Cross parcels two or three times per week. we eat enough to live. We do our own cooking. Keep smiling."

BARBED WIRE and enemy guards "do not a prison make" for Canadian soldiers captured by the enemy. Their thoughts, winging across the sea, meet Red Cross parcels on their way to them. Last year, the enemy said "pass" to 2,000,000 such parcels. They were packed with 22,000,000 pounds of food and comforts welcomed by men to whom the barest necessities have become luxuries.

But, most of all, to each prisoner every Red Cross parcel is a message from home — a definite assurance that he is not forgotten, a reminder that no captured Canadian soldier is ever marked "left to struggle" by the Red Cross.

THE VALUE OF OBTAINING FOOD CLEAN SEED

The value of obtaining good seed cannot be overstressed, according to J. W. Wilson, Field Crops Commissioner. Farmers at this time of the year are interested in obtaining seed of both grains and forage crops for planting next spring. If the farmer will purchase registered or certified seed, which is delivered in sealed sacks, he is protected as to quality of the seed.

When seed is delivered loose, however, there is danger that excessive weed seeds might be present, and it was stressed that more than casual observation is necessary to determine the number of weed seeds present, especially in a sample of legume seeds For example, in one sample of alfalfa seed which a farmer had received and planned to sow, he found, on actual count showed the presence of 240 weed seeds per ounce. Needed at the rate of 15 pounds to the acre, he would have seeded 26,000 weed seeds to the acre Therefore, the suggestion from the Field Crops Commissioner is both timely and Look up, Mr. Farmer!

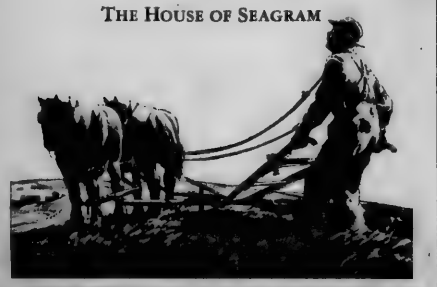
LOOK UP, Mr. Farmer. There they go, on their way—to blast a hole in the ocean where a submarine lurks or maybe to fix a Messerschmidt so it can't get home. Whatever their mission, you've a big hand in it. From the grain you planted and then prayed and perspired over came that all-important agent of war—high-proof alcohol. And from that alcohol came the rubber for the tires, the explosives in the bomb racks, the plastic for the shatterproof windshields. You couldn't point to a square foot of those planes that isn't somehow dependent on high-proof alcohol.

When you bend to your plough again, Mr. Farmer, and the harrow starts rolling over, you're helping to bury as vicious an enemy as mankind ever had. For your fields are the starting point for tons of smokeless powder and rubber and other vital supplies which are going to our army, navy and air force all over the world. And you are a prime source of pharmaceuticals which help guard the health of our fighting men and speed their recovery from battle wounds.

It takes an almost countless number of things to win a war, and a great many of them, Mr. Farmer, begin with your grain. You grow it and we'll make it into high-proof alcohol. Together, we'll finish the job Hitler and Co. will wish they hadn't started!

Alcohol for war is used in the manufacture of High Explosives, Synthetic Rubber, Drugs and Medicines, Photographic Film, Lacquers and Varnishes, Dynamo Inks, Compasses and other Navigation Instruments, Plastics, Shatterproof Glass and many other products. All the Seagram Plants in Canada and the United States are engaged one hundred per cent in the production of high-proof alcohol for war.

THE HOUSE OF SEAGRAM



BOYS OF 17 EAGER TO ENLIST MUST HAVE PARENTS CONSENT

The recent announcement that boys who have attained the age of seventeen years may be enlisted in active units or formations of the Canadian army for the purpose of undergoing training, brought a flood of applications by personal calls and correspondence to the District Recruiting Office at Calmar, and the sub-recruiting office in the office of Edmonton and Lethbridge, it was announced at headquarters of Military District No. 13 today.

It is provided that boys who apply for enlistment and are accepted, will not be sent beyond Canada to a zone of military operations before having reached the full age established for this purpose for soldiers of the Canadian army, which is nineteen.

It is particularly stressed that before boys of seventeen years make application for enlistment, they MUST come to the recruiting office with their BIRTH CERTIFICATES as well as a LETTER GIVING CONSENT TO ENLISTMENT, signed by parents, or the guardian.

In pointing out the details of this, the District Recruiting Officer said that lads or seventeen simply cannot be enlisted without some tangible proof that they are of age, and have the consent of their parents or their guardian. If they apply for enlistment without this information, they will simply take up the time of the enlistment officer, who has to send them away until such time as they produce the evidence required.

Authority has now been received to start enlisting boys of seventeen in accordance with the Order in Council passed on Dec. 9, 1942. Recruiting for this machinery was put in operation in this district, and more than forty applicants were on hand in Calgary, for which medical boards were being held.

With regard to pay, boys who are accepted in the Canadian army will be entitled to the regular rates of pay (70c a day), until attaining the age of 17½ years, after which they will be entitled to the regular standard rates of pay as soldiers, starting at $1.30 per day. It is further provided that those accepted will be permitted to live at home with parents or guardians in the usual way.

MOBILIZATION OF SINGLE MEN

A DECREE Proclamation, issued by His Excellency the Governor General in Council, provides that certain single men must register immediately for the Military Call-up under National Selective Service Mobilization Regulations.

Single Men who must now register are those who were born in any year from 1904 to 1943 inclusive, and who did not previously undergo medical examination under the Military Call-up.

Men actually in the Armed Services are exempt under this order, but men discharged from the Services, not previously medically examined under the Military Call-up, must now register.

"Single Men," referred to now, required to register include any man—

It is pointed out that this step was necessary as July 15th, 1940, was if married since that date, is still classed as a single man.

Registration is to be made on forms available with Postmasters, National Selective Service Officers, or Registrars of Mobilization Boards.

Penalties are provided for failure to register

Alberta To Build New Sanitorium

Alberta will build a new $500,000 tuberculosis sanitorium on the University grounds in Edmonton, and provided the necessary priorities can be obtained, construction work will commence immediately the frost leaves the ground. In announcing this new project, Premier Aberhart said that Alberta, in common with all other provinces and countries was experiencing a war-time rise in the death rate from this disease. The number of those stricken has been increased by men returned from the armed services, and today all beds are occupied, the waiting lists lengthening, and a serious situation is present. While returned men suffering from the disease are a direct charge of the dominion, the province, under arrangement, is required to administer treatment and care. The new sanitorium will be the most modern of its kind in Canada, possibly in North America, and will hold 200 beds. Officials have already surveyed sanitoria in other parts of the country with a view to planning a treatment centre in keeping with modern methods.

BOWTELL BULLETIN

A party was held at the school in honor of Harry Perkins and Eddie Risdale, both in the armed forces. Eight tables of whist were played with prizes going to Robert Repp and Jack Morrison playing as ladies and Mrs. Moses the consolation. Gents' winners were Bill Walker who won on a draw with Fred Scott, Aubrey McGinnis 2nd, consolation Cecil Gannon. Mr. McClellan presented the prizes. After lunch dancing was enjoyed to music by Miss Dupuitt, Fred and Aubrey. The highlight of the evening was reached when a circle was formed around Eddie and Harry, and Tom Sherwood presented them, on behalf of the people of the community, with a fine pen each. The two men thanked the gathering in a fitting manner. The party broke up with the singing of "They are jolly good fellows".

The best of luck is wished the above boys in their new locations and duties. Quite a crowd gathered at the station Monday morning to see them off as they both left on the same train, and to wish them bon voyage.

At time of writing we are sorry to hear that Mr. Gow is ill in bed and that Mr. Dinn underwent an operation in the hospital. There has been a lot of sickness in the district this winter.

Miss R. Smith and the Knutson family were recent visitors at Miss Walters of Morrison.

In the Dawson Creek tragedy Mrs. N. Coutts of Derredalle and a sister of Mrs. Risdale's, had her leg broken. She was waiting to keep an appointment with the dentist when the explosion occurred.

Leslie Sherwood spent Sunday night at the Walker home and Isabell visited the same night with the Risdale girls.

Quite a number of cars were held up on Saturday when a house was being moved down the Barrsdale road. Some stated for their early home in the Deford yard before they could continue home. Saturday afternoon the house was in good time for the road to be blocked.

The teacher and children of the Bowtell school are sponsoring a card party on March 12 in aid of the Red Cross. Advance tickets are now being sold. A war savings certificate will be a prize in a table of play. Delicious articles are to be sold. Pop corn will also be a feature of the evening's entertainment. Everyone is asked to make a special note of this and to help to make it a very successful affair.

The latter was a dinner guest Wednesday at the Deford home.

We have on the sick list this week Robert and Jim Repp with what appears to be the flu; Mrs. O. McGinnis in the hospital; Mrs. Morrison's sister also a patient there; while Harold Knutson cut his finger requiring medical attention.

Mr. Dardis had the misfortune to lose some pigs with what appears to be pneumonia.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Brady were visitors Thursday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Repp.

Mr. and Mrs F. Playne were Sunday visitors at the Knutson home.

"The Red Cross are" still faithful friends and deserve all the support they can get."

Hoisted Out

- but John Freeman beats disaster

"I'VE BEEN hailed out. But I've got an idea." John Freeman sat across the desk from his bank manager in a small prairie town. John's eyes twinkled but his mouth was grim. "Idea's about all I have got" he added.

The banker knew John, a hard-working, honest, shrewd prairie farmer, a fighter. "Let's have your idea," he said.

"It'll take funds, plenty of funds, and I haven't any, not now!" said John. "But listen." The banker listened.

"I know cattle," said John, when he had finished. "It'll work—if you'll stake me."

The banker staked him. With a considerable loan from the bank, John bought feeder cattle and fattened them on his beaten-down fields. He also bought the ruined crops of several adjoining farms and turned his stock to graze there. And John won his round with misfortune.

Because of the bank's confidence in John Freeman's integrity and judgment, loss was turned to gain. And not only for him. The neighbours got ready cash for crops which otherwise would have been a total loss.

Though this farmer's name was not "John Freeman," the facts in this story are true. It is typical of the thousand ways in which Canada's Chartered Banks aid credit-worthy people in all walks of life to profit from their individual enterprise and industry.

By banking during morning hours you can help the war effort, facilitate your own business, and lighten the wartime burden on the men and women in your branch bank. More than one-third of our experienced men have gone to war.

RETURN FROM CASABLANCA PRAISES RED CROSS

A young Canadian warrant officer in the R.C.A.F. has just come home from Casablanca. Outwardly, there is little to set him apart from the thousands of other clear-eyed, sinewy young Canadians wearing air Force blue on the streets today, but there the similarity ceases. This lad is suffering from malnutrition.

His impressions of Casablanca were gained long before that historic conference which made the name a byword the world over, but that town will always stand out in his memory for two other reasons. It was at Casablanca that he was shot down by anti-aircraft fire and it was there that he got his first real meal after five months in a German prison camp, 200 miles deep into French Africa.

Soon after the landing of American and British forces, this young Canadian flyer was released, along with other Canadian and British servicemen, and made his way back to Canada via Gibraltar, England and New York. One of the first things this lad did on his return was to visit the Toronto packing centre of the Canadian Red Cross so that he could personally express his thanks for the prisoner of war food parcels which, he claims, saved the lives of the 900 prisoners at that particular camp.

To use his own words: "Our daily diet of lentil soup and black bread wasn't very nourishing. Without the Canadian Red Cross food parcels, we would certainly have starved to death."

Providing food parcels for prisoners of war has become the greatest and most appreciated function of the Red Cross today, and at the same time, the most expensive. Already over 2,800,000 of these parcels have been shipped from Canada and it will be necessary for every Canadian to give generously to the Red Cross Campaign if the present production of 100,000 each week is to be maintained.

But your picture on the wall.

Just when your life was brightest

Just when your hopes were best

God called you from sadness or,

Many of the fine things of life come from our relationships with men contact and fellowship with fellowship to found in school clubs, organized work and play and in the church with its varied opportunities In the church that contact with our fellows takes on a new meaning as we commit ourselves to the opportunities to profit by that contact.

In these days of world strife this factor is doing more than all others to strengthen and draw to solidify together — the church. The family which lives and teaches the love of God and the faith that ultimately right will prevail. Fellowship centred with this powerful agency—the school and church school this Sunday and every Sunday

Good Partner Policy

Will Have To Be Followed If Peace Is Permanent

Recently Walter Lippmann addressed the Canadian Club in Montreal on the subject: "The Good Partner Policy." He said: "The future depends on whether we have really understood that we cannot win the victory and make the peace and found an order which will endure without the combination of peoples which have been proved indispensable in the war . . . The maintenance of the alliance of the United Nations by the practice of the Good Partner Policy is, I believe, our first duty and the foundation of all the hopes of mankind of victory over our enemies and of an ordered world in which man can be free. If we fail to remain the United Nations we shall fail in all else that we may hope to do."

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

BIBLE TEACHINGS AGAINST DRUNKENNESS

Golden text: Strong drink shall be bitter to them that drink it. Isaiah 24 9

Lesson: I Samuel 30 16 17. Isaiah 28 1 7. Galatians 5 19-21

Devotional reading: Psalm 5 1-7

Explanations and Comments

Drunkenness in David's Day. I Samuel 30 16, 17. The Amalekites had made a sudden raid upon Judah, had burned Ziklag and taken captive all the Israelite wives and sons and daughters there, together with much spoil. With six hundred men David pursued the retreating troops, and found them spread abroad over all the ground, celebrating their victory by feasting, drinking and dancing. David utterly defeated them, that night, only four hundred young camels were escaping.

Drunkenness in Isaiah's Day. Isaiah 28 1-7. The time is the early years of Hezekiah's reign in Judah. The prophet Isaiah is speaking to the leaders of Judah in their capital city of Jerusalem, and directing them to turn their thoughts to the drunkards of Ephraim, the leading tribe of the Northern Kingdom, whose name often stands for the whole kingdom in the first six verses he denounces "the drunkards of Ephraim," and another upon the speedy fall of their beautiful city of Samaria.

Drunkenness in Paul's Day. Galatians 5 19-21. Paul's Epistle to the Galatians was written to the churches he founded in Galatia, the great Roman province which extended from north to south across the central plateau of Asia Minor.

Now the works of the flesh are manifest—plainly seen—Paul writes, and proceeds to give a repelling list of fifteen vices which were common among the Galatians. The horrid enumeration follows a natural order. The list begins with sins against self, then come what were more deadly sins against God; finally there are "sins against society" (A. W. Robinson). "The words fall into four groups, the first group includes three sins in which sensuality in the narrower sense is prominent, the second includes two that are associated with heathen religions, the third group contains eight in which the recklessness of drunkenness and its natural accompaniments

Takes Up War Work

Brantford Man, Disabled By Polio, Is Expert Mechanic

Crippled since he was four years old, Arthur Gamble, 34, is now a first class auto mechanic at Brantford, Ont. War has given him the opportunity to take his place as a repair man with a big transport company

Gamble says: "It's doing my bit, the best way I know. Our trucks carry plenty of war goods. I'm lending a hand to keep 'em rolling."

Not to walk since he fell downstairs as a child, he's a cheerful, energetic and powerful young man who handles any job, big or little, like an expert. His employers laud his good work.

Gamble states he can, "any day," do a job as fast and as well as any mechanic.

He leaves his crutches on the running board as he scampers over the hood of a truck, using his powerful arms. On the ground, he works on his knees. "They're as tough as the soles of my feet," he said.

Highway jobs in the middle of the night do not phase him. Bad weather means nothing to him. With the temperature below zero, he recently put a new axel in a transport stalled on No. 2 highway.

GARDEN NOTES

Gardening Is Essential

Food is just as important as bullets in this war, and for that reason gardening may almost be classed as an essential this year. Seeds are not going to be plentiful because formerly Canada depended to a large extent on Europe for supplies and these, of course, are cut off. Principal sources now are from those limited sections of Canada where garden seeds are grown and from the United States, in both areas the weather was very unfavorable last season due to the fact that there was too much rain at harvest time.

Canadian seedsmen, however, have been able to secure supplies sufficient for normal needs if these are used carefully. There will not be the wide range of varieties usually obtainable, but in standard lines it is expected that there will be enough to go around. Gardeners, however, are advised to order seeds early and to avoid any waste.

In vegetables especially, beginners are urged to follow planting directions carefully and to sow as thinly as possible. It is also important that the garden soil be well prepared, and at least a portion of it manured and planted early. To get maximum results one should spread plantings over several weeks. This will assure more protection against early frost and will also give a large total yield of vegetables.

These gardeners with very small areas of land at their disposal are advised to concentrate on those vegetables like beans, carrots, beets, spinach, etc., which give the largest possible yields for the space occupied. Things like corn, potatoes, squash, etc., take up far more room, and where space is limited it is advisable to purchase these from regular sources and grow the smaller things in the home garden only.

The Lawn

Lawn grass seed may go in early as most growth is made when the weather is still cool and wet.

After digging, the ground should be allowed to settle for a few days at least, and then levelled again. It is advisable to repeat this process several times. The top soil should then be raked fine and on a day without wind the grass sown at a liberal rate, once across and once lengthwise. This double sowing insures an even distribution. For permanent lawns of deep green colour and fine texture, high quality seed from a reputable Canadian seed house is vital.

MORE THAN NUISANCE RAIDS

The night of March 4 Stettin at Kiel, Germany, have been so heavily damaged by R.A.F. bombings that the German authorities have decided to turn the Skoda arms works at Pilsen in Czechoslovakia, to the manufacture of submarine parts.

Rumanian Doing His Bit

War Worker Has Ten Sons In Canadian Armed Forces

Most Adolph Mikulek, Canadian. The 60-year-old Rumanian-born war worker at Sarnia, Ont., has 10 sons in Canada's armed forces and it takes a whole week's wages for boots for the lads overseas.

And that isn't all. Beaming proudly, Mr. Mikulek disclosed that "if the war goes on much longer there'll be 11 in there doing their bit." His youngest son is past 17.

Five of his sons enlisted at the same time in the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps and have been overseas three years in the war. All are serving. Two more are in the R.C.A.F., two in the navy and one in the artillery.

Besides all that, Mr. Mikulek is making monthly payments on $450 worth of Victory bonds.

A Clever Dog

Squadron Building Was An Expert At Hide-And-Seek

London.—"Bully", the bulldog mascot of a Canadian torpedo-bomber squadron, was discharged for straying too often and winding up in police stations.

Bully moved from station to station with his squadron, but soon after it arrived at its present base, he developed an acute case of wanderlust.

"Bully was a confirmed traveller," the squadron adjutant said. "He was lazy but intelligent, and he knew that if he stood in the middle of the perimeter, a transport truck would stop. Then he would climb aboard and jump out when it reached his destination. He never walked when he could ride."

Nobody minded that, but truck schedules became too uncertain for Bully. He took to waiting for buses, hitching rides and going to a nearby village. There he hitched another bus ride, and finished the night in the police station of another town, waiting for the squadron to bail him out.

Bully was rescued from the law once too often, and the following notes in the squadron's log book:

"The squadron bulldog, which has accompanied this unit on all its aerial movements throughout England and Scotland, has been posted to civvy street due to his recent misbehavior in breaking out of camp."

Using Magic Eye

Device Helps Royal Navy And R.A.F. To Spot Submarines

The war against the U-boat is being intensified with new devices used by the R.A.F. and the Royal Navy, which spot submarines on the surface no matter how thick the fog or how dark the night, it has been made known.

The air force uses a radio "magic eye" for its tracing of underseacraft. The navy employs radio location.

An authoritative source said the R.A.F. also has been using a new type of delayed-action bomb which explodes if any attempt is made to move it before the time set for its explosion.

Whole factory areas must be cleared of workers where these bombs are dropped since they can not be removed before they explode, it was said.

SANDS OF HAZARD

By J. B. RYAN

JACK STORET'S aim was so perfect that even he himself was surprised. His legs, bound at the ankles, parted just enough at the knees as they descended to permit the dark-skinned Arab's head to pass between them; then with a lightning application of scissors pressure he had the field to a powerful draught.

Storey squirmed, curling his own body until his head and shoulders were less than a foot from the guard's feet. He released the choking pressure of his knees sufficiently to enable his prisoner to hear. "Listen, the Zeid," he hissed. "If you make a sound, I'll snap your neck like a dry twig. Do you understand me?"

The imprisoned head moved painfully in assent. Storey drew up his knees, pulling the Zeid closer to him. "Reach for the Sa'ar," he commanded in a whisper, "and untie those ropes at your ankles."

The long arms of the Kahir just managed to touch the bonds binding Storey. The bleach fingers fumbled awkwardly with the knots until they were loosened.

Storey stretched his cramped arms. The Zeid's head, which had spilled from the Arab's lap in the struggle on the ground became [illegible] men. The American picked up the weapon and flashed the muzzle in the other's forehead. "Remember," he warned, "you die if you arouse the camp."

Again the Zeid bobbed his head abjectly. Storey said, "Then I loosen your neck, turn around carefully and take the rope off my ankles also."

The mouth of the pistol brushed against the skin of the Zeid's neck. The Berber obeyed the order. When the Zeid had turned the gun was pressed against the back of his head, made his submission complete. Storey's ankles were free a few seconds later.

Completely at liberty now, Storey used the fallen ropes to secure the Zeid, and stuffed a rag into the guard's mouth. Then he hurried to Annette, who, with Mohammed had witnessed the entire dramatic elimination of the blood-thirsty Tbu Zeid.

Storey unbound the girl and helped her to her feet. The two then moved to Mohammed. They crouched beside the side of the shepherd when out of the stillness of the night came a querulous voice: "Zeid! You black devil, why didn't you wakken me? You have let me sleep until almost morning."

Ismeddin the Lawless was sitting up in his blanket, a silhouette against the background of the dark blue sky; his face turned toward the boulder where Ibu Zeid was supposedly on watch.

STORET caught Mohammed by a shoulder, rolled the man between cover and spoke: "Quick, Annette" he whispered. "Get those ropes off his feet!" And his own hands tore at the cords on Mohammed's neckpiece.

"Zeid! Answer me!" Sheik Ismeddin was rising, and his followers, aroused by the shouting, were starting in turn. "Zeid, where are you?"

Mohammed, freed, hunched himself on his hands and knees, and looked at Storey.

The American moistened his lips. "We'll have to make a run for the camels. They'll see us, but we'll have a minute's start that may be long enough to rid the hobbles and ride away."

Like sprinters leaving a starting line, the three arose and flew across the open ground toward the long, dark shadows of the resting dromedaries.

A shout announced that they had been discovered. A pistol cracked and a bullet kicked up a geyser of sand in front of Jack Storey. Figures leaped up among the Kahir and raced toward the camels in an effort to head off the fugitives.

Mohammed the Mulai was in the behind the flying Annette, turned to empty the pistol indiscriminately at the robed Berbers that seemed to be everywhere.

Then he tossed the empty gun aside and was speeding in the wake of the shepherd when it suddenly dawned on him that Annette was neither ahead of him nor beside him. He paused again and glanced back.

Several yards behind, a crumpled dark-blue heap lay on the sand, striving painfully to lift itself from the ground.

Hurriedly, Storey retraced his steps and helped the girl to her feet. "Annette! What happened? Did they shoot you?"

"No!" she gasped, leaning heavily on his arm. "I turned my ankle on a loose stone—"

Heavily, she made an effort to run on her foot, but as her foot touched the ground, she collapsed with a sudden moan and would have fallen once more had not Storey caught her in his arms.

"No, Jacques!" she protested, struggling as he lifted her from the ground. "Put me down! Save yourself! You will be captured if you try to carry me—"

But already he was in motion, running as fast as the handicap of her weight would permit. Escape was now a very much shredded forlorn hope. Mohammed ibn Mulai had reached the camels but so, too, had the pursuers, and the shepherd and the Berbers were a tangle of curses and battle. And pounding over the sand, from behind and from the side, were coming the Kahir who had been halted momentarily by the bullets of the American.

Storey was half-way to the struggling Mohammed when the first Berber dashed ahead to intercept him. As the fellow landed in his path, Storey dodged a swinging knife and made an effort to dart past the man, but it was then that the Arabs behind him landed like an avalanche on his back, bearing with such force that Storey was pitched headforemost into the sand and Annette was mastered from his grasp.

He was buried under a smother of bodies and half-stunned by some indirect smashing against the side of his head. Hands were bound behind him to his feet and as his senses cleared, the sinister face of Ismeddin the Lawless, with its cold smile, appeared in his vision.

"THOU are quite a fighting man, O Infidel!" acknowledge the Sheik. "Thou hast proper heart now is grand like Ibn Zeid seem to be able to talk Jbee! By Allah, I almost wish if were my friend instead of my enemy—"

Mohammed ibn Mulai, also overpowered by sheer numbers, was hauled into the circle about Jack Storey. The torn garments of the shepherd and a cut over one eye testified to the resistance he had made against overpowering odds.

"It is almost dawn," said Sheik Ismeddin. "The sun will be up before any of us can go back to sleep. We shall break camp now. That will give us a long, hot day to put distance between us and the Franzawi soldiers of Capt. Jackson, who are out on the desert somewhere and may be hearing this spot. When we overtake Sidi Rib-It our numbers will be strengthened by those of our tribe who ride with the buyer of sheep. He turned to Storey. "Carry the wounded, Infidel."

Storey picked the French girl up once more. "You see, Monsieur Jacques?" said Annette as she was again carried because you tried to help me. If you had left me behind, you and Mohammed might have carried on the fight against Sheik Ismeddin. That is the first rule of Intelligence Service if one of us is cornered, he is to be abandoned if any attempted rescue imperils the thing for which we struggle."

The man was startled at her sentiveness; Annette Fournier seemed what she was saying. "What a cold-blooded business!" he remarked. "Would you have left me to die in the desert, mademoiselle, if our positions had been reversed?"

"I would," she said. "The cause—I do not believe you," he said, with a shake of his head. "Those things are all right in theory, but when the chips are down you would act like a human being and not like a machine. Do you know why I went back for you, Annette?

"Because you are a sentimental-like a captain who insists on going down with his sinking ship—"

"This is why," said Storey, and placed his lips on those of the girl in his arms.

The swift and unexpected caress silenced the girl. She stiffened in his embrace and when the man lifted his head she said, "You take advantage of my helplessness, Monsieur Storey. You would not do that if I were able to stand."

He grinned, filled with a sensation akin to intoxication by the touch of her soft lips. "I would have done that before, mademoiselle, had I not known that you were a jiu-jitsu expert. I had no desire to be manhandled as was that Spahi in the jail at Ain Sefra."

SHEIK Ismeddin himself stood watch over the prisoners while the Berbers saddled and loaded the dromedaries. When all was in readiness for the departure, Storey carried Annette to one of the waiting camels and placed her in the saddle.

"Monsieur Jacques." The girl's hand touched the shoulder of the American as he was turning away. I lied when I said I could not have ridden before for you.

Dawn found the caravan following the trail of Capt. Jackson's Sahel. But night descended again before Ibn Zeid," he said, "I'll be ready." Ismeddin the Lawless rode into the flickering circle of the brushwood fire. The Berbers were calling welcome to the newcomers rode into the fire, but the face that exhibited the greatest surprise was a dark-mustached one sitting cross-legged in the background of the flames. The Berber chief lifted his voice. "Peace, O Kahir! It is I, Ismeddin!"

Doing Wonderful Work

Girls Specially Trained Help Men In Anti-Aircraft Batteries

Most prized job in the Women's Auxiliary Territorial Service is the "gun girls" detachment. Three gals, W. L. Clark in the Windsor Star are the young women who work with the anti-aircraft batteries. Their girls have been proving their stuff during the recent Nazi visits to Great Britain.

In a mined battery the men fire the anti-aircraft guns, while the girls man the telephones, range-finders and predictors, accept and call the late instruments connected with spotting enemy planes.

The girls work in teams of 12 with each girl specially trained in one particular instrument. The team's work five-day tours of duty. They sleep at their posts so that there is no time getting to work if an alert sounds.

The young women have proven that they are excellent aides for the latter service. This is a branch of the service for which they are specially adapted. It gets them into active action against the enemy and they see results of their work when the men bring down an enemy plane.

In ancient Rome bakers were called pistores, or pounders. They were given this name because of the way they pounded grain with a pestle in a mortar.

Just Heap Of Ruins

Nothing Left In Stalingrad When Germans Finally Drives Out

Henry Shapiro, war correspondent, writes:

Stalingrad, once a vast industrial centre whose name will always be a symbol of the triumph of men over metal, is a heap of ruins and rubble.

There are no streets, no avenues, no parks in Stalingrad.

Millions of shellpocked bricks and mountains of metal fragments are all that remains of such buildings as the Dzerzhinsky tractor plant.

In the last 15 months I have seen ruins of cities such as Saratmorsk and hundreds of villages on other fronts. In these places there are at least individual bricks which still are intact.

That is not true of Stalingrad.

Adolf Hitler boasted that when the Russians recaptured towns and villages, they would find not towns and villages- but ruins and debris

That is one promise he kept.

The destruction at Stalingrad probable exceeds anything since Genghis Khan swept down from the Mongolian desert and laid waste the great and flourishing cities of central Asia

Ignace Paderewski, the flowing hair impressed the public almost as much as his playing did. Once a feminine admirer wrote to him and asked for a lock of hair A few days later she received the following reply from the secretary

"Mr. Paderewski directs me to say that if gives him great pleasure to comply with your request. Since you failed to specify whose hair you desire, I am sending samples of that of his valet, cook and waiter and of a mattress belonging to a pullman bed."

"That Men May Fly"

Members of the first contingent of Royal Canadian Air Force (Women's Division) to go on active service in Great Britain relieved many men at R.C.A.F. Headquarters Overseas for more active service. They are doing a variety of jobs which commence with the Information Offices where Aircwoman First Class Nora Botterill breezily answers all questions. She comes from Rocanville Sask., is typical of many more doing useful jobs overseas.

Number Has Increased

Montreal The number of women in war industries has trebled in 18 months said Mrs Rex Eaton associate director of national selective service speaking here. About 68 000 women were engaged in war industries, directly or indirectly, 13 months ago, she said in an address prepared for delivery to local council of women Six months later the numbers had increased to 129 000 and now it was estimated 225 000 women were in the great industrial army."

Thanks are extended to all those who took part and helped in any way to make the concert a success

Last Tuesday, Feb. 23 Presbytery of the United Church was held in Vermilion. The Islay church was represented by Rev. and Mrs Bell, Mr. David Martin, Mrs. C. C. Mitchell and Miss Muriel Stone. They report a very enjoyable session

Friday, Feb 26 Bridgeview school and community held a concert and auction sale in aid of the Russian Fund. $10 was realized. A good time was had. Two outstanding soloists of the evening were Miss Dorothy and Bill Bell chambers. We remember Albert's songs of the early days and always enjoyed hearing him. Bill is quite a lad and was good too. The children also did well and deserve credit. The auction disposed of chicken feed, seed potatoes, livestock, knitted woollen articles etc, all donated by the community. Oh Yes, and a nice big bed quilt given by Harry Fleming. Phew work Bridgeview, we have to see other places follow suit

Mr. Ivan Keough and family left Kitscoty on the Bonapel. Maybe they will have better luck than at Vermilion. Too many "awful good eaters" at Vermilion so it is said.

Last Friday we had a visit from the Dominion Film Board with pictures. A good show was exhibited. Owing to the resignation of Hardy Paul from the village council we await nominations for the vacancy. Hardy and Gordon Robinson are away trucking most of the time.

Some good sized piles of poles are lying in yards in the village awaiting a sawing machine.

Ladies of the church community do not forget we are planning an April tea and apron shower for the church to be held in McLennan some time early April. Be ready with an apron and come in and have a good visit before spring work keeps you busy.

REPORT 65 FATAL ALBERTA ACCIDENTS

Alberta had 65 fatal motor vehicle accident in 1942, or three less than the previous year, according to the official figures revealed by the Alberta Motor Association from provincial authorities.

Among the causes of these accidents were excessive speed, level crossings, intoxication, trying to pass cars on hills and curves, carelessness, disregard traffic signals with or running into street cars, motor cyclists, children running across street or roadway

Deaths in some accidents resulted after the car had skidded on wet, icy or slippery pave or in the gravel.

The fact that there were 65 fatalities in motor accidents in Alberta last year emphasizes the need of greater respect for safety measures and principles, according to officials of the motor association. In some of the accidents, the victims were pedestrians

The need of greater pedestrian education has been emphasized by the A.M.A.

C.W.A.C. OPENS RECRUITS

Between Ages of 18 and 45

In an effort to stimulate recruiting in the Canadian Women's Army Corps in Alberta, Major J. H. Calnan, District Recruiting Officer, has written to C.W.A.C. Civilian Recruiting Advisors in the province asking each to endeavour to acquire five girls for enlistment in the Canadian Army (Active) during March.

When application forms of the girls are received from the Civilian Recruiting Advisors by the C.W.A.C. Recruiting Officer, Lieut. Ruth Swain, arrangements will be made immediately to supply transportation to the nearest point where the girls can be medically boarded and, if found up to requirements, attested for active service.

To be eligible for enlistment, applicants must be between the ages of 18 to 45, British subjects, medically fit, with categories and lower than "B", and have completed Grade VIII or hold a certificate of equivalent educational standing. In addition they must be without dependents.

Recruits must undertake to serve in the Corps overseas for the duration of the present war and for a period of twelve months thereafter.

Rates of pay for privates are $6 cents a day for the first three months and $6 cents a day thereafter. Subsistence allowance of $1.25 a day is given. Uniforms and barrack equipment are issued free of barracks. Uniform is issued free and $15.00 is given on enlistment for purchase of underwear and shoes. Separation allowance with an additional allowance of $1 a month paid thereafter for personal purposes.

Members of the C.W.A.C. are employed to replace soldiers in many duties such as clerks, typists, stenographers, telephone operators, telephone operators, laboratory and X-ray technicians, dental nurses, drivers, cooks, driver mechanics, waitresses, canteen helpers, storemen, librarians and messengers.

All women desirous of joining the Canadian Women's Army Corps are requested to apply to the nearest army recruiting office, or to Civilian Recruiting Officers.

ALL CARS MUST SHOW WINDSHIELD STICKERS

When the new federal gasoline rationing regulations take effect on April 1, it will be necessary for every car and truck to bear a windshield sticker indicating its category according to information received by the Alberta Motor Association.

Special stickers will be provided for A.R.P. workers and drivers under the wartime industry transit plan.

Drivers who have both the basic "A-14" category and also have been granted a "Special" category must display both "A" and "Special" stickers on their windshields.

After April 1, service station operators are prohibited from selling gasoline without first comparing the ration book with the car license number and the sticker on the windshield.

The provincial secretary's department has announced that new 1943 license plates are now available. This will facilitate the obtaining of ration books prior to the opening of the new ration period on April 1.

KITSCOTY AIR LOCAL A.T.A. MEETS

Discuss Musical Festival and Track Meet

A meeting of the Islay-Kitscoty sublocal was held in the Junior room at Kitscoty on Feb. 20th.

The forthcoming election was discussed, followed up by an adoption of festival rules, with a few amendments from those of last year.

The main points to be noticed are that no director may be had in cher case, costuming is to be given a minimum of marks, but transposing is allowed. The rural and urban centres are separated for adjudication in plays because of an advantage which urban schools have of greater numbers, and so a wider range of choice.

The subject track meet was decided to be sponsored, but not the local track meet on account of present conditions and long distances to be travelled by outlying districts.

The date of the festival is May 14, so a deed line for entries is May 7th.

Be sure to attend the next meeting at Kitscoty — in the intermediate room at 2.30 on Saturday, April 10th.

"Believe It or Not"

A former resident of Innisfree and Vermilion, Mrs. Audrey Hayward, now of Regina, sends an interesting clipping to Gerald Stephens. It appears that Mrs. Hayward's son was in 38th Canada's armed forces overseas stationed in a small English village, entered the canteen there and noticed on the counter, a piece of gummed tape used for wrapping up parcels, with the advertisement on it of Stephens' Limited, Vermilion Alberta. Having often been in the store here, he was struck by the oddity and sent it home to his mother, who in turn forwarded it to Mr. Stephens. The tape was probably used in wrapping some of the Xmas parcels sent from Vermilion overseas.

BOMBERS AND VERMEVILLE PLAY TO A 3-3 DEADLOCK

Wizardly goal tending by Buster Martin was chiefly responsible for the 2 all tie the local Bombers achieved against the Vermeville Pilots during the night last. The astic Vermilion goal custodian, who is also coaching the team, turned in a marvelous performance and the handful of fans who saw the game are still wondering at the stops he made.

The Vermeville team turns on an aggressive power-play system from the start and for long periods had the game bottled up around the Vermilion goal, while not particularly flashy hockey to watch it cannot be denied that it certainly was exciting as the goalie seemed to be having hair-breadth escapes all the time, however, every so often the local boys would get a breakaway and made good on their scoring chances.

Each team scored a goal a period, with Jim Irwin, Ray Spencer and Keith Douglas being the local goalgetters. Stan Waldenberger and G. Hughes of Vermeville refereed.

Shortly, while Klein and Hamish were the big noises for the visitors.

Brent Macnab lined up on defence with the local boys while Stan Mansell moved up to the front line.

On Friday evening the Bombers had visited Vermeville where they had scorbed a 5-1 drubbing, so their comeback to hold the Westerners to a 2 all score here was a notable accomplishment

MRS. WINSTON CHURCHILL WRITES CANADIAN RED CROSS DRIVE ALL SUCCESS

Vermilion District Canvassers Hard at Work

Heartfelt good wishes for the success of the Canadian Red Cross national appeal for $10,000,000, now being held across the Dominion were received this week from Britain from Mrs. Winston Churchill and Field Marshal Sir Philip Chetwode, head of the British Red Cross.

"I have heard with much interest that the Canadian Red Cross is starting an intensive campaign for funds in aid of its many activities". Mrs. Churchill said, in a cable to the Society's national headquarters. I send you my heartfelt wishes for the success of your work in this noble cause."

Sir Philip Chetwode said the British Red Cross and St. John send good wishes in the Canadian Red Cross appeal to the people of Canada.

"We, here, owe the Canadian Red Cross our deepest gratitude for their magnificent help since the beginning of the war. Your supply of 70,000 parcels per week and generosity in paying for 30,000 has made the whole difference to us in providing food for prisoners of war in Europe. Without it we might have failed."

VERMILION QUOTA RAISED

The Red Cross quota for Vermilion and district has been raised one third, or to $5000 as against $3500 last year. The extra $1500 is hoped soon should increase their donation one-third over the Vermilion district is to be over the top.

ATTRACTIVE SETTLEMENT OFFER MADE FOR SOCIAL SERVICE DEBT

Long Standing Liability

Major Morrison reported to the Council Monday evening that after considerable correspondence with the officials of the Provincial Government, he had succeeded in getting an offer from them of $35c on full settlement of departmental claims against the town totalling nearly $5,200, balance of moneys owing for Mothers Allowance, Child Welfare and Old Age Pensions extending back some 15 or 20 years. Originally this indebtedness reached a total in 1936 of nearly $12,000 of which amount about $7,000 for a humanitarian account was wiped out by the Government on representations by the Council that it should devote $1,000 per year against the town. Steps were taken Monday night to arrange for the payment of this money, thus clearing away a liability that has appeared year after year in the town's financial statement as a debt owing the Government

SPECIAL ARRANGEMENTS TO SECURE RATION BOOKS

To Those Who Failed to Get their Books in Time Specified

MONTREAL, March 5. — Due to blocked roads, sickness or other unavoidable circumstances the Ration Administration estimates that many ration book holders failed to obtain their books during the eight day period specified, between Feb. 19 and March 1. To assure that every person eligible for a ration book is able to secure the new book the Administration has made special arrangements.

Those who have not yet secured Ration Book 2, should fill in the application card at their local ration Book No 1. This card must bear the holder's name and address and serial number leading book. Both cards should be filled clearly and correctly. Don't forget the prefix and serial number which you retain for the duplicate.

The card should be mailed to the nearest Ration Office of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board as indicated in the ration book. It is not necessary to send in the No. 1 book with the card as coupons for tea, coffee and sugar in No. 1 book are valid until used and butter coupon No. 3 will be valid until March 14th.

It is urged by the Ration Administration that the card from the old book be mailed immediately to secure the new book before it becomes valid. Do not become excited—unhurried.

For the convenience of residents in rural areas who do their shopping on Saturdays the coupons in Book No. 2 are valid on Saturdays, instead of upon Mondays, as was the case with Ration Book No 1

COUNCIL MEMBERS NOW ON TOWN PAYROLL

Final Reading Given By-Law

The By-law providing compensation to members of the Council for their services as the governing body of the town received its final reading at the meeting held Monday evening Vermilion is perhaps the first town council body in the province to adopt this measure and since then several towns have passed on a copy, to the educational officers will now be followed the good example set by Vermilion. The By-law it would appear from its wording does not a way with the honorary principle of running affairs with the interests money. Two dollars is paid to the Mayor and councillors for each regular meeting at which is attended. An adjournment of a regular meeting counts as one. They are also paid 25 cents per mile for travelling called to some special or urgent purpose but are restricted so far as

ASKS QUESTIONS IN LEGISLATURE RE VERMILION OIL

Six questions asked by Elmer E. Roper C. C. F., Edmonton, in the Legislature Thursday, were answered by Hon. N. E. Tanner, minister of lands and mines.

Mr. Roper had asked:

1. To what date was the resolution line point of Vermilion Consolidated Oils Ltd. closed down?

2. What was the cause of the shut down?

3. What was the daily capacity of the plant?

4. What were actual average production per day?

5. Is the plant still closed down?

6. Did the government take any steps to have production resumed, and if so, what were they and with what results?

Mr. Tanner pointed out that the company concerned is a private company, and that the government had no more information on it than it would have about any other private business.

ISLAY RED CROSS REVIEWS WORK OF THE PAST YEAR

Raise $700.00—Rev. A. T. Bell Elected President

At the annual meeting of the Islay branch held recently the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President—Rev. A. T. Bell

Vice-President—Mr. T.B. Inman

Secretary-Treas.—R. Martin

The financial statement disclosed a total revenue last year of $700 of which $575 was contributed in hand work.

The ladies of this branch have been very active having sent in hundreds of articles which they have made up, including quilts and dressers, socks, mitts, sanitees, bandages and many other articles too numerous to mention.

Now the big drive for funds is on, the district has been organized into zones and someday soon, you, Mr. and Mrs. Citizen of Islay and district, will be canvassed for this year's great drive for donations to carry on Red Cross work for this year. The need of funds is very very great and will no doubt become more greater as our forces move into action.

The executive of Islay Red Cross appeal to everyone to support this fund more than you have ever done before and dowe keep this time deeper than you have ever before. Those who have unfortunately not finished yet can give their support by signing pledge cards and forwarding their contribution some time later in the season, but let us all give until it hurts our boys in enemy prison camps are depending on us to supply them with the food to keep body and soul together until the end of this war. Don't think more of your bank account than of those men's lives. Our allocation for this year is $650.

A bingo party and dance will be held in Islay hall on March 19th by the Red Cross. Ladies please provide lunch.

Dan Ford was a patient in the Vermilion hospital with flu and a heavy cold. Both these afflictions are doing the rounds in the country and no household has escaped either one or the other. Maurice Gaudry was just feeling his old healthy self and ready to return to St. John's college in Edmonton when a bad cold got hold of him again. He hopes to return to school pretty soon now.

Percy Gourlay will be the Red Cross canvasser in this district. No easy job in this still very wintry weather over icy roads. Speaking of the Red Cross, don't forget the concert and dance at Watson school put on by the Red Cross Auxiliary on March 12th.

IT'S WARBLE TIME - Right Now

Quick Action Is Necessary

It states that Warbles cause an annual loss of over $1,500,000 to Alberta stockmen. The warble flies pester the stock in summer and for nine months the grubs live as parasites inside cattle. These grubs arrive at maturity in the backs of affected animals about March 15th in this district. Warble flies and warble grubs result in 20% less milk, 15% lighter animals and 61% of hides damaged so badly that they are useless for making army boots.

The treatment is quick, easy and cheap. It now costs less than 3 cents per animal and it is 100% effective. More farmers are using this treatment every year. Warble fly powder can be obtained at any drug store or see your District Agriculturist. Instructions for applications are on the package.

WARNING

CANADA FACES A WOOD-FUEL FAMINE NEXT WINTER

ARE YOU one of the Canadian householders who burned leaves indoors and even flooring to keep warm in this winter's sub-zero weather? Or perhaps you are one of the lucky ones who just managed to scrape through?

In either case, you will want to be prepared for next winter when greater hardships loom ahead unless you take immediate action.

The shortage already has affected many communities . . . total stocks of dry wood are nearly exhausted . . . in some places the small supply of green wood cut for next winter is being used now to meet the present emergency.

Throughout most of Canada, fuel-wood is obtained not far from where it is consumed. In producer areas and distributors of local citizens.

The Dominion Government recognizes that the wood-fuel shortage is so serious that even with the full co-operation of everyone in affected communities an adequate supply is not assured. Accordingly, it has been decided to stimulate the output of wood-fuel by assisting those normally engaged in its production and distribution. To this end the following measures will be adopted:

1. A subsidy of $1.00 per cord will be paid to dealers on all commercial fuel-wood conserved for and cut on or before June 30 1943, and held to dealers' account on that date.
2. The Coal Controller has been authorized to arrange in his discretion for the payment of such portion of the transportation costs as he considers proper in respect of fuel-wood, particularly in cases where dealers, on prices or supplies, find it necessary to contract for fuel-wood at locations outside the area from which they normally derive their supplies. In order to obtain any such reimbursement, dealers must obtain a permit from the Coal Controller before contracting for such supplies.
3. The Coal Controller will repurchase from dealers at dealer's cost all commercial grades of fuel-wood on which a subsidy of $1 per cord has been paid and which are still in dealers' hands as at May 31, 1944.
4. Assistance will be given in providing priorities for necessary equipment.
5. Farmers now on the farm, and who leave the farm temporarily in response to this appeal to engage in fuel-wood cutting, will be deemed by National Selective Service to be carrying out their regular occupation as farmers and will be given all the rights of deferment of military service which such an occupation now carries. Such temporary absence should not, however, interfere with agricultural production.

Municipal councils, farmers, fuel dealers, individual citizens, service clubs, and all other groups in communities where wood-fuel is burned, are urged to begin at once a rapid survey of their local situation, and to take immediate action to relieve the shortage.

Irish folks all over the world celebrate the feast of St. Patrick and even the 200,000 Irishmen who are fighting in the cause of freedom with the United Nations will remember St. Patrick's Day. Tens of Thousands of VOLUNTEER WORKERS make your Red Cross Dollars Stretch Farther

● Tolling daily in canteens, dressings, Canadian women labour—to make YOUR Red Cross dollars stretch farther.

They, men and lads' garments, pack food and supplies, fill precious boxes with comforts for boys in prison camps.

Since the war began, Red Cross "Blue Smock" members have made millions of articles from gleaned and civilian comfort and relief.

Other volunteers, specially trained, drive cars, trucks, ambulances, help at canteens and railway stations, other workers and directions. Hundreds of doctors, too, give their time freely to help relieve human suffering.

The 977,000 members of the Junior Red Cross are a growing work of splendid value.

These volunteers—YOUR Red Cross dollars go further for material, food, medical supplies, clothing and comforts for our fighters and war victims on the world's war fronts.

This must grow, as the war expands, intensifies, the need grows. Never was the need for YOUR dollars so great.

W. P. PILKIE, Campaign Manager, Phone 121, VERMILION.

This is Aspirin Week in Edmonton. The Bayer Aspirin people have penned the Album of Familiar Music over CJCA at 7.30 p.m. each Sunday and sponsor a National Aspirin Week each year in which the druggists participate by displays of this time-tested remedy on their counters and in their windows.

Dale Fyrne, bountiful young film songstress, heard with Tom Lonsdale, Elmer Bergen and Charlie McCarthy and Ray Noble, is the latest of those Texas male who have made a name for themselves in big time show business. Like Mary Martin, Ginger Rogers, Ann Sheridan and a host of others Dale calls the Lone Star state home.

After schooling in Italy, Texas, where she was born, and Memphis, Tenn., Dale took a job as stenographer in a Dallas insurance firm. Her boss heard her humming in the office one day and forthwith decided to put her in a radio show which the insurance company sponsored over a local station. Dale was an immediate hit, the reputation she made for herself later earned her a spot on an early morning "cheering" show on WFAA, Dallas. That was five years ago and she's been in radio ever since.

One Stationed at Vermilion

Only two Regimental Sergeant Majors (W.O. 1) in Canada in the Canadian Women's Army Corps and both of these are from Military District No. 13. RSM Fraser of Edmonton is stationed at Kitchener, Ont., No. 6 Basic Training Centre of the C.W.A.C., and has held her position for some time. RSM Agnes M. Cardy's promotion from the rank of Sergeant was announced recently by authorities at headquarters, M.D. 13; she is stationed at Vermilion, Alta., No. 3 Basic Training Centre.

RSM Cardy is also from Edmonton, the daughter of Mrs. William A. Kennedy of Spruce Grove, Alta., formerly of Mountain Park, Alta. Her husband is Captain James D. Ration Card for Five Days Leave

Good news for businesses who keep open house for the boys and girls in uniform is the announcement of the ration administration, the Wartime Prices and Trade Board that temporary ration cards for five days leave will be issued from branches of the Administration or from Local Ration Boards, on and after March 6.

Former regulations restricted temporary ration cards to those having seven days leave or longer.

Similarly civilian visitors from other countries desiring rations for from five to ten days will now be able to obtain a temporary ration card providing them with one butter coupon, one tea and coffee coupon, one sugar coupon, two spare A coupons, one spare B and two spare C coupons.

THE WORLD OF WHEAT

By W. S. G. Strange
Director, Canadian Department, Searle Grain Co., Ltd.

FOR FARM WIVES

There will be, it seems, a decided shortage this coming year of all live stock products, and such commodities as beef, pork, bacon, butter, cheese, cream, poultry and eggs, may all have to be rationed.

It is difficult for farmers to increase suddenly livestock flocks and herds, but poultry can be increased at a quicker rate. Here is a chance for farm wives to earn a little extra money. Those who are not keeping poultry might put in 25 or 50 hens, and those who have small flocks might enlarge them. The purchase of baby chicks is a quick and satisfactory way to start a laying flock.

Wheat is the best feed for poultry and there is plenty of this grain. The price of eggs and poultry is high compared with the price of wheat. There should, therefore, be good money in feeding poultry for egg production.

Per best egg laying results in the winter, hens require some green material. Alfalfa leaf meal is splendid for the purpose. Some farmers attempt the sprouting of wheat which, too, is an excellent green feed. It is, however, somewhat messy, difficult and irresponsible to manage.

Poultry farmers have been tended to decrease supplies and increase demand. Turkey will receive under P.C. British agreement nearly four million bushels of wheat from Egypt.

Reports indicate India is very short of essential foods Australia surplus may be absorbed there if shipping conditions permit—Rains at wheat to distillers for the manufacture of industrial alcohol are increasing in volume.

Following factors have tended to increase supplies and decrease demand: Exceptional weather had enabled Spanish growers to sow full acreage to winter wheat and rye—Winter wheat in U.S. appears to be in excellent condition—The recent gift of 18,000 tons of wheat to the Greeks has been followed

On Friday, March 5th the Union young people staged a very successful play entitled "Ma's New Husband." The play was exceptionally well presented and produced many laughs (from start to finish. Following is the cast of characters:

Hercules Hoosenose—Leslie Tarwood
Ma Dinsmore—Barbara Grocco
Lany Dinsmore—Marion McQuid
Marion Dinsmore—Esther Nelson
Fred Seymore—Pringle Galloway
Phil Thornton—Jack Cartwright
Mad Walker—Jack Hobbis
Marguerite La Grisbe—Peg. Gaston
Isabella Chase—Hazel Hodgsons
Simplicity—Darrit Nelson
Officer—Alf Hodgson
There was a large attendance, 118 adults and many children. The play was followed by a dance with music supplied by the Logan family and Jack Schaumleffe, Mr. and Mrs. Logan and Jimmy kindly donating their services for the whole period. The entire proceeds of $35.15 except for a few minor expenses are to be donated to the Navy League of Canada. Well done, Union.

On March 26 there is what may prove to be the last card and lunch party for the spring season at Union. All proceeds as always will go to the very worthy cause. Sandwich for Britain. Let us all get behind Mrs. Cartwright and help her in her splendid effort.

Turkey Hill is also stepping forth once again in social affairs by planning a dance for March 17th. For many years Turkey Hill has claimed March 17th as their night. A good time has always been had in the past and this year will prove no exception.

Jim Powell has shipped a second car load of horses east, this last car going only as far as Ontario.

The Week in Legislative Circles . . . In Edmonton

Early promise of an short session vindicated in the Alberta Legislature, with the Throne Speech debate now ended, the Budget debate started, and a number of measures ready for third reading. Already the members have begun night sessions, each one cutting off a day from the potential total, and hope is freely expressed that the end may soon be in sight.

NO NEW PROVINCIAL TAXES

The Budget itself was an interesting document, providing for increased social services while bringing in no new taxes and no tax increases. Among the unique features were those setting up a $1,000,000 nucleus for a Post War Reconstruction Fund and the establishment of a blood plasma plant for the University, from which every hospital in the province will be enabled to obtain the product at cost.

The Alberta district nursing service is also to be expanded with the nurses receiving training in obstetrics and therapeutics to enable them to render greater service to Albertans in pioneer settlements.

In his summary of statistical information, the Provincial Treasurer showed that 1942 was Alberta's greatest agricultural year, with value of production estimated at $361,166,500, which is $31,000,000 higher than the previous record in 1927. Had shipments risen to 25% of Canada's total and were higher than the total in any other province.

Total estimated income of the province for the next fiscal year is set at $21,652,191, leaving an estimated deficit of $291,809. Mr. Low reported an overall cash surplus of $2,942,235. He estimated a revenue increase of $122,558.

Hon. Lucien Maynard, minister of municipal affairs, rose to defend his municipal policies at the Thursday night session. He declared criticism of the restored municipal unit pro gram was inevitable, but he pointed out that had the program been abandoned, criticism would still have

GANTON-WATSON RED CROSS

On the 3rd of March, another of those storm warning and drop in temperature days, eight members met at the home of Mrs. E. P. Hind and finished another pretty looking and warm quilt. While busy, further arrangements were made for the concert and dance to be held at Watson school on March 12th at 8 o'clock. Admission will be 25c for the concert at 25c, accompanied children 10c and another 25c for the dance. Mr. and Mrs. A. Logan very kindly will furnish the music without charge. It is hoped a big crowd will be able to come that night and help raise the necessary funds for a good cause.

A generous donation of washed old woollens by Mrs. Lamport will enable the auxiliary to send away for a big order of warm blankets.

Twenty three finished articles were turned in and only eight given out, as the box with new work had not arrived yet. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. C. McIlrath on April 7th and will be another quilt bee party.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Editor, Standard,
Vermilion, Alta.
Dear Mr. Editor:

My attention as campaign manager for the current Red Cross drive, has been directed to the fact that the following list of donations to the 1942 Red Cross fund were not acknowledged through the Standard. This was due to the fact that although the money was turned in to me, the list of individual subscribers was not sent. It was put to one side by the canvassers and overlooked by them until the same men made plans to conduct their 1943 drive.

I am asking you Mr. Editor, at this late date to print the following list and so clear the matter up.

WELL KNOWN ETHELWYN RESIDENT PASSES AWAY

Death of Mrs. James E. Cooper

The many friends of Harriet Cooper, beloved wife of James E. Cooper of Ethelwyn, were saddened to learn of her death in the Vermilion municipal hospital on Tuesday morning March 9. Mrs. Cooper had been in somewhat poor health for a number of years and on January 29th suffered severe burns. When her clothing caught fire from a heater in her home, she was brought to the hospital where she finally passed away, the shock and strain being too much for her constitution. Mrs. Cooper was 71 years of age and had lived in the Ethelwyn district for 33 years.

The deceased was born at London, out., on Feb. 25th, 1872 where she spent the early years of her life. On July 21, 1897 she was married to James E. Cooper of London. In 1911 the family moved to the west, taking up a homestead at Ethelwyn and this has been the family home since those prosperity days.

Until during the winter the farm has been sold and it was the intention of Mr. and Mrs. Cooper to retire in the spring to Clandonald where they planned on building a small home, sadly enough, in the intervening time Mrs. Cooper suffered the burn ing accident to which she succumbed.

Left to mourn the loss of a loving wife and mother are her husband and the sorrowing husband, one daughter, Mrs. George J. Bryant of Edmonton, and one son Harold E. Ethelwyn. There are six grandchildren. Two brothers also survive, James Finch of Hamilton, ont., and John Finch at Washington.

Funeral services are being held at St Mary's church, Clandonald, this Saturday afternoon March 11. Interment will take place in the Wetaskiwin cemetery.

Sympathy of a large circle of friends is extended to the bereaved in the sorrowing family in their bereavement.

WILDWEST WINKS

There was too much sickness in our little family last week to get any news items sent in. We are pleased to say they are all getting over attacks of the flu and heavy colds. Quite a number have been laid up throughout our district with the same thing.

We wish to extend our deepest sympathy to Mrs. Douglas Maxwell on the loss of her father; also to Mr. and Mrs. Amos Cobeen and family on the loss of their son and brother.

Mr. Franklin of Brandon, brother-in-law of Mrs. Davies in town, spent a short while looking over our homesite one day not long ago. He was going the rounds of the mail route with Mr. Martin, so stopped off while the latter went to the P.O. He is a very pleasant cheery man and we did enjoy his short stay with us. We trust his health will soon be up to par again after his recent operation.

We wish all our sick friends now in hospital, Mrs. Hoite of town and Dan Ford of Tulland a quick recovery to health.

The B.W.R. club meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Geo. Cruthers on Wednesday last with fifteen members present. Several were unable to come going to sickness, writer included. Dinner proved a great meeting. Ann Garnett joined the club for the first time. A nice lot of finished work was handed in and more given out. The hostesses Mrs. G. Cruthers and Mrs. A. Carlson served a very tasty lunch which was greatly enjoyed. Next meeting will be at Mrs. A. Smith's with Mrs. Howard helping the hostess, date April 7th.

Sgt. Norman Smith spent last week at his home here from his R.C.A.F. duties in the city. He returned Sun day morning.

In the final games of the curling at our rink Skip Cliff Crulhers defeated Skip Bill Smith; Bob Martin defeated Glenn Smith; in the final Cliff Cruthers, Victor Howard and Tommy Riley walked off with the cup from last year's champs, Bob Martin in the best of three games to decide the winners for this year. A hearty invitation is extended to all to be out curling to come to the local rink and play to their hearts content on Friday night of this week.

A letter received from Gnr. L. Grn. ham now overseas says they had an uneventful trip across. He was not seasick so enjoyed every minute of it. Coming from the dry prairie he says there surely is a heck of a lot of water in this old world. Laurence is the first one of our boys Wildwest boys who have enlisted to cross the big pond.

Wonder who the dare-devil airplane pilot was who narrowly missed electric wires at the writer's, went through between buildings at Cruthers', almost took the roof off A. Rendell's and Riley's house? We think, it being the opening of our Red Cross drive, that he was just showing us how the Germans could come in and bomb our homes in the same fashion

O. S. Longman Speaker At Board of Trade Banquet

The banquet held in conjunction with the Agricultural Short Course was well attended by Board of Trade members and members of the Agricultural Society. Quite a number of ladies were present also.

The affair was made a complimentary dinner to Mr. and Mrs. James Barr, old timers of the district. Mayor Morrison related of the long and faithful service that Mr. Barr had given to the Agricultural Society and to many other organizations which worked for the welfare of the community.

Mr. Norman McClellan, present head of the Society, also told of the benefit derived by the body from Mr. Barr's advice and matured judgment. Mr. Barr replied briefly to the many kind words said about him by all the speakers. Although Mrs. Barr is in excellent health, she considered that she should not take any chances of contracting a chill by coming out such a cold night.

Mr. D. A. Andrew, well known agriculturist, was the chairman.

The guest speaker was Mr. O. S. Longman, Deputy Minister of Agriculture who spoke on Agricultural Reconstruction. He emphasized the fact that "farming is a way of living, but in addition to the land providing most of a farmer's food supplies, the business of farming must supply capital, leisure, and competence for old age. Agriculture must be recognized as more than a means of gain and the advancement of knowledge and assurance of reward for toil."

Mr Ashley Cooper, President of the Board of Trade brought greetings from that organization and other speakers were Mr. Frank Baker of Winnipeg, Dr. T. Lloyd James, Miss Grace Dunnan, Mr. S. C. Heckbert.

The arrangements were handled by E. H. Buckingham, Chairman of the Agricultural committee of the Board of Trade. Geo. Capates was the caterer, the gathering being held in his new dining room, the "Lower Deck".

Forage Crop Seed Still Available

H. W. Brown, secretary of Vermilion Valley M.D. announces that seed for forage crops is still available at 80% of cost. Anyone requiring same should get in touch with Mr. Brown immediately.

COSTUMES, RACES, AND FROLIC AT ICE CARNIVAL

There was plenty of fun and frolic at the ice carnival last Friday night held under the auspices of the Vermilion high and public schools. The gala event, in spite of the cold snap and with a minimum of expenses the sports equipment funds at the schools should do very well. Merchants of the town donated the cash for the prizes.

Prizes were 20 varied costumes on the ice, making a really colorful scene. The costumes themselves were mostly new creations and of a high quality.

The program of costume judging and races was rounded out by Midget hockey, games of broomball and a clash between the Heatherbell Fliers and Vermilion. The varieties of broomball were exhibited — two teams of the C.W.A.C. also played on foot between shortened distance between the goals, while the spectators met the fire brigade in a rough and tumble battle from which the centre ice man of the Firemen, Ronnie Hawley, emerged with a highly colorful eye.

SCHOOL KIDDIES COLLECT

$4.00 FOR RED CROSS DRIVE

The little school kiddies of grades 3 and 4 made a canvass among themselves and collected the handsome sum of $4 during the past week. Two of the children were then chosen to present the money to W. P. Pirie, chairman of the Red Cross campaign. Mr. Pirie was really pleased with this gesture and thanks the little people very sincerely.

Mr. Pirkie is also appealing to every person and organization to make all efforts during March in aid of the Red Cross drive. Vermilion and district need more and larger donations in order to go over the quota of $3000.

The Mercanin dance advertised elsewhere in this issue for the 19th has been postponed to Friday, March 26th.

Canada's Call For 35 Million Pounds of Waste Fats

1 Tablespoon from Each Household per Week

The fires of the United Nations soldiers, sailors and airmen must depend upon the speedy response to this appeal.

Fats and oils are the raw material from which also come ... in peace ... Glycerine is the basic ... explosive.

If everyone in Canada saves a little as two ounces of waste cooking fat in a week. It will produce ... glycerine required for the gun powder to smash Adolph, Benito and Tojo. There is enough explosive hidden ten pounds of waste fat to fire ... nine anti-aircraft shells.

In the past we have received most all our fat requirements from the far Eastern sources. Now cut off by the Japs—Canada all and cogra from the Philippines — Palm oil from Dutch East Indies and Malaya — Tung oil from China—Perilla oil from Manchuria and Japan. As in so many other material problems, this loss of our normal sources of supply in fats and oils is vitally important to our War efforts and economy.

Our problem is to replace all of this loss. It is being replaced partly by some imports from our good friends in the United and South America but the biggest source of all has never been fully tapped. That source is our own kitchens. Needless to say this Canada wide campaign depends almost entirely on the Home Front or its continued effort of everyone in Canada to do ... to ... to ... to

Island Of Malta

ALTHOUGH THE WAR is not ended, and without doubt much history will yet be written, there have already transpired many epic events which will never be forgotten. In the Russian campaign there are the sieges of Sebastopol, Moscow and Stalingrad and many other heroic actions which will live on in the history of Russia and in all the records of this war. In the United States the name of Pearl Harbor Quadricenal and Bataan stand out as symbols of events of lasting significance. Dieppe will never be forgotten by the people of Canada and in Britain there is Dunkirk, the first of many names to become a deep and lasting meaning in connection with this war. The heroic defense of the Mediterranean fortress of Malta will undoubtedly have a place in this list of remembered events, for this island has had an important part to play in the Battle of the Mediterranean and in the campaign in North Africa.

Malta As An Air Base

R.A.F. planes based there had destroyed 1,158 enemy aircraft. Until France fell, Malta was important for us as a naval base, but it then became a target for Axis Italian air attack and for a time as an air base was established. At the time the enemy air attack started, there were only three obsolete British planes on the island. Today, Malta is known as "the unsinkable Aircraft carrier" and her impregnable defense is a source of great irritation to the Axis. Many Canadians have fought at Malta, including Flying Officer George Beurling D.S.O. D.F.C. D.F.M. and Bar, whose record for the destruction of 29 Axis planes over Malta has made him Canada's leading air hero in this war. Flying Officer Beurling has been in Western Canada recently in the course of a tour of the Dominion.

Located Near African Coast

Malta is an island in the Mediterranean, situated 58 miles south of Sicily and 180 miles north of Africa. It has an area of 95 square miles and has several fine harbors the largest one being at Valetta. In the past, Malta has been known to the world because of its importance as a naval base but it has never developed agricultural industry. Its vegetables, cotton and tropical fruits being produced. There is also some manufacturing, and in normal times it is an important commercial centre for merchant ships, with fine docking and storage facilities. The military history of the island dates to 1090 B.C., when it was settled by Phoenician traders. After that it changed hands many times, but in 1814 it became a British dependency, administered by a resident governor. With the other Mediterranean strongholds of Gibraltar, Cyprus and Alexandria, Malta has played an important part in making possible the sea and air victories in that area and in the campaign in North Africa. There is no doubt but that the name of Malta will stand out among those made illustrious by valiant action in this war.

Recipe Of The Week

Baked Fish with All-Bran Stuffing is definitely a recipe with a future. It makes its appearance just in time to provide a delicious meat-alternate for meatless fast days that occur with great frequency during the Lenten season. Crisp shredded All-Bran adds a sweet as a nut flavor to the savory bread dressing which when baked in a loader fish is sure to bring applause for the cook. The recipe goes like this:

BAKED FISH WITH ALL-BRAN ONION STUFFING

1 to 1½ pound fish	2 tablespoons melted butter
2 teaspoons salt	½ cup salad oil
1 recipe All-Bran Fish Stuffing	Paprika

Have fish cleaned and prepared for stuffing. Wash thoroughly and wipe with cloth. Rub cavity with salt. Stuff and sew edges together with heavy thread. Place on greased shallow pie plate or baking pan and brush with melted butter or salad oil. Sprinkle paprika lightly over top. Bake in hot oven (400 to 425 degrees F.) 30 to 40 minutes, until well browned. Garnish with quartered lemon. Yield: Six servings

ALL-BRAN STUFFING

½ cup fat	1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon scraped onion	1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1½ cups stale bread crumbs	½ teaspoon salt
½ cup All-Bran	¼ teaspoon pepper
Hot fat, add onions, bread crumbs and All Bran, stir over low heat until crumbs are lightly browned. Add lemon juice, parsley, salt and pepper. Yield: Sufficient stuffing for 3 to 4 pound fish.

Note: 1 to 2 tablespoons water may be added if moist dressing is desired. Baked fish with stuffing to which crisp shredded All Bran adds a sweet as a nut flavor makes meatless days easy to bake and with applause for the cook.

Desert Victory

Pictures Taken During British 8th Army's March To Tunisia.

The story of the British 8th Army's march from Egypt right across to Tunisia retold in thousands of British cinemas. While the march was going on cameramen of the Army Film Unit kept right up with the forward troops and tanks to get the best pictures; in fact, they were so keen that at one time they actually got ahead and reached Tobruk an hour before the 8th Army did. An R.A.F film unit was on the job, too. The film is called "Desert Victory."

SWINE DISEASES

Anaemia Kills More Baby Pigs Than Die From All Other Diseases

This is the last of a series of articles by J. Ming, V.S., provincial veterinarian Hesling, dealing with the more prevalent hog diseases. Previously published: Hemorrhagic Septicaemia and Baby Pig Diseases. Measles and Diarrhoea. Enteritis. Erysipelas. Worms.

In some districts more baby pigs die from anaemia than from all other diseases put together. Iron is necessary for the building up of the blood. Sow's milk is low in iron content, consequently young pigs frequently suffer from lack of blood. Baby pigs which recover from this disease are weak for some time after and are thereby rendered much more susceptible to other diseases.

Symptoms: Sucking pigs which are closely confined and not allowed access to soil will die well until they are from ten to six weeks old when they lose their normal healthy colour, becoming pale. This is particularly noticeable about the ears which are a chalky white in appearance. Moderate exercise causes them to become breathless, otherwise they may look quite normal and appear fat and chubby. If treatment is not adopted the affected pigs will gradually lose weight and die.

Treatment: Treatment should be started as early as possible. A solution containing the following ingredients should be given. Copper sulphate (blue vitriol), one ounce; sugar, ½ lb.; water, one gallon. Give each pig in litter half a teaspoonful daily for a week. Pigs older than three months suggested below. An eyedrop can be used for dosing baby pigs.

Prevention: Starting when pigs are one week old, feed charcoal, sprinkled on, half as much as can be held on a 5 cent piece. Charcoal may be replaced well back in the mouth of each pig with the fingers. Pigs should be usually carry pigs through to weaning age without trouble. Place a piece of turf in the pen daily so that pigs can get iron by eating the earth and roots. Pigs may be treated the sod with a solution of iron sulphate (copperas) one pound to a gallon as soon as pigs are weaned and eating solid foods the danger of anaemia is past.

HOG LICE

Lice are blood sucking insect parasites which are a continual source of irritation to hogs. Both sexes of lice are responsible for quite heavy losses among hogs. Lice are of two types, the female breeds of swine

Treatment: Treatment for lice should be repeated in fifteen days if found necessary.

GOITRE AND HAIRLESSNESS

Baby pigs in districts where the soil is lacking in iodine are frequently born dead or die shortly after birth. On close examination, the bodies of these pigs are found to be totally or partly hairless. They are born in this condition due to a lack of iodine in the diet of the mother.

Prevention: Provide all brood sows with an adequate supply of iodine. One ounce of potassium iodide mixed with 200 lbs of common salt is considered to be adequate for this purpose and should be fed for at least three months during pregnancy. Another dependable method is to prepare a solution of one ounce of potassium iodide in one gallon of water and place a tablespoonful of this solution in the feed daily during pregnancy.

Two Women Of Auxiliary Air Force Carry On During A London Air Raid

When two WAAFS (Women's Auxiliary Air Force), one 22 and the other 18, were operating the winch for regulating the height of a balloon during a recent night raid on London, two bombs fell almost together 50 to land about 25 yards on each side of them.

But they carried out the operation which sent the balloon to the proper height. This devotion to duty and disregard of danger was brought to the attention of all ranks in a special order by the Air Officer Commanding Balloon Command, Air Marshal Sir Leslie Gossage.

GEMS OF THOUGHT

CHEERFULNESS

What sunshine is to flowers, smiles are to humanity. They are but trifles, to be sure; but, scattered along life's pathway, the good they do is inconceivable.—Addison.

The highest wisdom is continued cheerfulness: such a state, like the region above the moon, is always clear and serene.—Montaigne.

The mind that is cheerful at present will have no solicitude for the future, and will meet the bitter occurrences of life with a smile.—Horace.

Happy are the people whose God is All-in-All, who ask only to be judged according to their works, who live to love.—Mary Baker Eddy.

Cheerfulness is a friend to grace; it puts the heart in tune to praise God, and so honors religion by proclaiming to the world that we serve a good master.—He serious, yet cheerful.—Thomas Watson.

Victory Gardens

Canadians Are Urged To Grow Vegetables This Year

An appeal for all-out cultivation of victory gardens has been issued by Canada's agricultural supplies board.

During 1943 amateur gardeners will be encouraged to forego competition as to who can produce the best rock garden, petunias or roses. The emphasis is definitely on tomatoes, carrots, cabbages, onions, beans and other vegetables.

A large proportion of Canada's farm output will be needed for the armed forces of the United Nations and the people of the United Kingdom. The board said there was sufficient vegetable seed to meet all requirements.

Bombing Raids On Enemy Have Telling Effect

London.—Sir Archibald Sinclair, air secretary, said that the R.A.F.'s ceaseless bombing offensive which is showering Germany and the occupied countries with fire and explosives at the rate of more than 10,000 tons a month has wrecked more than 2,000 German factories.

Sir Archibald, speaking in the House of Commons in representing the air estimates, estimated that the R.A.F. smashes at Germany had left more than 1,000,099 Germans homeless.

Declaring that photographic reconnaissance showed that the raid on Essen, home of the Krupp armaments, on the night of March 5-6 "probably was the heaviest blow struck at German war industry in the whole of the bomber offensive," Sir Archibald disclosed.

The devastation at Essen, he said, was comparable only to that caused at Cologne last May in the first of the R.A.F.'s 1,000-bomber raids. Direct damage to steel works in the Ruhr and Saar, he declared, had cut 1,350,000 tons from Germany's annual steel-making capacity.

Damage to the Phillips radio works at Eindhoven, Holland, cost the German war effort of military radio valves and tubes annually, a critical loss in modern warfare, he added.

"The 4,000-lb. bomb dropped in the rising offensive in March compared with 10,000 tons dropped in the short month of February, and next month yet for the R.A.F., when 1,000 tons of bombs were dropped on three different nights.

Promising even greater exertions by the R.A.F., Sir Archibald added a statement which seemed an indirect answer to Adolf Hitler's March 15 air force's day bombing policy.

"The Americans are Brn-hearted, skilful fighters," he said. "Their methods are a complement to our own. They are precious and welcome allies. The Americans have come to take part in the air offensive, the better we shall be pleased and the sooner the maligned power of Germany will be broken."

Sir Archibald also informed the house that more than 10 per cent. of German aircraft which in the last three months attempted weak reprisals for R.A.F. bombings had been shot down. Such a low ratio is generally considered almost prohibitive for an attacking air force

He said that 322 enemy planes which crossed the British coast in daylight during the last three months were definitely destroyed. Twenty-six of 240 which crossed at night were knocked down.

The minister said this was nearly three times the rate of loss of British aircraft attacking Hitler's Europe.

The R.A.F bomber command's "pulverizing offensive" had caused the Germans to switch a huge part important proportion of their plane-building capacity from bombers to fighters the air secretary declared

French Resist Nazi Attempts For Forced Labor

London.—The growing unrest in France has been climaxed by an attempt to assassinate Marcel Deat, arch collaborationist and close colleague of Pierre Laval.

Radio reports of the attempt on Deat's life—the third abortive effort to kill him—say it occurred at his estate southeast of Paris.

The patriots planned their assassination very carefully, first cutting the telephone leading to Deat's country place at Arbouse.

The Berlin radio said several men shot at the collaborationist with automatic pistols. All the shots missed Deat, but one member of his party was said to have been wounded slightly.

Deat was the editor of the former fascist-Socialist newspaper L'Oeuvre and chief of the People's National movement, long an advocate of collaboration with the Germans.

An attempt to assassinate him was made at Versailles in August of 1941, and he escaped an assassin's bomb in April of 1942

Elsewhere, radio Paris reports disclosed yesterday. Twenty-six acts of 240 which crossed at night were knocked down.

Admiralty Views Sub Menace As Grave Danger

London.—A. V. Alexander warned the House of Commons that the admiralty views the submarine position "as one of great menace," but defended his department against criticism of its anti-submersible policy and against charges that it is not air minded

The first lord, winding up a debate on naval estimates which were passed at the end of the sitting, declared that the U-boat attack "will become increasingly difficult," because every offensive move and every territorial liberation will create demands for more merchant tonnage and more escorts

In a spirited rejoinder to critics of the admiralty, Alexander declared he wished to make it "quite plain" that "the responsible for naval control have a great deal to do with enabling our brave officers and men to be successful in their task."

Alexander said the chief of naval staff had commanded a cruiser squadron in this war and that admiralty chiefs of staff also have seen active service in this war

"It was their experience and the policy of bringing them back to the admiralty again to advise on operational matters which has had so much to do with our being able to meet a menace without precedent," he told the house

The navy, with the support of the air force has carried out its task, he said, and in addition has carried troops all around the world

"I feel I am entitled to say to the house that whilst no one is more moved in his emotions, more grateful for the wonderful work of the men at sea, we have some reason to be grateful to those who guide the whole of the anti-submarine and practical planning at the admiralty"

The first lord denied charges he had made "hundred about" that the admiralty is not air minded

"You have never faced such a naval situation before in all your history and it is because of the sense of urgency felt by the admiralty that we have been able to deal with the situation and at the same time come to the help of other services as well" he said

When he went to the admiralty in May 1940 he said the Skua and Swordfish were the only aircraft fitting operationally with the navy. In that year priority was given to building fighters for the defence of Britain and of we had let the control of the air then we should have lost the whole battle"

Looking back three years and remembering the casualties Alexander suggested the fact that Britain has immense number of aircraft carriers about a large number of auxiliaries and an expanding fleet air arm did not seem to indicate the admiralty had been idle in meeting the menace threat to communications

The first lord said the admiralty had not been able to obtain from the government all the aircraft it wanted for the coastal command, but had got sufficient to take a great change in the situation

He referred to the question of increasing the number of fighter aircraft ships, brought up earlier by Emanuel Shinwell, Labor, saying that to have nothing but fast ships would obviously be ideal, but until the American building program was well under way the safest thing was to get the output of tonnage with the labor and ships available.

Germany Is Now Preparing For A Total War Effort

Ankara, Turkey.—A traveller just arrived in Turkey from Germany said the Germans are feverishly preparing a 1943 offensive against Russia in which they plan to use 3,000,000 to 4,000,000 men in a final great attempt to conquer the Soviet

This traveller said the Germans' principal aim would be to destroy Russian military strength rather than try for vital Russian strongholds and economic centres at first view

It was reported in reliable quarters that the Germans in Turkey are being called home for military service

A well informed Balkan source said the Germans are building a new fighting line from Leningrad to Kilpatrick is a veteran of the First Rostov-on-Don Gulf of Taganrog and Mariupol against Allied invasion

The line is said to extend from Leningrad to Rzhev, Smolensk, Orel, Kursk, Kharkov, where it may link up with another line of defence westward

It also was reported that all aircraft have disappeared during the last month from the Russian front, presumably flown to defence of Tatsi near Athens and Salonika or Salonika

Nine Nazi divisions were moved to Italy from the Russian front in the direction of Africa

Hitler by the past few days has ordered that all Nazi soldiers for years allow setting forth details of Germany's new "total war effort" and demanding that those failing oh old mak- similar efforts, according to information received in diplomatic quarters here

In these notes despatches since March 1, Hungary, Croatia, Slovakia, Rumania and Bulgaria have been called upon to contribute soldiers, workers and economic aid to the Nazi Reich each nation according to its capacity

The note to Bulgaria, diplomatic sources said took a threatening turn when it said to have warned that "if Bulgaria fails to accept sacrifices, her alliance with Germany demands that she will repent, because Germany is determined that her allies must collaborate in the fullest sense of the word."

King Boris has not yet replied to the note, it was said, and he is reported trying to find a means of avoiding meeting the German demands, details of which were not disclosed

The report said that Bulgaria is in such a state of disorganization due perhaps to defeatively bad administration that it is utterly impossible for her to take part in any military activities in the immediate future.

U.S. ARMY PLANS

Would Build Up A Total Strength Of 8,700,000

Washington Disclosure the United States armed plans for a total strength of 8,700,000 Secretary Stimson said Army Aircraft expansion have about 117 combat men under arms.

Estimates based on the best available information by head of the General staff and Russia and Britain have about 14 million men in Russia and Britain a somewhat smaller number. Axis he said the Japanese have approximately 3,000,000 men under arms.

A comparison of combat units, said the secretary discloses an even greater disparity between German divisions Italy subdivisions and German's Europe an satellite's another 80 divisions or a total of 460 divisions in Europe. Japan has some 56 divisions.

America's plans on the other hand, call for organization of approximately 100 divisions the secretary said

CUMMINGS FLASHES

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Macnab and Mr. and Mrs. Brent Macnab are spending this week in Edmonton. Brent Jr. is staying at the Brook house.

Frank Eyres and Alex Arthur returned from Edmonton after spending a few days there on business. F. Wilson accompanied them back from the city. Mr. Hardy Wear also spent a few days in Edmonton last week.

The Red Cross society held their meeting at the home of Mrs. George Slater. There was a good attendance and everyone kept busy making a quilt to send over there. A nice lunch was served and everyone seemed to thoroughly enjoy the get-together and the work. The next meeting which is the last of season, is to be held at the home of Mrs. W. J. Macnab.

News reached the district last week of the death in Edmonton of Mrs. John Winterquill who had been confined to bed since the flood caused by the burst water main in the 156 mountain, at her home was inundated and when Mr. Winterquill was carrying her to safety he slipped and both were immersed in icy water in [illegible] you are restrained or not.

Complete Returns for Municipal Elections

Complete returns for the recent election held in Minburn M.D. in Div. 1 have now been issued giving Pheasey 458 votes to Scott's 419. Macnab retired to the hospital board polled 94 votes to Cooper's 42.

94 below weather. The deceased was 81 years of age. From 1906 to 1924 they lived in the Cummings district and then moved to Edmonton. Mrs Winterquill was quite an active woman in the early days and was at many in demand at concerts and socials. She brought tears and laughter to all who heard her. The sympathy of old friends here is extended to her surviving husband and her adopted daughter (Mrs Bert Barker) of Edmonton. F. Wilson attended the funeral held in Edmonton.

Mr W. J. Macnab is canvassing for the Red Cross and is meeting with good response. Every dollar is needed and a contribution from everyone is necessary if the district is to obtain carrying her to safety he slipped and its quota. Be that you give whether

The Bombers really went to town and blasted the Border town Frontiers by a 5 to 0 score on Saturday night last. The game was a closely contested one for the first two periods the score then being 1-0. In the last stanza however the visitors wilted and the home products ran in four counters.

Only a handful of fans witnessed the game.

RED CROSS NEWS

A general meeting of the local branch of the Red Cross was held in the Memorial hall on March 14th. Mr. C. L. Whitby presiding owing to the absence of both president and vice-president.

A letter of appreciation has been received regarding donation of $20 for prisoners' Dunnage bags. The letter stated that Alberta had been asked to fill and ship 500 of these bags.

The Edmonton Branch wrote in acknowledgment of the last shipment of goods, expressing delight at getting so many knitted and sewn articles.

Mrs Robinson, representative of Carlton-Hughes auxiliary reported that a whist drive would be held at Claymore school on Friday, March 26th in aid of Red Cross drive. A silk comforter will be Dutch-auctioned the same evening, proceeds to aid of Red Cross funds.

WILDMERE WINKS

We unintentionally omitted to extend our sympathy to Mr. Wm. Bradshaw and Miss Fitzgerald on the loss of a loving wife and sister.

In the open curling bonspiel held last Friday evening a nice crowd turned out to the local rink at John Wilson's. Each one playing donated a small sum which was put in a pool and the winning rink at the close of the evening took the "dough". Bob Martin, Victor Howard and Jack Barnhart were the champions of the evening.

Hennie Chapman of Vermilion is at present working for J. Wallington.

Congrats to Mr. and Mrs. Ken Isley of Triangle on the birth of a daughter on Friday March 12.

We are very pleased to learn that Mrs. Jim Purd came home last Friday, and Mrs. Hoste is doing nicely. Mr Hoste left on Monday evening for his air force duties after spending the last ten days here owing to his wife's illness.

Bobby Martin and Billie went to town on Saturday afternoon and found the road kind of heavy by Wildmere but after shovelling for awhile finally got through, only to find on returning they had to do the same job over again. All the rest of the road was good.

Ken Urquhart of the Oilfield Motors came out on Sunday to Thos. Fairley's corner and met a sleigh bringing Mrs. Nichols of Triangle who was ill and took her to the hospital. Her son Jeff accompanied her on the journey and is staying in town at the home of Harry Elliott. May you soon be well again Mrs. Nichols.

Little Doreen Martin of Wildmere has been a visitor to the doctor of late with an abscess on her arm.

Spring must be just around the corner as some people are spring cleaning and others setting hens. By the feel of the outside air you would hardly believe it.

Funniest thing heard. Our young nephew Bobby looking through Mrs. Bond's spring and summer catalog and saying that it wasn't up to much as it didn't have anything in it for the boys.

We were indeed sorry to see that spring is in! Besides the restoration of Mr. Morrison from the hospital board. He was one who always did his best for the sick and suffering of humanity. He and his fellow workers turned on over many obstacles to gain their objective or a larger and better hospital and he stayed on to see it materialize. It can well be said of Mr. Morrison "well done, good and faithful servant". May your successor Mr. Macnab fill your shoes as ably, sincerely and nobly as you did.

The important point at the farm meeting for 1943 is increased production of meat animals and dairy and poultry products, based on greater production and utilization of feed grains.

CHAIN LETTER NOT CIRCULATED BY CANADIAN FEDERATION AGRICULTURE

CALGARY, March 15.—The Canadian Federation of Agriculture is not party to the circulation of an unsigned chain letter now being distributed among the farmers of the province, Lew Hutchinson, vice-president of the national farmers's organization stated today. The chain, he said, urges all farmer recipients to declare their intentions to reduce 1943 production to two-thirds of that they achieved in 1942, unless parity prices for all farm commodities are immediately established.

Mr. Hutchinson stated he made his statement because the chain suggested the parity price levels in question should be established to the satisfaction of the officers of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture. The signer also was asked not to change his course unless advised to do so by the Federation.

The chain requested farmers to make their declaration of reduced production to the Hon. J. G. Gardiner, Minister of Agriculture, and it provided a form for that purpose.

The Federation has been consistently pressing for agricultural commodity prices commensurate with current farm operations costs, the vice-president stated, but its actions toward this end have always been in the open. We shall continue to press for the price reforms we are convinced must be effected, he said, but we are forced to deplore the principal of anonymous circulars recommending an action detrimental to the country's good in time of war. Mr. Hutchinson stated he had no knowledge as to the identity or the authors of the chain.

WARNING

CANADA FACES A WOOD-FUEL FAMINE NEXT WINTER

ARE YOU one of the Canadian householders who burned fences doors and even flooring to keep warm in this winter's sub-zero weather?

Or perhaps you are one of the lucky ones who just managed to scrape through?

In either case, you will want to be prepared for next winter when greater hardships loom unless you take immediate action.

The shortage already has affected many communities . . . total stocks of dry wood are nearly exhausted . . . in some places the small supply of green wood can for next winter is being used now to meet the present emergency

Throughout most of Canada, fuel-wood is obtained not far from where it is consumed. Its production and distribution are the business of local citizens

The Dominion Government recognizes that the wood-fuel shortage is so serious that even with the full co-operation of everyone in affected communities an adequate supply is not assured. Accordingly, it has been decided to stimulate the output of wood-fuel by assisting those now actively engaged in its production and distribution. To this end the following measures will be adopted

1. A subsidy of $1.00 per cord will be paid to dealers on all commercial fuel-wood contracted for and cut on or before June 30 1943, and held to dealers' account on that date
2. The Coal Controller has been authorized to arrange at his discretion for the payment of such portion of the transportation costs as he considers proper in respect of fuel-wood, purchased only in cases where dealers, to procure supplies, find it necessary to construct ice fuel-wood at locations outside the area from which they normally derive their supplies. In order to obtain any such reimbursement, dealers must obtain a permit from the Coal Controller before contracting for such supplies.
3. The Coal Controller will repurchase from dealers at dealer's cost all commercial grades of fuel-wood on which a subsidy of $1 per cord has been paid and which are still in dealers hands as at May 31, 1943.
4. Assistance will be given in providing priorities for necessary equipment.
5. Farmers now on the farm and who leave the farm temporarily in response to this appeal to engage in fuel-wood cutting, will be deemed by National Selective Service to be carrying out their regular occupation as farmers and will be given all the rights of deferment of military service which such an occupation now carries. Such temporary absence should not, however, interfere with agricultural production.

Municipal councils, farmers, fire dancers, individual citizens, service clubs, and all other groups in communities where wood-fuel is burned, are urged to begin at once a rapid survey of their local situation, and to take immediate action to relieve the shortage.

The January meeting of this auxiliary met at the home of Mr. Jack Tucker. There were 11 ladies in attendance. Mrs. Manson Burr, war's convener reported 32 articles of knitting and sewing handed in. Collection $3.15.

The February meeting met again at the home of Mr. Jack Tucker; this was a quilting bee with 14 ladies in attendance. Plans were made for a whist drive to be held at Claymore school in March. A new member Mrs. R. D. Lynch was given a hearty welcome. A very pleasing number of sewn and knitted articles were handed in. Collection $3.30.

The March meeting met at the home of Mrs. Robinson. Final arrangements were made for a whist drive to be held at Claymore school Friday night, March 26th. All expenses are being defrayed by the auxiliary. The two satin wool comforters are completed. Much credit is due the work convener Mrs. Manson Burr who did the greater part of the work; she assembled the parts for quilting and engineered the work through to the finish as well as gave her home for quilting bees. Tickets are being sold on one of these comforters, proceeds for War Charities. Mrs. Clarence Barr is convener and will sell these tickets. Mrs. Robinson kindly returns the book of stubs to Mrs. Barr, before or on Friday night March 26. The draw for the lucky winner will be made that night and the other comforter will be Dutch Auctioned. These comforters are filled with wool, quilted in an inner lining of cotton broadcloth, covered with Duchess satin quilted in a very pretty design. Proud will be the winner of either of these.

Mrs. Robinson reported on a Red Cross meeting held at the Legion hall, Monday evening, Feb. 15th.

Mrs. Hart invited the ladies to her home for the next meeting to be held Thursday, April 1st. Readings from the Red Cross magazine "Decpatch" will be given by Mrs. Manson Burr, Mrs. McKay, Mrs. McCormick and Mrs. McMillan.

A number of knitted and sewn articles were reported handed in, 11 ladies present. Collection $2.

The turn out to the whist drive was small due to the bad roads and sickness. But those who attended reported a real spoil time. The honors of the evening went to Miss Mary Kinney and Miss Florence Roland, and consolation to Mrs. Geo. Dillman. The gents prizes were won by Mr. O. Pearson, Mr. Pairick McCabe, bridge and consolation Fred Dougan.

Plu has been making the rounds of the homes in the district. We wish those who are still sick a speedy recovery.

Miss Mary Kinney and Miss Mary McCambridge left for Edmonton on Saturday where they will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Pat Dynes.

PRISONERS OF WAR TRY OWN COOKING

Supplies from Red Cross Parcels

Men in captivity in prison camps have found a new hobby — through Red Cross food parcels—it's cooking! Judging from prisoners' letters, supper is the big meal of the day. Men met on work parties return in the evening, tired and hungry; they wait a good tasty meal, so 'tout comme Red Cross food parcels.

Although much of the food is already prepared for eating, like kippers or salmon, and only needs heating, the men try their skill at serving things in a variety of ways — mixing the contents of food parcels with camp rations and making provisions go further. This gives variety to the diet and varies the monotony of rather unappetizing vegetables, which form the bulk of supplies distributed by the enemy. It makes an interesting break in the day, too, and thus becomes an important morale builder.

The men show their ingenuity in a hundred ways. If there is no stove in their billet, they make due from tins and earth or biscuit-can. Cooking utensils are tins from Red Cross parcels.

Prisoners take turns being "chef" but anyone who shows a natural flair for cooking often finds himself permanent.

Sometimes there is a party to celebrate a twenty-first birthday or a wedding anniversary. Each guest contributes something from his parcel for the feast.

Some of the prisoners are becoming first-class cooks. One writes home to his wife, "Just wait 'till I come home. Then you'll be able to go out Sunday morning and I'll stay at home and cook the dinner—I'll show you a thing or two!"

Hashed bulgeuit pudding, soups and stews, are concocted with tremendous vitality and the new recipes invented by amazingly varied when you consider that many of the ordinary ingredients used in cooking can not be sent to prison camps, they wouldn't "keep".

In the five packing depots in Canada, in Toronto, Hamilton, Windsor, Montreal and Winnipeg, 100,000 food parcels a week is the objective this year. To keep our men supplied with these necessities, it will take $8,000,000 for British and Canadian prisoners-of-war in Europe and $500,000 for food parcels for Canadian prisoners in the Far East. More than half of the total remains fund of $10,000,000 will go this year to feed our prisoners. They look to their homeland to keep them alive and cheerful.

When you give your donation to the Canadian Red Cross—remember our prisoners in enemy hands. There are MORE than 9 years' — and you INTENDED to—and THEN some!

Vermilion district's quota is $3000 this year, $1000 higher than before tertained all their school pals to a joint birthday party at their home on Sunday March 14th.

The Campbell Lake Ladies Quilting club met for their activities on the present with a very pleasant "get together" at the home of Mrs. A. Simmonet on Wednesday March 10th. This saw the completion of the sixth quilt since the New Year and these have all been turned over to the Red Cross.

When the busy season is over the ladies hope to take up their activities once more.

We are all indebted to a very good driver and his covered sleigh for mail and those weekly get-togethers possible, even in the worst kind of weather. And we take this opportunity of expressing our thanks to him.

WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION ACT

There was good news for working men in the bill to amend The Workmen's Compensation Act which came before the House with Dr. J. L. Robinson as pilot. Following recommendations of the special report on compensation which had been tabled by Dr. Robinson and his special investigating committee and later endorsed by a voice vote, the new bill contains provisions in line with some of these recommendations.

The new board will set up a board of three compensation commissioners instead of the present board, which has a permanent chairman only. It also provides for increased widows' pensions, additional payments for prenatal expenses, raising of the age of dependent children to 18 years and a section giving the board power to cut up its own super annuation fund.

Another feature of advantage to workers is that giving an injured man a period of twelve months following an accident, in which to make his claim. Previously this period had been limited to a much shorter time. Increased payments for orphaned children are also provided for.

When the new act becomes law, it is felt by its sponsors that great forward strides will have been made in the matter of workmen's compensation, and many grievances formerly voiced by workers will be removed.

FARM LABOR POLICY

Discussion on the national farm labor policy engaged members of the committee of supply of farm labor in the Legislative Buildings, Wednesday. Two national selective service representatives attended the meeting, as well as others from agricultural and government organizations.

The province has already been drawn up into "Farm for Victory" zones, in each of which a committee will be appointed to work with the local district agriculturist, and in turn, smaller community committees will work in co-operation with the zone committees.

Organization is still being proceeded with, and when it is completed it is anticipated that the machinery set up will assist farmers and officials in solving their production and labor problems.

COAL PRODUCTION RECORD

Alberta's coal production in 1943 was the highest in Canada, and the highest in Alberta's history. In all, 7,751,379 tons were produced with a value of $22,562,352. Sales to Alberta consumers amounted to 3,174,795 tons compared with 1,535,606 tons on the previous year. Shipments were made to Saskatchewan, Manitoba, British Columbia, Ontario and the U.S.

Following conferences of the Saskatoon debt conference resolution by the Alberta Legislature, Maynard's legislative body gave the endorsation, and Saskatchewan is expected to follow. The resolution urged for the setting up of a tribunal or tribunals by federal legislation, and specifies the duties of such bodies in the protection of debtors.

MORRISON

The League meeting was held in the teacherage on March 3rd. Although it was a cold, windy day two ladies came out. Mrs. Fred Payne was the contest on naming great personalities in the news of today and those of past glories. The next meeting will be held on March 17th at the Payne home, the day to wear Shamrocks. The roll call was handed in having been completed by Mrs. Arthur Monaghan. Mrs. George Monahan had completed a number of print dresses and handed them in. The third letter composed by Mrs. George Monaghan has been photographed and sent to the boys in the armed forces. Another letter was received from Alfred Turner in the R.C.A.F. He is stationed in Summerside, P.E.I. He does not like the East as well as the West because he does not find the people as friendly in spite of uniforms he says that the Westerners can be spotted at once We'll be welcome another day. He can imagine the Island as being very beautiful in the summer, but it is not very attractive in winter.

We are sorry that Georgina Ronahan has been confined to her bed with Illness. As yet it has not developed into pneumonia however. We all hope it is nothing serious.

We are glad to welcome back Billy Miller, George Miller and Angus Anderson who were in Vermilion for a three weeks mechanics' course. It is to be hoped that every mechanical device in the district will work to its greatest capacity now.

ISLAND HILL

Monday March 8th, here an interesting debate under the auspices of the Alberta Farmers Union took place. The subject was: "Should Farmers Organize?". Anyone interested in Alberta Farmers Union should get in touch with Mr. O. Nestman, Vermilion.

Reports to Mr. and Mrs. Alf Rogers on the birth of a son.

His many friends will be glad to learn that Mr. Norman Armstrong is progressing favorably after undergoing a major operation in Vermilion hospital.

We regret to learn that Mrs. Acheson and Mary are very ill and both are in the Vermilion hospital. Their many friends will wish them a speedy recovery.

Mr. John Williamson, Eva and Miss Roland were the guests of Mr. Geo Field on Tuesday.

Mr W. McCrea was soliciting subscript ons for the Red Cross during the week in this district. We understand folks subscribed handsomely.

George Deacon, R.C.A.F., is home on leave His brother Willie is overseas.

A dance will be held at the school this Friday. Proceeds in aid of the Red Cross.

Dick McDaniel, R.C.A.F., is home on leave.

Two men who reside north of Clandonald were talking of the very cold spell during the winter — It was so cold said one, where I put the candle from and I could not blow it out — Thats nothing said the other, where I was the words came out at my mouth in pieces of ice and I had to fry them to hear what I was talking about' (We should add one of those gents originally came from Scotland and the other from Northern Ireland.)

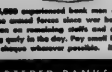
Helping to House Canada's War Workers

WHEN the huge shell-filling plant came to his town, Charles Hunter got to thinking about the critical shortage of housing . . . and about the two large cottages he owned. It wouldn't cost much to modernize and sub-divide them to make comfortable homes for four families.

He talked it over with his bank manager, who extended him a $600 loan. With the money, Hunter not only converted his cottages but took part of the loan, along with some of his rental income, to remodel another house to accommodate eight single individuals.

With the aid of the bank Hunter helped to provide urgently needed homes for war workers. He has now paid off all but $100 of the loan. A very small amount paid out for interest has thus enabled him to more than double his former revenues.

Such modest, highly useful loans typify the contributions that the banks make to Canadian enterprise. The above story is an actual case—only the name has been changed.



More than 5,000 experienced bank men out of 14,433 have gone into the armed forces since war began. This throws a greater burden on remaining staffs and new employees. Be your banking early in the day, try small bills by mail instead of always whenever possible. It all helps.

A PRAIRIE TEACHER AND RELIGIOUS EDUCATION — Part I

In over twenty years of teaching on the prairies, it has been my daily custom at the opening exercises to lead the pupils in reciting the Lord's Prayer, to add an extempore prayer, to sing a hymn; before Christmas, to tell the Christmas story with some Old Testament background, trying to create a more real idea of the meaning of Christmas, and a more reverent and sympathetic keeping of the day; in Holy Week to spend considerable time giving the story of the Passion of Christ and endeavoring to prepare for a better observance of Good Friday and Easter, quite often throughout the year, to tell a Bible story, recite a part, telling a part, and talking it over as would be done with any other story in Literature period. In that way I hope I have kept within the bounds or what is permissible according to our Education authorities, without arousing local controversy.

Throughout it has been my aim to stress mainly certain underlying facts, which to me are most important in daily living, and especially the Presence of God. God wants us to be here. He is interested in our school life. He likes to see us happy in pleasing Him. We can ask and obtain His help in everything we do. It is very essential to be happy and the formation or character rather than geography or history. It seems obvious to pupils generally that God will judge the teacher not on how much arithmetic or spelling she taught but on how she helped them to train themselves in Christian character. Obedience, unselfishness, honest effort, co-operation, and other virtues gradually come to be understood as lasting good things that each child must have, part of my character the real "me" that last on

However the curriculum is a heavy one, many teachers probably do not take time to consider the permanence of the character foundation they are laying for the child. They rush towards the goal—to teach as much of the course of study as possible. To help all teachers and especially for those lost a definite outline should be forthcoming, so penetrating the remainder of the work that the addition of religious teaching is not felt to be a burden, so clear cut that its value is apparent, so central in content that no extraneous points take up time or cause trouble, and with clearly defined objectives and detailed and definite programs. We need these if we are to teach religion in our schools in such a way as to prove up give it an equal importance with other sections of education.

"Galloping Goose" Eats Miles

Recently mentioned in a leading U.S. railway magazine as one of the few mile-a-minute" local trains in Canada's Northwest, No. 340, Canadian Pacific Railway gas-electric unit, makes the 161-mile run from Moose Jaw to Regina in 58 minutes, with four intermediate stops to work "local" business. Designed for fast, frequent schedules on short runs, gas-electric units like 340 combine in one unit engine, mail, express and baggage car and passenger coach, and because of low operation can be operated where it would not be economical to use standard steam trains. Use of units like 340 has become doubly important in war time in conserving fuel and manpower. Fastest portion of 340's Moose Jaw-Regina run is the 10.3 miles from Pasqua to Belle Plaine where the "Galloping Goose", as the train is often called, travels at a speed of 61.8 miles per hour.

OUR LORD'S INTERCESSORY PRAYER

Golden text: Holy Father, keep them in thy name which thou hast given me, that they may be one, even as we are. John 17:11.

Lesson: John 17.
Devotional Reading: Hebrews 7: 23-28.

Explanations and Comments

Our Lord's Intercessory Prayer for Himself, John 17:1-5. This seventeenth chapter of John's Gospel gives Christ's great intercessory prayer, for himself, for his apostles, and for the world. It is often called "Christ's High-priestly Prayer," because in it "he consecrated himself to be priest and victim in the approaching sacrifice." Verses 1-5 are his prayer for himself; he has finished his task, the hour is come, and he prays that he may be "glorified," that he may glorify the Father.

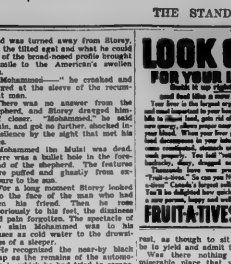
To "glorify" means to make intelligible, as well as to magnify and honor, and Christ's words here mean: Show now the character of thy Son, that he may show thy character. "Jesus desired to be made known in his true character, as the divine Son of God, as the Messiah, as the Savior of the world" (C. R. Erdman). This is indicated in the next words of his prayer. "Thou hast given him authority over all mankind ["flesh" is the Old Testament word for mankind as mortal], that to all those thou hast given him, he should give eternal life.

And then Jesus defined life eternal as knowing God and himself, the Son of God. "No human presumption, since the beginning of the world to the present time, has ever dared to couple its name with the name of the eternal God as essential to eternal life, as Christ does here. Then and now—what a wonderful assertion" (Alexander McKenzie).

Addressing a Toronto audience, McKeand told of summer weather in the sub-Arctic region "mild enough to grow good crops of lettuce and spinach under glass."

The tremendous mineral and other natural resources of the area, he said, assure its successful development, while the ocean link between Canada and Russia by the Arctic Sea may be of great trade importance.

Chased By Plane



Sergt. Pilot Jack Clark of Malton, Ont., who hung by one foot, caught in the door of a crewless bomber, (the others had bailed out), and escaped to tell of the experience. He released himself by pulling the ripcord of his parachute, which ripped his foot from his flying boot, caught in the door of the bomber. The plane crashed him to earth, but he escaped with only a broken ankle.

Future Of The Arctic

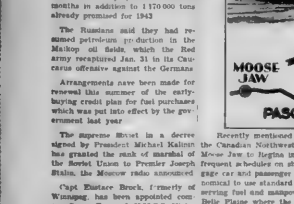
Victorious Seen Great Possibilities And Most Development

David L. McKeand, a veteran of the Arctic, predicted that 1,500,000-square-mile area of Canada's eastern Arctic may become one of the most striking developments of the post-war expansion period.

HOT ANYWAY

Housewife: In a Surrey village in England lined up for their ration of dried egg powder, but were served mustard by mistake, and pies were baken and scrambled eggs served in many homes with surprising results.

Crankcase oil that is heavier than required causes unnecessary drag on the moving parts of the automobile, thus wasting gasoline.



Slimming Two-Piecer

We all know that vitamins are a "must" in our wartime diet if we are to have the necessary energy and vitality with which to tackle the jobs that lie ahead. Did you ever think of growing your own vitamins? No. Well, it can be done, and you can get a big kick out of doing it, too!

Winter is giving its last kick and spring is fast approaching. Take a look at that plot of ground behind the house one of these days and begin planning for that fine vegetable one should we say vitamin garden. Flower gardens are definitely "out" for the duration, and as for leaving the backyard for the children to play in, it just isn't done anymore! Those same children will have a much more enjoyable time helping you plan your Victory garden.

Beans, carrots, peas, tomatoes, cabbage, lettuce, swiss chard, all these vegetables can be grown in the average family backyard. They'll have every bit as much vitamin content as the vegetables you buy, too. And what is more, you'll have the satisfaction of having grown them yourself, to say nothing of the excellent exercise you will have in the fresh air, in preparing, planting and tending your garden. There's a certain pride which can be gained in no other way in watching living things grow which you have planted and cared for yourself. And when you pass your invited guest the cabbage or carrots and say "I grew these in our own garden," it will give you a glow of pride that is well-worth experiencing.

Perhaps that backyard lot of yours has lain idle for years. After all, a piece of ground that produces nothing is something like a man who contributes nothing to the community in which he lives. So, if you want to be truly patriotic in 1943, plan your own Vitamin Victory Garden, grow your own vitamins, experience the zest that work in the soil can bring, and eat the vitamin laden fruits of your toil. We'll bet you dollars to doughnuts that you get more thrill out of it than anything you've ever tried! Plan that garden today.

Write to the Western Division Health League of Canada, 111 Avenue Road, Toronto, Ontario, for your free copy of our nutritious Vitamin chart.

GARDEN NOTES

The Right Tools

The right tools will save much labour. But they should be kept in first-class working order. This means that hoes, spades, weeders, spudders, etc., should be sharp and clean. An old file will do the trick. Lawn mowers must be kept in the same condition if they are to do neat work and not pull grass up by the roots. Keep cutting blades uncut.

A little hand-drawn cultivator will help speed the work in a fair-sized garden. Only a wheel hoe will compare with it for speed and ease in working between the rows when the ground is dry. Rakes are necessary for smoothing the seeds under shrubbery. A sharp Dutch hoe is one of the most useful implements. There are different rakes and different width of hoes.

Planting Groups

Flowers and vegetables divide themselves into three general planting groups—hardy, semi-hardy and tender. In the seed catalogues and on the packets these are the general descriptions used, and this information provides the key to planting time in any part of the Dominion.

The first group can be put in just as soon as the soil is fit to work, this means when one can get out and dig without raising any mud. Soil fit for working or planting should crumble, not pack into a ball, the experts point out.

Among the very hardy are spinach, lettuce, radish and peas, etc., among the vegetables, and among the flowers, Larkspur will not hurt these things. Usually the sooner they are planted the better.

In the semi-hardy line, vegetables and flowers which will stand a light frost or two, would be carrots, beets, beans, potatoes and corn in the vegetable line, and zinnias, calendulas, calliopsis in the flowers.

The tender plants are those which will not stand any frost at all, it up above ground when the night suddenly turns cold and the mercury falls below 32 degrees, then only a miracle will save them from blackening. In this delicate line there are the tender annuals, cucumbers, pumpkins, tomatoes, among the vegetables, and gladiolus, dahlias, cannas, in flowers.

The Story

There is little to be gained and much risk in rushing the season. This is particularly true with flowers. Often when the frost does not kill it will set back the plant so that the later sown will catch up and pass the first.

CHAPTER XI

RIBOTT was pocketing his pistol when he was joined by Lt. Kolb. "They are dead?" inquired the German. Quiet had been restored to the oasis. The Kahlir tenderfoot and outgunned, were now a subsistence group under guard of the Nazis. Two of the soldiers had caught Annette Fournier to prevent her running to Storey.

"Ja, Herr Leutnant," nodded the little dark man.

Kolb placed a cigarette in his mouth, his eyes moving indifferently from the fighting car, stained dead to the roaring blaze of the smashed automobile. "And about the car," he said regretfully, touching match to cigarette, then tossing the match into the flames. "Now I shall have to ride in the trucks with the men."

Jack Storey opened his eyes in a blinding combination of sunlight and pain. Slowly he sensed himself as he propped himself painfully on one elbow. From a lump of earth the object flapped, like crumpled dark paper stirring in a wind Dully Storey stared at the rising shape, there was no wind—that thing was a vulture

He sat up further and turned his head. It was then that he saw that he was not alone. Beside him on the sand lay a brown-robed figure. The head was turned away from Storey, but the tilted egal and what he could see of the bread-hooded profile brought a smile to the American's swollen lips.

"Mohammed——" he croaked and tugged at the sleeve of the recumbent man.

There was no answer from the shepherd, and Storey dragged himself closer. "Mohammed," he said again, and got no further, shocked into silence by the sight that met his eyes.

Mohammed the Mulai was dead. There was a bullet hole in the forehead of the shepherd. The features were puffed and ghastly from exposure to the sun.

For a long moment Storey looked into the face of the man who had been his friend. Then he rose laboriously to his feet, the dizziness and pain forgotten. The spectacle of the slain Mohammed made all his senses as cold water to the drowsiness of a sleeper.

He recognized the near-by black hump as the remains of the automobile in which he had tried to escape. Beyond the charred wreckage Storey noted gray and brown figures scattered under the palms, figures at still that he may show thy character. "Jesus desired to be made known in his true character, as the divine Son of God, as the Messiah, as the Savior of the world" (C. R. Erdman). This is indicated in the next words of his prayer. "Thou hast given him authority over all mankind ["flesh" is the Old Testament word for mankind as mortal], that to all those thou hast given him, he should give eternal life.

And then Jesus defined life eternal as knowing God and himself, the Son of God. "No human presumption, since the beginning of the world to the present time, has ever dared to couple its name with the name of the eternal God as essential to eternal life, as Christ does here. Government Of India

Executive Council Makes Decisions Upon Which Viceroy Always Acts

A phrase used by Mr Churchill in connection with the detention of Gandhi, may surprise or puzzle some outlanders not familiar with the government set-up in India Mr Church ill said the British Government would not interfere in any way with the decision of the Government of India with respect to Gandhi.

What Mr Churchill meant, of course, was that Gandhi is being held not on the orders of any British Government in London, nor on the order of any British or British-controlled Government in India but on the orders of an Indian Government made up of a majority of Indians

Chief executive of British India is the Viceroy But the Viceroy's Executive Council the body on whose advice he acts contains eleven Indians and only five Britons, who hold the portfolios of Defense, Labor, Commerce, Civil Defence, Education, Health and Lands, Posts and Air, Information, Supply, Indians, Overseas, and Law The British portfolios are War Finance Home and War Transport

The Viceroy is bound by the advice of the majority of his Executive Council in all executive decisions and though he has the right to override them in certain specific cases that right has not been used since 1878

It is the case of the arrest of Gandhi, the decision was taken by the Council as a whole, only Sir Richard Cassels, Law Member, and Sir Maurice Gwyer, Chief Justice, were Britons. Sir Richard is a barrister and Sir Maurice a judge.

A banns party in aid of the Red Cross comes up on Friday March 19 instead. That word "Carnival" sounds like candy to me. Made me think of caramel candy.

Monday March 15 was the 25th birthday of Mrs. Ed Tedsen. Many friends gathered to help her celebrate.

Mrs. Thelma McNeely is assisting at Ford's store. Mr. and Mrs. Ford have gone to Edmonton on a business trip.

Remember last week how you bewailed the paper and couldn't find any islay news? Well, you know how quiet the atmosphere is just before a storm—that is how it was here at Islay. And then things began to happen — Bouquet? Or we thought there was going to be, we made our plans and then we hear it is off. Then births, weddings, bingo parties, visitors—, oh, we could ramble on!

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Harold White on the birth of a daughter Marjorie Anne.

Pte. Coleman has been telephone operator for the past week; Denis Dupuit went on a few days holiday and returns as Mrs. Riddle. We all wish the couple much happiness. Eddie has joined the Forces. We are expecting more weddings this spring.

The parties in the following wedding are well known in Islay:

Miss Mildred Bower, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Bower, 1022 Fraser avenue, and Leslie Whiting were married Saturday evening at St. Michael's Episcopal church in Moosejaw.

The bride wore a white satin and tulle dress with a four-foot train and veil with orange blossoms. She carried white carnations.

Gordon Hollander, the bride's cousin, was bridesmaid, wearing pink taffeta and carrying pink carnations. The groom was his uniform and was attended by his brother, Jack Whiting.

Rev. Mr. Dodge, rector of the church, was assisted by Rev. Mr. Hoe in officiating at the ceremony. Mrs. Saunders sang two songs and Mrs. Beach played the organ.

A reception was held in the church hall with 125 guests in attendance. Mrs. A. Thorneycroft, the bride's grandmother, and Mrs. S. Everett, the bride's aunt, came from Port, last evening, for the wedding.

The bride is a graduate of Moosejaw high school, and the groom of Long Beach high school. He is stationed at Norfolk, Va.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear son and Brother

George Little
who passed away March 14, 1941.
His weary hours and days of pain,
His troubled nights are past;
And in our aching hearts we keep,
He has found sweet rest at last.
He is not lost, for death but came to free him.
And though afar he roams,
We can but wait and hope to see him.
In our eternal home.
—Fondly remembered by Mum, Dad, Frances and Eddie.

MUCH INFORMATION FROM FARM SHORT COURSE

Ninety-Five Farmers Attended

The Agricultural Short course on March 11 and 12 sponsored by the Board of Trade and the Exhibition Association was attended by 95 district farmers on the opening day. Mr. Norman McClelan, president of the Agricultural Society, was Chairman and called on Mayor Morrison for an "Address of Welcome".

The first speaker was Mr. Frank Baker of Winnipeg who demonstrated Hog Grading with the use of bacon charts. He told that Canada planned on marketing 5,000,000 hogs this year and that a 20 per cent increase of Number One hogs over last year was expected from this district.

Mr. Baker talked at some length on suitable breeds of hogs for export purposes. He put up a strong argument in favor of using Yorkshires exclusively, stating that many experiments and results proved that York-shires furnished more pigs per litter and more pigs from each litter weighed at 6 months of age. Mr. Baker further stated that nothing was to be gained by crossing Yorkshires with any other breed. A better practice would be to maintain good bacon type in the breeding herd by purchasing surveited Yorkshire boars as required.

Dr. T. Lloyd Jones, Animal Pathologist, Department of Agriculture, Edmonton, advised farmers to give tuberculosis solution to pigs for at least four weeks before farrowing. He also told that Canada imported iodine and most of the pigs born weak is a result of the lack of iodine in the sow's ration.

Dr. Jones stated that many pigs die of anaemia between the third and twelfth days after birth because of iron deficiency. All pigs during the winter months should be fed very small amounts of reduced iron as a preventative. Dr. Jones also stated that supplements necessary for the pig's health and normal growth are ground limestone, protein supplement and vitamins.

Dr. Jones was asked regarding constitutional disease in Yorkshires. He stated that there was no such disease. Practically all diseases affecting pigs in this district are caused by incorrect feeding; that is, the lack of mineral, proteins and vitamins in the sow's or growing pig's feed, or unsanitary conditions, or pigs sleeping in damp or wet straw. Any of these factors will lower the pig's resistance, thus corrupting rickets, rheumatism, septicemia, erysipelas and pneumonia set in and result in the pig's death. Dr. Jones emphasized the value of sanitary quarters for pigs. Farrowing pens should be scalded with boiling water and lye. Young pigs should be treated with phenothiozine at about 10 pounds weight. Pigs should not run in the same yard or pasture for two years in succession, to avoid worm eggs and germs which live over many months in the soil.

E. H. Buckingham, District Agriculturist, recommended that every farmer raising pigs should have a few acres of alfalfa. Alfalfa is rich in proteins and vitamins both of which are so necessary for growth and thrift in pigs. It is recommended as a pig pasture and an armful of hay thrown to sows and growing pigs daily in the winter keeps the pigs healthy as well as promoting more rapid growth.

On the second day of the short course, Mr. C.W. Trave, Provincial Poultry Commissioner and Mr. W.D. le Maistre, Provincial Apiarist, spoke on poultry and bees respectively.

Both speakers stressed the matter of greater production. Mr. Trave said more laying hens were needed but with proper care and feed greater production could be obtained per bird. Mr. le Maistre explained that with proper handling, the yield of honey per hive could be greatly increased. Every farmer should have a hive of bees to supplement the sugar supply.

Exercises Last Friday Evening

A slightly larger class, of 167 members, graduated at the week end from the Canadian Women's Army Corps Basic Training Centre at Vermilion, Saskatchewan has the larger percentage on this occasion, with 46 girls, Alberta with 41, B. C. with 40, Manitoba 22 and Ontario 8.

Gorgeous weather during most of the course was a welcome break, especially for officers and instructors who had coped with the previous few months of cold and snow. Route marches of five miles and more were arranged frequently, and nearly till drill was held out of doors, though gunnery training, organized sports and lectures were still inside. Rifle-ing and sleighing parties have been popular forms of recreation, with concerts and sing-songs arranged when the weather was too forbidding.

WEATHER RECORDS KEPT BY VERMILION CITIZEN

B. E. Bury Compiles Interesting Charts

B. E. Bury has compiled a chart covering Vermilion weather for the past ten years and this brings out many interesting points, some of which follow. The complete chart may be seen at the Standard office. It bears out the general impression that this has been the severest winter in that length of time, although 1936-36 ranked it in several respects.

Earliest fall frost, Sept. 2, 1942
Earliest snowfall Sept. 7, 1941, (Sept. 21, 1942)

Days snow fell during winter — 96, 1942-43; (81, 1935-36)

Number of below zero days, 93 in 1935-36 (79 in 1942-43)

Lowest temperature reading 56 below on Feb. 16, 1936. (—55 on Jan. 20, 1935. Another 52 below reading was recorded on Jan. 19 1923.)

The chart would indicate that the worst winter was in 1936 when the mercury never climbed above the zero mark for an entire month from Jan. 21 to Feb. 20, 1936, a period of 30 days. It was during this period that 56 below was recorded here. In 1942-43 it went 16 days before climbing above the zero or from Jan. 15 to Jan. 31, from.

The total number of days below zero was 96 in 1942-43 and that 1935-36 again holds the record for the past ten years with 96, 1942-43 is second with 79 to date.

The chart further had three severe blizzards and this is only equalled by 1917-18 with a like number.

The record compiled by Mr. Bury contains other interesting data, and the Standard appreciates the chart and information contained very much.

BOMBERS PROVE TOO MUCH FOR WAINWRIGHT

Win 7-1; Son of Duke Keats on Visiting Team

Vermilion Bombers proved too much for the Wainwright Seniors here on Saturday night, winning by a 7-1 score. The game was more evenly contested than can be judged by the score but the visitors couldn't solve the unusual net minding ability of Buster Martin who seemed to be able to kick them out from any spot. Up in front the boys were picking their spots in the buffalo town boys' net and making every scoring chance tell.

Gordey Keats notched the solitary Wainwright counter on a pass from Hilliker.

Vermilion goals were scored as follows: Runyan from Manjuk and Barr; Spencer from Manjuk and Barr; Spencer from Irwin and Williams; Spencer from Irwin and Williams; Williams from Irwin and Spencer; Irwin; Manjuk from Runyan and Barr.

Roy Spencer's boys have now rung up a very impressive string of wins and are showing the results of some intensive coaching by their goalie Buster Martin.

Line-ups —

Wainwright: Pigeon, Keats, Hill Barr, Bond, R. King, Jefferson, H. King, Hartman, Smith, Ahrens, Carrie.

Vermilion: Martin, Manjuk, Irwin, Runyan, C. Barr, Inspect, Messier, Spencer, Williams, Irwin.

Great interest centred in the fact that Gordon Keats, son of "Duke" Keats, rated as one of the greatest centre ice men of all time and a wizardly stick handler, was on the Wainwright line-up. Keats' home is in Edmonton but he is engaged in construction work in Wainwright at the present time.

Taxes Slightly Higher

Mill Rate 45 Against 43 Last Year

Slightly increased taxation may be looked for this year in connection with the public and high schools, the council having set the mill rate at 2c as against 24 in 1942. The rate for the municipal levy will remain the same, as will the business tax. 19 mills in each case. The total rate will be 45 mills as against 43 last year.

The municipal levy has been fixed at $15,000 an increase from $12,972 in 1942. This is accounted for by an increased appropriation for public works. Complaints were made last year as to the poor condition of the streets, due in large measure to prolonged inclement weather. The council has decided to recondition some of the streets, put in several new culverts to take care of the flow of surface water, and to extend the sidewalk system.

The school levy is $21,786 compared to $20,500 last year. The requisition from the board was for $21,800 with a rider that they might ask for more before the year was out. The increase here provided for schedules salary increases for teachers, and reservations in the public school where it is intended to replace the stairways which have stood the treading of thousands of school children since the school was built 35 years ago.

The land assessment this year stands at $726,164 and buildings including business at $769,881, a total of $1,495,967. In 1942 the land assessment was $216,396 and buildings $674,926, a total assessed valuation of $1,180,660.

The Standard learns quite un officially that there is a possibility of an upward revision of the business tax for 1944

In 1936 the mill rate was 50 and the business rate 2%. This rate was continued in 1937 but in 1938 it went up to 51, the municipal being 33 and the school 23. 1939 saw the peak of the taxation when the mill rate was 54, the municipal dropping to 31 and the school going up to 32. 1940 the rate was 51, the municipal taking a further drop to 19 and the school to 29. In 1941 the municipal rate continued at 19, the school dropping further to 23. 1942 saw the rate set at 43, school being lowered to 21 and the town still remaining at 19

63,783 BARRELS OF OIL PRODUCED IN VER-MILION FIELD IN 1943

Total Production Since Start 89,867 Barrels

Some interesting figures have recently been released by the Alberta Petroleum and Natural Gas Conservation board at Calgary regarding the Vermilion field. The Vermilion field during last year produced 63,783 barrels. Total production since the start of activity was 89,867 barrels to the end of 1942.

During the month of January only two wells were pumping in the field, Oil Discovery (Vermilion Con. No. 3) produced 291 barrels while Western Battleview No. 1 pumped 260 barrels. Others were not shown as closed owing to lack of storage space, as no oil is being moved out of the field at present.

Butcher Will Buy Fats, and Bones

Minimum price for scrap fats and bones announced by Mrs. F. H. Turner, administrator of rationing, are stated as four cents a pound for rendered fats and one cent a pound for bones.

Housewives are asked to take all fats and bones to their local butcher who will then be delivered of to prescribers and collectors for five cents a pound net weight for rendered fats and one cent a pound for bones. A one cent net weight for unrendered fats and a quarter or a cent a pound for bones.

Hotel operators, restaurants and other establishments at which meals are served are affected by the order as well as slaughterers of cattle, sheep and horses.

OTTAWA ADVANCES $400,000 TO CANNAR

Whatever all men hear of "ten mill programs" as an initial start of 50 per cent. More wells, they always wonder as to the amount of the bank roll

No information was available as to the financing of the Cannar drilling in Vermilion field until the appendix to the federal budget was printed and there appears the item of "Loans and Advances: Loan to Canadian National Railways—Vermilion Oil Field —Alberta, $400,000." The item also appears in the appendix under "Railway Accounts — Temporary Loan— The War Appropriation Act, 1941— Vermilion Oil Field, Alberta, $400,000."

Correspondingly, in addition to the railway being a "national" system, the drilling in the Vermilion field will also be "national."

PROVINCIAL LEGISLATURE PLANS POST-WAR RECONSTRUCTION

Bill Introduced in Alberta House

In forecast in the Throne Speech, a bill to authorize the establishment of a Post War Reconstruction Committee was introduced by Hon. N. C. Tanner, minister of lands and mines.

Members of the committee will be chosen by the Legislature, Mr. Tanner said afterwards. In the budget address, Hon. Solon E. Low had announced the setting aside of $1,000,000 as the nucleus of a post war reconstruction fund, and he said it was hoped to add to this annually in order to provide the financial basis to further the plans for the transition of the province and its returning fighting men to peace occupations.

Duties of the committee, as stated in the Act, are to survey the entire field of post war reconstruction as it affects Alberta and to act in co-ration with dominion and other provincial authorities in the formulation of measures and plans necessary to deal with the problems involved.

Among the items coming in the scope of the committee will be a survey of agricultural lands, of its future value when can be removed or expanded, of markets, of transportation and public utilities, of taxation, public service, debt, civil and property rights, including tenure of land.

The committee is also empowered to confer with and utilize services of the newly-organized Alberta Research Council for the purpose of advising and promoting primary and secondary industries in the province.

Other duties and responsibilities may be added from time to time by order in council.

The Act is to come into force immediately on assent. This will mean no delay in setting up the requisite investigating body, and with the Alberta Research Council getting ready to function on a broader scale than ever before, it is taken as an indication that serious efforts are to be made toward the promotion of industry and employment in Alberta during the immediate post war period.

HORSE VACCINATION

Necessary For The Prevention Of Equine Encephalomyelitis

Although the history of equine encephalomyelitis is well known in many it is well perhaps to review the matter and outline some of the most recent findings in connection with the disease that stock owners may fully understand not only the precautions but the newer aspect, that pertaining to public health.

Sleeping sickness of horses in Saskatchewan was first recognized as such in 1935 when a fairly extensive outbreak occurred. Scattered cases appeared, but in 1937, a second and more extensive epidemic occurred followed in 1938 by one that was so severe that some 18,000 horses were lost.

It was extremely difficult at first to isolate the virus responsible as no suitable immunizing agent available. Then in 1939 a killed virus vaccine was introduced, which we have found to be almost 100 per cent. safe to use and to be a safe to state that a horse properly vaccinated prior to the season of infection will not contract the disease in spite of the most severe exposure. The practice of preventive medicine, unfortunately, is frequently the last thing grasped, with the result that cases have developed usually, whereas the deaths could per se have been completely controlled, had vaccine been more wisely used.

After the extensive outbreak of 1938, stock owners became thoroughly alarmed, with the result that, in the spring of 1939, some 450,000 horses were vaccinated in the Province of Saskatchewan alone. Whether or not this program had any bearing on the incidence of the disease that year, it is known that very few cases occurred and those which did were confined to non-vaccinated animals. Secondly, the freedom from the disease in 1940 there was not the same keen interest in vaccination in the spring of 1940; therefore comparatively few animals were protected. Luck was again with us that year and, although isolated cases developed throughout the Province, there was nothing approaching an epidemic.

Because of comparative freedom from the disease for two years, many were of the opinion that further vaccination was unnecessary and little was done in the spring of 1941. With amazing suddenness, however, an outbreak commenced in the middle of June, cases being recognized in the southeastern parts of the Province at the same time. Stable manufacturing concerns anticipated considerable spring vaccination, large stocks were on hand early in the year, but when the outbreak occurred, most of this vaccine was found to be dead and of no value. Owing to an extensive outbreak in the United States, American companies were unable to send further shipments of new vaccine and, because of this, there was an acute shortage throughout western Canada. This was most unfortunate as, had protected, the Department of Veterinary Science at the University of Saskatchewan increased production and distributed as much vaccine as the outbreak fairly well under control. This was accomplished with a great deal of effort and much sacrifice on the part of the staff of the Department, who worked long hours throughout the season.

That such an unfortunate situation may not arise this year, stock owners should vaccinate their animals in early May; do not wait until an outbreak occurs. The loss by the time death of one or two horses is very much greater than the necessary outlay for the protection of a fair sized stud or for the purchase of a bottle of serum to treat one developed case.

In many instances last year, farmers waited until the disease actually appeared in their district, and many until it appeared in their stud, before taking any action. It should be realized that horses may yet be necessary for the carrying on of our agricultural pursuits; mechanical power may be extremely difficult to secure and the consumption of fuel may be further curtailed at any time. The farmer who depends entirely on truck and tractor power may be in a very precarious position and it seems to be economically sound to protect every available horse. Not only should work horses be vaccinated; young animals should be vaccinated as well, since they may be absolutely essential in the future to do work on farms, or to take the place of delivery trucks in cities, which very shortly may be off the road entirely.

During the years encephalomyelitis was common among horses in Saskatchewan, physicians reported an increasing number of cases of encephalitis in man, and the question arose as to whether or not there was any relationship between the two infections. In 1935, the year the disease was so prevalent in horses, some 60 cases were reported in man, and during the following year, we isolated the equine virus from three human cases. Later on in the discovery workers in the United States also found that man was susceptible to the Eastern type of the horse virus. Although it was definitely known that man could contract the horse disease, and that, as a result, people had actually died in Saskatchewan, little interest was taken in the matter until last year when the most extensive human epidemic ever recorded occurred in the Eastern States, Manitoba and Saskatchewan. During the course of this outbreak, we were successful in isolating the virus or germ from the brain tissue of and also the blood tests that the entire outbreak was due to the same organism causing encephalomyelitis. In Saskatchewan alone, 256 persons contracted the disease, and 68 per cent. of them died.

To state that horses were responsible for the human outbreak would be unwise because of our limited knowledge of how the human infection occurs. It is true, however, that the elimination of this disease in horses, undoubtedly a virus reservoir, would indirectly appears to be the case, and this can only be done by vaccinating each year. No one can state that may happen in the future in regard to human or equine outbreaks, but if the behaviour of the horse disease is any criterion we must not expect that the human disease will never recur.

There are a number of points in connection with the spread of the human outbreaks that are very similar indeed. For example while the equine disease first appeared in Saskatchewan in the spring and spread from the northern United States to Manitoba and then to the southern part of Saskatchewan. After several outbreaks it appeared that the virus hibernated during the winter months since and had lived over the winter in this way. This was suggested by the fact that the 1938 and 1941 epidemics sprung up in all parts of the Province at the same time and definitely not from one focus of infection. The first human outbreak commenced in the extreme south and travelled northward as did that of last year. Last season, however, much more territory was covered, being brought as far north as Saskatoon. If conditions are suitable for the development of virus this season, we may, therefore, expect another human outbreak which may be much more serious than any in the past. Although, as already mentioned, we have no definite proof that horses are responsible for human epidemics, we do know that a sick horse is a constant source of danger to the people who come in contact with him, and we know, too, that horses are responsible for the widespread feeding and handling diseased animals.

Encephalomyelitis is strictly a seasonal disease (occurring during the summer months), because of the fact many workers are of the opinion that it is carried by biting insects. Many entomologists have been proven capable of transmitting this disease from infected to healthy experimental animals, and it seems quite probable that they are the vectors in the field. Even if this be true, they are not wholly responsible for the carrying of the virus over, as this case is very often extremely prevalent in seasons when insect carriers are totally absent. Last year, for example in the northern part of Saskatchewan there were very few mosquitoes, but the horse disease was equally as prevalent as in the south where mosquitoes were very numerous. Although the human epidemic, although more extensive in the south, spread northward as the horse disease infested area and continued to do so until late fall. It appears, however, that wherever possible mosquitoes should be controlled and every precaution taken to protect animals and humans from all biting insects.

In many districts there are insufficient veterinary surgeons to undertake the vaccinating of horses in these parts it will be necessary for owners to do their own. This, it may be done, rather than calling the local "handy man" who lacking the painless methods may carry the disease from one farm to another, the following directions are suggested:

1. Secure a 10 cc hypodermic syringe equipped with two needles; this may be purchased at almost any local drug store. Immerse the syringe and the needles in boiling water for twenty minutes before using.
2. Clip and thoroughly cleanse with rubbing alcohol a small area of the horse's neck half way between the shoulder and the head.
3. Attach a needle to the syringe, insert it through the cork stopper in the bottle containing the vaccine and draw the contents into the syringe.
4. With the left hand, hold out the skin of the prepared area of the horse's neck; introduce the needle beneath the skin and inject the vaccine.
5. Remove the needle; with clean gauze, saturated with rubbing alcohol, cleanse the point of injection, and the prepared area of the neck again.

Propaganda Programs

Sent By Axis Radio Stations In Europe And Aimed At Canada

Axis radio stations in Europe are aiming propaganda programs at French-Canada and at certain nationalistic minorities in the prairie provinces, W. Gladstone Murray, former Director-general of broadcasting for Canada, declared.

Murray said these Axis broadcasts contain offers of independent forms of government in the so-called new order of Nazi world control.

Canada still has no short-wave radio transmitter, Murray told the Business & Professional Women's Club of Toronto, and is unable to communicate any messages of hope or encouragement to the conquered peoples of Europe.

On the other hand, Murray said, the better type of short-wave radio service for the dissemination of rumors in Canada. Fortunately, their lack of understanding of Canadian problems and any counter-measures, have saved the situation, Murray added.

In Nazi Germany

A FEW WEEKS AGO the German people observed the tenth anniversary of the founding of the National Socialist regime. As everyone knows, this unsurprising anniversary was marked by a powerful address in Berlin by Britain and Canada's enemy No. 1 number and by news of serious German defeats in Russia and Africa. The dismal and apologetic note addressey arranged by leaders of the Nazi party were interrupted by the crash of British bombs and it appeared that the only thing that could in no way have been called one of happy celebration by the German people. In his early years in office Hitler assured his people that the policy of his party was not to involve the country in war with other nations. Yet after ten years nearly 5,000,000 Germans have died on foreign battlefields in Hitler's wars of aggression, and many thousands are homeless because of air attacks.

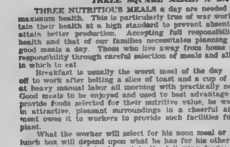
Workers' Lot Has Declined

In connection with the progress of the German people under Hitler regime, some very interesting facts and figures have recently been given out by the British Ministry of Information. The lot of the German worker has declined steadily in the past ten years. It is said that between 1932 and 1939 the number of men engaged in farm work decreased by one million, and the decline has continued since that time. Industrial workers have also suffered a difficult time. In 1933 all Trades Unions were abolished, their funds being seized and their leaders arrested. All workers' rights were also abolished, overtime work became general and the number of industrial accidents rose from 827,000 in 1932 to 1,766,000 in 1938.

• • • • •

Public Health Record Poor

Malnutrition is said to have increased greatly among German workers and there has been a decline in the standard of national health. In the past ten years, deaths from scarlet fever, infantile paralysis and other contagious diseases have risen by 300%; mortality among children between the ages of one and five has increased by 12%, and of children between five and ten by 30%. Under the republican system of government in Germany there was one medical doctor to every 1,200 people, but in 1941, there was only one doctor to every 10,000 people. These facts shown clearly that living conditions under Nazi rule do far from happy for the common people and they serve to remind us again of the things for which we are fighting. When we compare conditions here with those in Germany today, we see that we must at all costs make sure that it is our way of life which survives this war.



THREE SQUARE MEALS A DAY

THREE NUTRITIOUS MEALS a day are needed by every worker for maximum health. This is particularly true of war workers who must maintain their health at a high standard to prevent absenteeism, accidents and attain better production. Accepting full responsibility for our personal health and that of our families necessitates planning and providing three good meals a day. Those who live away from home can accept the same responsibility through careful selection of meals and allowing adequate time in which to eat.

Breakfast is usually the worst meal of the day. Many workers dash off to work after bolting a slice of toast and a cup of tea. Imagine toiling at heavy manual labor all morning with practically nothing for breakfast! Good meals to be enjoyed and digested must be taken in advantage by the worker must provide foods selected for their nutritive value, be well-cooked and served in attractive, pleasant surroundings in a cheerful atmosphere. Management owes it to workers to provide such facilities for their meals in the plant.

What the worker will select for his noon meal or take in his well-filled lunch box will depend upon what he has for his other two meals. A full day's food supply should contain the following foods: (1) A pint of milk, that is, two glasses of milk, and you can count cheese or buttermilk as part of that. (2) A serving of meat, poultry or sea foods. (3) One egg. (4) An orange, or tomato, or a serving of grapefruit, orange juice, tomato juice or raw cabbage. (5) One or more servings of leafy green or yellow vegetables, such as spinach, kale, cress, carrots, etc. (6) Two or more servings of potatoes, other vegetables or fruit. (7) A serving of whole grain cereals, such as rolled oats, cracked wheat, etc. Bread should be of the whole wheat variety. (8) Fats, such as butter, with added vitamin A, and such other foods as you may want to satisfy the appetite, including of course a sufficient amount of water to drink.

Make sure of your Three Square Meals a day and you'll do a better job.

Fight Against Submarines Is Just Beginning

London.—Indications have multiplied that Germany is now pushing her greatest submarine offensive since the spring of 1917 in an effort to delay the impending Anglo-American invasion of Europe until her armies can make a final attack to crush Russia.

London and Washington released almost simultaneously, vivid descriptions of two past battles between Allied warships and German submarine "wolf packs," possibly to prepare the public for the bitter battles to come which the Allies must win, most observers believed, before they can attack Hitler's "European fortress."

At least 14 submarines were sighted on the surface and many others were known to have been beneath the surface during a three-day running attack on an Allied convoy in the north Atlantic and, in the British admiralty revealed.

Another wolf pack of at least six submarines was reported by the U.S. navy department to have been laying in wait for another Allied convoy in the north Atlantic last month.

Sketchy information available indicated that the Germans were concentrating their full naval strength, estimated at upwards of 500, in the north Atlantic while the Italians shared the burden of attacks in the south Atlantic.

The Anglo-American-Canadian antisubmarine campaign was also launched in Washington indicated that the Allied naval command already is marching on the submarine bases found, a solution to Germany's present intensive submarine campaign.

"These preparations will be made," Lydia M. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a herb medicine with a special tonic effect on the female organs. It helps build up resistance against distress of "difficult days." Made in Canada.

Diplomatic correspondents in the United States declared.

With immigration to Canada curtailed in recent years and with the birth rate declining, a reduction in child deaths was held out as particularly desirable under present conditions.

It gave statistical tables to show that recent years have been marked by a reduction in infant deaths in Canada. In 1926 there were 13,537 deaths of children under one year and the figure steadily declined to 7,844 in 1940.

The capital value of a male child, it stated, had been estimated at $1,000. Using these estimates deaths of infants from 1926 to 1940 inclusive in Canada represented a loss to the nation of $1,918,586,000.

"Conservation of this human wastage should be one of the main planks in our Canadian policy," said the health insurance committee report.

Pensions Minister MacInnis described the Heagerty report as undoubtedly the most comprehensive report on health insurance ever compiled in this or any other country" in submitting it to the House of Commons social security committee.

Canada's natural increase of population was 34.17 from 1911 to 1921, the report said, 18.05 from 1921 to 1931 and 10.80 per cent. from 1931 to 1941.

Among Canadian provinces Quebec showed the heaviest natural increase in the five years of the 1940 Canadian rate of 11.7. Quebec's rate was 15.7, British Columbia was low with 6.8. Other provinces were listed as: Prince Edward Island, 11; Nova Scotia, 13.3; New Brunswick, 14.9; Ontario, 8.4; Manitoba, 11.6; Saskatchewan, 13.8; Alberta, 14.1.

In a comparative list of countries for the latter part of the year in natural mortality rates were concerned in 1937. The Canadian rate was 7.5 deaths per 1,000 people.

The latest Canadian figure on infant mortality was 56 in 1940 and in that year the rate for the five province—Prince Edward Island 65; Nova Scotia, 62; New Brunswick, 80; Quebec, 70; Ontario, 48; Manitoba, 51; Saskatchewan, 51; Alberta, 48; British Columbia, 38.

Canada ranked fifth among a list of nations for low death rate generally. The Canadian rate of 10.3 per 1,000 of population in 1941.

The report is silent reporting on the health of Canada in 1941 the report said it might well be called an epidemic year. Measles prevalence was about double the five-year average. Manitoba and Saskatchewan had epidemics of poliomyelitis and encephalomyelitis.

Deaths from heart disease and cancer were upward there was an increase in tuberculosis deaths over the previous year.

Heart disease was the greatest killer causing diseases and cancer second.

Saving Of Lives One Object Of National Plan

Ottawa.—Saving young lives was set forth as one of the objects to be attained by the national health plan should be directed in the report of the advisory committee on health insurance. In order to be embodied in Canada's first national health insurance plan, now before a special committee of the House of Commons.

The report, prepared by a group under the chairmanship of Dr. J. J. Heagerty, director of the health services, portrays both the economic and social loss due to deaths of infants and children.

The Canadian Medical Association is also behind the national health plan, the report said, as also are the provincial governments.

The plan, it was stated, would be financed by contributions from employers, employees and the state.

BUILDING PROGRAM

Britain Is Preparing Plan For Reconstruction After The War

London. — The first indication of steps the British government intends to take to overcomes problems of demobilization and turn over to peacetime production has been presented parliament in a white paper revealing a house-building program to reconstruct bomb-battered Britain after the war.

The paper, work of a committee headed by Sir Ernest Simon, envisaged a 12-year plan being ready when war ends which would require a trained labor force of about 1,250,000 building trade workers. Another 4,000,000 would find employment indirectly in the preparation of materials and the provision of essential subsidiary servi- s.

High Objective For The Fourth Victory Loan

Ottawa.—Canada's Fourth Victory Loan opening April 26 will have an objective of 1,100,000,000 and will require considerable increases in subscriptions by private individuals, Finance Minister Ilsley said in a statement to the House of Commons.

Individual subscribers will be called upon to contribute $500,000,000 of the total, an increase of some 33 per cent compared with the Third Victory Loan last autumn, Mr. Ilsley said.

"To reach this objective for individuals we will need to obtain participation on a much wider scale than in the past and individual purchases will need to be sharply increased.

The finance minister recalled that in his budget speech he had estimated the borrowing needs for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1944, at $2,748,000,000.

Previous loans, including the Third Victory Loan which provided $991,000,000 from more than 2,000,000 subscribers, had given Canadians cause for pride.

"The present situation clearly calls for even more impressive results and the minimum cash objective for the Fourth Victory Loan will be $1,100,000,000," he said.

"As I have emphasized in the budget speech we are primarily concerned with selling Victory bonds in greater amounts and to a greater number of Canadians."

There were three reasons for this policy. Large sums were required for prosecution of the war, increased spending power not directed into savings would lead to inflation, and the government desired that more and more of our government obligations should find their way into the hands of our ordinary citizens.

The interests of these people of no use if now are subject to strict limitations, such as excess profits tax.

In the Third Victory loan purchases made by this class of investor accounts for the very large sum of $600,000,000. I am sure that such investors, as in the past, will do their utmost to provide leadership of the highest quality in the forthcoming Victory loan.

"It is evident, however, that in any case the balance remaining to be met by individual purchases will be greatly increased. To succeed in passing the minimum objective of $1,100,000,000 will require participation by individuals of $500,000,000 or more an increase over Third Victory loan result of 33 per cent, or therebouts for the country as a whole.

"To reach this objective for individuals we will need to obtain participation a much wider scale than in the past and individual purchases will need to be sharply increased . . .

"I am confident we can and will meet this challenge."

NORTH AIR ROUTE

Plan Trip From Boston To Moscow In Eleven Hours

Boston.—An application, labelled as the first of its kind filed by a domestic airline, proposed the institution of air route across the north pole to Moscow from Boston to London, Moscow and intermediate north European points.

Northeast Airlines, Inc., announcing it had filed the application with the civil aeronautics board in Washington, said the proposed Boston-to-Moscow flight would permit a distance of about 5,000 miles to be travelled in 15 hours at a probable cost no greater than that of a third class Atlantic air passage. London would be reached from here in 11 hours. Paris and Amsterdam in a shorter hour.

Allies May Use New Strategy Against Burma

New Delhi American and Chinese soldiers soon may join the British forces in an orthodox push against the Japanese in Burma, the back door to China

The Americans and Chinese, together with British and Indian troops, are undergoing training in the vast land that David Boone used to conquer the wilderness

The current fighting in Burma and the nature of training being given troops in India both indicate that the reconquest of Burma, may be undertaken on an inch-by-inch basis rather than waiting for the end of the monsoon next fall to launch an all-out drive.

It had been believed that Allied plans envisaged a full-scale attack on Burma from the west. But the recent departure of the Japanese envoy to the Russian front with its reiteration of the Japanese willingness fast that Italy's plans of a mass attack controlled by enemy airplanes may have brought about a change in the strategy of the Allied command.

If that is the case it would mean that the Allies will concentrate on an overland attack from India.

But the season of hot weather has arrived and the monsoons are only 45 days away in some sections of Burma. That means that a large-scale attack against Burma can be undertaken before early fall and that dreams of supplying the Chinese road and pouring men and supplies into China over that route will remain dreams for months to come.

The Japanese hold almost all of Burma

The possibility of a Japanese move against India is generally discounted despite the recent renewal of enemy activity in the Akyab area.

However, the Japanese are giving no signs that these bombings will cause them to relax their hold on Burma.

They have built a whole network of strongpoints throughout Burma, to a position to attack an Allied fleet far out in the Bay of Bengal if an attempt is made to land an amphibious force.

CLAYSMORE CLIPPINGS

W. Antrim spent a few days in Red Deer last week.

Mrs. V. Voss was called to Lamont by the sudden illness of her father who had been taken to the hospital there.

The Claysmore Red Cross members are taking keen interest in their work. $7.50 was taken in by selling tickets on a quilt and the quilt was turned over to the Red Cross and Dorothy Voss was the lucky one to get the lucky ticket number 38 and won the cushion. The Jr. Red Cross members are now busy making three scrap books out of discarded Xmas cards. The children feel they have been very fortunate in spending their spare time in hospital. Orville Antrim spent last week end with relatives in Edmonton.

WAR DOLLARS
DO THREE ESSENTIAL JOBS

1. HELP CARRY ON THE WAR—
Every possible dollar will be needed to bring the war to a successful conclusion. THEREFORE, every dollar you lend enables you to play a vital part in the great fight for freedom.

2 CURB WASTEFUL SPENDING—
To retard spiralling prices and rises in the cost of living, income must be diverted from unwise purchases and made available for war use. WAR SAVINGS mean money put aside to aid essential war production.

3. PROVIDE A NEST EGG—
Following every major war, there is a period of economic re-adjustment. The man who has taken his share of WAR SAVINGS will find this money very useful during this transition period.

HOUSEWIVES PLAN FOR CANNING NEEDS

Arriving by hundreds at the ration offices of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board are applications for sugar for canning. Alberta housewives are prudent and will see to the needs of the storeroom next summer. "But," plead officials of the ration administration "Please read instructions on the application form."

Plainly stated on each application form is this information: "I desire to feed ( ) persons in my household. Their blank applications for canning sugar are attached to this form. Show thereon are their ration book numbers.

Applications for canning sugar can not be honored unless the complete information is provided by the housewife state of each of the ration administration.

Each housewife who realizes her error in submitting only the application form from her own book should then send the required additional applications from the books of each member of her family. On each form she should print the serial letters and number from each individual ration book.

With these additional applications forms she should send a letter stating once again her name, address, serial letters and number of her personal ration book.

Applications may be sent to local Ration Boards.

There are openings for twenty girls or women to enlist as Cooks in the R.C.A.F. in April. This is an unusual opportunity for girls or women interested in taking a special course in cookery since the course or training is given at the Macdonald institute at Guelph for an institution which, prior to the war, was rated one of the outstanding schools of its kind in the Dominion. The barracks accommodation and surroundings for the R.C.A.F. Cookery school are particularly good, and those taking the course stay at the palatial club house of Victory Field.

ISLAY

Wally Easton is home on a two weeks' leave. On Saturday Patsy rushed in from Tring to spend the week end

Pte. Bill Reid is here on a two weeks' leave. Bill donated two special prizes to the bingo on Friday night, one for the ladies and one for the men. Mrs. Dick Boodsman won the ladies' and Mr. Schafer won the men's. A beautiful wool lined quilt donated to the Red Cross by Mrs. Pyle was won by Jean Gould on No. 16. The quilt was red and white — each block a different pattern and brought $15.50 in all.

We are hoping to have an Aid in Russia night before long.

On April 2 in the Sr. school the Jr. Literary Club are sponsoring a penny carnival and sale of work.

We notice Mr. James Mooney in town this week. Glad to see him here again.

You men, Ill—Just in case the lady of the house isn't making bread for you, here is a method one man used. Instead of his usual quota in having bread he took home a two small quantity and told the lady, "That is all we get this week, as bread is on ration." We are not saying that he got home made bread, but you can try for yourself and see if it works.

Mrs. Anderson of Trimbleville spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. John Young.

Mr W. G. Urquhart went to Edmonton Monday night for medical attention as he has not been feeling very well of late.

Dr. Grant spent a few days at Wainwright.

A mixed bonspiel is underway. To night an exciting game was being played. McEachern against Mrs. Mc. McKee. About fourth end it stood 7-1 in favor of McEachern, then Mc. Rae got 4 and then a 3. Perhaps some of it will come in before we go to the mail.

It is thawing fast here, snow is going down and ponds are forming everywhere.

Dave Martin sold his team of drivers to Bill Astley, we notice them in town occasionally.

The Jr. Red Cross of the Jr school are working hard too. A beautiful rose bed doll drawn at the bingo went to Mrs. Dupuit. It brought $5.45.

John Kelly and family moved to Edmonton this week. John is mechanic for an American company.

Mrs. Bessie Ringland was in Vermilion Saturday and reports an enjoyable time.

YOU HEAR IT at all hours . . . the long-drawn cry of the locomotive whistle. It's the war whoop of the railways.

It may be a troop train speeding to keep a date with a convoy . . . it may be a long freight loaded with tanks, guns and other materials of war, many of them built by the railways themselves . . . it may be another week's supply of raw materials to keep a war plant in production, or food, fuel and other essentials for the home front.

It is the proud war whoop of Canada's greatest war industry—the railways, which are serving the nation as effectively in war as in peace. Only the railways can furnish mass transportation on such a scale.

Your railways were ready . . . ready in war, so that Canada could strike with all her might. They will be ready in peace again to serve a greater Canada . . . rolling ever forward on high-ways of steel.

VERMILION VALLEY COUNCIL HOLDS TWO-DAY SESSION

Norman McClellan Re-Elected as Reeve — No Change in Council Personnel

The statutory meeting of the M. D. of Vermilion Valley No. 102 was held in the Mun. office on Monday and Tuesday 15th and 16th March. The following councillors were present: W. H. Gordon, N. McClellan, Geo. E. Shepherd, David McPhee, Arthur Lord and W. R. Kent.

The meeting was opened by the Returning Officer, Wm. R. Simmonds and the re-elected councillors Mr. W. H. Gordon in Div. 1 and Mr. George E. Shepherd in Div. 2 were sworn in.

The Returning Officer called for nominations for Reeve and Mr. McClellan was declared elected.

Minutes of the last meeting, Jan. 29th were read and confirmed. Financial statements for months of Jan. and Feb. were read and accepted.

Cr. David McPhee was appointed Dep. Reeve for the first half of 1943.

The Reeve or Dep. Reeve and the Sec.-Treas. were empowered to attend to all banking business including any business with the Treasury Branch.

Messrs. Patriquin, Johnstone and Co. were appointed auditors for 1943.

Raise or pay to councillors for attending meetings and mileage were set as in former years.

Dr. Bradford was appointed M.H.O. for west half of the M.D. and Dr. Sweet for the east half for current year.

Council decided that Soldier home lands shall be levied on and will be cancelled at a future time according to their discharge.

Tax Sale will be held Oct. 22 at 2 p.m. By-law No. 54 to provide for consolidation of taxes was given 3 readings. By-law No. 55 given three readings. This gives the estimated expenditure for the year and sets the Municipal rate. This is 11 mills the same as the last few years. The school rate will also be the same viz. 12 mills. Council was able to avoid an increase on school levy because of better school collections in 1942. No change in Vermilion hospital rate, which is again 2.5 mills, but Islay hospital has been lowered from 2.5 to 2.25 mills.

No change in salary to the Sec.-Treas. which includes any assistance needed in the office. The Sec'y was also appointed Assessor with power to delegate any special work if such should occur. Office hours are not changed and are as follows: From 10 to 12.30 a.m. and from 1 to 5 p.m. with Wednesday office closed. This is done to afford time to keep the office work up to date.

Road Plan 2804 M.D. was cancelled at the request of the Dept. of Public Works. This plan will be superseded by a new plan. This is done to allow for a small change in the new highway at the W. ½ of 26-46-5. Applications for expenditure on roads were set at the old figure viz. $15/60 for each division with an additional allowance of $1000 to Div. 2 to cover extra expenditure last year on new north road.

On the second day of the meeting the first thing taken up was the setting of prices for roadwork. New prices are as follows: Blade man $3.25 per day of 8 hours; Man and 4 horses $7; Man and two horses $5; Foreman and grader man $4.25 per day; Maintaining 50c per double mile and tractor and driver $2.50 per hour.

There were only a few applications in to lease Municipal lands and these were dealt with. It is hoped that others desiring to lease these lands will apply without loss of time. Application for a Government grant of $250 for 1943 was made. Mrs. Mary Dixon's application for Mother's allowance was approved. The Council will act as a Court of Revision one day April 17th at 2 p.m. A grant of $80 was made to the Red Cross. 10c of this to be credited to the Vermilion branch and $20 to Islay branch.

By-law No. 56 to provide for levying of a Poll tax received two readings. Third reading will be given at April meeting. This by-law will be for school purposes. Also a resolution was passed authorizing a Poll tax for municipal purposes.

The Sec'y was instructed to place $2500 on contents of the office and to insure used street machinery and Crop Improvement plow. That list will be of only a temporary nature.

Note was taken that although a time to apply for grass seed had expired the amount available was considerably in excess of applications. Farmers desiring to avail themselves of this opportunity to increase their grass acreage are urged to get their applications in to the office without delay. Applications may be made to the District Agriculturist, Mr. E. H. Buckingham or to the Sec.-Treasurer.

Bills amounting to $2076.96 were passed and council adjourned.

(This bulletin was intended for last week's Standard but was received too late for inclusion in that issue—the news covered is from March 12 to 17.)

Well folks, here we are again to tell you some more news of the district.

The gingham dance held under the auspices of the Morrison War Workers Mission was held on March 15th after all the postponements. Every one seemed to enjoy it and appeared to be having the time of their lives. At midnight came the fatal moment when the ties were collected and auctioned by Mr. Gillies. This measure was taken as the crowd was so small and expenses couldn't be met. However the men were great sports and thank you was had over the bidding as there were only eight across. The men seemed very cunning with the bows of all shapes and sizes tied or pinned on and such a matching of materials amid much laughing and many Oh's! After supper someone suggested that the men should wear the aprons and a prize given to the best dressed lady (man). Such a scramble for ladies apparel as each lady tried to see if she could win the prize for her partner. It is certainly too bad that space could not be taken. Fred Gould and Gordon Gould were tied as winners — but Gordon got most of the prize, an all day sucker. Miss Jean Gould and Miss Wolters dressed the prize winners. Mr. Gillies with an apron, tie and cotton pot gave the impression that we could have coffee even if it is rationed. The men showed a tendency to rationing in clothes too, for their clothes were tight. The music was peppy and one would have to have very old bones indeed if they didn't respond to the quick and lively rhythm. The dance ended with "God Save the King". The only mishap was Gordon Gould taking a large shrinkhead of people too quickly out of the school grounds and tipping them over as neatly as vegetables and flowers ever.

The poet gives a vivid picture of what garden lovers think of their flowers.

"Grant me this prayer Oh Lord! That when my eyelids close In last long sleep I may awake — To find my hand upon a garden gate And passing through Feel in my face The scent of mignonette."

Rodrick McDaniel, after serving over three years in the Canadian army overseas, is now serving his country on the B.C. coast.

The eight car shops of the Canadian National Railways have rebuilt more than 5,000 cars for war traffic.

THREE NEW PLATOON OFFICERS POSTED TO TRAINING CENTRE

Come from Widely Separated Cities

From homes as widely spaced across Canada as could be imagined, three recent graduates of Ste. Anne de Bellevue, P.Q., Training Centre (Administration) have been posted to Vermilion Basic Training Centre in Alberta, as platoon officers. They have in common, besides a desire to be of service to their country, a love of sports, each also has a brother on active service.

2nd Lieut. Jean MacFarlane is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. MacFarlane of Edmundston, N.B. Holding her Bachelor of Science degree in Household Economics from Mount Allison University, Sackville, N.B., she was elected for six months at the Royal Victoria hospital in Montreal. Enlisting in March, 1942, she was in the Orderly Room (C.W.A.C.) of No. 11 Coy., Shaughnessy Barracks; she was promoted to the rank of corporal in June, and to that of sergeant in August. Her officer's course followed in December at Ste. Anne de Bellevue.

Miss MacFarlane has been active in Brownie and C.G.I.T. work, and at University was captain of the Inter-Collegiate basketball team, besides serving on various committees, she is the life vice-president at the class of, 1936. In addition to sports, sketching and leather-tooling are her hobbies. Her brother, Sgt. Gordon MacFarlane, has been overseas since 1939 with the Princess Louise Dragoon Guards.

2nd Lieut. Olive Mary Barrington-Foote of Victoria was a clerk in the "Victoria Book Stationery" and also at Woodward's store prior to enlistment April 20, 1942. After Basic Training at Ste. Anne de Bellevue, P.Q., she was posted back to Victoria in Medical stores. When after six months in Vancouver in the same position, she returned to Ste. Anne for her officer's course in December.

Miss Barrington-Foote's parents are Capt. and Mrs. R.C. Barrington-Foote of Prince George, where her father is Deputy Provincial Secretary Marshall of the 8th Division. Gunner Alan Barrington-Foote is in the R.C.A., also stationed at the Coast, is her brother.

Miss Barrington-Foote is enthusiastic about gymnasium work, as far as sports are concerned, and also enjoys reading a great deal.

2nd Lieut. Constance Muriel Richards is probably the smallest officer in the C.W.A.C., but she made her application to enlist three times before finally being accepted when the medical height requirement was lowered. A bookkeeper in the Bank of Montreal for two years, she then worked in the Fort William, Ont., library for ten years and for fifteen months was in charge of the library at 102nd C.A. (H) TC. at Fort William. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H.H. Richards, live in that city also.

Enlisting in Winnipeg in January, 1942, she took Basic Training at Montreal Barracks there and was posted to the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps office. There she remained for two months, taking her officer's course at Ste. Anne de Bellevue, in November. Her interest in sports centres mainly on skiing and skating.

A brother overseas is Capt. J. S. Richards, and her father is Base officer between Air Cadets of Ft. William and the R.C.A.F.

The next time you are frying or roasting something, just imagine the satisfaction it would give you to pour that hot fat right down the back of Adolph, Tojo or Benito.

You can even do better than that. Take those greasewaxes, and glycerine makes high explosives to send those murderers, destroy their aeroplanes and tanks. Fats are needed by the ton for war industry.

Every spoonful of dripping, every ounce of scrap fat, and every bone, cooked, uncooked or dry, must be saved. Make all dripdrops though an ordinary strainer into a clean wide-mouthed can. When you have collected a pound or more of fat dripdrops take it to your meat dealer who will pay you the established price for the dripping and the scrap fat. The fats are processed to obtain glycerine and other materials for explosives. Your collection can mean the difference in your country's war effort.

You can be a munitions maker right in your own home. Save every drop every day, this easy way, keep working for Victory by saving every drop of fat dripping, every piece of scrap fat, and every bone.

This campaign is for the duration.

ISLAND HILL

Whist drive and dance in aid of the Red Cross held at the school Friday was well supported by folks from Campbell Lake, Gap Lake and other points. The whist winners were Mrs. L. McCrea, Mrs. Cliff McCrea and Miss E McCrea, Joe McCambridge, Cliff McCrea and W. Sykes. The McCrea family were in winning form carrying off four of the six prizes offered. D. Seddon was M.C. The music for the dance was dispensed by the Vermilion orchestra and highly enjoyed by all. Messrs. Ketchum and N. Armstrong were M.C.s. Mrs. McDaniel served a dainty lunch. Miss Roland must have been highly pleased at the great success of the evening. Mrs. L. McCrea, and Mrs. Richardson also helped to make matters run smoothly.

Dick McDaniel, R.C.A.F., Dough, Hunk and Frank were guests at the home of Mrs. Richardson, Monday.

You may not believe it but spring is here and most farmers are ready to start operations except those unfortunate whose crops have been feeding mice, field chickens and rabbits all winter. Well, yah know the old saying—"It is an ill wind that blows no one any good."

Folks who love a garden are looking forward to having the best

Proposed Motorcade

To Enable People To View The Majestic Scenery On Road To Alaska

4281

Possibility of a "motorcade" over the new Alaska highway this summer to enable civilian motorists to view the majestic scenery of northern Canada and Alaska, was advanced at Calgary.

A report from Winnipeg stated a western committee was discussing plans for the "motorcade" in view of inquiries from all parts of U.S. and Canada from motorists who wish to travel over the new route.

Military authorities, of course, will have to give the "green light" before anything definite can be assured. The end of the war will have to be "in sight" before a "motorcade" is likely

SMILE AWHILE

"Now that the war has placed men more or less on the same level," declares a gossip-writer, "I am afraid the end of the Old School Tie is in sight." "Never if it is neatly tied," says a chaplain.

Young Wife: "I'm afraid, dear, my pie is not all it should be. I think I must have left something out."

Husband: "Nothing you left out could make it taste like that."

Mother: "Betty, John brought you very late last night."

Betty: "Yes, it was late, Mother. Did the noise disturb you?"

Mother: "No, dear, it wasn't the noise. It was the silence."

The teacher was testing the observation ability of the kindergarten class. Slapping a hair-dolce on the desk, she said sharply: "What is this?"

Instantly a voice from the back row cried: "Talla."

Was Quite Correct

But Recruit Was Thinking Of Another Kind Of Adjutant

The young recruit, a university graduate, was appearing before the army examination board.

The first "intelligence question was "What is an adjutant?"

Came the reply: "An adjutant is a large bird of uncouth appearance. It has an almost bald head, a tremendous capacity for eating and acts as a public scavenger. It can swallow a cat with ease."

The examining officer almost fainted

Subsequent investigation, however, proved that the recruit was correct. His was an almost word-by-word definition as laid down in the National and Everyman's encyclopedia.

THE APPEARANCES AFTER THE RESURRECTION

Golden text: I am alive for evermore. Revelation 1:18.
Lesson: John 20:19 to 21. 25.
Devotional reading: Psalm 16.

Explanations and Comments

Jesus appears to You of the Disciples, John 20:19-23. On the evening of the first Easter, in that upper room hallowed by the presence of the Master, the bewildered disciples were met together, secretly, for fear of the Jews. They were crushed by the cruelness of their Lord, filled with doubt and terror, when Jesus suddenly appeared in their midst and said, "Peace be unto you." The door was closed, and they were terrified (Lk. 24:37), thinking they were gazing at a spirit. To reassure them and to convince them of his identity, Jesus showed them his hands, through which the nails had been driven to fasten him to the cross, and his side, which the soldier's spear had pierced. The disciples believed and were filled with joy.

Again Jesus said to them, "Peace be unto you." This may have been a repetition of his previous greeting, or it may have been that after something occurred to interest them as a farewell when he was about to leave them. And then he breathed on his "Easter commission," as the Catholic Bible terms it, and bade them continue his work: "As the Father hath sent me, even so send I you" were his words. And then came the bestowment of power to carry out his commission: "Receive the Holy Ghost," and exhorted them to receive the Holy Spirit. The Greek word "pneuma", translated "Spirit", means literally breath; compare Luke 24:45.

"Inspiration is inbreathing. It is an uplifting influence of one spirit upon another. A congregation listens to an inspiring address; an audience to inspiring music. Such breathings, feelings pour from mind to mind. One soul breathes life into another's soul; God breathes life into us all. The Holy Spirit, the

She is survived by her husband, one daughter, Mrs. D. Barlow of Edmonton, and one sister in England.

The late Mrs. Miranda Wintersgill came to live in the Cummings district on a homestead in the spring of 1905. She was the fourth woman in the settlement, two of whom predeceased her. Alberta owes a great deal to the early settlers, especially the women, who shared a cheery word for the strangers coming into our midst. Mail store was a long distance affair, and in the early days in our settlers lives to receive mail or go to the store. There were no schools or churches in the early days but church was held in the settlers' homes by an ordained Presbyterian minister who came to homestead. Then students from these churches became amongst the people. The deceased always took an active part in affairs and on many occasions helped round up what promised to be dull times, having lived a city life previous to going on the homestead.

Although living to a ripe old age her death was hastened by the burst leg of a thirty ton water main in zone 10 before weather. Her husband attempted to carry her to safety but was washed off his feet, both being taken from the water by a young boy who had seen them start from the house. As a result Mrs. Wintersgill was badly chilled and frozen, and sank until death came to relieve her sufferings in the early morning of March 6th.

NATION-WIDE SURVEY OF NURSES

A nation-wide survey to determine the nurse-power in Canada, where it is, what it is, and the best use that can be made of it for the duration of the war is being made under the auspices of the Canadian Medical Procurement and Assignment Board, was announced recently.

The Canadian Nurses Association, as one of the groups primarily concerned with the health of the nation, is taking an active part and is lending every possible assistance in the survey which will extend into every province and cover all health fields.

At the same time National Selective Service has announced that a registration of all graduate nurses, active and inactive, married and single, was carried out from March 17th to 19th.

The findings of the survey will be correlated with the findings of the registration to be conducted by National Selective Service.

Since the outbreak of the war, increasing demands have been carried out on a more limited scale. The present survey is a much more comprehensive one. It has been described by the Minister of National Defence as "a project of the utmost importance in the prosecution of the war."

The analysis of the findings of the survey will undoubtedly assist in solving problems of the region that are experienced now in all fields in which nurses are employed.

It will also make possible the formulation of more comprehensive plans to meet both the military and civilian needs when there is an adequate supply of nurses to meet emergencies.

The latest figures made available show that there are approximately 22,000 registered nurses in Canada, and a total of 11,000 nurses in training

ASK IMMEDIATE ACTION ON FARM HELP SHORTAGE

Board of Trade Takes Up Matter with Ottawa

Critical farm labor shortage with no apparent action being taken by Ottawa, was the cause of emergency meetings of the Vermilion Board of Trade executive held over the week-end. The meetings finally culminated in air mail letters being sent to the Ministers of Labor, Agriculture and National Defence at Ottawa, as well as to Mr. Robert Fair, M.P. for Battle River. The same message was sent to the offices of the Alberta Associated Boards of Trade and Agriculture at Vegreville and concerted action asked of that body, and to the Prov. Minister of Agriculture.

Since the local board has taken up this subject very far action at Ottawa has spread quickly and to now widespread in the farming communities of the west.

The Vermilion Board was asked to exert some action last week-end and subsequent investigations have revealed that already this year there has been an alarming downward trend in livestock production in Vermilion district, despite the fact that no subsidies are obtainable. Crop District No. 10 which includes Vermilion, is supposed to be the banner district for production in every line but wheat. This cannot be done without man power for the land. The seriousness of the situation is well known and is decidedly bad while it is estimated that still more for next year's crop will be required if the full production of this district is to maintain its present level. Lacking help the farmer who is really producing the hogs, cattle and dairy products will have no choice but to cut down on or clear of his livestock and this alarming trend has already begun.

It is felt that the National Selective Service has fallen down badly through lack of recognition of farming as an essential industry, and the Board of Trade is asking the government at Ottawa to remedy the damage done as quickly and as much as possible.

The text of the resolution sent to Ottawa follows:

Whereas this year Farm Production will be strained to the utmost due to two factors, namely, shortage of labour and an early long winter.

Whereas farmers having large holdings organized to produce essential farm produce such as cream, beef, cattle and hogs, are facing a dilemma right now. If farm help is not made available, which is not the case right now, they will be forced to dispose of livestock, which took years to build up, within the next six or seven weeks. Such disposal will seriously affect 1942 and 1944 production of essential food.

Whereas the farm labor shortage in the West is most acute, and calling an immediate crisis, particularly by reason of threshing the 1942 crop starting in the very rush and spring farm operations which will see the farming communities to the utmost.

And Whereas this is a National emergency, which, if not taken care of at once will seriously affect the volume of food stuffs available during the 1943 and 1944 and thereby reduce our War Effort, and every available man experienced in farming is the first person needed to assist the farming effort.

Therefore Be It Resolved in the opinion of the Vermilion Board of Trade,

That, the Dominion Government should put into force and operation immediately some assistance policy to obtain seasonal farm help, and towards that end immediately proclaim in farming districts provisions in the Selective Service Act, whereby we understand sub - marginal farmers' sons may be granted a monthly subsidy in addition to going wages, to work on the larger established farms

That, for temporary help as perfected farmers in the Military Forces be formed at once into Farm Labour Battalions, and given basic exemption to assist in farming operations during this spring and fall

That, the farm labor shortage is so desperate, drastic action should be taken without further delay. Can Ada is to continue to produce the farm produce needed to successfully prosecute our War Effort

That copies of this resolution be forwarded to the Minister of Labour, the Minister of Agriculture and such other persons as in the opinion of the President and Secretary may be advisable.

VERMILION CENTRE FOR VICTORY LOAN MEETING

Dr. MacOdrum of Ottawa Speaker

Volunteer workers of the National War Finance Committee of the area from Ft. Saskatchewan to Lloydminster met in Vermilion on Thursday last for the purpose of hearing Dr. MacOdrum or Ottawa, representative of the Finance Dept. outline the necessity for manpower, hard work to make the forthcoming Victory Loan completely successful.

Representatives were in attendance from Fort Saskatchewan, Vegreville, Lamont, Mannville, Clandonald, Kitscoty, Lloydminster and Vermilion, the meeting having been organized by S. C. Herbert, Fuel organizer for the Vermilion territory.

Dr. MacOdrum spoke forcefully regarding the loan, and its objectives and those who heard him received a good deal of valuable instruction concerning the great financial problem of the Dominion of Canada in war time; the loan which is to be floated from April 1st for four weeks, one billion dollars and Vermilion district quota will be considerably increased over that of the last loan.

It was pointed out that huge sums of money are at present in savings bank accounts and that investors are practically exempt from taxation at present thereon; by subscribing to the Dominion Victory Bonds the income from the investment is put doubled and the security behind the loan is increased to a great extent. Dr. MacOdrum pointed out that those having spare funds in banks through out Canada were not receiving the full benefit of their savings but that the banks were investing their customers money and receiving the larger interest profit; it would seem therefore that did not profitable to retain bank deposits would be well advised to buy bonds which will assist Canada at this time and at the same time, increase their revenue earning.

Accompanying Dr. MacOdrum was Mr. A. A. Craig, formerly Deputy Minister of Agriculture for Alberta and now chairman of the Alberta committee of the National War Finance Committee and Mr. I. H. Blackmore, Divisional Organizer for the Victory Loan campaign. Mr. Craig discussed details of the Victory loan and made a number of valuable suggestions to the men who will be entrusted with the raising of a large sum in this area.

REFINERY IN OPERATION WITHIN THIRTY DAYS

Plant Under Personal Direction of J. K. Swanson

Mr. C. O. Brown of Rochester the Managing Director of the Vermilion Oil Refinery Co. Ltd., spent several days in town during the past week and has appointed John K. Swanson General Manager of the Refinery Co. Mr. Swanson, who arrived here on Wednesday, met with the plant since its beginning, as a director. He is President and manager of the local gas company also of the Northwestern Natural Gas Company of Saskatoon, and Assistant General manager of Frames Oils Ltd.

Mr. Swanson, when asked by the Standard what plans he had in mind for operating the refinery, said, "The refinery, barring conditions over which I have no control, would be in operation within 30 days." He went on to say that substantial changes were being made at the plant and some of the necessary material and equipment was already on hand. The need for fuel oil was more serious than ever and he was certain that the operating of the refinery would give great impetus to further development of the Vermilion area.

Mr. Swanson was also hopeful that discussions now taking place would pave the way for continuous operation of the refinery. "I am in the spirit of co-operation and I expect understanding of production and re pairs," he said, "but given the company sufficient confidence to proceed with all possible haste in its constructive program to place our unit in operation."

The new cement storage unit at the plan now contains approximately 6,000 barrels of cement, a considerable and steady supply of fuel oil to the kilns is assured and the plant is fulfilled to capacity.

GRAND EXALTED RULER ELKS VISITS VERMILION

Marks Historic Occasion—Mortgage on Hall Burned

Perhaps the most outstanding and successful in the history of Elkdom in Vermilion took place on Wednesday of last week March 24th, when Vermilion Lodge No. 131 were hosts to visiting brothers and their ladies from Lloydminster, Vegreville and Viking. The gathering was further distinguished by the presence of Brother J. P. Parkinson, Toronto, Grand Exalted Ruler of B.P.O. Elks of Canada and Newfoundland and also by Brother P. A. Migneron, of Winnipeg Lodge, Grand Lodge representative and Brother T. Conway, Lloydminster, Grand Tiler. Other honored guests were Brother Ben Wm. Brown, of Viking and Brother Bro C. Benton of Vegreville.

The evening commenced with a banquet served in the Elks hall by George Capatos, at which 128 Elks and ladies sat down to a most beautiful and delicious turkey dinner. The dinning was given by Grand Exalted Ruler Conway immediately following the toast to the King was proposed by the chairman, Exalted Ruler H. Cooper. Exalted Ruler of Vermilion Lodge. Mrs. A. M. Wyatt then proposed a toast to the Order of Elks in a very gracious manner stressing their charity and service work, which toast was responded to by Bro. Jim Taylor who stated in his reply that although Elkdom was not by any means the oldest order, it dotted its hat to none in the services rendered to the community and to the Dominion.

The chairman then extended a most hearty welcome on behalf of the Vermilion Elks, to the assembled guests, expressing his keen appreciation at the fact that so many were able to attend, and of the very great honor conferred on District No. 10 and on Vermilion in particular by the visit of J.S.R. Bro Ferguson. Suitable replies were made on behalf of their respective lodges by E.R. Bro. Coleman of Vegreville and E.R. Bro. McBride Lloydminster, in which both expressed their thanks to Vermilion for the opportunity provided to fraternize and to meet the leading Elk for the Dominion of Canada

Bro P. A. Migneron, grand lodge representative was introduced by the gathering by District Deputy Bro Conway. Bro Migneron in his capacity as the responsible position of presiding, knows more about Elkdom and the various leaders in the Dominion than any other officer in Grand Lodge under ordinary circumstances. Bro Migneron's address was one of inspiration at this and one which made all present fully conscious of the responsibilities entailed in living up to Elkdom's ideals of the order. He also congratulated the lodge on which each Elk belonged.

The Victory Loan

ON APRIL 28 Canada's fourth Victory Loan Campaign will commence. Each of the preceding campaigns has been greatly over-subscribed and there is no doubt but that the Canadian people will gladly give their financial support to the winning of the war. It is likely that the coming months will see many critical events on land and sea and in the air. Thousands of our men are on active service, ready at all times to do whatever is required of them, no matter what personal sacrifice may be entailed. Everyone cannot be in the armed forces but we can all do our utmost to make sure that those who are fighting will not be handicapped by lack of financial support for the war by the people at home.

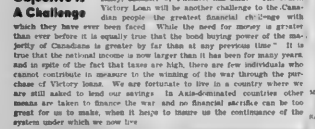
Small Loans Are Important

The objective for this loan is $1,100,000,000, and individual subscribers have been asked to contribute $300,000,000 of this sum. This means that small investors must purchase about $27½ more than they did in the last Victory Loan. For this reason more than ever before, the average Canadian citizen is asked to make every effort to invest as fully as possible in the loan and there is no doubt but that the response to the appeal will be generous. We all want to win the war, and to bring it to an end as quickly as possible and this is one way in which all Canadians at home can show their determination at this time.

* * * * * *

Objective Is A Challenge

Speaking of the approaching campaign, Hon. J. L. Ilsley, Minister of Finance, has said: "The fourth Victory Loan will be another challenge to the Canadian people the greatest financial challenge with which they have ever been faced. While the need for money is greater than ever before it is equally true that the bond buying power of the majority of Canadians is greater by far than at any previous time." It is true that the national income is now larger than it has been for many years, and in spite of the fact that taxes are high, there are few individuals who cannot contribute in measure to the winning of the war through the purchase of Victory bonds. We are fortunate to live in a country where we are still asked to lend our savings. In Axis-dominated countries other means are taken to finance the war and no financial sacrifice can be too great for us to make, when it helps to insure us the continuance of the system under which we now live.



Wartime conditions call attention to certain types of food which have hitherto been greatly neglected despite their high nutritive content, but which now can readily substitute for foods which are hard to obtain.

For example, in Canada, we throw away thousands of pounds of skim milk every year. A great deal of course is fed to hogs, but even this is waste, nutritionists tell us, for the nutritients in skim milk, pound for pound, equal those of muscle meat, and 10 pounds of these nutrients is required to produce one pound of food nutrents in the form of meat. Other less costly foods would do as well for hogs. The skim milk in the form of powder can provide us with valuable proteins in our bread, cakes and puddings. Buttermilk, too, is highly nutritious matching skim milk in its content of vitamins and minerals. It also can be dried and thus distributed more economically.

The most nutritious parts of beef and pork carcasses, strange to say, are seldom chosen by the customer and are wasted by being made into fertilizer. The blood, heart, stomach, liver, pancreas, kidney, brain and heart are spurned by many people. Actually these organs are tremendously rich in the essential vitamins and minerals. The Navajo Indian of the United States, for example, who was in contrast to many other Indian groups, has retained his vigor despite proximity to the white man's civilization, consumes all vestiges of the sheep or goat he kills and exhibits a decided preference for the contents of the stomach. He eats the organs first.

Nutritionists point out that much could be done to improve the nutritive quality of processed meats by including to them organ meat and blood. It is an actual fact that the dog food manufactured by Canadian packers, containing much of what they designate as offals, is superior in nutritive value to most of the meat they market for human use.

By utilizing these unusual foods Canadians would not only discover exciting new dishes but would be certain of obtaining the vitamins and minerals they need.

Rationing In Use By Indians Over Four Centuries Ago

Robert A. Waschope director of Tulane University's Middle American Research Institute, says the North American Indians were practicing rationing four centuries ago.

During a warring period when armies of 60 000 to 125 000 men were on the move, an adequate supply of food, equipment and other provisions were accumulated in advance and then allocated to each of the fighting men Waschope said.

Some tribes carried fighting rations with them in gourds which hung around the warrior's neck. The gourds were filled with hominy to which they added water.

When they ran short they ate acted tribute' Hitler style, from the land in which they were fighting. There still are picture records extant of the times before the conquest showing how much each town was made to contribute," Waschope said.

Fats Urgently Needed

Even Smallest Amount Should Not Be Overlooked

Is fat being wasted in your kitchen? Some meat experts say that half the fat content of veal and beef, four-fifths of the fat content of mutton and lamb, three-fifths the fat content of pork, and one-fourth the fat of poultry is wasted in the kitchen.

On the alert for every source of waste fats to be delivered from kitchen sinks to Canadian war industries to the tune of 25,000,000 pounds this year, careful cooks will not overlook the amount to be obtained from liquids in which meats are boiled, or the extra fat skimmed from meat soups and stews.

Even the smallest household where the cooking is done on a single electric plate has meat stock, or a pan of water in which a single pig's hock is boiled, when cooled and skimmed, will yield three or four tablespoonfuls of this vital grease. This with dripping from chops, bacon and suspender will soon add up to a pound. When this amount has been obtained it should be disposed of through the neighborhood meat market or a village collection agency, together with scrap fats and bones.

Important to remember, advises national salvage headquarters, is that no amount should be considered too small to save.

Must Be Right

Temperature in Factories Making Airplane Parts Cannot Be Variable

Parts for fighting aircraft have to be so exact, the difference in temperature between the day and night shifts mad the parts vary, states W. L. Clark, in the Windsor Star. A part made in the same plant at part made into the same plant at 2 p.m. So air conditioning and similar modern improvements must be installed in plants to make the temperature, humidity and all conditions the same, whether at noon or midnight.

FOOD FROM AUSTRALIA

Australia has furnished American forces in the South Pacific area with more than 20,000,000 pounds of fresh meats, 20,000,000 pounds of potatoes, 25,000,000 pounds of fruit and [illegible] pounds of milk.

Keeps People Informed

Red Cross Always Obtains News About Prisoners Of War

Every day almost since the first of the year, the newspapers have carried stories of air raids on enemy territory and invariably the story carries the ominous note "some of our aircraft are missing." If these are R.C.A.F planes, it is reasonable to assume that some of the fliers have parachuted to comparative safety and have been interned as prisoners of war. Each time this happens the Red Cross through the International Red Cross in Switzerland brings reassuring news to the loved ones telling he is safe. They proceeds to send him regularly the parcels and food which are the only bright spots in his cooped-up existence.

SEAT SUGAR PRODUCTION

It is estimated that the 83 300 acres of sugar beet grown in Canada in 1942 produced 300 million pounds of refined sugar, or about one-fifth of Canada's normal consumption. The objective for 1943 is at present considered to be the greatest amount of beet sugar that can be produced with present plant facilities.

Famous For His Grin

Ivan Maisky, Soviet Ambassador To Britain, Always Has One Ready

L. S. B. Shapiro, London correspondent, says: British diplomats have always been noted for their capacity to conceal emotion under a mask of cool indifference, but none of them has been able to match the uniform grin which hides the emotions of Ivan Maisky, the Soviet Ambassador. A diplomatic correspondent recalled the other day a Lord Mayor's dinner in 1935. As each distinguished guest was announced, there was warm applause. When Ambassador Maisky's name was announced, there was a pregnant silence. Mr. Maisky's reaction was a grin. In early 1939, when Britain was feverishly trying to court Russian favor, Mr. Maisky was cheered wherever he went. He greeted the ovations with the same grin. The Russo-German treaty of August, 1939, saw Mr. Maisky into disfavor. Again he was coldly received—but that same meaningless grin never left his face. One day in the Commons Lees-Smith had harsh things to say about Russia and she said them while waving her arms in the direction of Mr. Maisky's seat in the diplomatic gallery. The eyes of all were upon him. His only reaction was the grin. Today Mr. Maisky is a triumphant hero wherever he goes. At banquets and mass meetings, at military reviews and in the Commons, he bears glowing things said about him and his country. His reaction has not changed. It is still—the grin.

Thrive On New Diet

Dogs Can Get Along Very Well Without Much Meat

President Frank D. McKenney of the San Diego Veterinary Medical Association, urges owners of dogs not to part with their pets for fear meat and other rationing will deprive them. Many over-refined diets to which they become accustomed. He says the dogs will thrive better on a diet of one-third meat, one-third cereal, one-third fruits and vegetables, and one-third raw meat scraps, then on the usual steaks, kidneys, lamb chops and other edibles which they are now being fed.

GEMS OF THOUGHT

DESIRED

Our nature is inseparable from desires, and the very word desire is a craving for something not possessed—implies that our present felicity is not complete.—Thomas Hobbes

There is a longing capricious to nature; and the implanting of a desire indicates that its gratification is in the constitution of the creature that feels it.—Emerson.

A wise man will desire no more than he may get justly, use soberly, distribute cheerfully, and taste contentedly.—Richard E. Burton.

Happiness consists in the attainment of our desires, and in having only right desires.—Augustine.

Desire is prayer; and no loss can occur from trusting God with our desires, that they may be moulded and enabled before they take form in words and in deeds.—Mary Baker Eddy.

Therefore I [Jesus] say unto you, What things soever ye desire, when ye pray, believe that ye receive, and ye shall have them.—Mark 11:24.

How To Conserve Heat

From Dusk To Daylight Keep Window Shades Pulled Down

The fickle days of spring are close upon you. The weeks when the weather blows warm one day and cold the next. It is a period when women in homes can do much to save fuel and thus to help relieve the great burden on transportation. Be careful of heat, the government warns, and see that open doors and windows do not waste fuel. Keep your eye on the furnace and don't have big fires needlessly. Help to keep the house comfortable by pulling down the window shades from dusk to daylight. Believe it or not your house is 10 per cent. warmer that way, and this 10 per cent. is enough to make the difference between comfort and shivers on cold spring nights.

Patrol Planes On West Coast To Use Carrier Pigeons

Carrier pigeons are soon going on active service in British Columbia. Aircraft hunting enemy subs off Canada's east coast carry their quota of birds. Before long pigeons will travel with patrol planes of the western air command with bases from Victoria to Alaska.

In a lofty at a west coast air station are several hundred homing birds. R.C.A.F. recruits are learning to care for them. Flt. Sgt. A. Moore, head man at the western air command loft started training pigeons in England over 30 years ago. "The best birds aren't the prize winners," he explained. "We don't want speed, we want to be sure when a bird set out for home it's going to get there."

PRISONERS CROWDED

Nazis Are Shooting Poles Because They Cannot Be Housed

London.—The Germans are shooting prisoners in Polish prisons in wholesale numbers because the prisons have become so full they are having difficulties maintaining security measures, the Polish Telegraph Agency said.

The agency reported that the entire population of the Rowno prison camp in eastern Poland was executed after an attempted break in which two guards were reported to have been killed.

There was a similar incident at the Pinsk camp, the agency said, when a group of armed Poles invaded the prison, killed three of the 12 guards and freed 84 prisoners. Next day the Germans surrounded the prison and shot 40 of the remaining prisoners, the agency added.

No figure was given for the number executed at Rowno.

British M.P. Says Sweden's Attitude Is Definitely Pro-Axis

London.—Sir Alfred Knox, Conservative, told the House of Commons that Sweden's attitude since the beginning of the war had been "definitely pro-Axis" and suggested that the United Nations had power to bring her into line by withholding foodstuffs sent from U.S.

His charge followed questions to the government which asserted that German transport aircraft carrying troops and mounted machine-guns had been passing over Sweden.

Norman Bower, Conservative, asked whether Britain "would make it clear to the Swedish government that these breaches of neutrality on the part of Sweden must react inevitably to her disadvantage."

Richard Law, foreign under-secretary, answered that the facts must be established first.

Trans-Canada Airlines Makes Plans For Future

Ottawa.—Plans for trans-oceanic flyag are under consideration by Trans-Canada Airlines, H. J. Symington, president, announced in his annual report tabled in the House of Commons by Munitions Minister C. D. Howe.

"Canada's national air line is destined to play an important part in post-war aviation," said Mr. Symington. "Canada occupies an important position in the future of the air and the shortest route between North America and Europe and Asia cross Canada and weather conditions are stable for the formulation of detailed programs await developments."

Mr. Symington also announced that Trans-Canada plans a short-route for its Canadian transcontinental service, the new route when opened to be over Lakes Huron and Superior, instead of north of those lakes, and thence to points of exit in the Province of Ontario.

An understanding has been reached between the governments of Canada and U.S. to maintain the existing agreement respecting international air services until after the close of the war but either contracting party may reopen negotiations following six months notice, the reports stated.

In conjunction with the post office authorities Trans-Canada plans to extend its line from Vancouver to Vancouver island as soon as the necessary permit is issued by the board of transport commissioners. Airport facilities now are available and the new service will give Victoria and other island communities direct air mail, passenger and express service to central and eastern provinces.

Indicative of the company's expansion were figures showing that revenue passengers carried increased by 23 per cent., mail carried increased by 66 per cent., and air express by 100 per cent.

The company had 24 Lockheed airplanes in operation at the end of 1942. Its total personnel was 1,862 last Dec. 31, of whom 464 were women.

The balance sheet as at Dec 31 showed current assets of $2,950,064 and current liabilities of $990,239, leaving net working capital of $1,-959,775.

NEW LOAN SLOGAN

"Back The Attack" Is Suggested As Being Most Appropriate

Toronto—Slogan of Canada's next Victory Loan probably will be "Back the Attack," R. J. Dunlevy, public relations adviser to the national war finance committee said.

Half Of Food For Americans Now Rationed

Washington.—Half of the food Americans eat is now under coupon rationing for the duration.

Details of the American rationing program for meat, butter, cheese, fats, cooking oils and canned fish were announced by the office of price administration.

For all these items each person will be allowed 16 points a week from the red stamps on war ration book two.

The point values of meat will change at first from one point per pound for pig's ears, pig's feet and bacon rind to 12 points per pound for dried beef. The Office of Price Administration says point values are based as far as possible on the supply and the known preferences of consumers, and they are subject to change as the supply and demand fluctuate from month to month.

They can divide up 16 points per week given to one person in terms of limited items. For example Americans can buy a pound of steak and a pound of butter at eight points a pound each and thus use up all the 16 points. Or they can buy 16 pounds of pork sausage if they so desire.

Or they can use the 16 points for other items. The value of milk, cheese, canned salmon, canned milk, dried beans and peas, butter, lard and shortening will fluctuate from week to week.

As at present, no stamps are required for fresh fruits and vegetables, fresh fish, poultry, eggs, sugar, coffee, tea, flour, cereals, bread, soap, gasoline, fuel oil, coal, wood, electricity, or services.

Speeches made by the prime minister and other members of the government are distributed by the board when judged of national significance. Such distribution has been made in five instances the return said.

Japanese Must Pay More For Fishing Rights

London.—Japan and Russia, not at war against each other but fighting on opposite sides in the world struggle, have signed an agreement extending Japanese fishing privileges in Soviet far eastern waters, it was announced.

A Moscow broadcast recorded by the Soviet monitor here said, however, that Japanese fishing companies must pay between four and five per cent. more than during last year. The payments are to be in gold as before.

Under the 1942 agreement which ended last Dec. 31 the Russians had exacted a 20-per cent increase in rentals over the price paid by the Japanese in the previous year.

M. A. Lomnisky, vice-commissar for Soviet foreign affairs, and Naotake Sato, Japanese ambassador to Russia signed the 1943 protocol in Kuibyshev, the Moscow broadcast said. The head of the Japanese fishery agreement generally is regarded as a gauge of relations between the two countries who have a security agreement despite the fact that Japan is allied with Germany, and Russia is a member of the United Nations group.

Last year's agreement was signed after Germany had attacked Russia and Japan had attacked the United States. At the time Britain and America declared the renewal agreement "regrettable." A failure to renew however would have been regarded as indicating Soviet-Japanese tension.

In 1942 the terms restricted the Japanese to bidding for concessions on only seven of the 12 fishing grounds most of them off the Kamchatka peninsula.

Russia refused to grant fishing rights would be a severe blow to Japan, whose food supply depends to a large extent on her catch in Russian waters.

A Prairie Teacher And Religious Education

The basic elemental characteristic of religion is its reference to human life to God and its faith in God as the Source and Sustainer of all existence. In my teaching I endeavor to make continual reference to the all essential truth as it appears in almost every subject we study. For example, in nature science constantly it appears how wonderfully God at ranges that how beautifully God makes these how God must love lovely things what order and planning this shows, and so on endlessly. Similarly in geography. While in history and citizenship there is the study of character at work the dealing of God with people their relationship to Him and His other children. From these are lessons to be learned ideas of good behaviour and wrong behaviour and their consequences daily soon at first but gradually unfolding to take literature The art unfolding of types of character from the splendor of heroes to the meanness of undesirables—one of the easiest ways of instilling the love of goodness the sickness of steadiness the happiness of destiny that teaching affords

These are only some of the ways by which religion that which binds us to God, is taught in our schools, in many places I have no doubt certainly wherever there is a Christian teacher at all worthy the name

Physical health has been in the forefront of our educational system for years mental health has been accepted as important for some time it is essential that we do not delay in providing for the promotion of spiritual health, hitherto on primary ly neglected yet as tremendously and vitally valuable and necessary With out that promotion we talk and try to evolve energy in many an cursed best direction without however try ing to touch from whence the power

THEY ALSO SERVE —

It would appear now that no are feeling the lack of a real Selective Service System. There are serious labor shortages in industries which are at last becoming recognized as essentials.

Is it possible that much of our trained man power has been diverted to other fields because the work in which they were formerly employed was not regarded as essential? Only now when the labor shortage is acute do we realize that they were essential at their former tasks.

This applies particularly to Agriculture where the farmers' sons were not recognized as an essential cog in the national economy and now that they are in the Armed Services we realize that they also served but with little recognition.

Let us pause before we condemn a man for not being in uniform and question the part which he plays in a national effort which must be well balanced and uniform before it can be considered effective.

Perhaps service badges should be worn by all of military age to show that in Canada's war effort, he is doing a part considered essential to the March to Victory.

At any rate the agriculturist can now regard himself in the same light in which he is being regarded by most Canadians — without him we cannot eat and unfortunately we have too few for our own welfare.

ISLAY

On Monday all islayites were brought running into the streets Easily seen none of us have had any experience with it before, for an air plane swooped over us, so low that 6296 could be seen clearly, even the number on the left wing. It never thought that pilot was being foolish, others thought he was practising to fly low to drop bombs—But all were wrong. It was just Ralph Easton being flown over to drop a nice big bouquet of flowers to his wife. She didn't land in her yard but anyway it was taken to her.

Schools are back to nine o'clock, and regular schedule time table in action. How many of us are going to like Mr. Sheehan's new holiday for summer? We can't start our school from Gr. 1 to 6 at least, doing much harvesting. We think he may need extra police staff in the town too, while time doesn't make for good. As you will hear many mothers groaning "Oh dear, I wish school was open I don't know what to do with Sam"

Tuesday we awoke to see a grand snow storm Beautiful it was of its 4 feet of snow, they had not been all winter Wonderful country we say Can't see the steeks now that is we in the fields.

Owing to the importance or choosing the right rust-resistant variety of oats to sow, it is suggested that farmers consult their nearest Dominion Experimental Farm or Agricultural College before making the final choice. The rust problem will not be solved by introducing a new rust-resistant variety into a stem-rust district, or vice versa.

ALBERTA FARMERS UNION LOCAL ORGANIZED AT AUTUMN LEAF SCHOOL

Frank Eyben Elected President

A meeting was held in the Autumn Leaf school on Wednesday March 24 to organize a local of the Alberta Farmers' Union in this district

Mr Frank Eyben was chairman, and the principal speaker was Mr. G Nesman of Vermilion, a member of the executive of the A.F.U. and the organizer for the district.

Mr. Nesman laid great stress on the fact that the A.F.U. was non political and non sectarian and it had the object of raising the standard of living of the farmers, claiming that this could be achieved only by organization Referring to the now "famous" chain letter, he said that, in an unguarded moment he had addressed one of them himself to the Hon. J. Gardiner, Minister of Agriculture, and had received a reply from the minister informing him that the Canadian Federation of Agriculture denied authorship of the letter. Mr. Nesman said he was now of the opinion that it was the work of some filthy communist. Concerning prices of farm products, Mr. Nesman was very sure that if we got the parity that we should get and Labor was completely organized, we very well do without the charity, by way of bonuses, that we are at present constrained to accept.

The meeting was well attended there being 27 farmers present. Mr Hinsman's address was listened to very attentively and a number of questions received and an A.F.U. local was organized with Mr. F.H. Eyben as president and Mr. A. Trevithic as vice-president. Secretaries of these present joined the local and it is expected that the membership will increase as the organizational work in the district is that agriculture is not getting the same consideration that the other essential industries are getting and that something should be done about the matter

TWO WAYS TO RAISE MORE YOUNG PIGS

Raise more pigs by stopping losses urges the Agricultural Supplies Board. Many pigs can be added to this year's supply of pork simply if farmers will do two things; Protect young pigs from anaemia and from scours. Anaemia can be prevented by feeding iron. Without iron, many of the best pigs are lost and others weakened and thus more subject to attack by scours. The increase will result in 10 per cent over the previous allowable production of 25 per cent of the value of each question used on the program and an additional dollar will be awarded if a Monarch Paint label is enclosed. So send in your questions about Alberta. More money will be given during the show. Be sure to listen each week and get in the fun and you may get in the money too.

Direct Hits on Lille Steel and Locomotive Works, Scored By U. S. Fortresses During Daylight Raid

The Nazi-run French Lille steel and locomotive works, which produced 100 to 150 manhole rails a month, mainly in addition to other valuable war material for Germany, was the target for a U.S. Flying Fortress daylight attack, Nov. 5, 1942. The Fortresses escorted by Spitfires, scored direct hits on the works and marshal ing yards. Strong fighter opposition was encountered; a number of enemy 'planes were destroyed. Only one Fortress failed to return. Picture above—Bombs bursting in the target area, seen from one of the attacking Fortresses.

THE WORLD OF WHEAT

By M. S. L. Strange
Director, Research Department, Searle Grain Co., Ltd.

THE CHANCES FOR ANOTHER HIGH YIELD

What are the chances for another high yield per acre of wheat this coming year? Many are asking this question.

I have examined carefully the records, and I find that in the past fifty-seven years there have been five years each of high yields per acre that were followed by low yields: 1886, 1895, 1909, 1916 and 1925, but that there have also been five years of high yields which were succeeded by another year of high yield: 1890, 1901, 1905, 1911 and 1927.

On five occasions, therefore, a high yield per acre has been followed by a low yield and on five occasions a high yield per acre has been followed by still another high yield but there has been only one period where three high yields in succession occurred: 1911, 1912 and 1913.

I note, however, that every high yield that has occurred in the West in fifty seven years has been the result of better than average rainfall. It seems, therefore, that whether we have a high or low Field per acre this coming crop will depend mainly upon whether the rain that falls during this coming summer is better than average or less than average. It is to be noted, however, that next year's crop will start in with slightly higher reserves of moisture in the soil than the average.

Following factors have tended to decrease supplies and increase demand: Official estimates place the U.S. winter wheat acreage at 37,482,000 acres which is 15,500,000 acres or 22 per cent below average—The 1942 bread grain production of Germany and the Danube States was only 687 million bushels compared with the pre-war average of 961 million bus.

Following factors have tended to increase supplies and decrease demand: Although wheat acreage was reduced by 12,000,000 acres in Argentina, Australia, U.S.A. and Canada, the four countries produced appreciably two billion bushels of wheat in 1942, an increase of 800,000,000 bus over the previous season—Bread grain acreage in Rumania has been brought close to the official goal by late seeding.

The Week in Legislative Circles . . . In Edmonton

In the Legislature this week members worked at the arduous task of translating figures into words, and words into meanings. They were going over the Estimates, and in the course of their investigations learned more about government policies for the forthcoming year.

Of paramount interest was the information given by Hon. Dr. W. W. Cross that the Kenney treatment of infantile paralysis victims has been found highly successful here, and that the government proposes to have at least one Kenney-trained nurse in every hospital in the province.

Dr. Cross said that experience showed the Kenney method must be used immediately. Delay in starting treatment usually results in failure. He said, "We are getting wonderful results from the treatment."

Speaking in connection with the Alberta Child Welfare Act, which is administered by the department of health, Dr. Cross said that house were found for 93 per cent of the children placed under protection of [illegible]. He said that the

WOODVALE

Maybe slowly but surely we'll be getting some real spring weather, but so far the wintry chilly days are still in the majority. Good sleighing however belongs to the past; the roads are rough and icy with the extra snow drifts after Saturday's storm thrown in at odd spots for good measure.

It has been a bad month for one's health; flu and bad colds are still prevalent and we have a record list of hospital patients. Baby Gauthier and Baby Ross are the youngest to need hospitalization, the former name being their week end. Mrs. Gauthier's hope the latter is continuing to improve. Rose Green, Mrs. Watson, Mr. Cox all spent a while in the hospital, but are home again now or will be soon.

A dance was held at the Woodvale school on the 19th and it looked for awhile as if there would be more musicians than dancers, later in the evening the crowd kept trickling in and an enjoyable time was had by all. The Logan family and Jack Schanuel[illegible] furnished the lively and appy music.

Mrs. Potter went to Edmonton to visit Allan, who after a few months in P.W.C. is now stationed there with the R.C.A.F.

Mrs. E. Gordon went to Vancouver to visit her parents who are both ill. We hope they will soon recover under their daughter's good care.

Roy Gordon got his call for a second medical examination from Edmonton.

Georgette Young was home for the week end and visited her sister Emily and the Rankin family on her way back to town.

Peter Gentler is still canvassing for the Red Cross and hopes to be done with it early this week. It is slow going over there roads but he tells us that he likes to visit and have a look around on the different places. We also hear that he likes to try on other peoples' caps!

60,000 CARS SEEN IN SPECIAL CATEGORY

Some Grade Alberta motorists are expected to apply for "special" category coupons when the gasoline rationing system for the next year takes effect April 1.

Those who desire to obtain this higher category should not delay taking the necessary steps, according to officials of the Alberta Motor Association.

Under the announced rationing system, initial "AA" coupon books will be issued to all car owners taking out the provincial license. These licenses, plates and ration books are obtainable at A.M.A. offices and at government offices in the province.

Those who desire to obtain a greater allowance than is provided by category AA, which is 120 gallons for the year opening April 1, must send in a special form asking for the higher category, accompanied by their provincial motor vehicle license receipt to the regional oil controller at Edmonton.

If these special category forms are sent in immediately to the oil controller, there will be less likelihood of congestion and delay

Although looked upon as a "last resort" more or less by many farmers, bush-wood, in its normal yields and food values, indicates that it is a crop by no means to be despised.

RED CROSS NEWS

Approximately $40 was netted for Red Cross funds on Saturday last by the novel and attractive enterprises of displaying a world map. Anyone contributing a donation to the Red Cross could then place a small flag with name attached on the portion of the globe where his or her particular relative or friend in the Services was stationed. Judging by results, keen interest was shown in this endeavour and it is hoped that the idea may be used again before very long. The Committee in charge of the map wish to take this opportunity to thank all those who so willingly contributed to its success. Special thanks to the Elks for the privilege of placing the map in their hall on Saturday night, also to Mr. Jenkins and Mr. Hill for donation of lumber and construction of frame. The assistance given by a number of young ladies was much appreciated and thanks go to Pte. WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD Occupied Belgium faces a food situation so grave that unless aid comes soon the end of the war will find the nation depopulated.

Prince Alexander of Axis-occupied Yugoslavia is training in a South African Air Force camp as Leading Aircraftsman Alexander.

Ten resort hotels and lodges operated by the Canadian Pacific railway, including Banff Springs, will not be opened this year.

The government of Lagos, Nigeria, in West Africa, this year will give two or more scholarships to enable students to study at British Universities.

At least 33,000 Jews—the entire Jewish population of five Polish towns—have been killed by German secret police, the Polish government in London reported.

The British war office announced the appointment of a tank expert Lt.-Gen. Clifford Le Quesne Martel, 55, as head of the British military mission in Moscow.

The Germans occupying Holland requisitioned so many more bicycles during February, 300 bicycle repair shops in The Hague alone were forced to close for lack of business.

British representatives in the Middle East are engaged in conversations with Greek leaders on the role that the armed forces of Greece will play in future operations against the Axis.

Russian dispatches reported that the German air force lost 500 more planes during the first year of the Russian war and declared that the quality of German airmen had deteriorated.

To Aid Malta People

Lord Mayor's Fund

The Lord Mayor's Fund is to spend $48,000 on clothing for Malta. This sum will in part be drawn from gifts from the Queen's Canadian Fund.

It was recently reported to the Lord Mayor's Fund through the Colonial Office that there was the greatest need for clothing of all kinds in the George Cross Island—particularly for footwear. There was no use sending money for the purpose, as the stores have hardly any goods to sell.

Accordingly, the Lord Mayor's Fund has arranged with the Colonial office for shipping space to the maximum allowed This will permit the dispatch of $45,000 worth of clothes and footwear. It will be on its way almost at once

Owing to the urgency of the appeal stocks of clothing already on hand were raided. Such stocks were largely in the hands of the Women's Voluntary Services, who distributed them on behalf of the Lord Mayor's Fund and the Queen's Canadian Fund.

Because of the Malta requirements and because of large allocations of clothing recently made to the raid victims, these stocks have become depleted. A large grant was necessary to bring them up to the required levels, and as large a sum as $225,000 was voted.

This, too, comes in part from the Queen's Fund gifts, while the Queen's Fund's recent subscriptions to the Lord Mayor's Fund will be used also to help defray grants totalling $17,000 to the mayors of three London boroughs, St. Pancras, Edmonton and Camberwell, where the effects of the blitz are still gravely felt.

Cruise Ship Now War Cruiser

These "then and now" pictures show (below) the "Prince Robert," once famous Alaska cruise ship of the Canadian National Steamships, as she looked when in peacetime operation between Vancouver and Alaska ports, and (above) the "Prince Robert" as she is today—stripped of her luxurious fittings and converted into an auxiliary cruiser. The "Prince Robert," which was one of the fastest cruise ships in Pacific Coast waters, has been in war service since early 1940 when she was taken over by the Royal Canadian Navy. She won special distinction by the capture of a large German merchantman.

The "Prince Robert" is one of a number of ships of the Canadian National fleet which were taken over for active war duty. Those included the "Lady Somers," formerly in the West Indies service, which was sunk by enemy action in the Mediterranean in July, 1941. Another ship of the Company's fleet returned to her home base only more than a half-hundred shell holes, or bomb splinters, in her hull. She had been bombed out of Penang and Singapore and at each successive port had saved precious supplies from capture by the Japanese. After a job of temporary patching was done on her hull, she sailed for Arvin with yet another war cargo, and, eventually, steamed northward to Canadian waters.

The Canadian National Steamships also acts as agent for the Dominion Government in the operation of Axis ships seized as prizes of war.

Gorgeous Butterflies

Army Officer Has Seen Them Near Camp In Siam

Often yard-square patches of quivering beauty" is the description of butterfly assemblies seen in Siam, as he prefers to call Thailand, by Lieut Col. C. M. Stembley who writes about it in the Field of London

"As the sun grows hot gorgeous butterflies collect on the damp sand of the stream outside camp One building spring close to camp was a wonderful sight about 10 o'clock in the morning, the warm, wet mud attracting clouds of lovely butterflies, each group hovering themselves to themselves over the state in one white in another little blues several yards from either."

Mechanized Vehicles

Canada's Has Supplied Enough To Form Close Convoy 1,000 Miles Long

Canadians should take special pride in the fact that all the universal carriers used by the British Eighth Army in its advance from Egypt to Tunisia were of Canadian production and that the great armada accompanying the landings in North Africa carried almost 40,000 Canadian mechanized vehicles. What this country has done to furnish Allied fighting forces with the mechanized vehicles that are so essential is proved by the statement that enough of them have left this country since the start of the war to form a close convoy 1,000 miles long. Just as many more of them will be sent overseas if they are needed.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

Salvage Light Bulbs

Brass, Zinc, And Fine Wire Needed In War Effort

The life of the average electric light bulb is from 700 to 1,000 hours. This means a life of about two or three months. In every home the family, instead of throwing "dud" bulbs in the waste basket, can salvage them to help along the war effort.

As it is only the bulb end, containing brass and zinc and fine copper wires, which is needed for salvage, the bulbs should be smashed so that no jagged edges remain. The ends should then be put away in a box or bag for the salvage collector.

GARDEN NOTES

Spread Out Planting

Wise gardeners spread their vegetable sowings over two or three weeks. The old habit of putting in the whole garden on one Saturday afternoon is a thing of the past. Everything was planted too soon. The smiling garden going full on once resulted in a feast of fresh garden peas, corn, carrots, beans, then a famine.

A properly planned vegetable garden, with plantings spread from early spring to early summer should provide a steady supply of the freshest garden vegetables from the first week in July until weeks after killing frost. This, of course, is a general statement and does not apply to those extra balmy areas of Southern British Columbia and Ontario.

Conditions Are Important

Too often the seed or nursery stock is blamed for poor results when in reality the fault lies entirely in careless planting. The job is simple but experienced gardeners point out that it must be done properly for satisfactory results.

In the first place, these experts insist, the soil and climatic conditions must be favorable. By this they mean that seed should not be sown or plants set out unless the soil is fine, moist—but not muddy—and it must be properly enriched. Sowing the seed or planta to exclude air and insure a supply of moisture.

They also point out that the weather must be right. It doesn't do to plant tender things like melons, cucumbers and tomatoes before danger of frost is over, and it doesn't do either to wait until summer is at hand before planting hardy things like sweet peas, garden peas, grass and other hardy lines. These must make their first growth while the weather is cool and moist. If they don't, root growth will not be sufficient to carry them through the blazing days of summer.

Get A Catalogue

A good Canadian seed catalogue is an indispensable reference book for the amateur. In addition to giving him actual photographs of the flowers and vegetables it describes actual planting directions.

These books tell whether certain varieties are suitable to Canada and also give important points such as time of planting, resistance or lack of resistance to frost, height, color, season of blooming, time to germinate, and also the suitability of the flower for cutting purposes.

PETER AND SOME RECORDS OF DISCIPLES OF JESUS

Golden text: And Jesus said unto them, come ye after me, and I will make you to become fishers of men. Mark 1:17.

Lesson: John 1:39-42; Mark 1:16-20.

Devotional reading: Romans 10: 6-13.

Explanations and Comments

The Witness of John the Baptist to Jesus the Lamb of God, John 1:19-34. One day in Bethany beyond the Jordan, John the Baptist was visited by priests and Levites who had been sent by the Pharisees at Jerusalem to inquire if he were the Christ. Upon his denial they asked, "Who are thou?" and John then gave his famous answer, "I am the voice of one crying in the wilderness, Make straight the way of the Lord." "Why then baptizest thou?" they persisted, and John then bore his witness to Christ saying: "I baptize in water: in the midst of you standeth one whom ye know not, even he that cometh after me, the latchet of whose shoe I am not worthy to unloose."

On the morrow John pointed out Jesus to his (John's) disciples as "the Lamb of God that taketh away the sin of the world." "The verse brings us at once to the 53rd chapter of Isaiah, where we see our Lord not in the place of sinners; it transports us into the whole realm of Old Testament prophecy, and we must be understood save in the light of offering, and expiation, and atonement. It points us forward to the cross, and to the work of the Messiah who 'bore our sins in his body upon the tree'." (Charles R. Erdman).

Andrew Meines Peter Acquainted with Jesus, John 1:40-42. One of the two who followed Jesus was Andrew and the other probably John. Andrew was a disciple of John the Baptist. Peter's brother—thus he is known from the beginning of the Gospels records that Peter was the far more active of the two and later became the dominating figure among The Twelve. When Andrew found Peter he exclaimed: "We have found the Messiah!" Messiah is the Hebrew for Christ, a word which comes from the Greek, both mean The Anointed One. And then Andrew brought Peter to Jesus. This bringing of Peter is Unrice recorded in this Gospel; here, and in § 8 and 9.

"Notice, if you would be not only a soul-finder but also a soul-bringer, that what the plain-minded are so careful Andrew said, required no greater genius to utter than the weakest person; for it was the shortest yet the clearest possible statement of all: 'We have found the Messiah'" (Frank W. Gunsaulus).

A Compulsory Duty

People Of Britain Appreciate True Meaning Of Salvage

Today the word "salvage" has a very special meaning to the people living in Britain. Whereas in Canada salvage means the saving of fats and bones in the kitchen, and turning rubber and steel scrap voluntarily by the salvage authorities, in England it becomes a compulsory duty.

In England it is an offense against the law to throw away so much as a bus ticket. Bones, bottles, even the tops of milk bottles must be saved. Tin and metal of all kinds is collected.

The iron railings around the gracious old parks of London and throughout the country have gone to war, and many an old aluminum pot or frying pan is now flying over Germany as part of a bomber or fighter.

Newspapers are reduced to four flimsy pages. The quality of books, calendars and magazines has deteriorated. In England when the neighborhood grocer wraps a loaf in a piece of newspaper, and when the corner tobacconist sells cigarettes loose by the handful, rather than in the package, paper just is not wasted.

Housewives are reduced to dual realise that although the salvage situation does not appear on the surface to be an urgent problem at home, the elimination of waste is one way of eliminating Hitler and his gangs in the shortest possible time.

CHAPTER I

It was the Autumn of 1918, just at dusk and a man known as [illegible] just John Smith, was strolling the grounds of the County Asylum at Aldridge, England.

His thoughts were rapid, Kaleidoscopic and it bothered him that in speech he could only snatch at disjointed phrases. His eyes filled. It hurt not to be able to talk properly. Wisps of memory bothered his amnesia clouded mind. His last recollection went back only to the Autumn of 1917 when he had awakened in a German hospital . . . then been transferred to England as an exchange prisoner. Who was he? Where had he come from? The questions hung unanswered.

A guard suddenly spoke out of the fog, pleasantly guided him for being out in such weather.

Smith said, "I'm all right . . . Cool's very warm. I like to walk . . . like to walk." His accomplishment of walking seemed to be overdone. He walked on in the swirling mist with a shade more confidence.

Over in the town of Melbridge, the well-heeled gloom of day had settled into darkness. Melbridge's chief industry had released their toilers for the evening and about now the pubs would be alive with discussion of the war. How soon would England beat the Heinies? Could the war really be ended in 1918 as some predicted? Endlessly, the questions and answers would go the rounds again, not only in Melbridge but all over England.

Smith, however, wasn't concerned with these queries. Always, his mind was occupied with but one idea . . . to pierce beyond his mental nothingness . . . to learn the mystery of his blanked out past.

All at once, a siren screamed through the silence. It soared up and down in wild furries. Another joined in, then several more. The noise mounted in a crazy delirium of sound. Smith was rooted to the ground with fear. There were sirens, bells and whistles. Then he heard voices calling to each other joyously. The Armistice! It's peace! The war's over. . . .

It didn't fill Smith with elation. Somehow, the news seemed unrelated to him. But suddenly he looked ahead. The wide grilled gates were open. In the excitement they'd been left ungarded. Fearfully, he walked toward them. Then, without thinking he broke into a run. Not until he reached Melbridge, seething with the jubilant humanity did he slow down to a walk. Impulsively he stepped into a tobacconist's shop to buy cigarettes.

Strange, the sharp eyed proprietress was taking quite a time about it. "You're from the Asylum aren't you?"

Nervously, he swung around. A young girl with coppery hair and warm eyes was watching him. He looked what she was, a pretty little actress in a third rate touring company. Yet somehow, she was distinctive.

"Yes. Yes I am. But I'm all right . . . really . . .

The girl nodded but now her voice was urgent. "Well, she's gone straight to the telephone! She's told them to come for you. You'd better hurry along with me."

It was queer how quickly things happened after that . . . Smith at the Methyen Arms pub. having a brandy and soda with this girl, Paula Ridgway, being introduced to her friends then later hearing her backstage at the theatre as she did her singing turn. There wasn't much to remember after that because he became feverish and chilled at the same time. He recalled Paula bending over him, looking so concerned.

It was days later that he came to his senses again, to learn that he'd been quite ill with the 'flu. Then Paula told him wonderful news. She'd taken quite a fancy to him and wasn't going to let him be sent back to the Asylum. Instead, Sam, the manager of the troupe, was giving him a job travelling with them. Everything would be fine.

In the next day, Smith tried to absorb this miracle along with returning health. It was over. The dark past was gone. No longer would he be a stranger, floating bit of driftwood on the stream of life. He was an individual now. He was a person.

One Foodless Day

Does Not Bother Animals In The New York Zoo

War has brought not only less meat and substitutes to the people living in New York City's zoo, but it has also resulted in a "foodless day" each week.

Dr. Harry F. Nlnphius, zoo dietician, said the beasts adjusted themselves quickly to "foodless Sundays" that they no longer ate for the meat wagon.

Lions, for instance, now get horse meat instead of beef and three pounds less per day than heretofore. Dr. Nynphius compounded a meat substitute choir consisting of carrots, beets, white bread, cod liver oil and a soup-con of raw horse meat. The animals thrive on it.

"They worry less, as a matter of fact," said Dr. Nynphius, "about the diminishing amount of red meat from their diets than do some other animals I know."

BILL FOR FRIENDSHIP

Washington.—The American Red Cross said the Japanese government has reported distribution of 230,000 letters from home to United Nations prisoners of war during 1942. The Japanese said they now are distributing the bulk of mail received for prisoners, the Red Cross said.

Towards the end of the show that night Paula was in her dressing room, when Sam Ridgway, her manager, came in. He stared up suddenly. Then the grave expression of her face stopped him. "Nothing . . . wrong, is there?"

She sat down and her voice trembled. "I've got to talk to you, Smithy." She steadied herself almost visibly. "I haven't met a man in the bush. Sam won't take you now." Sam and the Army Asylum had come into the bar a while ago and told everyone about Smithy's escape. Sam knew now . . . he thought it was too risky taking him. "Smithy" she pleaded, "I think he's right." That returning case in his eyes stabbed right through him. "Perhaps I should go back. You need care. You can't go on like this. Understand your case . . ." Her voice trailed off. She had stopped him. Nothing . . . but a dog whose master had unexpectedly died.

Slowly, he nodded. He was humble and crushed again. The wide Asylum doors were swinging open for him to accept the decree that condemned him.

She burst out, "Smithy, you're not going with him. You don't think I've gone back on you?" His anguished eyes implored her not to torment him more. "Speak to me Smithy," she cried. "You could always speak to me." She clutched his hand but he turned away and rose shakily to his feet.

In sudden decision she went to the door. Her voice was level, "Wait for me Smithy." A short interval later she returned, her bags in her hands. "Come on Smithy. Get your coat on. We'll take the back stairs."

The pub below was dimly lighted and crowded with men. They crept past it stealthily. Smith was dazed, hardly knowing what he was doing except that he was going with at least his arms with Paula A little later they were seated in a third class compartment of a train bound for the country, but beyond Melbridge. It was almost dawn when they reached Mre. Ellwyn's quaint little inn at Wickham. Paula had stepped there once with her father long time ago and remembered the place fondly.

It was simple enough, explaining to the kindly dame. Remember that Smithy was her fiance and that she had brought him here after a long illness so that he might convalesce.

And so it was in the dawn of that lovely morning that they took up their new rural existence. Paula's meager savings would be enough to skim through on for a while. After that? Well, no need to worry now.

Willing To Help

People On Pitcairn Island Want To Aid War Effort

The 168 inhabitants of Pitcairn in the South Pacific—the tiny island whose romantic history was dramatically in the novel "Mutiny on the Bounty" — offered to shelter 85 homeless British children, colonial spokesmen disclosed.

Ihen transportation problems made it impossible, the island then offered to aid the war effort by making walking sticks for wounded British soldiers.

An Oriental Fable

Told By China's First Lady It Has Good Moral

Mme. Chiang told an anecdote full of rich Oriental flavor the other day in Washington. About 2,000 years ago, she said, there was a young Buddhist monk who sat cross-legged outside the temple, his hands clasped, chanting day after day, "Amita-Buddha," because he hoped that he would thus acquire grace. At length, the old Father Prior of the temple came up, seated himself beside the monk, and began rubbing a piece of brick against a stone This, too, went on day after day.

At length, the acolyte could restrain his curiosity no longer, and asked the Prior what he was doing "I am trying to make a mirror out of this brick," the old man replied "But," said the monk, "it is impossible to make a mirror out of a brick Father Prior!" "Yes," replied the other, "and it is just as impossible for you to acquire grace by doing nothing except chant 'Amita Buddha' all day long, night and day out"

The moral? There are several possibilities But to the rich American lady it must be this: You can't win a war by sitting on your hands"—St. Louis Post-Dispatch

RED CROSS W. A. HOLD SUCCESSFUL EVENING AT CLAYMORE SCHOOL

Receipts of Evening Total $105

The card party held at Claymore school Friday night March 26 was a great success socially and financially. A large crowd gathered to have an enjoyable time. Hostess at what went to Mrs. Voss and to Mr. H. Williamson, consolations to Miss Lorne Robson and Mr. H. B. Kirkpatrick. After which lunch was served—then it was announced that the draw for the beautiful silk comforter would be made, quickness rejoiced. Tickets had been deposited in a large glass jar, Mrs. Barr, convenor, gave the jar one last good shake; Mr. Williams Steele was called upon and came to the front in his usual genial manner, was blindfolded and made the draw. Who do you suppose held the lucky ticket—Mr Charles English of Vermilion — chilly nights will be no worry to him! Mrs. Voss was the owner of the lucky Dutch Auctioned and who do you think bid it in? "We are not telling! Lucky for him it is not Lord Woo!" Dancing was then indulged in to the delightful music of Mr. Voss and his orchestra who gave their services free of charge. Mrs. Hall, President of the Auxiliary wishes to thank Mr. Voss and his orchestra; Mr. Mc. Cormick for the use of Claymore and his assistant Mr. McMillan (they supervised the evening's program through from start to finish); Mrs. MacMillan and Mrs. Shand who prepared the school for the event and helped in no small way; to Mrs. Barr and convenor Mrs. Clarence Barr who so efficiently took charge of the War Charities project; the various committees of the Auxiliary [illegible] teach one did her bit in one way or another); and to everyone who so generously contributed to make the evening a success.

The proceeds were as follows:

War Charities project	$ 51.45
Dutch Auction	29.05
Cake	.25
Door receipts	23.50
Total	$105.25

Of this $100 has been paid to Mr. W. P. Pilkie, Campaign manager of the Red Cross drive, the balance $5.25 has been added to our sewing fund, a fund which we have for the purchase of wool, quilt cotton, thread, buttons, etc., to be used for Red Cross work, or other necessities which are not always supplied by the Vermilion Red Cross.

Mrs Korman of Claymore has donated to the Auxiliary a very beautiful fully embroidered Victory cushion, bound in red, white and blue to be disposed of as our Auxiliary deems best, the proceeds to be turned in to the Red Cross.

BOARD OF TRADE NOTES

Many discussions at the Board of Trade centred around the recession regarding farm help, which is reported to be here in this issue. Many possible sources of such vitally needed help are the armed forces in Canada, and the call to the farmer, of whom there are 900 in Alberta.

The board of trade membership has now reached 112. Attendance at the weekly meetings continues to be very good there being 27 present on Wednesday. The vice-president Jas. Williams was in the chair and he welcomed J. R. Swanson, R. S. Barwick and K. G. Urquhart attending for the first time since the resue of the meetings has been changed.

Since much of the work of the Board seems to be connected with the agricultural industry it would be beneficial if more farmers would join the organization. Membership may be obtained from Ashley Cooper, C. L. Whaley, H. C. Buchanan, P.J. Richardson, A .M. West, W. P. Pilkie.

The next meeting of the board will be held on Wednesday at 12.15 noon. Meetings are open for the discussion of any topic of general interest.

LINE ELEVATORS SUPPLY MILITARY CAMPS WITH BOOKS

During the depression years, the North West Line Elevators Association established 367 circulating libraries at line elevators located throughout the agricultural districts served by the prairie provinces. More than 22 000 volumes dealing with fiction, history, romance, travel and such subjects were contained in the libraries. These books were available without charge to all farmers and the libraries were changed periodically, in order to furnish each district with new reading material from time to time.

It is felt that these libraries have now served their purpose, and at a recent meeting of the directors of the Line Elevators Association it was decided to turn all these libraries over to the Canadian Legion War Services for use by the armed forces in military camps. Line country elevator agents have been advised to forward the local libraries to various centres and in this manner Canada's armed forces will be provided with many excellent books which have been enjoyed by the farming population of Western Canada in recent years

Red Cross Quota Is Far Exceeded

Contributions Now Stand At $4615.41

C.W.A.C. Girls Donate $1059.10 —Vermilion Over Top for Fourth Time

Wm. P Pilkie, campaign manager for the current Red Cross drive for funds, announced on Wednesday that Vermilion had again gone over the top and that the quota at $3500 had been far exceeded, contributions now standing at $4615.41. Four country canvassers out of 18 were still to report and it is thought that $5000 will be reached when all returns are in. This is the third campaign for the Red Cross that Mr. Pilkie has managed.

Result of the drive is truly remarkable when it is considered that fully 20% of the 1941 crop remains unthreshed in the fields, and that owing to extremely bad roads practically every country canvasser made his round on horseback. In spite of these drawbacks country contributors came through magnificently.

The quota Mr. Pilkie, "The canvassers in both town and country did a wonderful job and seemed to enjoy it. Everyone I met, even the most unwilling, appeared eager to do their share."

C.W.A.C. DONATE $1059.10

The girls of the C.W.A.C. training centre furnished a big surprise when Captain Helen Graham, Commandant, turned over the handsome sum of $1059.10 to the fund. This magnificent amount was collected among the girls and by the girls. They did it all themselves. Later reports indicate that contributions in the centre are still being made and a further sum will be donated before the drive is closed. The girls cannot be too highly commended for their generous action.

As soon as the remaining four canvassers report from the country the individual donations will be published in the Standard.

CAMPAIGN MANAGER THANKS PEOPLE

"I thank the people of Vermilion and district for helping me put this drive over with such credit to all of us combined. I could not have been done without. I do not consider this job a task, it has proved a real pleasure with such helpers.

W. P. PILKIE.

P.S. — I would like especially to congratulate our canvasser just north of town who finished the amount collected in his district before. Also another canvasser south of town who nearly doubled his previous record. The first time on his first time out and the second man world & on his third campaign. Neither of these are born by hand means. You can't keep the kind of Canadian down."

PLAN $2.00 BONUS ON NON-WHEAT LAND

OTTAWA. — Notice of an amendment to the Wheat Acreage Reduction act, given in Wednesday's routine proceedings, was explained by Premier Ilsley. It is understood, to pay a flat rate of $2 an acre in the three prairie provinces for land that is shifted from wheat to other crops.

The act passed last year had a system of payments which provided $2 an acre when the land was shifted from wheat to coarse grains and payments totaling $4 an acre when the land was seeded to grass or rye. The new bill will make the rate $2 throughout, it is said but will not be paid if the land is abandoned.

W. H. GRAHAM RESIGNS AS TOWN SECRETARY

'Due to Continued Ill Health

W. H. Graham has tendered his resignation as secretary-treasurer of the town of Vermilion owing to ill health. His resignation was accepted at the regular meeting of the council held on Monday evening. The council, on accepting the resignation passed a resolution expressing regret at Mr. Graham's enforcement from office and appreciation of the services rendered by him since his appointment.

Mr. Graham succeeded Mr. H. F. Long who was also obliged to resign because of ill health. Mr. Long left office in December, 1941, and the town was taken over by Mrs. Edna Taylor who continued as acting secretary until Mr. Graham's appointment in July 1941. Mrs. Taylor then took over the E. L. & P. book-keeping until August of 1942 when she resigned to accept her present position with the Frame Public Service. VICTORY LOAN ALBERTA QUOTA IS $33,000,000

Objective for the people of Alberta in the Fourth Victory Loan, which opens on April 26, has been set at $33,000,000, it was announced Monday by Fred M. Osborne, chairman of the National War Finance Committee for Alberta.

The total is broken down into 822 000 000 from corporations in the province, with the remainder $11,000,000, to come from personal names, non - banking corporations, and the take up of Dominion purchases of $25,000 and over.

War finance committee members have made no bones over the fact that Albertans have drawn a mighty stiff assignment, the new objective being well above that for the Third Loan last fall when this province was rolled upon to raise $25,000,000 the final occasion subscriptions totalling $27,700,000 were realized.

But there are many good reasons to believe that Albertans will be able to raise through it, despite a great deal of difficulty. For one thing the record of savings deposits in Alberta chartered banks shows there are immense sums available for such splendid investments as the Victory Loan offers. As money spending also is definitely out for the duration the loan represents another good place to avoid accumulating money.

With the big continental invasion probably only weeks away campaign managers for the Victory loan have taken for its slogan: "Park the Attack".

And this new loan means just that. The attack must be backed with all the material and financial resources of the Dominion, and the biggest challenge to one that can't be allowed to be unaccepted by every adult man and woman in the province.

In the Northern division Edmonton has drawn a mighty tough assignment, the new objective being $11,500,000, to come from personal names, non - banking corporations, and the take up of Dominion purchases of $25,000 and over.

District Agriculturist F. H Buck tadies advises stock owners to take extra precautions to protect their herds and young cattle for Blackleg at least three weeks before they are turned out on pasture.

In the case of horses "Black Disease is effective for only eight months hence horses vaccinated last year should be done again shortly. Vaccination is a good insurance against loss.

On all farms or in districts where Blackleg or cattle has occurred during the past two years or three years all young stock should be vaccinated to prevent loss from this disease As it takes 10 to 21 days after doses for immunity, the young stock should be vaccinated now.

LARGE DELEGATION AT BIBLE CONFERENCE

Eleven members and friends of the Vermilion Alliance Chapel attended the annual spring Missionary Bible Conference at the Prairie Bible Institute, Three Hills, Alta., in session March 24 to April 1. The 1500 people in attendance heard the editors at two of the greatest Christian magazines in Canada and the United States, Mr. J. H. Hunter of the Evangelical Christian, Toronto, and Phillip Howard of the Sunday School Times, in Philadelphia. A stirring message was also brought by Wing Com mander Grogson, Senior Chaplain of the R.A.F. in Canada. Interesting reports of missionary work in Inner America, Africa, China, Korea, the West Indies and Alaska were brought by approximately 25 missionaries who were present at the Conference. Victor Strood, noted lyric tenor, sang on several occasions. The Prairie Bible Institute is a growing institution with over 500 students enrolled in its winter term from all over Canada and U.S.A., and the spring and fall conferences are attended by hundreds from all over Alberta and neighboring provinces.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

(This paper does not hold itself responsible for opinions expressed by correspondents.)

Vermilion Alberta, April 5, 1943

Vermilion Standard, Vermilion.

Dear Sir:

Your last week's issue carried a copy of the resolution that the Vermilion Board of Trade passed and sent on to Ottawa. This resolution dealt with the shortage of farm help. I was pleased to see where this body was coming to the aid of the farmers.

The Alberta Farmers' Union has been quite persistent in the request that farm help be made available. We have also made it clear to the government that we must have parity prices to pay the wages that are demanded. All such requests seem to have been met with a deaf ear. From all past signs the Dept. of Agriculture and Mr. Ilsley and Gordon do not seem concerned with the cost of production or parity prices for farm produce.

We are threatened with a shortage of food production, and it may be still said, "with the exception of bees". When he "claimed" to be a surplus. It is only a short while back that bees were not a surplus. In fact everything was a surplus. Let us, citizens or this country, bring in the west not take the short sighted policy of crying "surplus" when we run see enough for the coming meal ahead or not. Let's also make the demand on the government for parity of prices on all farm produce, with a limited discretion ... surplus produce.

The Alberta Farmers' Union has adopted the slogan "Parity not Charity" now should the government in our democratic country serve men to work on the farms for what ever wages the farmer is able to pay, would be as bad as if the government should pay all hired farm help a bonus (subsistence) this could only be termed CHARITY.

A subsistence paid to farm help would not aid the small farmer who carries on all his farm work with his wife and children. In substance of the nature would only be costly due to the administration, and not justice, to those who do not employ farm help.

Boosting of farm help will not stimulate production to a very great extent or increase production as it should be. Guaranteeing the rest of production is the only thing that will maintain our food production. To increase the food production would be the paying of parity prices and this would enable the farmer to hire any man that knew farm work, but now days from some due to wages. All industries that are looked forth to increase their output are immediately met with a higher rate of PROFIT The farmers are just asking PARITY not CHARITY.

FINE SPRING WEATHER

Judging from the present appearance of the town, spring is really here and only the odd drift of snow is in evidence. However some still hummocks in the country and in the shady spots, but even this is making rapidly under a warm sun and balmy air.

Flood conditions existing in town during the past week when many streets and basements flooded have now been alleviated, thanks to the public works department of the town and council. Three men worked day, night and Sunday opening up solidly frozen culverts, digging ditches etc., to get the water moving along the right avenues of escape.

Mrs. S. J. Irwin and Mrs. Dudlyke of Irwinville are in Edmonton attending the 39th annual meeting of the Edmonton Diocesan board of the Women's Auxiliary to the Missionary Society of the Church of England in Canada.

W. B. Mit is now rumored in a track run over a 700 mile stretch of the Alaska highway from Dawson Creek to Watson Lake.

MAIN DRIVING WHEELS OF CANADA'S WAR EFFORT

HURRYING wheels, thundering wheels. Wheels that have made it possible for Canada to grow in strength.

Today those wheels—the driving wheels of Canada's railways—are seeing the pace for the war effort. They haul raw materials to humming war industries and rush away the finished tools of battle. They move food and fuel for the home front and the fighting front. They speed civilians on essential business, hasten troops to camps, embarkation points and on leave.

It's Canada's big war job. A job that only railway wheels can do. A job in which an army of 150,000 railway workers, men and women, is in the fight for Canada . . . shop crews and train crews, yard workers, section hands, telegraphers, signal men and office workers, a multitude of men and women in a multitude of jobs. They are me... the giant wheels earn faster s:

From coast to coast in Canada, we—your railways—are rolling in the service of freedom, and our lines so and in the United States have linked the war efforts of two great sister nations.

The railway wheels are driving, in war as in peace, for Canada.

Their days were spent in fishing, bicycle riding and reading. A new strength and health came to Smithy. Between him and Paula, there sprang up an idyllic relationship, companionable and loving.

Smithy was hardly aware of his import though until the day that Paula returned from the Post Office with a letter for him. He had been doing under a willow tree. He looked up and saw her fingering the letter with curiosity. His voice came hastily. "If I were you, I'd open it."

She started and laughed. "Oh Smithy, you are a fraud. And here I am, just dying to know what's in it."

They ripped open the envelope. The enclosure was a check a very tiny check to be sure. It was from the managing editor of the Liverpool Mercury publication in payment for an article that Smithy had submitted. Why, Smithy was an author. He had written something and been paid for it.

"Smithy," she said, "I wonder if you were a writer before ... before the war ..." He shrugged and she went on. "You might even be married Smithy. Who knows?"

"Nonsense." He had spoken brusquely. The very thought had been shocking. How could he ever have been married in anyone ... but Paula? He had been helping her spread out their small pieces laundry. Now his words came in a rush. Suppose he were to make a living as a correspondent. Paula would never have to talk about going back on the stage and ... Paula. It's an awful nerve but I've fallen in love with you."

His cat back. Then all at once, she was a rebellion. No, he was just being a gentleman. Why, she'd been nice him from the very beginning. She had never let him out of her sight since she had seen him in the lobcontest's shop. And now he was being grateful. "Oh Smithy, please don't ask me I might take you up on it. I'm just that shameless."

"Paula." His voice was eager, his face tense. "I love you more than anything in the world. My life began with you. I can't imagine a future without you."

She looked at him a long time. It was strange how well she knew and loved this man who had no memories behind him. Finally she spoke. It's very startling, she said, "yes for all time ..."

They were married in the little Village Church.

He sighed deeply "Now I can rest I am. But typing to know what's in it." Paula stared at him in consternation. "Smithy, you proposed to me and I've accepted you and ..."

What's wrong"?

Oh Smithy, she wailed do I always have to take the initiative? You're supposed to kiss me darling."

He put down the envelope bent over and took her in his arms. The milk in the stool had to be on them forgotten and were unheeded as their lips met shyly then clung for a long moment.

They were married soon after that in the little Village Church while the Perfect Love To Paula and Smithy she symbolized an angel. They settled down in a cottage on the outskirts and the little cave covered cottage with Jack rabbit was filled with the joy of their undy Smithy wrote stories and his stuff success grew. Their marriage was the perfect one. Just a year later Paula lay in bed, exhausted but radiant as Smith took an awesome look at their new born son.

Paula Paula, he murmured His smile was tender and quivery He wore Tears and mine.

All at once the door opened It was the Vicar. What an exciting day for the post office, he burbled. Paul a telegram had come, a telegram for Smith. Why the whole town was on a fe:

The message was from the Editor of the Mercury publication in Liverpool. They were making Smithy an offer of a permanent staff position that he must leave immediately so he'd be there the next morning.

Hurriedly Smithy began packing his bags. Finally he was ready He'd be staying at the Great Northern Hotel. He was near the railroad station Paula wasn't to worry Everything would be all right. And when he came back, the little fellow would have a father he could really be proud of—someone of position and importance in the world.

The Vicar's car was waiting outside. As the horn sounded, Smithy came back for Paula's goodbye kiss. "Take care of my family, darling. See you tomorrow night."

She pressed her lips to his. Then her smile erased the worry on her forehead. "Tomorrow night. Good luck, Smithy."

He left and her frown returned. It was the first time since they'd met that they would be parted. But Smithy would be all right. Of course. He'd come back safe. He must.

CHAPTER II

The Great Northern was just a few streets from the Mercury. The next morning, Smithy stepped out of the hotel. It was a dark day. The streets were wet, traffic was heavy.

He started from the street.

All at once a woman screamed. Then a man shouted. There was the horrible shriek of brakes. Smithy felt the impact of a terrible blow on his head. He fell and lay sprawling on the ground

A while later he opened his eyes dazedly. A crowd stood around him. He had a strange feeling of coming back to a new world—and in a way he had—for the blow on his he I had removed all recollection of the man who had been John Smith. No trace of the Airman, of Selwledge, of Paula remained in his consciousness. His last recollection was of that moment on the battlefront when a shell had hit him. He knew now that he was Charles Rainier of Canfield Hall, Surrey, England.

In all the commotion of the next few moments he was aware of his shabby clothes. Quickly he asked questions and realized that he had been suffering from amnesia. However Three years had dropped out of his life. Only one thing to do go on to his home at Surrey and let the family know he'd practically risen from the grave

Sitting in the railway carriage, tiny shades of memory bothered him Yet there was nothing positive, nothing with any meaning to it

At the door of his ancestral home he was greeted by Benton, the old family servitor Sheldon's eyes filled when he saw him Then, the emotion of the moment passed, and he gave Smithy shocking news. Just three days before his father had died and been buried. The old fellow's ticker broke. "If you'd only come back a bit earlier, sir—"

Smithy stiffened No his father was dead. Then grief shocked him into silence After that he put a number of questions to Sheldon and learned that he'd been rejected missing. Everyone had thought him dead His return would be a great surprise

Smithy smiled wryly at that He could well imagine The look and control of his father a huge fortune had been left to him His resignance would give his brothers and sisters quite a pill

Sheldon seemed to be reading his mind You belong here sir he said gravely

Smithy's smile was weary No I don't. I don't feel that No, I feel a sort of tug from somewhere else Where, I don't know but I feel lost

Industry Fast Using Surplus Wheat Stocks

Line Elevators Agree Urge Alcohol in the West

"Actual and projected industrial utilization of wheat for war purposes is already foreseen as a means of consuming surplus stocks of this cereal in the United States," said Cecil Lamont, vice-president of the North West Line Elevators Association, on his return from attending the annual conference of the National Farm Chemurgic Council held at Chicago. More than three hundred leading agriculturists of North America attended the meeting.

"All American and Canadian distilleries have now converted their plants from the use of molasses to wheat and corn in manufacturing alcohol. The U. S. Government has called upon the distilleries to produce 230,000,000 U.S. gallons of alcohol from wheat in 1943. This will require 212 million bushels of wheat. In addition Canada plans on producing 11,000,000 Imperial gallons of alcohol this year from 7 million bushels

"Following investigations of possible uses of wheat, the Line Elevator Companies since 1938 have been urging the Dominion Government to erect distilleries in Western Canada for conversion of surplus wheat stocks into alcohol motor fuels and synthetic rubber. While great strides have been made in the United States in this matter, progress has been slow in Canada. The Line Elevators advocated the conversion of Canadian brewery distilleries into plants for manufacturing alcohol for war purposes, but so far only 7,000,000 bushels of wheat are being used annually through this conversion," he said.

"Manufacturers of alcohol in the United States already are becoming alarmed that the heavy industrial use of wheat will fast exhaust the surplus stocks across the line. This may result in opening markets for large quantities of surplus Canadian wheat for industrial use more

"War uses of alcohol include the manufacture of smokeless powder, torpedoes, mustard gas, medicines, ether, lacquer for camouflage and synthetic rubber. To prevent monopolies of converting wheat to alcohol have been shortened by several days, and subsequently, and the use of many critical plant materials in short supply has been eliminated. While the 1943 production requirements for conversion of cereals into alcohol are 230,000,000 gallons, the government has directed and is assisting distillers to step up the projected capacity to 1,000,000,000 gallons annually. Lack of ocean and rail tankers makes the importation of molasses impractical, and the principal remaining source of supply is cereal grains. Elimination of the war over a long period was foreseen at the conference as affording an opportunity for areas by expanded industrial markets for farm crops," said the Line Elevators spokesman.

SEED TREATMENT

When you are preparing your seed for this spring planting it is well to remember that there are many seed borne diseases that you should not forget. The Alberta Advisory Committee on the Control of Plant Diseases recommends that the cereal smuts, such as covered and Loose smut, be used for the treatment of wheat, oats barley, etc. This treatment should be given at least 24 hours before the seed is sown. This Committee recommends further that formaldehyde it used at all should be used to treat oats which are known to be smutty and that its use on wheat and other hulless seeds should be restricted as much as possible. This year when a large percentage of the seed has been soft frozen because of frost or weather damage, germination may be low the type of the seedings is likely to be less and to treat this seed with formaldehyde would reduce still further its ability to produce strong healthy plants.

. . . and when you buy a Victory Bond, to help BILL and other boys on active service, you do something that will benefit you too. You save money. It's really a mistake to say that you "buy" a Victory Bond. You are not buying anything. You are saving money, and putting your savings where they will be absolutely safe, and where they earn money for you. (Each $100.00 Victory Bond earns $3.00 a year—3% interest.) You are likely producing more, and earning more. You can save more. You are not buying some things; you can't get them. You are buying less of many things—they're rationed. You can't help saving more. See to it that your savings are kept intact—earmarked for things you will need when the war ends. You will have to replace things that are worn out. You will want a lot of things. Money saved and invested in Victory Bonds will provide cash to pay for them.

WHAT IS A VICTORY BOND?

A VICTORY BOND is the promise of the Dominion of Canada to repay in cash the full face value of the Bond at the time stipulated, with half yearly interest at the rate of 3%, per annum until maturity.

A Victory Bond is the safest investment in the world. The entire resources of the Dominion stand behind it. Canada has been issuing bonds for 75 years, and has never failed to pay every dollar of principal and interest.

A Victory Bond is an asset more readily converted into cash than any other security.

You can buy Victory Bonds for cash in a lump sum, or you can arrange to pay for them in convenient instalments over a period of six months.

Your Victory Bond salesman will be glad to tell you full particulars.

Number Means More Than Name

"Serial number on the ration book is more important than the name on it," says J. Hargreaves western director of rationing, in warning all Canadians to check their new ration books with the old to see that the letters and serial numbers are exactly the same.

This serial number is the only number which will be allotted to you for the duration and it is absolutely necessary for every citizen to keep a record of his serial number in case of a lost book. No book can be replaced unless the serial number is known" states Mr. Hargreaves.

Peace Depends On Disarming Of Axis Nations

Ottawa.—Anthony Eden went a step further than other United Nation leaders have gone recently in a speech delivered to the Canadian parliament, in calling for the maintenance of an international force jointly by the United Nations to police Germany, Italy and Japan.

"It is essential," said the British foreign secretary, "that when this war is over the United Nations should maintain sufficient force to ensure that neither Germany, nor Italy, nor Japan can ever again plunge the world into war." He said the chief failure of the old League of Nations was its lack of sufficiently wide international authority to express its decisions and an adequate force to see them executed.

The conception of the United Nations is gradually taking shape, Mr. Eden told senators and house members assembled in the House of Commons chamber. Galleries were packed with spectators, and many members of the Ottawa diplomatic corps.

Eden delivered an answer to the argument that the United Nations should set up a central council to direct the Allied war effort, pointing to the British commonwealth of equal nations held together by a spirit of understanding. Eden declared the United Nations must build as they go, rather than devise elaborate structures into which each member nation would be fitted. Speaking of the British commonwealth he said "We have neither rigid rules nor precise formulae."

The immediate need of the Allies was "a close understanding between the British commonwealth and the United States, Russia and China," he said, "and the full co-operation of all the United Nations."

"Together," he declared, "we can win the war and win the peace."

"There is only one security for mankind in respect of all of them: to ensure that they are totally disarmed and in no position . . . to try their strength again. Then, indeed, peace may have a chance."

Mr. Eden said it was better for the United Nations to build up mutual understanding and means of co-operation as they went along, rather than to devise all at once, some "elaborate structure into which we should seek to fit the component parts as best we may."

Co-operation, thus borne of necessity and forged by experience, would have the best chance to survive into the years of peace.

WOULD NOT PAY

Business Does Not Warrant Second Trans-Canada Air Line

Ottawa.—Canada has insufficient air traffic to support two cross-country lines, H. J. Symington, K.C., Trans-Canada Air Lines president, said before the House of Commons railways and shipping committee. Operation of two trans-Canada lines would result in neither line making a profit, and duplication of the service was unwarranted by the amount of business.

Difficulty was being experienced in getting new equipment, Mr. Symington said, but he hoped that equipment would be available before the end of the war to operate a proposed shortened western route across the United States.

The T.C.A. president said the line had not conducted any research freight gliders.

ACT AMENDED

Flat Rate Per Acreage Shifted From Wheat To Other Crops

Ottawa. Notice of an amendment to the Wheat Acreage Reduction Act, given in House of Commons votes and proceedings, will make provision, it is understood, to pay a flat rate of $2 an acre in three prairie provinces for land shifted from wheat to other crops.

The act passed last year had a system of payments which provided $2 an acre when the land was shifted from wheat to coarse grains and payments totalling $4 an acre when the land is seeded to grass or rye.

The new bill will make the rate $2 throughout, it is understood, to be paid if the land is abandoned.

EQUAL TO JOB

Torquay, England—Viscount Bennett, opening a "Wings for Victory" week, said the government's decision that Britain intended to continue to administer colonial possession was made in no sense of pride, but because "we can do it better than anybody else."

Estimate Cost Of Proposed Health Insurance Plan

Ottawa.—Dr. J. J. Heagerty, director of public health services giving evidence before the House of Commons social security committee, estimated the cost of a health insurance plan for Canada at about $340,000,000.

That figure, he said, represented the estimated cost of illness in Canada in 1935. Health insurance could not be provided for less and it should not cost more, he said.

Dr. F. V. Jackson, deputy health minister for Manitoba, who also appeared before the committee said the provinces should be given the option of deciding whether health insurance should be administered through their existing health departments or through special commissions.

Dr. Jackson and Dr. Jean Gregoire, deputy minister of health for Quebec, spoke to the committee on behalf of provincial deputy ministers now sitting the annual meeting of the Dominion Council of Health.

The draft health insurance bill before the committee provides for administration by provincial commissions.

Gordon Murchison, director of soldier settlement, said before the senate committee on reconstruction and social security that about 40,000 men in the Canadian armed forces were born on farms or had worked on farms and it was these who should be encouraged to take up farms under the Veterans' Land Act after they are demobilized.

He said that 60,000 more could probably participate in the plan under the act whereby a veteran would get loans up to $3,600 to provide himself with a home and not less than an acre of land but would work in industry to provide his chief source of revenue.

In this way, over a period of eight or 10 years, 100,000 veterans could be assisted at a cost over the period of $400,000,000, Mr. Murchison suggested.

Care would be taken as far as possible to put men on suitable farms. A careful study was being made in co-operation with and experts from Canadian universities, to ensure that veterans were not put onto non-productive land.

MORE LIVESTOCK

Some Areas Can Increase Production During Present Year

Ottawa. While many farms cannot produce more than at present, it is believed livestock production can be increased in 1943 on some farms and in some areas, Agriculture Minister Gardiner said in the foreword to a booklet setting forth agricultural objectives for the year.

The minister said it would not be easy to attain the 1943 goals in food production, which are greater than the records attained in 1942.

"Favorable factors are that livestock and poultry numbers are at peak levels and that the bountiful harvest of last year ensures plentiful supplies of feed; unfavorable factors are shortages of help on many farms and difficulties of getting new machinery to replace lost manpower. . . ."

ESTABLISH BASE

Report Says Allied Parachute Troops Have Headquarters In Norway

London.—Stockholm despatches to London morning newspapers said that Allied parachute troops have set up headquarters in the mountains of western Norway.

Quoting a Berlin radio report, the Daily Express identified them as British and Norwegian.

Despatches said they had established an elaborate base, complete with a meteorological station, among the snow-covered heights and have already begun to make raids on industrial plants in the valleys.

The base was located by the despatches somewhere in the far-reaching Hardanger Vidda area, which spreads from central Norway almost to the west coast. Norwegian sources here said the Germans have declared this a forbidden zone.

The Norwegian government-in-London said it is impossible to "say whether parachutists are there or not, but Quisling and the Germans appear to be genuinely alarmed."

Observers here said the district would be suitable for an air base for invasion of the continent.

The Hardanger Vidda is noted as a vacation area dotted with small lakes filled with trout. It is extensively wild, but persons in London familiar with the country said it is possible for men to live there fairly comfortably, eating fish and game.

NO LONGER MADE

Manufacture Of Junkers-87 Discontinued According To Report

London. — German dive-bombers, the Junkers-87, are the pride of the Nazi air force's domination of the skies, no longer are being manufactured, a usually reliable source said. While there is no confirmation in official quarters, qualified air observers here said they "would not be at all surprised."

The air ministry always has insisted that Junkers-87 was obsolete and that it was losing importance within the German air force.

United States And Russia May Meet For Talks

Washington. — Comprehensive plans for a series of United Nations conferences on post-war economic problems were spiced by intimations that U.S. and the Soviet Union may also undertake discussions in the very near future.

President Roosevelt told his press conference that he hoped and expected that U.S. would be continuing shortly with the Soviet Union the type of discussions which have just been concluded with British Foreign Secretary Eden

There was some disposition here to interpret the president's words more as an expression of hope than as a promise because there is no concrete evidence Stalin is interested in such conferences at this time.

But if the discussions do take place, it is assumed that some effort would be made to reconcile in principle the terms of the Atlantic Charter with Moscow's well-defined territorial claims in eastern Europe. The Russian position is that Atlantic Charter prescriptions against territorial aggrandizement conflict in no way with her claims for portions of Poland, the three Baltic states, eastern Poland and parts of Rumania

The Free Polish government in London and British organizations here are foremost and loudest in their protests against such an interpretation of the charter. The U.S government is not committed on the subject But it is at least a regionally explosive political issue in this country.

Regardless of any discussions between representatives of U.S. and the Soviet Union the United Nations on April 27 will begin a series of economic conferences of fundamental significance Russian representatives will participate in at least the first of these dealing with food—how a more or less prostrate world shall be fed after the war

Each Province Responsible For Age Pensions

Ottawa.—Finance Minister Ilsley said in the House of Commons that the federal government locked on old age pensions, and pensions increases, as the primary responsibility of provincial governments although the Dominion contributed to them.

Mr. Ilsley said he had regarded the cost-of-living bonus, designed as part of the wages policy, as inappropriate for pensioners.

The provinces were free to increase old age pensions without reducing the contribution made by the Dominion.

"I hope the day will come when we shall have a contributory old age pension system in this country," he continued

"We certainly should have, but we require an amendment to the constitution in order to provide for it, just as we had to have an amendment of the constitution to provide for unemployment

"I cannot see why, in a state of affairs where all the provinces of the country have surpluses, and some of them enormous surpluses, the provinces should not undertake this, which is primarily their responsibility, but ours, instead of calling on us, with our huge deficits, amounting to $2,000,000,000 and $3,000,000,000 a year."

The provinces had been told that if a majority requested a reconsideration would be given it. He was not sure that such a step, involving federal expenditure, would be favorably considered in light of the provinces' surplus position. But supplemental allowances now were being paid by some provinces.

Mr MacInnis said house members should "blush for shame" for asking old people to live on an allowance of $20 a month.

John G. Diefenbaker (Prog. Con., Lake Centre) said amounts paid in cost-of-living bonus, and the amounts to hold the cost of living, should be made known. The house had heard that the benefits of holding the price ceiling but costs had not been given.

Finance Minister Ilsley said he anticipated giving the house information on such outlays later.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the whole basis of the cost-of-living bonus has been founded on the cost-of-living index number as of October, 1941, but since then, by order of a few days ago, the national war board has now been given the power to order adjustments in the cost-of-living bonus as from a month other than October, 1941, not earlier than August, 1939.

The house should know the reason for the change

MEAT RATIONING

Plans Being Worked Out Will Become Effective In May

Ottawa.—Meat will join sugar, butter, tea and coffee as a rationed food commodity early in May, with Canadians restricted to two pounds a week each, one-half pound less than their average per capita consumption in the past two years.

Finance Minister Ilsley announced the new rationing program in the

There had been no warning of final government decision that rationing was necessary although such a program had been expected since the imposition of meat rationing in the United States last month

Methods of applying the rationing program are being worked out by the prices board which will make further announcements of the details.

Mr. Ilsley said that a nutrition advisory committee to the prices board foods administration had concluded that a minimum of two pounds of meat a week, plus customary amounts of milk, eggs, cheese, fish and poultry, gave more protein from animal sources to satisfy nutritional requirements than is required for a person of any occupation

Poultry and fish will not be included in the ration plan.

RAILWAY TROOP UNITS

Ottawa.—Defence Minister Ralston announced a limited number of Canadian railway troop units will be formed to serve overseas with the Canadian army. 2910

Tehran — Maj-Gen. A. N Korolov, chief of Soviet transportation in Iran, said that the effect of American war material and food is making itself felt on the Russian front. He greeted engineers and crews who operated the first all-American train carrying war supplies to Russia from a Persian Gulf port.

"Imagine me helping to make rubber tires!"

"WE horses hauled caissons with the best of 'em back in 1914-1918. And darned (Ed. We'll war—motorized as it is—hasn't backed right up to our stable doors again. Ploughing, planting and harvesting the grain for high-proof alcohol is what they want us for this time . . . high-proof alcohol to make the rubber Hirohito thought he was doing us out of. And folks, the United Nations are getting that grain, that alcohol, that rubber!"

Synthetic rubber made from high-proof alcohol is jumping out of the test tube and onto the wheels and treads of jeeps, trucks, tanks, and airplane landing gear, outwearing and outfighting the best natural rubber. Unaffected by gasoline and oil, it's going into self-sealing gas tanks, gasoline and fuel oil hose and pipeline connections. It's making rafts, diving suits, oxygen masks and literally thousands of other pieces of war equipment.

Today high-proof alcohol is pouring from our stills in an ever-increasing volume . . . a vital element of Victory!

Events have been happening so rapidly it is hard to keep up with them and have them recorded into the same positions. To the next meeting, Although the events to be described are long past it is to be hoped they will be of interest to some of our readers.

Although Island Hill did not hold its annual St. Patrick's dance there was one home in that district which had a real party to please anyone—from the Emerald Isle. The Morrison War Workers met at the Hayes home on March 17th and a very enjoyable time was had by all. Chatting the table was a beautiful cake decorated with delicious frosting. There was an appetizing fruit salad which looked its green coloring to the Irish color scheme to say nothing of the sandwiches and cakes which reminded one on already full moon. Every person present was given a sprig of shamrock. The business part of the meeting was taken up with correspondence, letters from the boys in the forces, and the letters, written by the boys, here of the club which had been sent to the boys. Election of officers resulted as follows: Mrs J. Miller as president and Mrs. Wise (1 will try as secretary) to these positions. To the next meeting, to be held at Mrs. H. White's, each member was to bring articles for a parcel to be packed for the boys overseas. An advertisement contest closed the meeting. This was won by Miss Betty Gilles.

On March 26 a dance was held in the school in which a large crowd gathered. After supper there was an auction of articles donated by some persons attending the dance and by merchants of Islay. Mr. Gillies ably conducted the auction and was very successful in getting good prices for all the articles. The substantial sum of $40.41 was realized. $20 of the was donated to the Morrison War Workers League and the balance given to the Islay Red Cross. The Victory orchestra donated the sum of $12, their fine the music which we so ably given. All those responsible for this successful venture are to be congratulated on their untiring efforts.

Miss Rhena Smith was a week end visitor at the teacherage, a guest of Miss Rose Wolters.

The highway is opened again. The Monaghan Brothers are to be congratulated on their patience with Old Man Weather. The storms of March 17th and 30th made one opening impossible. It is expected to help new Gophers, crows, meadow larks and robins are no common now it is hardly worth mentioning these except that we have now spring is just around the corner—if winter doesn't take another last slap an she is quite capable of doing.

On March 31 the last meeting of the League was held at the home of Mrs H. White. There was not a large crowd due to poor roads and the sickness of some of the town here, but those who were there had a delightful time and enjoyed the very delicious luncheon. It was decided to buy wool and make garments for the boys in the forces and send them as they are completed. The Morrison League now has eight boys on its Roll, namely Lawrence Gould, Lloyd Gould and Ronnie Payne of the Army, Harold McClelland, Alfred Farmer, of the Air Force and Russell Miller and Arthur Gould of the Navy, also Jack Purser of the Army. By an oversight Pvt Woodruff has been omitted but his name is being added on to the list. The parcel wasn't packed for over seas shipment as there were not enough members present. The gifts are to be taken to the next meeting to be held at the home of Mrs. Art Monaghan on April 14. We'll see you there folks.

Most of those people who were on the sick list are now recovering and we do hope they don't get sick by Easter.

New Army Plan Provides Treatment for 'Remediable Defects'

Standard of Acceptance Now Revised

Under a new plan now in operation many Canadians previously rejected by the Army because of physical defects may now enlist for active service. Applicants to the Army suffering "remediable defects" will be accepted, cured by operations or treatment and receive full Army pay and allowances. The Directorate of Medical Services specifically lists hernia and varicose veins which have been responsible for many rejections to date. Additionally, applicants previously rejected because or vision or hearing are advised that standards have been revised to permit their enlistment for certain sedentary duties. Short-sighted men will be supplied with Army glasses, the announcement said. Canada, it is believed, is the first nation to adopt the policy of enlisting men into the army before treatment.

Health of Canadians, both within and without the Armed Forces, is receiving close attention these days, Brigadier G. R. Chisholm, C.B.E., M. C., E.D., chairman of the Board of Medical Services (Army), has announced a survey of the medical facilities of the Armed Forces in connection with the co-operation of the Department of Pensions and National Health. The surveys are under the direction of a committee of civilian and service physicians and are part of the national health survey being conducted by the Canadian Medical Procurement and Assignment Board.

Heading the civilian and service physicians board is Dr. A. E. Archer of Lamont, president of the Canadian Medical Association. The separate survey of government services", Dr. Archer said, "is part of the nation-wide inventory of all health facilities and personnel to ascertain how they may best be distributed to meet the needs of the people."

Dr. George P. Stephens, present of the Canadian Hospital Council and superintendent of the Royal Victoria Hospital, Montreal, has been loaned to the hospital to assist in the survey of the services.

21,000 Car Licenses Issued

Despite gasoline rationing and other restrictions, car licenses in Alberta this year do not appear likely to fall far short of the previous year's total, according to information received by the Alberta Motor Assoc.

For instance a compilation made by provincial treasurer officials just before the end of March showed that 21,000 passenger car licenses had been issued. At the same date a year ago, the total was 21,900.

A year ago, it is pointed out, there was a big rush to buy licenses in March, due to a number of factors, which were influenced by the prospects of rationing.

This year there was not the same rush in March, as it is believed that the rationing system has become more established.

There is also the belief that many car owners will hold off obtaining their new licenses until Easter. As a result, there is a strong belief on the part of provincial authorities that the showing by the end of April will prove that there still are many Alberta car owners who intend to operate their cars in 1943. At the same time, it is expected that the fuel restrictions are bound to curtail pleasure driving. But on the other hand, cars will be used more and more for essential purposes.

As a result of unfavourable weather conditions prevailing last fall, including frost in some areas, much of the wheat, oats, barley, and flax is germinating poorly. The situation appears to be most serious with oats. The area chiefly affected are those along, and north of, the C.N.R. main line, and the area adjacent to the foothills in Alberta.

It is safe to say that all seed seeds in the area named above should be tested for germination. Our own laboratory has already received nearly 10,000 samples, and doubtless, the Dominion Government laboratories have tested large numbers.

However, the total laboratory facilities in the West are inadequate to handle all seeds which should be tested. Farmers who have not already had their seeds tested will be wise to make their own.

We are having radio printed giving detailed instructions for making home germination tests. One of these will be hung in the county elevators of Line Companies associated with the work of this Department. The same information will be printed on the "Seedtime and Harvest" leaflet distributed to grain buyers for passing on to their customers.

Roughly speaking, seed germinating 80% or over is O.K.; from 65% to 80%, rate of seeding should be increased; less than 65%, seed should be replaced.

Farmers unable to reach a line elevator conveniently may obtain samples of the leaflet by writing directly to the Agricultural Department, The North-West Line Elevator Association, Winnipeg (or Calgary).

THE INFLUENCE OF CHRISTIAN LIVING ON THE HOME, CHILDREN

There is nothing in the experience of mankind that has such a tremendous influence on his life as the home in which he grows up. No other group, powerful though it may be, ever has the same influence as the family group. It is here the foundations are laid for all future living—it is where we learn to live with other people, to share with them, to take responsibility, to develop character and well-balanced personalities. Or the home may develop just the reverse, and we have the cruel and selfish; weak and shallow; bitter and unhappy people. It all depends on the kind of home we grow up in, and the character of the parents who are erecting that home.

It is the parents who establish standards and ideals for their children, not by what they say but by the example they set, and their own attitudes toward life. I think it is safe to say that back of every great leader, every fine man or woman that history or our own experience can reveal, were fine parents and a good home. It does not take money or material things to make a good home, but it does take affection, unselfishness, kindness, sympathy and a sense of humor.

We can never hope to have a strong national or international life unless through better family life we can produce great personalities. If fine family life means so much to the individual and to the nation, where can parents turn for the help and guidance they need to carry on the all-important task of bringing up a family? Surely it is to the Christian church where people must turn for strength and guidance. It is here we may learn the real values of life. All Christianity teaches the worth of human personality—that each individual counts in this world, that what happens to one is the concern of all.

It is this spiritual quality in the home that binds the strong family together with feelings of love, loyalty and respect, and from such homes can go forth men and women, physically, mentally, and emotionally fit who are ready and able to take their place in the world.

Question: Did you hear Bill Cromb on the radio on Sunday? Yes I did. Anywhere you asked that you got the answer Yes. And we did enjoy it. Bill gave a nice lot of news to the westerners. If one knows Bill's dad, Rev. W. T. Cromb of Winburn, one time from Glasgow, you could hear a word now and then with that same fascinating accent. If Bill is ever talking again on the radio we would like to know, too. Thanks so much Rev. W. T., that was very nice of you.

The Penny Carnival came off with a bang taking in coins amounting to $65, after expenses about $40 was cleared. Madame X made a torture for the Commandos. She read the fortunes of young and old. We think they were good too for roars of laughter came from that corner. Then there was a ring toss, a bean bag with the highest score gaining a box of chocolates which went to Fred Stebbings. We think that he and Ralph Anderson spent three weeks wages there. Then there was "Sink the Ship" in a cool corner, light umpires candles with one match which was more than a match for everyone, and the "Fish Pond" and the wonders in that sawdust pond! There was a table of hand made articles too, all real nice fine parents and a good lunch and they did that well too. We did have a good time. The Victory orchestra played for the dance.

Open Blue River Road for Trucks

Opening of the Jasper-Blue River section of the Jasper highway to motor traffic is expected during May, according to information received by the Alberta Motor Association.

At last reports only 12 miles of the road remained to be constructed before the road would be passable for motor trucks. During the fall and winter, work has been proceeding on the road.

The most heavy construction was required on the Blue River high level bridge, which was well advanced during 1942 through the use of Japanese labor brought from the Pacific coast prior to that year.

Opening of the Blue River road, which may be realized in 1943 will provide a new highway from Jasper to the Pacific coast. The present highway runs from Blue River to Kamloops and on to Vancouver.

The Edmonton Branch of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce and other organizations have pressed for completion of the road in the interests of the country," declared Mr. Motherwell.

SAYS FARMING IS KEY TO POST-WAR READJUSTMENT

OTTAWA. — Farming, one of the most important war activities of the United Nations, holds the key to the post-war readjustment and rehabilitation, J. H. Metcalfe, director of education and agriculture for the Canadian National Railways, told the Kiwanis club here. "The history of Canadian agriculture have these engaged in this basic industry produced so much with little help as in 1942," said Mr Metcalfe. The top and bottom in agriculture was reached in one decade, 1932 being the leanest year, while 1942 was the most bountiful.

In order to meet the post war problems, the immediate aim must be to strike between urban and rural life must be ridged, said the speaker. There are 725,000 farms in Canada in which one acres in production represents an investment of $5 per acre, and the owners and workers on these farms will have to be taken into careful consideration when re-adjustments from war conditions to peace is made.

"The realization that Canada is the Empire's main granary, as well as its chief arsenal will show that agriculture will be one of the main causes of first winning the war then solving the post war problems of the country" declared Mr Metcalfe.

Guard Your Gasoline Ration Book
KEEP IT ON YOUR PERSON • DO NOT LEAVE IT IN YOUR CAR

NOW that you have your 1943-1944 gasoline ration book, it is up to you to keep it at all times in a safe place. If it is lost, burned, or stolen, you will be deprived of coupons which will not be replaced. In this regard, the policy of the Oil Controller is as follows:

● If, through negligence, you lose your gasoline ration book before October 1, 1943, you may be allowed no more, and perhaps less, than half the coupons to which you would be entitled if you were making an original application.

● If, through negligence, you lose your ration book on or after October 1, 1943, you may be allowed no more, and perhaps less, than 25 per cent of the coupons to which you would be entitled if you were making an original application.

The new gasoline rationing system, effective on April 1, will be strictly enforced. Under its provisions, the motorist, as well as the service station attendant, is held responsible if any infractions occur. It is contrary to the orders of the Oil Controller:

1. To purchase gasoline with 1942-1943 coupons.
2. To purchase gasoline unless you have the correct category sticker affixed to your windshield.
3. To detach coupons from your own book. (The removal of the coupons is the duty of the attendant.)
4. To have in your possession a gasoline ration coupon not attached to, and forming a part of, a gasoline ration book.
5. To have in your possession a gasoline ration book other than the book issued in respect of a vehicle you own, or in respect of a vehicle driven by you with the full consent of the real owner.
6. To alter, deface, obliterate, or mutilate any gasoline ration book or coupon.

If you sell your motor vehicle, remember that before making delivery you must remove the windshield sticker or stickers. Remember also that after this is completed, you must mail to the nearest Regional Oil Control Office in your province the Consumer's Gasoline ration book or books issued for the vehicle.

GARDEN NOTES

Avoid Three Mistakes

The three commonest mistakes of the new gardener are planting too early, too deep and too thick. All of these things lead to trouble by unnecessary work or disappointment.

Seed planted too deep will not germinate well. The general rule is three times the diameter, which means more pressing into the soil for fine seed like that of radish, pepper, carrot, etc., and about one or two inches deep for beans and peas. With bulbs and tubers like gladiolus and potatoes, from six to ten inches deep is recommended, the heavier the soil the shallower the planting.

Too early planting, of course, with tender things that will not stand frost is fatal. Many gardeners, too, rush all vegetable seeds in at the same time and usually a day to a week ahead of the regular season. This is all right, professionals point out, for a portion of the seed in each packet. With luck one gets very early vegetables, but most of the seed should be saved for regular planting and some of it for later on. This ensures safety against early losses through weather and, what is more important, it spreads the harvesting season over several weeks, with really garden fresh vegetables coming along steadily for the table instead of a feast and a famine succession.

Precautions against planting seed too close together are based on a genuine desire to save the amateur a lot of work. If seed is properly spaced in the first place, there will be little thinning, which in most cases is a bit of a chore. With things like beans, peas, etc., the seed should be planted from three to four inches apart. With smaller seed like that of carrots, beets, lettuce, etc., it is difficult to space to the two inches the first plants should be apart, but with a little care it can be sown thinly. Sowing of very small seed can be aided by mixing the same with a little dry sand, then sowing the whole mixture.

Nursery Stock Care

Nursery stock in the general name given to hardy perennial shrubs, flowers, trees and roses that are grown for one to three years from seed in a nursery before being sold to gardeners and fruit growers. Like seed, it is important to secure such stock from a reputable source and one that is familiar and caters to Canadian conditions.

Men seem to fall into two groups, says the Kitchener Record. They're either old and bent, or young and broke.

Presents Difficulties

Invasion Of Europe Requires More Ships Than Britain Has Available

What plans the Allied leaders have agreed upon naturally cannot even be guessed at in the nakedness of print, but one thing is sure and that is that the carefully husbanded reserves of manpower of this country are not going to be thrown away on a quixotic gesture of goodwill for the Soviets, fighting for survival in a war which was thrust upon them and which they are fighting to win for their own kind of victory.

Water divides the United States and Britain from the Continent where Herr Hitler's forces exercise an un easy domination. It will take ships to cross that water with the men and machines and the fuel with which to operate them. Before that can be done on a scale large enough to defeat the Axis or even force Herr Hitler to withdraw sufficient forces from the East to give Russia superiority in that eastern front, the submarine must be conquered and a vast amount of tonnage built and manned.

What is not fully realized here, and what is only partly realized in the United States and certainly hardly at all in Russia, is that this island nation has its hands full maintaining its troops in Africa and in keeping the vital sea lanes open and that the United States, with its vast reserves of men and material, still lacks the ships to transport them to the decisive theatres for the moment.

Once that hurdle of sea transport is overcome the war will be won, although it may not end for some time thereafter. Germany knows this and realizes that the setback at Stalingrad and the victory at Kharkov are less important than the results of the submarine warfare in the Atlantic.

The Russians may retreat or advance, but as long as a strong Red Army remains in being the Axis is losing because its frontier falls, whose aim is to kill as many Germans as possible. It doesn't matter much whether the extermination is accomplished in retreat or in advance. The result is the same and Russia is a big country with vast manpower resources upon which to draw.—St. Catharines Standard.

Hard On Pilots

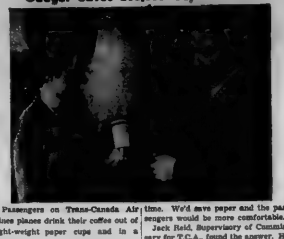
Terrific Pace Of Dive Bombing Creates Temporary Blackout

The London correspondent of the Ottawa Journal says: A few days ago I met in a London club a quiet unobtrusive man in the thirties who specializes in the highly-paid but hazardous business of testing new airplanes. Before this war he even did some testing for the Germans, and he knows all about their divebombers.

He told me some interesting facts about these machines. From our point of view, though obviously not that of Hitler's Nazis, the great objection to dive-bombers is that in the terrible way they use up their pilots. Dive-bombing is done at a terrific pace and, every time a pilot dives, and jerks up the nose of the machine to rise again, he gets what is known as "a black out".

This is familiar enough to airmen who make sudden turns at high speed. It is exaggerated in the case of the dive-bomber pilot and every time he repeats the operation the black-out period is longer. It may be only a second or two at first, but it steadily increases and eventually may extend to as much as half a minute. What is likely to happen to a machine, travelling at over 300 m.p.h. with its pilot out for half a minute, seems fairly certain.

Gadget Saves 200,000 Cups A Year



Passengers on Trans-Canada Air Lines pleases drink their coffee out of light-weight paper cups and in a year the T.C.A. uses 600,000 of them. With wartime restrictions on paper, this is quite an item, and executives of the air line decided they would have to do something about it. So that the cup of coffee wouldn't be too hot to hold, the practice has been to give each passenger two cups, one inside the other, providing a double thickness of paper.

"Now, if we could only have handles on our cups," said D. R. MacLaren, Supervisor of Passenger Service, "one cup would be enough at a time. We'd save paper and the passengers would be more comfortable."

Jack Reid, Supervisory of Commissary for T.C.A., found the answer. He devised a gadget of the plastic called lucite. It started out as a rod such as dentists and doctors use and was twisted to encircle the cup and make a handle.

When they are used, the handles are thrown away, but the handles are kept for the next time. Mr. MacLaren estimates that at least 200,000 cups a year will be saved.

In the photograph, he is seen showing the device to Miss Margaret Dickson, Chief Supervisory Stewardess for Trans-Canada.

PETER AND JOHN WITNESS CHRIST RISEN

Golden text: There came a voice out of the cloud, This is my beloved Son: hear ye him. Mark 9:7.

Devotional Reading: I Peter 1: 16-18.

Devotional Reading: II Corinthians 5:12-16.

Explanations and Comments

Peter, James and John Witness Christ's Glory. Mark 9:2-8. Six days after the events in the neighborhood of Caesarea Philippi (Mark 8:27-38) Jesus and his three favored disciples, Peter, James and John, ascended a high mountain where he was transfigured before them. Had the disciples been perplexed and anxious during that week? Did their mystery concerning the manner of their Master's coming suffering and death seem to them so utterly impossible for him whom they had declared the Christ that they were even faltering in their faith? On the Mount the answer came, and then they knew that, however the mystery was to be explained, their Master was the very Son of God. The transfiguration with its revelation of glory and power dispelled all despondency.

Jesus was transfigured. The fashion of his countenance was altered (Luke 9:29); his face did shine as the sun (Matthew 17:2). It was not a spiritual one that fell on his face from without and light it up; the glory came from within.

"The Jewish rabbis had said that one of the attributes lost through Adam's fall was a glory of countenance which reflected God's presence. Great thoughts and noble enthusiasms tend to transfigure even the outward person. We can all remember with the colloquial expression about the 'lighting up' of the human face in moments of exalted feeling. The change in Jesus was an objective appearance visible to the disciples. It was a real experience of inward and outward beatification through which Jesus passed" (William Orton).

And his garments became glistering, exceeding white, so as no fuller on earth can whiten them. A fuller was one who fulled cloth, thickened it by moistening, beating and pressing: "It was as if a monarch had been walking in disguise, only occasionally beneath his humble garment had been revealed a glimpse of the purple and the gold. Here, for a time, a disguise is withdrawn, and the king appears in his real majesty and in the regal splendor of his divine glory" (C. R. Erdman).

And Moses and Elijah appeared, talking with Jesus. The three wearied disciples had wrapped their garments about them and lain down to rest upon the bare ground. There they had fallen asleep, and on awakening suddenly, they saw Moses and Elijah talking with him.

Fly In Reserve

Hummingbird Has Been Described As The Human Helicopter

We owe an apology to the hummingbird for having expressed a doubt in these columns that he is as good as the new Vought-Sikorsky helicopter. We said that he seemed to fly in reverse when the breeze blew the honeysuckle blossoms to his bill, and that he seemed to hover in a stationary position in the air.

We were too cautious. The human eye is still reliable. For Dr. Karl P. Schmidt, chief curator of the Department of Ecology of the Field Museum of Natural History, writes: "Hummingbirds do fly in reverse in the situation you describe."

The' settled it. And we are glad that it turns out that way. Incidentally, the hummingbird is also like a fighter plane—a very pugnacious little fellow.—Chicago Daily News.

THE right kind of lubrication is as necessary as the right kind of seed. For, poor lubrication, like poor seed, results in loss. So, in your own interest, be as careful in your choice of lubricants for your farm equipment as you are in the selection of the seed you sow.

Every McColl-Frontenac farm lubricant is especially designed for a particular job—to help keep farm equipment operating longer—more efficiently and at lower cost.

See the McColl-Frontenac Representative in your district, without delay. He will show you why you should use McColl-Frontenac farm lubricants exclusively.

WILDWERE WINKS

We were sorry to hear of the passing of Mrs Ida Cartwright. Edmonton will miss a jolly friendly person and her recitations were enjoyed by many. In the days when she used to attend the parties in schools, she was always a few years ago they called to see the writer and husband. We wish to extend our deepest sympathy to the sorrowing husband and daughter Elsie in their loss.

Noel Garnett, R.C.A.F., Toronto, is visiting for the week-end with Wm Garnett, Jr. Mar ried and Albert Smith's home on Sunday.

Mrs. J. Wallington and the Graham children were visitors at the home of Mrs Fred Fathers on Sunday afternoon where a pleasant visit was enjoyed.

Little Jenny Cruthers met with a rather painful accident on Sunday morning at breakfast when she spilt hot coffee into her lap. While the burns are not deep they are sore, and we hope the wee lady is soon able to be out again

Mr and Mrs Adam Smith, Billie and Mary Thus Morand were all Wainwright visitors on Saturday afternoon.

Little George Cruthers was the first one in our district we have heard of to see a crow, Sunday March 28th.

Tommy Hibbert went to Edmonton last week to see his brother Teddy who is stationed there at present.

THE WORLD OF WHEAT

By M. G. L. Strange
Director, Research Department, Searle Grain Co., Ltd

Vegetables Will be Badly Needed

Many persons are becoming seriously alarmed about a probable great shortage of vegetables. It is the intention of the Government of the U. S. and of Canada to dehydrate vast quantities of vegetables, and to ship them overseas to the members of the Armed Forces, to Russia and to the people of Britain.

It is calculated that in consequence vegetables will be so short this coming summer that every person who can do so is being urged in the United States and Canada to grow more vegetables. Many farmers will no doubt wish to join in this most worthy effort.

With the present shortage of farm labor, keeping a large vegetable garden free from weeds will not be easy. When I was farming I hit upon a time-saving plan of sowing vegetables on a piece of summerfallow out in the fields in long single rows. Because such a width between rows is used as that any farm implement in ordinary use, a section of a harrow or a disc, could be dragged between the rows every day or so. In this way most of the weeds can be killed quickly by machine power. This only leaves the weeds between the plants in the rows to be pulled by hand.

Items of interest in the World of Finance

The Argentine corn harvest is also short, with yields very light as a result of the long drought. Based on crops in major exporting countries is expected to be reduced 2 to 4 per cent this year. There is also a severe wheat shortage in North Africa as a result of the small wheat crop last year and the German confiscation in the United territories. Spring ploughing and seeding in the U. K. is well underway and it is expected that about 2,500,000 acres will be planted to wheat there. The export subsidy on U.S. wheat in some South American countries has been increased by 20 cents per bushel.

Canada has increased quotas on a number of essential farm machine supplies.

RECONSTRUCTION

The government's reconstruction program is directed along lines permitted by the three bills already mentioned and by an amendment to the Research Council Act, which broadens the scope of the Council and permits co-ordination with the Reconstruction Committee. The committee is composed of the following members: Hon. N. E. Tanner chairman; Hon E. C. Manning, A. J. Hooke; Mrs. C. R. Wood, Alfred Speakman, E. J. Martin. This committee will make annual reports to the Legislature

NEW CREDIT UNIONS

There are now 56 credit unions in Alberta the latest being that organized in Edmonton by employees of the City and Separate School Boards. Credit unions have included those granted to the V.V.R. of Calgary and to employees of the Alberton. This latter is the second newspaper credit union in Alberta. The first was organized among members of the Fourth Estate at the Calgary Herald.

The great interest in credit unions has shown throughout the province is resulting in many inquiries being sent to various officials and departments, and even to radio stations in Edmonton. Readers interested in this phase of local activity can obtain first hand information, and arrange for a speaker to meet them, through the Co-operative Activities Branch, Department of Trade and Industry, Edmonton

It is estimated that the 62,300 acres of sugar beet grown in Canada in 1942 produced 200 million pounds of refined sugar, or about one-fifth of Canada's normal consumption. The objective for 1943 is at present considered to be the greatest amount of beet sugar that can be produced with present plant facilities

Post-War Possibilities

DISCUSSION OF POST-WAR PLANS at the recent mid-continent research conference held in Minneapolis, Minn., have once more drawn attention to the possibilities of greater industrial development on the prairies. Premier Stuart S. Garson, of Manitoba, one of those who represented Western Canada at the conference, reported that there had been talk of the utilization of the rich lignite deposits of Manitoba and Saskatchewan, and of North and South Dakota in the building up of a great chemical industry. He also said that the Manitoba white poplar might some day be used as a raw material for manufacturing rayon and other chemical products. The importance of Western Canada in the air routes of the future were also discussed at the conference, where it was pointed out that the most direct routes between many points on this continent and important parts of Europe and Asia, lie directly across the Canadian Prairies.

Industry Has Not Expanded

Because of the distance from the Prairie Provinces to some of the large centres of population, many of their industrial potentialities have never been fully developed. Sodium sulphate deposits in Saskatchewan have proved fine pasture and have supplied the pulp and paper mills of Canada for many years. The oil of the Turner Valley, clay deposits of Saskatchewan and Alberta and the lignite coal of Manitoba and Saskatchewan have all been developed some to great advantage. However, it is hoped that after the war there will be much greater expansion in the manufacture of the products of raw materials produced on the Prairies. The opening of the Alaska Highway has given access to a land rich in minerals and oil and it is likely that after the war there will be great activity in this region. There has already been considerable development in oil wells in the vicinity of Fort MacMurray, and there is promise of many more enterprises of this nature.

Wheat Used In Making Rubber

One of the greatest problems of this war, both for the army and for civilians has been the sudden curtailment of the United Nations supply of raw rubber by Japan. The importance of wheat in the process of manufacturing synthetic rubber has aroused much interest, and Western wheat is now being used in Canada. Wheat is also a source of industrial alcohol which next to water is the most important liquid used in industry. The use of wheat in both these processes offers many possibilities for further industrial development here. Wheat is also suggested as a basis for plastic materials which are to be widely used after the war. Thus it appears that with the coming of peace, there may be a period of interesting and extensive industrial expansion in the West.

HEALTH LEAGUE OF CANADA

CANNING IS A "MUST" IN 1943

This third year of war means many Canadian housewives already know, shortages in certain groups of food commodities which we have always been accustomed to purchase without any difficulty. In fact, many of us have taken it for granted that supplies of these goods would always be available. In doing so, we have not taken into consideration the practical and intensely realistic reasons why we must do without.

Metal, as we all know, is an essential material in the successful carrying on of a modern war. The millions of cans of prepared foods of various kinds which we have so casually picked off the shelves of our local grocery stores have represented tons of previous tin which is needed in the war effort. Therefore the manufacture of canned goods must be drastically curtailed. "What is the answer?" asks the Canadian housewife. Simply this:

She must augment the steadily dwindling supplies of canned fruits still obtainable from her grocer with fruit by herself from this season's crop. Many have done this for years, but this year it will be necessary to decide in advance how much fruit to can in order that sugar might be obtained for the purpose. The Dominion Government urges Canadian housewives to can fruit this year instead of making it into jam or jelly, as the latter requires more sugar to make. Experts state that three pounds of sugar will make six quarts of canned fruits, whereas three pounds of sugar will make only two quarts of jam or jelly. More food value is also conserved when the fruit is canned.

Application for sugar for canning purposes is necessary in order that the Sugar Administration of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board can provide the sugar needed. The "application for canning sugar" is to be found in the new ration book. The form must be filled in and returned to the nearest local Ration Board before April 15th.

Really Worth Saving

Pins, Needles, And Any Kind Of Fastenings Are Precious

Has a pin and pick it up! Traditionally this is supposed to bring good luck but these days this direction has new importance. Every pin you find, needle, every hair curler or any thing else made of metal should not only be picked up, but saved. Shortages in their manufacture and steel is needed for ships and tanks shells and guns and other war equipment.

Stray needles or pins should never be swept into the dustpan. Needles particularly should be kept where they will not rust, and those already rusted should be cleaned with emery cloth or powder.

Fastenings on old clothing should not be thrown away but should be saved when the clothes are turned over to salvage. Zippers from worn-out handbags and tobacco pouches should also be saved.

Hairpins and other pins, of all kinds, should be conserved as they are often not available at present day notion counters. As time goes on they will become increasingly scarce.

England's Weather

Paper Reported Warmest And Smiled Among Its Many Years

January's "freak" weather in London and southeast England broke records that have stood for many generations. It was the wettest January for over 40 years and its warmest day temperature was the second highest for 85 years. It was the sunniest and warmest January for many years.

The worst gale for some years swept over south-eastern England during the last week-end of the month. Prolonged gusts of wind reached a speed of 70 miles an hour at Kew Observatory, and the rainfall during the gale was 1.3 inch. Great damage was done over a wide area, particularly in mid-Kent, where the River Medway overflowed its banks and became a mile wide in some places. It quickly subsided.

Thousands of acres of land in Kent and Sussex were flooded. Along the Kent and Sussex coast seafronts and promenades were severely battered by the great seas in the Channel. At Southend a 2,000-ton ship dragged her anchors and became wedged into the pier. The Thames rose over three feet and burst its banks in many places between Maidenhead and Staines.—London Times.

MUSIC

Music is the fourth great material want of our nature—first food, then raiment, then shelter, then music.—Bovee

Harmony makes small things grow; a lack of it makes great things decay.

Music resembles poetry; in each are numerous graces which no methods teach, and which a master hand alone can reach.—Pope.

The direct relation of music is not to ideas, but to emotions—in the words of its greatest masters, it is more marvelous, more mysterious than poetry.—Henry Giles.

Music is the harmony of being, but the music of Heaven is the only strains that thrill the chords of feeling. It awakens the heart's harpstrings.—Mary Lizzie Xavier.

The language of tones belongs equally to all mankind, and melody is the absolute language in which the musician speaks to every heart.—Richard Wagner.

"Sure," replied the new salesman. "Statistics say that very few men die after 92."

"You promised to marry him, didn't you?"

"Yes; but that was all."

Young American Learned What "Old" Really Means In England

Leonard Lyons, in the New York Post, says: Lord Cranborne, the ex-Minister of Colonies and Britain's Lord Privy Seal recently was visited at his home in Cranborne by a young American who recited his genealogy—tracing his American ancestry back to the Mayflower days. "Come with me. I want to show you this house." Lord Cranborne interrupted. "You take this part—this is the new wing—The NEW wing"? asked the American. "It looks so old." "It was built in 1377," the 7 st Hlordd "but nevertheless — it's the new wing."

EXHIBITION OF HAND WORK AT HUGHES SCHOOL

Billy Hart Makes High Score

Parents and friends attended the Hughes school on Friday, April 2 to see the children's Exhibition of Handiwork. The display consisted of weaving, sewing, knitting and numerous other examples of handwork as well as penmanship, art work and Red Cross sewing.

The judges were Mrs. L. Robinson, and Mrs. L. Sieber. The prize for the highest aggregate score was won by Billy Hart. Second and third highest scores went to Irene McNeil and John Duthie respectively.

Following a short program of speeches and items by the Rhythm Band a brief game was held for which Billy Hart won the prize, a War Savings stamp. At the close of the program a dainty lunch was served by the pupils.

Proceeds from a silver collection and sale of sewing bits amounted to five dollars. This is to be turned over to the Hughes Junior Red Cross Society.

Stagette Notes

The highlight of the April 6th meeting of the Stagette club was the letter which was read from Miss Sylvia Pankhurst, who is in charge of the Maidstone St. school in London, England. The Christmas parcels which the local club sent in November arrived there safely and in show how much they are appreciated and were needed, the following quotations are from the letter: "The delightful parcels arrived in perfect condition and thank you ever so much, the children were thrilled with the contents . . . The school is in a drab neighborhood, very narrow streets and courts, several houses which were bombed have entirely disappeared, the houses collapsing like packs of cards and looking around I wonder where the 500 children in this school ever lived . . . Now that second hand clothing is a thing of the past, clothes are badly needed."

A substantial sum of money has been turned over to Mr. Pilkie to aid the Red Cross drive.

Many thanks to the Elks for invitations to Shuffleboard on their party on March 24th. The girls had a grand time.

Misses Pat Burns and Lorraine Andrew, two of the local members, have left to work in the city. With them on the best wishes of their sister stagettes for every success in their new positions.

CHATSWORTH CHATTER

Just when we all thought that spring was here, what a nasty kick Old Man Winter has given us. Monday night 30th, so that in many places horses could hardly get through and on Monday 29th a high wind and a heavy snowfall made a snow-bound world hereabouts.

Miss Castel held a St. Patrick's day party on the 17th for the school children. Games were played throughout the afternoon. The Chatsworth Chatterer had the pleasure of attending to help out with the musical part of the program of fun. At the close lunch was served by the older girls.

Mrs. and Mrs. Archie Gunn, Jean and Anne, Miss Milburn and Mrs. Alex Clark were visitors to Ft. Saskatchewan for a shopping spree one week end, leaving on Friday and returning Monday. Mrs. Clark remained at Ft. Saskatchewan to visit with her sister Mrs. A. B. Whitson.

Mr. Hughes was a visitor at the Hughes home here during the week end of 19th.

Dave Hughes came home from Manville the past week end 27th.

Mrs. James Fowler and son and daughter came home from the hospital last Friday 26th.

Miss Castel and Mrs. Hughes walked in to Vermilion last Saturday. Unfortunately there were very few (if any) neighbors in add they are unable to get a ride back so had to walk—and through what drifts!

A carload of baby-bedding Lloyd, Hugh and Violet Oshaldeman, Mary Tobyasil, Mrs. Barnwell and Leon and George Neuman went in to Vermilion last Saturday also. The car suffered a break down and they arrived home about 5 p.m. Sunday.

On Sunday, March 28, we saw crows for the first time and Monday we saw a couple of sophora.

Jim Panter bought a half ton Chev. truck.

Mrs. M. Panter who has been visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Jim Panter, went back to Western on Saturday, 20th.

The above news may be old in some but the storm last Monday night and Tuesday morning left the roads impassable hence our mail did not get in and the "Chatter" was not delivered for last week.

Miss Castel spent the week end April 2-4 at Mrs. Ferguson's as Mrs. Hughes is visiting in Edmonton.

Charlotte Ferguson and Lois Hutchinson were home for the week end.

Snow has rapidly disappeared since Thursday. It is almost unbelievable how quickly it stinks and how the water runs away, "perhaps spring is here" Who knows? Ducks crows, and geese are here anyway. The grain stooks have cleared this week and stubble fields are showing while hill-tops are quite bare Children report having seen crocus buds.

BOARD OF TRADE NOTES

Thirty six members attended the Board of Trade luncheon meeting on Wednesday, the president was in the chair. Welcome were extended to the Mr. Curtis Wilson and son Clarence from the country, and to the Ven. Arch. Leversedge making his first appearance for some little time.

Little of moment developed at the gathering. The secretary read numerous replies from various federal and provincial ministers acknowledging the recent resolution forwarded by the board asking that certain form help be made available to the farmers.

Mr. Pilkie, campaign manager for the Red Cross drive, announced that the grand total now stood at over $4600. The quota given was $5000.

The board of trade luncheon meeting will be held as usual on Wednesday next at 12.15 noon.

ISLAND HILL

A compliment was paid Dick Mc-Daniel, R.C.A.F. personnel-in-his-absence (as a prisoner when a game party was held at the home of John Williamson. Games were played and a delicious supper was served. Everyone had a very enjoyable time. Those present were Miss Florence Roland, Miss Dora Williamson, Harry and John Bailey, Albert Mix, D. McDaniel, John Williamson and Ort Strome

A discerning reader points out that Hitler in last week's Standard almost stepped on our pillar. Yes, he did break up our pillar a little and scatter portions of it into other pillars but we stood well up against him as our ardent Canadian lads will do some of these fine days.

Miss F. Roland paid a week end visit to her folks at Minburn.

Miss Eva Williamson has gone to Edmonton to take a business course. Her sister Jean is a bank employee there.

Albert Mix has returned to school at Three Hills.

Miss Roland was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Seddon Wednesday.

BOARD OF TRADE 1943 MEMBERSHIP SETS ALL TIME RECORD

116 With More To Come

The Board of Trade membership for 1943 has set an all time high record with 116 so far enrolled and prospects of several more to come. This announcement by the president was greeted with considerable enthusiasm at Wednesday's meeting. He also commended the membership committees for their quick and thorough canvass. The previous high mark was 111

Captain W. H. Scott, a past president of the Board who will shortly leave for Three Rivers, Que., for further military training, acted as chairman and in a short talk stated that he thought that the weekly luncheon meetings of Board of Trade should, by all means, be continued. The idea of a group of business men gathering together each week appealed to him greatly as a safeguard to the future prosperity and unanimity of Vermilion.

Present at board gatherings for the first time this season Art Wiebe and Tom Hick, while the re-appearance of Percy Long was noted with a great deal of pleasure. Mr. Norman McMillan, town of Vermilion Valley M. D. was in attendance and H. W. Brown introduced Mr Denny from Edmonton.

There were 22 members present.

The regular weekly meeting will be held on Wednesday next at 12.15 noon.

BOWTELL FARMER ATTACKED BY BULL

Recovering in Hospital

(Extract from Bowtell Bulletin)

O. Repp, well known Bowtell district farmer, is in the Vermilion hospital recovering from an attack by his bull. Mr. Repp was flailing the fence and just walked past the bull, when the animal turned and attacked, tossing him up twice and rolling him on the ground. The injured man managed to roll under the fence and out of reach of the mad bull.

Injuries suffered by Mr. Repp were broken ribs and numerous bruises and scratches. Mr. Aubrey McGinnis happened along at the right time and took the injured man to Hardisdale from where Fred Scott rushed him into the hospital.

VERMILION BOY LANDS BOMBING PLANE — REFUSES COMMISSION

Sgt. Pilot Dale Hildebrand, Oversears, brought his plane safely to the ground in a forced landing after the machine caught fire in the air, one of the Auxiliary, having been one of the originators of the group when it was founded more than a score of years ago.

Lieuts. Heaps, Ward and Lagace of Calgary, also special guests of the Legion at this function and Mr. Norman Greig proposed the toast to the guests of honor, to which Lieut. Heaps responded in pleasing manner.

Major A.W.G. Morrow, always a friend of the Legion and of service men generally, proposed a toast to the Provincial Command of the Canadian Legion. His remarks were responded to by the Provincial President of that body, S. C. VERMILION RIVER IN FLOOD

According to all rumors the water in the Vermilion river valley is the highest since the spring of 1907 and as a matter of fact higher than that year. Thursday and Friday last week saw the peak of the flood when practically all shoreline expanse of river right across the broad valley stretched the eye. It was truly a beautiful sight. Sunday the water had receded about 15 inches from its peak on Sunday too, a sail boat and a canoe made their appearance, and on Monday the writer was heard to remark "Wouldn't it be lovely if it was like this all the time". Maybe as a possible prospect, rising daily and until the night of dam will be built below the town, giving us a permanent lake.

All river valley roads are said to be under water east of Vermilion with bridges in precarious conditions in several places. The local valley road was lasted a few days ago and is submerged high and dry. The old C.N.R. dam is completely submerged also there is much conjecture on just how much of it will be left when the flood waters subside

Good News for Canadians

There was good news recently from overseas for Canadians who have been buying Victory Bonds and War Savings Certificates so enthusiastically during the past two years.

The Commander of the Canadian Army, Lieut.-General A. G. L. McNaughton, declared, "For many months now there has been an ever rising flood (of munitions) to carry forward our purpose against the enemy." He listed the munitions flood to include warships, transport aircraft, guns and many other weapons of war and praised the constant and immense endeavors in this country to develop new and better weapons which would bring an advantage to the Dominion troops over the enemy.

Legion Celebrates Vimy Victory

Celebrating the 25th victory of the Canadian forces at Vimy Ridge when they stormed and captured that historic spot on April 9th, 1917, the Vermilion Branch of the Canadian Legion selected Friday, April 9th 1943 as an opportunity to pay tribute to the splendid work of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Branch, when they entertained them at dinner at the Lower Deck in George's.

About 125 ex-servicemen, their wives and members of the Auxiliary sat down to dinner and enjoyed the fine meal served by George and the Cabaret de Luxe; after an excellent repast the toast to the King was proposed and responded to and then President Thos. White of the Legion fittingly introduced the toast to the Ladies Auxiliary, pointing to the great assistance rendered the Legion for more than twenty years. Mrs. H. Scott president of the Auxiliary, responded and her well chosen remarks were very acceptably received. It was made known that Mrs. Scott was also celebrating an anniversary, that of twenty-one years as a member of the Auxiliary, having been one of the originators of the group when it was founded more than a score of years ago.

Lieuts. Heaps, Ward and Lagace of Calgary, also special guests of the Legion at this function and Mr. Norman Greig proposed the toast to the guests of honor, to which Lieut. Heaps responded in pleasing manner.

HIGH SCHOOL SUFFERS FROM SEEPAGE WATER

Enters Basement Along Steam Line

The regular monthly meeting of trustees of Vermilion Centre S. D. No 1446 was held in the Council Chamber town hall on Thursday, April 8th at 8.15 p.m. with Chairman Donald Taylor, Trustees Bruce Adam and Reid present.

Principals Dunsard and Part of the staff and public schools attended and gave reports for March.

Principal Dunsard reported that overflow water had entered the steam line and that the heat was low in the basement of the high school. He flooded the air conditioner room, necessitating the carrying out of water. The steam from the hot water had done considerable damage to the paint in the school and insulation of the Conditioner room had been severely damaged and would have to be renewed.

In discussing this the Board decided that the matter would be referred to the Town authorities.

Tr. Reid reported on his interview with Dr Bradford in the matter of vaccination and inoculation of the pupils of both schools against diphtheria and smallpox. He said that the Doctor had said that owing to lack of time, he would be unable to undertake this work, but offered all assistance that he could give the matter.

The service man on leave is to be allowed to travel light in future. If he wishes it—as no doubt he will—he can leave behind in camp or barracks the burden of arms and equipment which is an bothersome in train compartments and corridors. PETER AND JOHN IN [illegible]

Golden text: Watch and pray, that ye enter not into temptation. Matthew 26 41.

Lesson Matthew 26:36-46; John 18:10-12.

Devotional reading: Hebrews 2.17, 18; 4:14 16.

Explanations and Comments

Christ's Agony in Gethsemane and the Disciples' Failure There, Matthew 26:36-46. Out from the Upper Room where he had held his last meeting with his disciples, went Jesus and the eleven (Judas having gone to arrange with his enemies to arrest him), along the silent streets, through the eastern gate of the city down the steep sides of the ravine and across the Brook Kedron, then up the slope of the Mount of Olives to the Garden of Gethsemane, or orchard of the oil press, as its name signifies.

Bidding eight of the eleven tarry near the entrance of the Garden while he went farther to pray, Jesus took with him only the chosen three who loved him best, Peter and the two sons of Zebedee, James and John, and bade them stay nearer him. He was trying upon their sympathetic presence and watchful care in a time when his soul was exceeding sorrowful, even unto death.

Jesus felt a human hunger for companionship. Jesus was personally sociable He evidently enjoyed mixing with people. He liked the give-and-take of life. He did friendship. There was a group of men and two men gathered around him who gave him their devoted loyalty. He in turn needed them. The denial of Peter and the betrayal of Judas hurt him partly because they were defections from the comradeship of his group. In Gethsemane he craved friendship. He prayed to God, but he reached out for Peter and John. The longing for friendship and the unrest of loneliness was a proof of a truly human and social nature (Walter Rauschenbusch).

Going a little farther among the trees, out of the moonlight probably, for it was the Passover and full moon, Jesus cast himself on the ground in an agony of spirit and prayed that if possible the cup might pass away. The prayer was not that if God had the power to take away the cup, but if, were in accordance with his father's will that it should be removed. "The cup" stands for an appointed portion: in Ps. 75:8 it is the portion of judgment; in Ps. 23:5 of mercy; here, of suffering and death.

Jesus went back to the disciples as though seeking their sympathy, but found them sleeping. To Peter he said, "What, could ye not watch with me one hour?"

"Watch and pray," he counseled, "that ye enter not into temptation." "Watch and pray, all of you, as that you may not slip into temptation." And then excused his faithless disciples, saying, "The spirit indeed is willing, but the flesh is weak."

NO LONGER EMPTY

Coal trucks which formerly travelled empty from New York to the mines now carry machinery and materials needed by war plants on their outbound trips.

Jack Miner

Jack Miner celebrated his 78th birthday on April 10.

During the past year the press has given him credit for publicizing Canada and promoting tourist trade more than any other single individual in the Dominion, while one editorial has referred to him as "Canada's Ambassador of Good Will." For 35 years Jack Miner toured both Canada and the U.S. at his own expense on lecture tours filling the largest auditoriums in both countries and preached the value of tourists coming into Canada.

Certainly no one will question but that his writings, his lectures on bird life and his bird sanctuary, which is a living example, has done more than any individual to awaken the interest in, and the value of Bird Life to not only Canada, but to all North America. Jack Miner's name is a household word when you mention bird life. At no expense to anyone he toured the western provinces of Canada seven times in five years preaching conservation with the result many windbreaks can be seen for miles on the prairies planted around farm homes and as wind breaks. The idea in many cases was awakened by him twenty or more years ago. His scientific research work in banding bird life and studying its route of migration can be valued in dollars and cents from the educational standpoint while his missionary work in using the fowl of the air to spread the gospel, has caused many religious periodicals to refer to him as the greatest missionary on the continent.

Have Been Improved

Lights On Life-Jackets Of Merchant Navy More Efficient

The light which has for some time been a part of the life jacket used by the Merchant Navy has been further simplified and improved. Not only is it now more efficient, but quicker deliveries can be made.

The light itself is attached to the shoulder of the jacket by a spring clip which cannot be washed off even in the heavy-est seas. The battery is in a pocket in the jacket, and the light is switched on by inserting a captive plug into a socket on top of the battery contain-r. This can be done with two fingers, and no special instructions are necessary.

The light can be seen over great distances at sea, and many lives have been saved by it.

SEEING IS BELIEVING

Two New Jersey boys were members of an outfit that was shipped to the West Coast. They saw the Pacific for the first time.

"Do you know," one of them asked the other, "the Pacific Ocean is over twice as big as the Atlantic?"

The other chap shaded his eyes and gazed out over the water. After a moment he spoke. "It sure is," he said.

The Toronto Globe and Mail says: No doubt, after a year or two in the army many a young man with farming experience will be delighted to get back in the fields again for the summer's work. A change is as good as a rest.

Tired Of Hardships

But German People Not Thinking Of Revolting Against Hitler

Maurice Hindus, in the American Magazine, says the information he utters found on the German dead, intimate and personal as it is, leads to some striking deductions. The people inside Germany hate the war and want it to end. They are tired of hardships, sick of sacrifice. They lament the moral disintegration of their young women; they shudder at air raids; they weep over their dead. But nowhere do they betray the least suggestion of German guilt or regret for horrors which the German armies perpetrate.

Hard as is their life, they know neither starvation nor desperation. Nor do they expect Germany to lose the war. To expect them at this time to revolt against Hitler is as futile and puerile as to expect the Fuehrer to live up to his promises or treaties.

Diaries of the German dead, particularly Nazi officers, support these conclusions. The Russians have gathered thousands of these.

MICKIE SAYS—

CHARLEY SCHERMER

Health League of Canada

presents TOPICS of VITAL INTEREST

DIPHTHERIA TREATMENT

Every Canadian child between the ages of six months and twelve years of age . . . if not already protected against diphtheria . . . should be given toxoid treatment declares the Health League of Canada.

The earlier in life a child is given protection the better, points out the League. Diphtheria is a most dangerous disease which is by no means conquered despite the availability of toxoid treatment. When it occurs the child may complain that his throat hurts, or there may be a croupy cough. Toxoid causes fever is present, with an increased pulse rate. Before the discovery of anti-toxin from 35 to 40 per cent. of diphtheria victims died. Today, among those given treatment within two days, not one in fifty dies. Delay can mean death in many cases.

Toxoid, however, prevents the disease from being contracted. It is administered to the child in three injections at three week intervals and provides immunity against the disease probably for a lifetime. It is important that all three injections be given before the summer vacation, as this sometimes delays the final injection because children are away from the city. The treatment is completely painless and has no unpleasant after effects.

Unless parents secure toxoid protection for their children, serious epidemics of diphtheria may possibly break out, declares the League. In 1942 there were 3,826 cases in Canada, an increase of nearly 300 over the previous year.

BORN IN YOUTH

The Berlin radio said that more than 1,000,000 German boys and girls who had reached the age of 14 were sworn into the Hitler youth organization by Arthur Axmann, chief of the National Socialist party. The principal ceremony was held in the Berlin Opera House, with Axmann broadcasting to other youth groups gathered throughout the country, the announcement said.

Everyone was in the breakfast room the next morning when Smithy descended. Sheldon had informed them of the master's arrival and the buzz of conversation was quite audible as Smithy entered. Yes they were all chattering together, his sisters Jill Julia and Evelyn, his brothers Chet, George and Julian.

They all greeted him but it was an odd get together for the undercurrent of it was apprehension. Just how much income would they have now that their brother was back?

Smithy took the bull by the horns. He was going to step right into his father's business and start running it himself. Anyone who didn't believe in him, could buy out now and be paid off in cash.

There were no acceptances but doubting over the table like cigarette smoke. Finally everyone decided to be off and there was only one member of the family left, Kitty, sweet-daughter of Smithy's sister, Jill.

Smithy had noticed how Kitty had grown from ungainly weaver of her youthful flowering beauty. Now she forced herself on his attention with shy flirtatiousness. "You know," she said I'll be tightest in several

ISLAY

The Good Friday evening service in Knox church will take the form of a pageant presented by Lloydminster girls of the United church. This is a very pleasing and worthwhile service. We invite you to attend.

Islay is about isolated by water. All roads except the one east to Holyrood echoed are very hazardous. All bridges on the Vermilion river are covered and beyond, making them dangerous to cross. The west bridge has a regular river flowing over it. The new road south is swamped between Duncan Carey's and Al Brodrick's. Quite a number have had sad experiences due to this. On looking over the lot one very tall young chap we think has the saddest. Last spring is here alright when marbles and skipping ropes etc. appear. And it's not only the school children who are on the jump either. The funniest thing seen last week was C.C. Mitchell and his wife trying out the twins new skipping ropes one their light. C.C. hasn't lost the art either. Being a little taller he could jump a little higher than his wife. We have been watching for Harry and Annie, next door to be leaving for the land any day now.

Dr. Sweet was called to a patient away north on Saturday. He had to go by train to Vermilion. On returning he had to leave the bunny on north side of the Vermilion river and come over on horseback. We are glad the river has high banks.

AC Ken Stone was home on a leave this past week end.

Miss Vera Moody has gone to Edmonton. Thelma is taking her place in the drug store.

May 14 is school festival day, to be held in Kinsmen. Teachers are busy with parent co-operation can make this "A Success".

CHATSWORTH CHATTER

How nice it is to see roads drying up and wheels in use once more. It must be because the winter was so long that everyone is glad to see spring this year.

Sunny days and not so balmy breezes are doing a great deal to dry up roads. Lakes and ponds are really full this year and many roads are under water.

Men folk of the district are busy cleaning grain, etc., though many are wondering whether it would pay to get our last year's threshing done. There is still plenty of hay and many have the stacks, which are fenced down yet. Perhaps by the time the boys are dry fields will be dry enough to harrow to haul a load.

Ladies throughout the district have been busy with canning beef, fish and chicken and with house-cleaning.

Mothers of our district are not in support of the proposed school hall plan during the fall, with children attending (to make up the six weeks allowed them) throughout the following summer. When both parents are out in the fields from morning until night, the children are far better off being at school unless they are big enough to help with harvesting. If the children are at home and not big enough to help, it means extra work for the mothers, packing dinners to take to the fields etc. And the loss of children ranging 2 to 2 miles to school throughout July and August's sweltering heat, then sitting in a hot school does not appeal to us either. Practically all rural schools are without drinking water, lack of which is quite an argument in itself against the new school proposal. There is no doubt of the pleasure of help in high school students, particularly those who can and will be at work in the harvest fields. Formerly, the students from rural areas, not being able to attend until after harvest, were handicapped by this loss of time.

Harold and on Friday guests of Mr and Mrs. Teagle.

Tom Jefferson is back from Edmonton to assist his folks to get to their new location.

Miss Roland is now residing with Mrs. B. Swanson.

Nellie Hinsky, a school girl found in her desk Monday morning a mouse and four baby mice. Contrary to popular opinion she did not scream.

Ned Acheson paid a flying visit to Edmonton during the week.

The bridge which is used by many folks have to get across the river is covered over by several feet of running water and is in great danger of being carried away. We have often heard it said the bridge is too small and should be replaced by a larger and stronger structure.

Mrs Armstrong, who was ill in hospital for some days has returned to her farm home here feeling much better.

When we read Morrison notes in last week's Standard and found out that while the folks of good English race and folks of most records didn't were toasting St Patrick the folks or good Irish stock were toasting their toes around the fire—We felt small. There is a fine hall in Island Hill and and to refute not one down Irish folk could be induced to come to celebrate St Patrick's day. We wonder why St Patrick troubled to convert the Irish from paganism.

ISLAND HILL

Married and on Friday guests of Mr and Mrs. Teagle.

Tom Jefferson is back from Edmonton to assist his folks to get to their new location.

Miss Roland is now residing with Mrs. B. Swanson.

Nellie Hinsky, a school girl found in her desk Monday morning a mouse and four baby mice. Contrary to popular opinion she did not scream.

Ned Acheson paid a flying visit to Edmonton during the week

The bridge which is used by many folks have to get across the river is covered over by several feet of running water and is in great danger of being carried away. We have often heard it said the bridge is too small and should be replaced by a larger and stronger structure.

Mrs Armstrong, who was ill in hospital for some days has returned to her farm home here feeling much better

When we read Morrison notes in last week's Standard and found out that while the folks of good English race and folks of most records didn't were toasting St Patrick the folks of good Irish stock were toasting their toes around the fire—We felt small. There is a fine hall in Island Hill and and to refute not one down Irish folk could be induced to come to celebrate St Patrick's day. We wonder why St Patrick troubled to convert the Irish from paganism.

You need more than HANDS

TO MAKE

FARM MACHINERY OPERATE

YES, Mr. Farmer, you need proper lubrication, too, for no amount of manual effort can make machinery go when breakdowns happen. And, without proper lubrication, there are bound to be breakdowns that will cost you time and money.

To avoid the dangers of wear—to keep your farm equipment operating smoothly and at low cost—use your nearest McColl-Frontenac Representative, as soon as possible. He will supply you with the right farm lubricants to meet your particular needs.

Ask him, especially, about the following:

RED INDIAN MOTOR OIL and RED INDIAN AVIATION MOTOR OIL

Here are two great oils that will lengthen the life of any engine. They ensure full power and economy under all operating conditions. These finer oils combat acid corrosion, friction, waxes and wear. They stand up under the hottest heat . . they flow and lubricate the moment the engine starts.

TEXACO MARFAK

For Wheel-Bearings and Vital Friction Points

This famous lubricant lasts longer and lubricates better under the toughest working conditions. It is self-sealing and keeps the working lubricant in where it is needed most, protecting life of bearings and universal joints by keeping out rain, mud and dust.

URSA X (CANADA)

The Perfect Motor Oil for Diesel and Heavy-Duty Gasoline Engines.

Highly resistant to the formation of gum, sludge and carbon. Ursa X (Canada) keeps rings, ring grooves, valves, screens and filters clean. Provides maximum bearing protection. Ensures full power and lower fuel consumption.

The Timely Help of Convenient Service

Nothing is more irksome than to be held-up or delayed in a busy season. Seeding, haying, or harvesting are jobs that a man wants to keep at and get done as soon as possible.

The timely help of convenient service is a mighty important factor in cutting down lost time when spare parts or machine service is required. In these days when farmers are being called upon to do more with less help it means a great deal to be able to telephone or call upon a local dealer and get what is wanted quickly and surely.

Established and organized to meet this ever-present need of agriculture for quick service contact, the Massey-Harris organization of branches, distributing centres, and local dealers has been geared to wartime needs. For complete machine overhauls and for prompt parts service, get in touch with your local Massey-Harris dealer.

Provide Now for Future Buying

Some day you will be able to make choices in power as you can purchasing, buy new household appliances, and get the latest and best in equipment. In the meantime build up your capital by buying Victory Bonds and War Savings Certificates now. It's the best way to help your country and help yourself

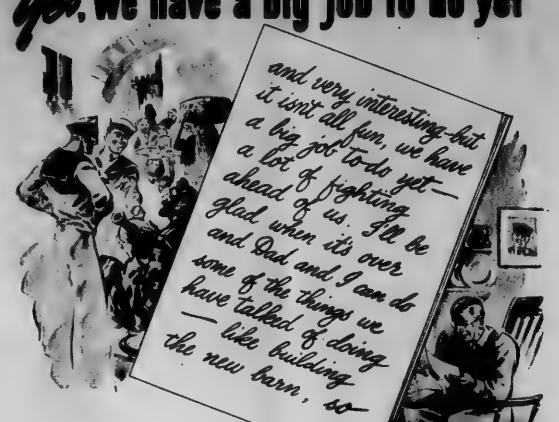
Yes, "we have a big job to do yet"



WHEN they come home—those boys who are fighting now—make them want to stay home. Make them happy and contented on the farm. They will have new ideas they want to try out. They may want to go in for new breeding stock; new crops; work out a drainage or irrigation project; do a big job of fertilizing. You are wearing out implements and equipment which cannot be replaced now. You may want to erect new buildings, or to add to present buildings. You may wish to modernize your farm with water or electricity. You may want a new motor car—new conveniences and comforts for your home. These things cost money. Save money now and invest your savings in Victory Bonds. They will provide cash for things you will need when the war ends.

You can buy Victory Bonds for cash in a lump sum, or you can arrange to pay for them in convenient instalments over a period of six months.

Your Victory Bond salesman will be glad to tell you full particulars.

WHAT IS A VICTORY BOND?

A VICTORY BOND is the promise of the Dominion of Canada to repay in cash the full face value of the Bond at the time stipulated, with half-yearly interest at the rate of 3% per annum until maturity.

A Victory Bond is the safest investment in Canada. The entire resources of the Dominion stand behind it. Canada has been issuing bonds for 75 years. No one has ever failed to pay every dollar of principal and interest.

A Victory Bond is an asset more readily converted into cash than any other security.

CUMMINGS FLASHES

Congratulations are extended to Mr. Henry Eyben who recently celebrated his 70th birthday. He is still hale and hearty and works just as hard as any young man. Mr. Eyben is impatient right now to get out on his tractor and also to get at his threshing.

L.A.W. Imphre Rogan returned to Indian, Sask., after spending a few days sick leave at her home here.

The worst flu epidemic for several years has been experienced in this district, adults and children alike being the victims. All the kiddies are back at school again now though and sickness has greatly abated after a bad winter of it.

Finding a wedding ring in a package of food is better than finding cracklings from fried pork in caramel candies, which was experienced here recently. The cracklings were from fried out pork lard and were rather strong, raising what looked like some nice candy—looks as if it might have been salvage fat used in place of butter.

F. Wilson was busy fixing plaster and doing some painting at the Irving Home.

A social evening was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wilson Wednesday last week when about thirty friends called to bid Mr. Wilson and daughter Edith goodbye and good luck prior to their departure for Edmonton. Fred expects to go into war work and Edith plans on joining the R.C.A.F. (W.D.). A very nice time was enjoyed playing games etc. The company supplied the lunch and all left in the wee small hours after singing a few popular songs. Mr. Wilson and Edith left Thursday for the city. Mrs. Wilson will stay on the farm for the summer with Mr. and Mrs. Brook who are taking care of farming operations. Edith was presented with a pen and pencil set.

The Red Cross meeting was postponed this month as the hostess had the flu.

FAREWELL FOR FORMER WOODVALE BOY

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Brown of the Woodvale district, twenty miles south of Cold Lake, and formerly of the Union and Woodvale district southeast of Vermilion, was the scene of a jolly gathering on April 2 when around forty friends and neighbors gathered to bid farewell to Roy Brown who has joined the R.C.A.F.

The evening was spent with cards and dancing. At the supper interlude the Misses Brasseur of Beaver Dam favored the company with two songs, and Roy sang "Until the Lights of London Shine Again".

Those attending from a distance were Miss Lomille Prill of Manville and Mr. Bill Brasseur formerly of Beaver Dam and now stationed in Quebec with the R.C.A.S.C.

Roy is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Brown of Cherry Grove, former residents of the Woodvale district. He is the third boy in the family to volunteer for service with the forces, having one brother, Fred, overseas with the Canadian Armored Division and Cyril, a Sgt.-Gunner in the R.C.A.F., stationed at Dartmouth, N.S.

The Greek Nation

WHILE WE WATCH the growing strength of the active forces of the United Nations on all fronts we are frequently reminded of the many democratic countries who are to the present under Axis domination and are unable to fight openly for their freedom. Among these nations is Greece, whose heroic resistance to the Axis invasion has aroused great admiration. The recent anniversary of Greece's Independence day has again brought to attention the many admirable qualities of her people. In March 1821, one hundred and twenty two years ago the Greek people won their independence from the Ottoman Empire, and since that time the modern Greek has developed. There have been periods of internal strife and of foreign disputes, but in the years preceding this war Greece had become a fully united nation with every prospect of an assured and successful future.

* * * * *

Patriot Army Resists Enemy

Greece is a country with a great and ancient cultural heritage. The people also have the Western outlook toward democracy, and their profound belief in this was demonstrated when their country was invaded. The Greek armies inflicted overwhelming defeat on the Italians, who were the first to enter the country. When Germany came to the aid of her ally, the Greek resistance was finally overcome. There remains however, an army of 30,000 patriots who carry on the fight. This army wrecks trains, dynamites bridges, sabotages public utilities and in every way possible causes trouble for the invading forces. It is said that every man woman and child in Greece aids this army, and that in spite of the situation in their country now, the spirit of the Greek people is not broken, and that they resist the enemy in every possible way.

* * * * *

Supplies And Food Are Sent

More than a million people, or approximately one-fifth of the entire population of Greece, have died or been physically incapacitated by starvation since the occupation of the country. Many others have been executed or imprisoned, and the full fury of Nazi barbarism has been felt there. The situation has been fully realized throughout the United Nations and Canada, and Canadians have helped in many ways to relieve some of the sufferings of the Greek people. A number of shipments of Canadian wheat have been sent, as have other foodstuffs and supplies. These have been distributed under the supervision of the International Red Cross Society. Generous support has also been given here to the Greek War Relief Fund, through which food and medical supplies are sent. In these ways the people of Canada are showing their sympathy and admiration for Greece and are doing much to maintain the splendid morale of the people there.

FAREWELL AND PRESENTATION AT UNION SCHOOL

Soldier Boys Are Honored

Once again a jolly good time was had by them when Thursday evening April 8th when neighbors and friends from adjoining districts gathered to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart W. Rankin and Kenneth (Bud) Funnell who were home on furlough.

The table of almost impassable roads a real good crowd turned out (having was isolated in until mid-night to the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Logan and Jack Schaumloffel from Turkey Hill who so kindly gave their services for the occasion.

At midnight lunch was served by the ladies after which "our boys" were each presented with lovely gifts, a pen and pencil set to Bud and a Moroeco bound writing set to Harvey. The address of presentation was given by Arthur J. Gaston, a school chum of Harvey and close friend and neighbor of Bud. Each one replied in a few well chosen remarks. Then all the crowd gathered in a circle singing "For They are Jolly Good Fellows".

Bud then entertained the crowd with some of his old time recitations.

Dancing was then continued until the "wee sma' hours" when the gathering broke up with Auld Lang Syne, going to their homes wishing the boys God speed and best of luck and hoping for a speedy return.

REV. L. G. SIEBER ACCEPTS CALL TO REVELSTOKE

Assumes New Pastorate July 1st

Rev. Lawrence G. Sieber, minister of the Union United church for the past three years, has accepted a call to Revelstoke, B.C. He will assume his new pastorate on July 1.

In announcing the call to Mr. Sieber, the Revelstoke Review states:

"At a congregational meeting held early this week, a unanimous call was extended to Rev. Lawrence G. Sieber, of Vermilion, Alta., to assume the pastorate of the United church in succession to Rev. R.W. Hibbert, who is leaving the local charge the end of June.

Rev. Mr. Sieber is no stranger to Revelstoke, having filled the local pulpit during the month of August, 1941.

While in Revelstoke addressing the Rotary club, Mr. Sieber said Revelstoke had impressed him as a clean town, its modern buildings adding to the appeal.

He referred to a trip to the summit of Mount Revelstoke as one of the highlights of his life. He believed Revelstoke should lose no opportunity to draw the widest publicity to its scenic assets, particularly Mt. Revelstoke National Park and Bethie Falls."

The Edmonton-Lloydminster highway is to be shortened between Stony Creek and Minburn. In addition to cutting two miles off the road, the re-location will eliminate the last two railroad crossings between Edmonton and Lloydminster. The new road will parallel the railway between Stony Creek and Minburn without crossing it.

Already the road has been short ened by 18 miles.

CANADA'S FOURTH VICTORY LOAN OPENS ON MONDAY

District Quota Raised to $130,000 — Town Alone $40,000 — Salesmen Ready

Canada's Fourth Victory Loan opens on Monday next and Vermilion district organization was completed on Thursday evening last when volunteer representatives gathered to discuss details of the bonds.

The quota for the Vermilion Unit, which includes Manaville, Islay and Derwent has been raised to $130,000 and the co-operation of every individual citizen is going to be necessary if we are going to meet the challenge given us.

A thorough canvass of the territory is to be made; it is fully realized that farmers are very busy and that they may be difficult to contact, every farmer is, therefore, urged to discuss the matter with his wife and to leave instructions with her as to the amount of the loan it is intended to take; for instance, if a farmer decides to subscribe to $500 of the bonds and wishes to pay the ten per cent as an initial payment it would be very convenient if he would leave the thirty dollars with his wife so that she could turn it over to the representative and receive a receipt.

Farmers may purchase bonds by making an initial deposit of ten per cent of the amount and may then have a full six months period in which to pay the balance; this will run the last date of payment to late fall when the 1942 crops will have been taken off, meanwhile payment may be made at any time which proves convenient.

The Vermilion district has always succeeded in securing its quota and with the really increased allotment in front of them the loan representatives will appreciate it if those who have made up their minds regarding their purchases would make them early so that greater attention might then be given in assisting those who have no made definite plans.

Salesmanitives who will be glad to serve you are as follows: C.W. Robinson, C. M. Laverty, John Reid, W.M. Dalrich, Billy Pinkr, F. E. Wright, A.C. Heebert and E.E. Webber; in Islay, J. T. Pyle will again lend his enthusiastic committee composed of Miss Muriel Stone, Rev. A. T. Bell, Elmer Anderson and R. Lambert, while Manaville area will be served by Messrs. E.A. Warrer, Geo. Pheasey and W. R. Braden. The Derwent district will be served by Mr. Algot's committee and in each of the locations several other representatives are to be named to assist in the tremendous task.

The thanks of the Finance Department have been extended to representatives in the past as the work is done without remuneration except for an allowance or one quarter of one per cent commission which is granted to assist in payment of the necessary travel expense of the loan salesmen In the case of a $50 bond the representative is paid 12½ cents, so it will be seen that those who drive the area will be assist in raising money essential to Canada' war effort are not by any means paid for what they do.

District residents who have cash in bank savings accounts are urged to turn this into Victory Bonds, thereby increasing the security behind their investment at the same time, doubling their interest rate

It is the duty of every person who can do so to assist in this great effort; we are asking the youth of the country to serve in combatant areas and the least we have in the defence of all that we hold dear, to refrain from providing the necessary money for urgently required supplies and equipment so let those who don't. It is felt that residents of this area will co-operate to the fullest extent and that when the period of the loan is over our quota will have again been reached

The unit quota has been subdivided and in order to attain the money required from the unit it will be necessary for the Town of Vermilion citizens to subscribe $40,000 and for each rural township to provide a minimum of $3000; these goals are by no means idle figures and you are urged to do your share early.

INTERESTING ADDRESSES AT BOARD OF TRADE

J. M. Penney, President Canadian Oils Ltd., A. M. Wilson, Field Crops Commissioner, and S. C. Heckbert, Victory Loan Organizer, Deliver Talks at Luncheon

Board of Trade members attending the luncheon meeting on Wednesday enjoyed three short but very interesting addresses

The first of these talks was given by Mr. J. M. Penney, president of the Cannar Oils Ltd. The speaker established that this was a national company set up for the purpose of increasing oil production in the local field, and sold generally at the close of organization. The concise talk given by the speaker proved unusually interesting and was really appreciated by those present.

S. C. Heckbert, organizer for the 4th Victory loan drive, gave some facts and figures regarding quotas and general arrangements in Vermilion and district. This material is fully covered elsewhere in this edition.

A.M. Wilson, provincial field crops commissioner from Edmonton, was present and gave an explanatory talk on the purposes of the "Grow for Victory" committees being organized in the province at the present time.

134 GIRLS LEAVE TRAINING CENTRE THIS WEEK END

Graduates Include Rosylvia Girl

One hundred and fifty-four privates in the Canadian Women's Army Corps leave Vermilion at the week end after completing a month's Basic Training. Fifteen of the girls are from Military District No. 16, three from Ontario and the rest from Manitoba; fifty-eight are from Saskatchewan; twenty-one from Alberta and sixty from British Columbia.

They will be sent to their home districts for posting to positions from which each girl releases a man who can go to a fighting front. Some of the graduates will go to the several Trades schools for training, others will be posted directly to positions for which they are already equipped.

In response to some urgent need, a few of the girls are sent out of their home districts from Vermilion. These are trained workers whose talents will relieve some harassed staff which has called for immediate assistance.

With the advent of milder weather, more outdoor activity appeared in the training duties this month. Drill and longer route marches were resumed—not that they had been dispensed with during winter months, but necessarily were curtailed in the severe weather or when the snow was to deep or unsuitable.

Graduates from Alberta include:

Pte. Ellen M. County, Bainiree; Margaret A. Crowley, Hufton; Marjorie M. Ebbitt, Bentley; Nellie Fisher, Hazel E. Talbot, Calgary; Annie M. Lawrie, Daysville; Ethel I. Griffin, East Coulee; Mary C. Volk, Mary Zaborowsky, Edmonton; Marie H. Anton, Helen Schuster, Rita Scott, Frederica Hist; Gladys G. Otter, Stettler; Lucille E. Willison, Picture Butte; Patricia Craigie, Janet P. Watson, Red Deer; Mary Zahaluk, Rosylvia, Stella Hrushka, St. Paul; Jean G. Lidgewood, Taber; Ellie P. Motnychanko, Wetmo; Alice M. Christensen, Wetaskiwin.

Bruce; vice-chairman, A. J. Wilmot; secretary, Mrs. Grace Bruce; committee and salesmen—Wilbur Currie, Henry Riddell, F. W. Pausch, Lee Green, Frank Gray, Fay M. Hensley, A. B. Robson, J. S. McKay, G. Shiomee and Andrew Wood.

CHATSWORTH CHATTER

Roads and fields are drying rapidly and several farmers are on the land, including Jim Tweed and sons, and Michael Parhash.

Jim Thompson plans to start threshing at B. Dent's on Thursday, 22nd. Many stooks have dried out well, while larger stacks are still icy underneath. Fields are very soft for heating but the weather seems to clear land before beginning spring work are getting quite anxious to begin threshing.

Snow has practically cleared away during the past few days but many grades are covered with water and wash-outs are common. The log grade south of Mr. H. J. Davies is completely under water, the Ottawa main road around the Parhash lake also the grade north of F Thompson's, are under water.

There were four beautiful white swans on the slough north of E. Thompson's last Sunday morning.

Magpies are already busy. There will likely be a great crop of them this year with all the water around.

The children held an Easter party at the school on Tuesday 20th with mothers of the district and children of the Ottawa district as guests. An enjoyable afternoon was spent in playing softball the children had a short play and some action songs. Miss Cantel presented each child with an Easter egg and the children surprised her with a gift of silk stockings, for which she expressed her appreciation and thanks. Lunch was served about 4 p.m. Since Mr. Thompson's car is under the water, he has been called away, there were only a few Ottawa children present, those being the Cheliakeenon children, Violet Joyce and Ruby, Birdie Hutchinson and Phyllis Bickford.

Easter holidays are short this year being Friday 23rd and Monday 26th.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Davies expect an Easter visitors their daughter in-law Mrs. Bertie Davies and two children.

Cpl McKee of the R.C.A.F is home on leave

There was quite a large crowd at the auction sale at M. Enfield's last Monday and livestock brought good prices. Mr. and Mrs. Enfield and Mr. and Mrs. Ian Enfield are moving to the Westlock vicinity, leaving this Saturday morning 24th. We wish them every success in their new location.

Mrs. Morna and little Marvin Ray McBride are visiting at Cobaldestown's

Rene Enfield was a visitor to the M. Enfield sale.

Howard Ferguson has purchased a Fordson sedan bringing it home last Saturday 17th.

Ray Hutchinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Randolph Hutchinson, is working at Dawson Creek, cooking in a camp of men working on the Alaska highway.

Harry Good suffered a crushed foot and ankle last Monday when the bale which he was riding fell on him.

After the storm of March 29th E. Thompson missed a young brood sow and after a search he could be found beneath he dog away part of a straw stack in the pig pasture in which the sow had sheltered. All hope of finding her alive was given up. Today, April 20th the sow came out of the stack and though weak and shaky on her legs she shows little effort of her three weeks burial Apparently the weight of snow had caused the stack to settle and closed the former exits, as she dug her way out on the opposite side of the stack.

THE STANDARD

S. R. P. COOPER — EDITOR
Vermilion, Alta., April 22, 1943.

Had it not been that no many people were using gas the fuel situation in the town of Vermilion last winter would have been most serious. As it was, shortage was experienced, and it was none too pleasant. To provide against possibilities an appeal is made now to all those who are not gas consumers to make provision for their coal supply for next winter. The Wartime Prices and Trade Board has advised Mayor Morrison to call this matter to the attention of the citizens of town and district of Vermilion. The Board advises that all consumers or coal start immediately to store up some coal, as much as coal be put in piles or bins and to contact local dealers to see that they place orders now to fill their requirements. This matter must be kept operating steadily. If we lose April, May and June production is happened that year because of the orders being placed for coal the suffering next winter will be far greater than this year. The mines cannot produce sufficient coal from July through to March to supply needs and only by the whole-hearted cooperation of the people generally can a similar shortage be averted. It may be thought that this appeal is out of season but nothing else than response on the part of consumers will minimize the threat of a shortage. The mines operators are now stocking up a coal supply and also most of the fine companies but their storage capacity is not sufficient so domestic coal must be kept coming at regular intervals from the consumer. If you find yourself without your next winter and have not ordered to this appeal, you will have no one to blame but yourself. Appeals to dealers then will be too late

BY-LAW SHOULD BE ENFORCED

The Town By-law preventing animals from running at large is again being violated. As gardening and tree planting time is now at hand, this by-law should be rigidly enforced.

It is with regret that we report the death at North Vancouver on April 16th of Mrs. Smith, mother of Mrs. Gordon and the district sympathy of the district is offered to Mrs. Gordon and family on their loss.

Mrs. Wm Hewson, niece of Mrs. Gordon returned to her home at North Vancouver Saturday night to attend her grandmother's funeral.

Jim Powell returned on Wednesday night after having successfully disposed of his horses.

Mr. Harry Connaughton formerly of Woodvale has enlisted in the navy and will be stationed in the east.

Jack Connaughton, it was learned, arrived safely in England about two weeks ago. Jack is in the air force.

Mrs. Gordon and Tom Davis are the possessors of new cars. Mrs. Gordon having purchased Gerben Duke the chestnut, Belgian stallion formerly owned by Stewart Bros of Clayemore while Tom Davis has bought a two year old Aberdeen Angus bull from Mr. Galloway of the Union district.

The latter part of this week one almost expects will be returning to us for the Easter holidays in the persons of Jimmy Logan and Gerald Powell from Vermilion and Louise Davis from Kitscoty.

Cars are once again buzzing past the writer's home quaintly without a muffler but not always as witnessed by Joe Stewart getting stuck with a truck load of cattle on Saturday and having to be pulled out with a tractor by Clive Jones.

Earl Nelson hopes to start threshing at the end of this week. How it will work out remains to be seen as fields are still soft and some buddies are frozen down yet.

The last letter received from George Davis was written from a hospital somewhere in England where he was recovering from a burned ankle. It was not serious he said and he hoped to be out in a few days.

Harvey Rankin rises back to camp this week and the best wishes go all go with him.

The next day she quietly engaged a lawyer and within several weeks she had obtained annulment of her marriage from one John Smith, who, in a dim room years back had disappeared and never been heard from since.

Unaware of this drama in his "secretary's" life, Smithy permitted himself to dream of a future with Kitty. Their wedding day drew close and one afternoon Kitty asked him to come to the church with her for a rehearsal of the ceremony.

The organist was playing softly. Suddenly, madly, the song was, "Oh Perfect Love." Smithy felt excitement course through his — — He stared through Kitty. That song. It seemed to be tearing him apart. Who was this girl with him? She had no place in his life.

A moment later he was aware that Kitty was sitting in one of the pews crying softly. He brought himself back to reality. "Kitty what is it?"

She shook her head. "It's no use Charles. I've learned from the beginning. You belong to someone in the past. I'll see you after we arrive—"

His voice was harsh. "I love you Kitty. You've promised to marry me. I want that. I need that."

She said in a low voice. "Charles just now you looked at me as if I were a stranger; an hateful stranger you had driven out of your life. Someone else, someone you loved as you'll never love me." She tried for a lighter tone. "It's all right Charles. I shan't go into a tragic mood. But it's over. It must be."

He darted at her. "I'm bewildered. I don't know what to say."

Her voice was soft. "You don't have to say anything. I was nearly the one that didn't come off. Goodbye Charles good luck."

CHAPTER III

It was from Smithy's office assistant Harrison, that Paula learned the news of his broken betrothal. Something tightened inside her but she made no comment

Early one morning, however, her calm left her. A letter had arrived offering Charles Rainier a seat in Parliament. He must consent to stand in the Liberal interests, however, and his election would be a hard fight but a worthwhile one Strangely, he wasn't in his office — nor at home. At last Paula located him in Liverpool. He had gone there last night. Without hesitation, she took the next train.

It was Smithy himself who opened the door of his hotel suite to her. "I'm sorry Miss Ransom." He seemed distressed. "I should have let you know where I was." Then, in a shaking voice, he explained. "Miss Ransom, you know or my experience here in Liverpool many years ago. I've told you all about it. Yesterday I came back here to try to trace through to the past to what I'm convinced was the most vital part of my life."

He turned away. "But it wasn't any use. I've trudged the docks, the station yards, the streets. I've gone through the hotels. There's no clue. No hint of anything aroused Recollection in my memory."

For a moment she had been alive with hope. Now she said dully, "I'm terribly sorry. It must have been a great disappointment." Quickly then she told him about the seat in Parliament.

He listened, nodded and said in a hard voice. "Very well. Send a wire to the Liberal Committee and tell them I accept. Also, there's an express to London at eight fifteen. Suppose you make reservations for me."

It was a sunny day in early October when Charles Rainier made his victory, the Liberal seat in Parliament. Scores of friends came to congratulate him. They filled the lobby of the House of Commons but nothing seemed worthwhile until Paula and Ransom arrived. They left together for lunch at a quiet restaurant for lunch.

Quickly, Smithy came to the point. "Miss Ransom," he said, "I have a proposal to make. I need your help in my parliamentary life. You may think this is outrageous but after all, you and I are both ghost-ridden. You were married before. You seem not to have forgotten it and I—well you know. We're prisoners of our past."

He leaned across the table. "But what if we were to pool our interests? Give each other support? Friendship?" He forced himself on but it was anticipated. She was a lovely creature, full of life to her red lips. "Why should she accept this—merger? Give up all thought of a future love? But he had asked it. He heard Smith. "I'm proposing marriage, Miss Ransom. I'll need a wife, a clever hostess. I'd make no emotional demands on you. Her eyes had filled with tears. His voice was anxious. "Miss Ran. . . May I call you Paula? I'm—"

"No, no." She tried to smile and dabbed at her eyes. "This is what comes of hoarding that I never cry. I'm sorry."

He patted her hand. "But you will think about it?" I'll call you at nine tonight. I hope it will be Yes. I sincerely hope so Margaret."

Paula's heart was leaping came. Feverishly, she paced the floor. So he was offering her a merger. Not a fantastic situation. She would be a close rival. His manservant was moored in fidelity to Paula was the woman from whom she must try to win him.

The telephone rang. She picked up the receiver. "Oh . . . hello Charles." Her voice was faint. "The answer is Yes." Anytime. As soon as you like."

They were married soon after that, very quietly Paula became the most distinguished social matron of the season. It added be less to her prestige that she was the Prime Minister's favorite and because of him knighthood was bestowed on her husband Now Paula was Lady Charles Rainier.

Through it all though she was unhappy and gay in turn. Sometimes her husband would look at her in a way that made her feel he was just on the brink of discovering her Then the look would fade and she would be numb with despair again.

They had given a brilliant ball one evening. It had lasted quite late and with the departure of everyone, they ascended the stairs to their apartments. Smithy lingered in her sitting room. "You know," he said softly, "it's nearly morning, the morning of May 25th. Does that mean anything to you?"

Her eyes lighted. "Yes, it's the anniversary of our wedding our third anniversary."

He nodded then reached into his pocket and brought out a case, snapping it open. A magnificent diamond and emerald necklace was revealed.

Has Great Future

Canadian Pacific Airlines Sees Possibilities Of Commercial Helicopter

"When the present small but practical helicopter is developed into a large commercial machine with pay load possibilities it will have a definite place in Canada's air picture and particularly along northern routes operated by this company," states C. H. Dickins, vice-president and general manager of Canadian Pacific Air Lines.

Announcement by Mr. Dickins that Canadian Pacific Air Lines has been closely following the development of this newest type of air equipment and intends to operate it when available, is the first indication that helicopters will be used in Canada. Mr. Dickins states that the United States is already satisfied that the helicopter is a practical air transport vehicle and has many advantages especially in rescue and salvage operations.

It is felt that it will be an invaluable type of equipment in mountainous or difficult country particularly along the Arctic coast and Canadian Pacific Air Lines intends to add helicopters to its fleet for operations which prevail under the difficult flying conditions in Canada's northern coastal regions. Widespread public attention is being given to the success which the helicopter has made to date and many aviation enthusiasts foresee a big future for this type of equipment in the post-war period.

In addition to its peculiar advantages for rescue operations and flying along the northern routes of Canada, it is considered that it will find its place in short inter-urban runs as an aerial taxi service.

Using Novel System

South African Soldiers Will Vote For Parties, Not Individuals

South African soldiers will be allowed to take part in the next election in their country by a novel system which lets them vote only for parties, and not for individuals. Results of the official papers received at Washington.

The new system will make international history. It is a recording to the South African information office, which received the announcement from Pretoria.

"In view of the diverse origins of the men making up the various army units, the name and the place of ballot-ing has been found to be impossible," the report said.

Under the new system each soldier will receive a ballot containing the names of all parties and the independent candidates. After making his choice he will mail the ballot in an envelope marked with his full name, the detail and the place of his birth. The envelope will go to the central electoral bureau at Pretoria for counting

Election officers in each constituent district will then be notified of the party votes to add to each party from those counted at the central bureau, the report said

GARDEN NOTES

Where space is fairly limited, it is advisable to follow a strictly informal layout in landscaping the average home The central portion of the grounds should be clear of trees and shrubbery and devoted entirely to grass. Around the outside may be grouped beds of perennial and annual flowers, leading up to shrubs and vines along the walls or fences, if desired. This open centre adds to the effect of spaciousness and if the rigid boundaries are softened and partially hidden, so much the better and intriguing.

Where the grounds are larger, experts advocate screening off a portion by bringing forward the beds surrounding shrubbery at one point, or using a hedge, wall or trees so that the whole affair will not be entirely visible from any one point of observation This will add further to the air of spaciousness and also provide a secluded corner for two for children's swing or sandbox or possibly a seat or trellis-covered table where on hot summer days the family may enjoy outdoor meals

The secret of lender vegetables is quick and uninterrupted growth. Any drama in starting as possible steady cultivation and if procurable an application of well rotted manure of the plus proper thinning of closely seeded stuff like carrots, beet, onions etc. should push growth along It is only when beets, carrots, radish etc. get a check in growth or become over mature that they turn woody

In order that the supply of vegetables be just right all along that is it too immature and not fully fed, the wise gardener spreads his sowings out over several weeks so that something will be coming along all the time This is especially necessary with tender things like baby carrots peas beans, young beets and garden corn

A Superior Article

Captain MacDonald Says Shark Meat Is Excellent When Handled.

Shark meat is delicious and "only unreasonable prejudice prevents it finding a local market," says Capt. Nelson MacDonald, of Victoria, who for several years ago founded a venture which caught hundreds of sharks in Pacific Coast waters

On that occasion the skins were sold to a New Jersey leather company, the livers rendered for oil and a considerable quantity of the flesh smoked and marketed.

"Sharks are not scavengers," he said. They are usually caught 60 fathoms deep, seldom visit about water and the bait must be fresh and clean. Shark can be marketed at a lower price than codfish and is a superior article."

Pte. Earl Graham, Calgary, is visiting his children at Wallington's while enjoying his furlough. He returns to duty this week end. He reports Mrs. Graham getting along very nicely.

Lieut. Russell Crutchere and wife are also home for a short leave this week. The small man got into reverse last week on one of his mail days, suspecting me by coming from the opposite direction. Roads were in a bad condition for some days. Never saw so much water on them as there was this year. Our lake is the highest it has been for years.

Just 33 years ago last Sunday since the writer's family landed in Alberta. At that time there was lots more snow than this year. The driver who brought us out was Mr. Bob Herbert now of Chilliwack. He took lots of talks to their homesteads in those days.

The writer wrote in the Peel Co. about the ring she found. They had no trace of anyone having lost it. The mystery is still unsolved.

It will club met at the home of Mrs. Adam Smith for its April meet ing. A new turnout of members de spite the muddy roads. Our president Mrs. Wilson was unable to attend so Mrs. Gilbert, vice-president, carried on and much business on hand so the meeting was short but a lot of finished work was handed in and more material this time for boys was given out. Three visitors were present, Mrs. Albert Smith and family from Basaraud, Mrs. Chas. Morand and Mrs. Elmer Isley of Triangle. The club is always pleased to have visitors attend. Next meeting is at Mrs. Garbutt's in Basaraud on May 5th. After all the business was over our hostesses, Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Howard served a very tasty lunch and a good cup of tea or coffee which was greatly enjoyed after battling over the south muddy roads.

ORDER NEXT WINTER'S COAL SUPPLY NOW!

Warning Given by Controller

CALGARY.—Compelling necessity of co-operation of the consumer public in obtaining supplies of coal for next winter at once in order to avert shortages is now urged by W. J. Taylor, regional coal controller.

"Unless the consumer public co-operate now and help us to make up the slack season which will occur during May and June, the situation next year will be as acute if not more so than last," the Controller warns.

Mr. Taylor advises schools, public buildings, churches and the civilian population to begin at once to store coal in piles and bins, and to contact coal dealers to see that they place orders now to fill their storage space. This, with available production in cold weather to replenish the stocks would minimize the threat of a possible shortage, he states.

"We must keep three mines operating steadily. If we lose April, May and June production as we did last year, the suffering will be far greater. The mines cannot produce sufficient coal from July through March to supply needs.

"Military camps and line companies have already commenced to stockpile their supply, but their storage is not sufficient. We must have orders from domestic and other coal mines coming in at regular intervals from the consumer" says Mr. Taylor.

Different secretaries and municipal authorities who applied for emergency coal during the past season have all received information from the Controller, stating the need to avert a similar situation next season.

DIRECTOR OF MUNITIONS AND SUPPLY

THE WORLD OF WHEAT

Searle Grain Co., Ltd.

WHAT IS "PARITY"?

Some who believe in "parity" evidently do not know what it really is.

"Parity" for agricultural products, as described officially by the United States government, and as understood by the Searle Grain Company and by some others, means simply that agricultural products should each be at such a price as will enable farm producers a bushel of wheat, or 100 pounds of hogs, of sheep, of cattle, or any other item to purchase the same quantity and quality of goods and services that farmers have to buy, as those same farm products did actually purchase in 1913-14.

Some people believe, however, that the base year should be the average of 1926-29, and others believe it should be the best five consecutive years in the decade between 1926 and 1939. This latter is apparently the party given to industrial labor.

There are some advantages I can see, however, in using the 1913-14 base as is done in the Searle index, for at any time with this base we can compare the welfare of the farmers in the United States with those of Canada.

With this 1913-14 "parity" our farmers would be reasonably well off, and could not be accused of asking for too much in this time of war.

Items of Production, World of Argentina's exports of fresh fruits in 1942 were 28.8% less than in 1941—The U.S.A. winter wheat crop is officially estimated at 418,781,000 bus. compared with 762,252,000 bushels produced last year. As a result of reduced plantings in Norway and Sweden, winter wheat prospects in Northern Europe appear to be below average.

Canadian bee production has been considerably expanded by wartime needs and farmers exports now amount to over $125,000 on a year. Russia has re-wired the development of a new type of spring wheat, which is said to be especially resistant to diseases such as rust—Spain and Turkey with large crops in prospect may not have to depend to any extent on imports of grain.

Fourth Victory Loan Same As Former Issues

Hamilton, Ont.—G. W. Spinney, chairman of the national war finance committee, declared a rumor he claimed was being spread concerning Canada's impending Fourth Victory Loan and scored rumor-mongering in time of war as "a curse", in an address prepared for delivery here at a loan rally.

"The outstanding rumor in this campaign," he said, "is that the three per cent. bonds differ from previous issues and cannot be turned into cash until the official redemption date. Nothing could be further from the truth. Fourth Victory Loan bonds, like earlier issues, may be sold for cash at any time."

Continuing, he said, "The redemption date mentioned in the official announcements is made by Mr. Ilsley refers only to the time after which the government has the option of paying off the whole issue before maturity at 100 cents on the dollar."

Mr. Spinney said he had observed with some curiosity and interest despite their supply, but their storage is not sufficient. We must have orders from domestic and other mine coming in at regular intervals from the consumer" says Mr. Taylor.

NATIONAL INCOME

Ottawa. — Canada's national income reached an all-time monthly high of $700,000,000 in February, equivalent to an annual rate of about $8,400,000,000, the Dominion bureau of statistics said in an economic review of the first two months of the year.

Improving Plant For Taking Oil From Tar Sands

Ottawa.—The Dominion government has appropriated $500,000 to spend on improving a plant taking oil from the Alberta tar sands and hopes to recover costs from the paving material produced for the Alaska highway, Munitions Minister Howe told the House.

In a detailed review of examinations of the oil possibilities of the tar sand area, the minister said difficulties remained to be overcome before extensive oil production could be expected. A process for developing the sand resources was sought, and the present plant, with improvements, would be used as a pilot plant.

Mr. Howe read a report of investigations conducted for the government by the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company which advised continued exploratory work in the area to ascertain the richest deposits of sand from the oil production standpoint.

Judging by what had been said about them sometimes, Mr. Howe said, one would think oil was running out of the Alberta tar sands and they had only to be tapped.

"The facts do not bear out any such idea," he continued.

Mining methods, separation of bitumen from the sands, treatment of the bitumen to produce marketable products, removal or reduction of the high sulphur content of the crude product, disposal of the over-burden on the sands, and transportation at reasonable cost were problems in relation to the tar sands which remained to be solved.

Abasand Oils Ltd. completed a plant at the sands in 1936, but various difficulties had been encountered. Company representatives consulted with the oil controller in July, 1940, and again in 1941. In the fall of that year the plant burned down.

The government had arranged to lease title to the Abasand operation without compensation to the company, and $500,000 would be spent on plant improvements. Everything possible was to be done to put the plant in operating condition for its present rate of capacity as a pilot plant.

After the plant had been used for experiments it could either be bought by the government or handed back.

"We hope to have a small commercial operation as a by-product of the research this summer in producing bituminous material for the Alaska highway, so that there will be some revenue to offset the expenditure," he said.

Young Seaman Honored For Bravery

After Vessel Was Torpedoed

London.—The London Gazette announced that George Alvin Decker, 21-year-old Vancouver merchant seaman, has been awarded the British Empire medal for helping to save shipmates after his vessel was torpedoed last autumn.

Safe in a lifeboat, Decker left it to swim to a second which had capsized and helped to right it and rescue sailors struggling in the water.

The youth at present is working in a war factory to earn money to send to his English bride he met during an air raid in Hull when both took shelter in a doorway.

Once that is done, he says, he will go back to sea.

First Tribal Class Destroyer Joins Canadian Fleet

Post-War Period Will Be Difficult For Industry

Ottawa.—The Canadian Manufacturers' Association said in a brief presented to the senate reconstruction committee that employment in Canadian manufacturing during the post-war period is likely to exceed that of pre-war years but probably cannot be maintained at the war level unless the tremendous wartime expansion of Canada's foreign trade is continued. The brief outlined problems which Canadian manufacturers expect to face after the war.

The best chance of providing max mum employment depends on encouragement of individual initiative, effort and thrift, the brief said. There was no evidence that complete state planning could be adopted without government regimentation of the whole economic system and the living of its individuals.

The association said it recognized that some wartime controls could not be removed immediately after the war ended but they should be lifted as soon as possible.

The study of post-war problems now was likely to aid, rather than impede, the prosecution of the war.

"It seems the main task of manufacturers will be the reconversion of Canada's peacetime manufacturing facilities to provide jobs in private industry by supplying peacetime goods and services," the association said.

Under war conditions the number of persons employed in manufacturing had increased from 650,000 to at least 1,250,000 and the gross production of manufactured goods had gone from $3,500,000,000 a year to about $8,000,000,000. Some 4,000 Canadian manufacturers are engaged in direct or indirect war work.

"At the conclusion of the war most war orders will cease and it is not probable that the manufacturing industry will be able to maintain such a high level of employment unless the tremendous wartime expansion of Canada's foreign trade can be maintained," the brief continued. It was expected that many of the employed in industry would return to their homes or other occupations.

Flight Lieutenant James Francis Edwards, D.F.C., D.F.M., of Battleford, Sask., who has been awarded the Distinguished Flying Medal and the Distinguished Flying Cross since the beginning of the year for his outstanding work in North Africa. This 21-year-old Royal Canadian Air Force pilot has eight enemy aircraft shot down, five probables and others damaged to his credit in the Western Desert. With 190 operational hours in his log book, he rose from flight sergeant to flight lieutenant within the space of a few weeks. A "wizard" (R.A.F. slang for superb) at aerial gunnery, Flight Lieutenant Edwards shot down a ME 109 on his first operational trip.

He succeeds Maj-Gen. J. H. Roberts, leader of the Canadian force which attacked Dieppe last August, whose appointment to command all Canadian army reinforcements until in Britain was announced recently Gen. Roberts is 52.

Defence headquarters said that at 39 Gen. Simonds is the youngest major-general in the Canadian army.

WANTED A CHANGE

R.C.A.F. Flight Sergeant Spent Leave Fighting With Infantry

With the British Eighth Army in Tunisia Emulating the stunt man who left a wife on his day off, Flt Sgt John L. Swift of the R.C.A.F who has been flying night bomber missions against Axis territory, got leave and went into battle with the British infantry because he "wanted to see what battle was like."

He found just what he was seeking when a battalion of the famous Scottish Black Watch attacked and won Italian strongholds at the Wadi el Akharit line north of Gabes and then stayed off sharp German counter-attacks.

Swift went with them armed with a rifle and bayonet, and participated in the successful onslaught. He left seven hours in a slit trench swept by artillery, machine-gun and rifle fire.

Finally he seized an abandoned Italian side machine gun and shot up an Italian patrol with it on his way back at dusk.

Swift from Missoula Mont. joined the R.C.A.F. at Montreal before the U.S. entry into the war and has flown a Wellington bomber in the R.A.F. Middle East command for eight months.

HEALTH SUPERVISION

Toronto.—A plan for supervising the health of Canadian factory workers has been announced by the Health League of Canada. The plan is said to have the endorsement of the federal government.

No Decision On Wheat Sales To United States

Ottawa.—Trade Minister MacKinnon said that discussion on the possible sale of Canadian wheat to the United States have been under way at Washington but "no finality" has been reached.

He said he could give no information on possible amounts involved in any sale, and could not confirm one report that about 50,000,000 bushels of Canadian grain would be involved in the transaction.

Railway transportation required for the movement of grain is a matter of equal concern in Canada and the United States, Mr. MacKinnon said.

George McIver, Canadian wheat board chairman, has been in Washington and was believed to be discussing in a preparatory sale with United States authorities.

The railway transportation problem, due to the limited number of cars available to meet extraordinary war demands in addition to civilian traffic, might have a bearing on United States purchases of Canadian grain, it was understood.

Details of the five principal Canadian grains were held in all North American positions—including stocks on Canadian farms totalling 1,889,311,867 bushels at March 31, compared with 735,315,483 bushels a year earlier, the dominion bureau of statistics reported.

"Wheat accounted for 798,000,000 bushels or 57 per cent. of the total, but the stocks of oats and barley, especially the supplies still in farmers' hands, were unusually large, reflecting the record crops produced in 1942," the bureau said.

"It should be noted, however, that seed for the 1943 crops is included in the farm stocks and the acreage objectives for wheat, oats, barley, rye and flaxseed this year call for the planting of approximately 44,000,000 acres to these crops."

The bureau said the estimates of 1942 crops are subject to further revision. Threshing operations involving grain still in the fields when winter closed across western Canada, "may have an important bearing on these estimates and on the stocks now reported in farmers' hands, both of which include an allowance for unthreshed grain."

"A new high level of wheat stocks at the end of March is recorded for this year," the bureau said. The total of 798,000,000 bushels in Canada compared with 551,000,000 bushels a year previous. The quantity in store or in transit in the United States was 8,200,000 bushels compared with 13,000,000 bushels March 31 1942.

"Stocks on farms in the three prairie provinces, which include seed for the 1943 crop, are reported at the high figure of 357,000,000 bushels, which compares with the revised total of [illegible] and [illegible] year earlier.

VISITS BATTALION

Princess Elizabeth Enjoys Public Engagement Entirely On Her Own

London.—Princess Elizabeth spent with a tank battalion of the Grenadier Guards of which she is honorary colonel, in her first public engagement entirely on her own.

The heiress presumptive to the throne, a slight figure in a utility coat and turquoise blue skirt, stood alone on a dais draped with the guards colors of red and blue and answered the Royal salute of the troops with a smile and nod of the head.

Present was princess (17 on April 21.

She paced smartly along the lines of guardsmen, pausing frequently to speak with the men.

On a transept brim hat, the princess was a gold grenade pin of an officer as worked on her lapel was a diamond brooch badge of the regiment, given her by its officers on her 16th birthday.

When the ceremony was finished she climbed atop a tank to inspect the turret and asked to be shown how it worked.

MORRISON

What a wonderful night to see the rats coming up the road again! Mr. Laverty was the first to come up the school road. He visited the school on Thursday morning. Albert Van Swedelen previously had taken his car from his father's home. No doubt everyone will be going to town from now on by car. The high school students of the district are using their bicycles to good advantage either for daily or week end use.

The Learne meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Arthur Rosander, April 14, with all members present except those forced to stay home by high water. Articles were brought to pack a parcel for Laurence Gould, now overseas. Incidentally a letter has had arrived from Laurence. He is well and enjoying some English sunshine — something they evidently don't have too much of. The next meeting is to be at the home of Mrs. Lily Giles.

Russell Miller is home on leave. All his friends will be looking forward to a visit from him. Russell is, by the way, an ideal next door neighbor to an exciting things — he knows

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Minard are soon to be occupied. Robert Minard is taking over the Ilay farm recently vacated by Jack Carroll. Douglas Minard is moving into the old Fox sythe place.

Mrs. Wilson — back Mr and Mrs Brad Gunn and Hilt Kennie after their visit to the coast. Everyone is anxious to see what progress little Bobbie has made.

Mrs Giles and Betts were week-end visitors to Edmonton. They report an enjoyable time and could see great changes in the city with the American influence, that is, construction of new buildings and street car tracks.

The Junior Red Cross held its monthly meeting on Friday 16. There was a discussion on a parcel — after room on May 12 when a program would be held for raising funds. A silver collection to be taken. A panel program was given.

Lloyd Gould is home on a two weeks' holiday. He is uncertain if he will get a leave for spring work.

Crocuses are arriving by the hand full from the crushing and there are the usual spring sounds. This year however, there will be a new sound, the hum of threshing machines.

We are sorry to relate that Miss Vivian Gould is a patient at home with the measles.

Increase of Hay and Pasturage Crops Anticipated

Increased acreages of hay and pasture crops will be needed this coming spring. This is already apparent from enquiries for seed being received daily by the Field Crops Branch from the farmers in every section of the province. The demand is largely for alfalfa and brome grass seed, although in the dryer sections of the province interest rightly prevails in crested wheat. Enquiries for clovers and timothy are largely from farmers living on the wooded soils, or the moister areas of the province.

In crop adjustments, whether it be to increase pasture or hay for livestock to conserve or improve the fertility of the soil, or in a weed control program forage crop will find a most useful and practical place.

The importance of using Wampole's Hypod Antiseptic to check white diarrhea in baby chicks cannot be overestimated. All you need is to put a small amount of Hypod in the drinking water each day—but do not use metal containers. Hypod is an effective treatment for diarrhea in young pigs, ringworm on cattle, deborning cattle and for general antiseptic requirements. Save it in life and few cents. Coming Sugar Officials' Headache

MONTREAL.—How would you like to try this problem? Take a stock of something like 12,000,000 application cards containing the amounts of sugar asked, add the amounts, compare the totals with the amount of sugar available, then go back to each application card and allow an equitable share to each applicant.

This is the problem the Ration Administration, workers and officials have after receiving at the Local Ration Boards of the final applications for sugar for canning.

The job of compiling figures that will show the number of workers and officials may be estimated when it is remembered that Canada has a population of over 12,000,000 people and there will be applications from virtually every one of them.

Meat and Bone Make Up Ration

Foods Administration officials explain that the two-pound meat ration means two pounds of meat by weight as the meat comes from the carcass, that is, including bone. Some cuts have more bone than others, some have more of all. Under rationing the cuts will be classified and those with bone content will be apportioned on the basis of more than two pounds per person, while cuts with no bone will be on a basis of less than two pounds. Cuts of meat containing more than 50 per cent of bone will not be rationed at all. Neither will fancy meats such as liver, heart, kidneys, etc.

Islay and District Go Over The Top in Red Cross Drive

Quota of $650.00 Exceeded By $50.00

The Islay Branch of the Red Cross went over the top in the recent drive for funds, the allocation of $650 was exceeded by $50, the final total being $700.

The executive wish to thank all those who gave their time and energy so generously to make the canvass such a success, and also to thank those who contributed to the fund. While the quota was more than reached let us all remember that the Red Cross will, in all probability, be called on for greater quantities of supplies as the war goes into high gear this spring, consequently more support will be needed before this year is out. Don't then, forget to support the Red Cross organization throughout the year.

CREDIT UNIONS

Latest applications for charters being to 34 the number of credit unions in Alberta. The movement has been in existence only four years, and many groups are forming. When charter No. 100 is granted it is planned to broadcast a feature radio discussion with speakers including representatives of Credit Unions No. 1 and No. 100 present.

SCHOLARSHIPS

University of Alberta extension offers two scholarships through the handicraft section of the Banff School of Fine Arts. Each will be valued at $50—sufficient to take the recipients through a course at Banff. Scholarships will be awarded on a points basis for needlework or weaving. All seven branches of the Handicraft Guild, or members of their families may compete. Winners must remain at the school for two weeks.

SAVINGS FOR WORKERS

Alberta's new Compensation Act will benefit workers in the province to the amount of $110,000 annually by transferring medical and hospital assessments to industry. Dr. Victor W. Wright, chairman of the Compensation Board, said this week that a survey of the act had been made, and that notice of new assessments have been started their way to employers. First new assessment will cover increased benefits which became effective March 30, and the assessment relating to medical and hospital costs will become effective the 31 of this year.

ISSUES WARNING RE WELLS

The Alberta Department of Health issued a warning Friday concerning the consumption of water. Owing to heavy spring run-off and flood conditions throughout the province, there is a grave danger of contamination in wells. The Department urges all who have reason to suspect their water supply to send samples for analysis to the Provincial Laboratories, Edmonton. Inspection and analysis is free—no inquirers pay only the express costs.

DISALLOWANCE

A surprising disallowance of Alberta's Land Sales Protection Act by the Dominion this week was reported. The act, which was amended at the recent session, was intended to prevent enemy aliens from acquiring land in large quantities while Canadians are fighting overseas to preserve their land. Disallowance came on the question of dealing with enemy aliens, which is deemed to be a dominion responsibility.

FLOOD PREVENTION

Hon. W. A. Fallow, back from an inspection trip in southern Alberta, announced that a $40,000 flood-prevention program would be started immediately. The objective is to divert flood floods to the Colonel-High River areas when the exceptionally heavy mountain snows begin to run off in June. High River town will contribute $5,000 and the C.P.R. will also pay $5,000, in addition to spend ing considerable sums to protect railway property.

WOOL CLIP INCREASED

Alberta's 1942 wool clip amounted to 3,720,000 lbs., an increase of 125, 000 lbs. over the 1941 clip, it was stated this week by agricultural officials.

Expense For London's Lord Mayor Exceeds Salary Paid

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

THE RISEN LORD
(Easter Lesson)

Golden text: He is risen. Mark 16:6.

Lesson: John 20:1-17.

Devotional Reading: 1 Corinthians 15:50-58.

Explanations and Comments

Mary Magdalene Discovers that the Body of Christ Is Not in the Tomb—John 20 1-3. A stone had been placed at the entrance to the tomb in which the body of the crucified Savior had been placed (Mark 15:46), and when Mary Magdalene visited the tomb early Sunday morning she found the stone removed. She hastened to tell Peter and John (John always refers to himself in his Gospel as "the disciple whom Jesus loved"). "They [His enemies] have taken away the Lord out of the tomb, and we know not where they have laid him," she cried.

Peter and John Verify Mary's Discovery. John 20 4-10. Peter and John ran to the tomb. John outran Peter and reached there first. He looked into the tomb, wonderingly and reverently, and saw the folded linen cloths that had been wrapped around the body of Christ, but did not enter. Then impetuous Peter came up and at once rushed into the tomb to second doubtless touch—the linen cloths rolled up and the napkin, which had been about the Saviour's face, and lying with them but laid elsewhere. Had friends removed the body they would have taken the cloths with them; had it been done by enemies, they would not have stopped to roll them up. Leisurely and orderly had been Christ's departure.

Mary Magdalene Meets the Risen Lord. John 20:11-17. Mary had followed Peter and John back to the tomb and had remained outside weeping. Looking into the tomb after their departure she saw two angels clothed in white and sitting where the body of Jesus had lain. The Greek word for "angel" means a messenger", one who is sent with a message and their message for Mary was, "Woman, why weepest thou?" There was no cause for weeping, but great cause for rejoicing—the Lord had risen! Mary answered in the same words she had used to Peter and John. "It is as if these words had been the unceasing rhythm of her thoughts all the time. She could think of nothing else. She was manifestly by sorrow" (R. C. Gillie).

"John's delight taught him first to conclude that his Lord had risen; Mary's want brought her Lord down to satisfy it," for so she turned she beheld Jesus standing, but she did not recognize him, her eyes being dim with tears.

GEMS OF THOUGHT

FALSEHOOD

No species of falsehood is more frequent than flattery; to which the coward is betrayed by fear, the dependent by interest, and the friend by tenderness.—Caleb C. Colton.

"It is the natural desire to make your own way, as far as your ability will take you; an instinct that has brought to this continent the highest standard of life enjoyed by any people on earth. It is the spirit of democracy on the march . . ."

The above statement, taken from an advertisement recently run by the Royal Bank of Canada, is one that should be scanned by the general public. So often a basic thought is clothed in "whereas" and "be it so ruled", etc., that no one knows or when they get through reading just what the latter meant. What propaganda, war or communistic, dare stand up against clear statements like the above which you know to be true?

We congratulate the Royal Bank of Canada and hope they have set a pattern for other advertisers to follow. We need reminders of primary truths.

Lessons For Advertisers

Could Be Learned From Experience Of Large U.S. Stores

An interesting and significant story is contained in a news item from New York, which carries its own moral to manufacturers and merchants.

Last month the publishers of the New York Times notified their advertisers that owing to the increasing costs of production it would be necessary to raise the rates for advertising, beginning May 7. Without waiting for that date to arrive a number of the biggest stores which were also the most consistent advertisers, withdrew their advertising as from Monday, March 15. Those included such places as Macy's and Saks, and it was evident the big stores had put their heads together and decided upon common action.

Less than three weeks later, the advertisements of all the firms reappeared in the Times. They simply sent in their copy in advance without any explanation. This step also must have been taken after putting their heads together again.

The obvious reason is that as soon as the public missed seeing their advertisements they were not interested in visiting the stores. Perhaps they dropped in if they were passing that way, otherwise they patronized the stores that advertised what lines of goods and prices they had to offer. The drop in sales was felt immediately when advertising stopped, and after about two weeks the companies found it expedient to resume. The incident needs no elaboration. —St. Thomas Times-Journal.

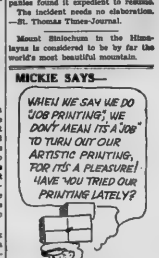
MICKIE SAYS—



WOODVALE

This bulletin was written for last week's paper but was held over due to lack of space.

Spring has come at last, bringing more water than we have had for quite a number of years. More grades are under water and more dams are running over. Snow disappearing quickly after the rain Friday. It is very slow travelling over any road; still when a day of high winds and warmer temperatures happens to come along the optimists among us make plans for a trip to Vermilion on Saturday by car, or try to get their threshing crews together for next week. There is as much chance that they are right as those somberly predicting a hidden foot of snow!

With the birds, pussy willows, a half hidden crocus bud, several people are returning too. Mrs. Turner, looking very well after several months at the coast, is back with us, and Harry Turner came home from Alliance. Adam Dowson returned from Vinyard staying with Bob Wilson for awhile before going to work for Gordon Trevithick. Mary Ann Sweeney has come home for the summer.

Allan Potter spent a week end at home and then another de in Vermilion when the boys' choir invited him for his train. We imagine he enjoyed the week end home more than the extra day here in camp watching what will be in store for him at the training school!

Harvey Hankin and Bud Funnell both are home on leave and a party for them was given at Union school on Thursday. We Funnell has arrived overseas safely.

Jim Proudfoot, our former schoolteacher, is now a Sergeant in the Signal Corps, and will probably spend the next few years in the forfeited in the district this week. We hear that the young Woodvale folks living in Vermilion at present, plan to welcome him at the train on his arrival. We might just have a hard time to persuade him to come out to Woodvale after that!

Peter Goutier, our Red Cross canvasser, reports a collection of $46 for the present drive, almost $10 more than in the previous year.

A letter from Dot Doyle, ex-writer of the Neighborhood Narratives in the past, tells us that all the Doyles around Minnibik and Rocky Mountain House are well. She herself has been teaching for years but gave it up on the first of April to devote herself to the family, a big garden and the milking of two goats. The Russell Powers, formerly of the Union district, are settled there too and doing very well and are very happy.

Readers might remember a sudden raid on London earlier this year when a school was hit and there were many casualties. News has come that it was the school where Joan Green went to kindergarten and where she might well have been if she had not come to stay with her uncle and aunt in our district. Don't we feel thankful every time we see her or think of her, so well and happy here in our midst.

Friends of Willem Frederik van Dyen, who spent the year before the war with us and at the V.S., often ask if we have heard from him. We do not know how Willem himself is. Some news affecting his life closely has come to us and we think his friends will be very sorry to hear that his father, a naval officer, died very shortly after being taken to a German concentration camp last fall.

HOW MUCH Did You Save LAST YEAR?

One of these days a man will call on you to talk to you about saving money. The caller will be one of your neighbors, or a man from your nearest town who is likely well known to you.

He is asking you to save money when he asks you to buy a Victory Bond. He is not asking you to give money to anybody or anything.

You save money when you buy a Victory Bond . . . and you lend your money to Canada to help win the war. The money you save is yours. You will get it back later on, and have it to do anything you wish with it. And Canada will pay you 3% interest on your savings every year until the loan is paid back to you.

TAKE A FEW MINUTES TO FIGURE OUT HOW YOU ARE GETTING ALONG

This is something that every man should do now and then.

You will see how you are getting along by comparing savings with earnings. It's what you save that counts.

Perhaps you will say you saved all you could. Did you? Remember you are asking yourself questions. You are not getting figures to show anyone but yourself. Can you figure out how you can save more?

A sure way to save money is to save it in small sums—as you get it. Victory Bonds—which can be paid for in small instalments covering a six-months' period—provide a convenient method of carrying out a savings programme. Your Victory Bond salesman will tell you all particulars.

WHAT IS A VICTORY BOND?

A VICTORY BOND is the promise of the Dominion of Canada to repay in cash the full face value of the Bond at the time stipulated, with half yearly interest at the rate of 3% per annum until maturity.

A Victory Bond is the safest investment in Canada. The entire resources of the Dominion stand behind it. Canada has been issuing bonds for 75 years, and has never failed to pay every dollar of principal and interest.

A Victory Bond is an asset more readily convertible into cash than any other security.

EXTRA SUGAR WILL SWEETEN RHUBARB

Extra sugar for cooking rhubarb is allowed through order of the War Time Prices and Trade Board effective immediately, ration officials announce today.

Blue coupon number 1, "stamp" 11 in the new ration book may be used for the purchase of one pound of sugar for cooking rhubarb from now until May 31. Only blue coupon 1 may be used for this purpose and it is considered that one pound of sugar is sufficient for sweetening 5 pounds of rhubarb.

Horticulture no extra sugar was allowed for cooking rhubarb. Housewives were required to use sugar from their ration for this purpose as for other stewed fruits prepared in current needs of the family table.

BRITAIN'S GIANT PLOUGH

A 4-ton trenching plough is busy in England hurdle acres of waste lagged ground into land that will yield crops next year. The plough, in the ranks of 2000 machines, is driven at the rate of two miles an hour and turns up the soil like regular ridges one yard wide. It is pulled by a pair of windlasses, driven by two diesel engines at each end of the field.

TIME FOR PLANNING THE HOME GARDEN

It's now time to plan the home or community vegetable garden. The power of using good clean seed and the correct planting to apply with equal force to such a garden as to the farm. It pays to get the best seed possible and for raising a few rows in the purchase of seed is not profitable as a rule. One ounce of celery seed will produce 2000 plants or more, one ounce of tomato seed, 1,500 to 2,000 plants and an ounce of cabbage or cauliflower seed, 1,500 plants or more.

Just as with farm crops, vegetables in the home garden should not be grown on the same plot of ground year after year. Onions may be run limited on the same soil for several years and so may other crops. With cabbages and turnips however rotation is particularly necessary to keep clubroot disease in check. It is a good plan to place the wire crops in the centre and place the other vegetables on each side (especially asparagus, rhubarb and other perennial vegetables are planted at the edge of the garden, allowing sufficient room for cultivation between the edge and the crops).

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

(This paper does not need found responsible for opinions expressed by correspondents.)

United Farmers of Alberta,
Hanna Alta., April 19, 1943.

Dear Sir

This spring farmers in Alberta are facing the greatest number of tough problems they have ever been confronted with. There is a crop to be put in and harvested in a late spring. There is a labor shortage here. There is a large crop to the 1942 crop still to be salvaged. How much of it can be cut especially in an unfavorable season at the present time. How much of it will be saved depends on two very uncertain factors that is the weather and the action or lack of action by the Federal Government. There is little new machinery and the labor situation for harvest this spring is much worse than it was in the fall of 1942.

Now is the first place had the Federal Government taken action a year ago three millions of bushels of good grain need not now be lying wet, sodden and spoiling on the farms of the West. If they had gone to the logical place where there are tens of thousands of Italian prisoners of war, sick to death of inaction war and barbed wire fences if they had taken ten or fifteen thousand of these men, set out them accustomed to working on western farms, our stooks and sheaves need not now be lying outdoors. It is not too late to do this instead. It is vital to our war effort that we put in another crop properly. That is possible are now commencing to realize that food is not something that just happens. Food means the expenditure of vast sums of money. It means millions of hours of skill and hard labor. It means aching bones and muscles. It is a supreme factor in the winning of the war.

Again it is vital to our cause that we salvage as much as possible of the 1942 crop. In view of the apparent wait and see policy of the Federal Government, we must do the best we can for ourselves. Private inaction will not result in lack of effort insofar as the people, both urban and rural of western Canada are concerned. Last fall many of the people of the cities, towns and villages rendered splendid service in helping to harvest the 1942 crop. The United Farmers of Alberta are again appealing to city, town and village organizations to give even more assistance this spring. The need is greater. The task is treuendous. By working together, by devoting every spare hour, will you of the cities, towns and villages of Alberta help us farmers do the biggest job we have ever faced?

Yours sincerely,
Jack Sutherland,
Vice-President.

PROVIDE $1,000,000 FOR ALBERTA ROADS

Estimates for new road construction in Alberta during 1943 as submitted to the legislature provided for an outlay of approximately $1,000,000 on capital account.

The consideration of the estimates in detail by the house when in committee of supply is expected to result in some extent the application of most of these funds. It appears that the total is similar to that voted in 1942.

From the budget, it appears that about $500,000 will be voted this year for main highways and around $350,000 for new construction of district highways.

The importance of proper maintenance of highways has been advocated by the Alberta Motor Association and officials of that organization are giving close attention to the government's proposals for this year.

It appears that a considerable outlay will be made on the Peace River highway as this forms a major link with the southern end of the new U.S. highway to Alaska. Grading for spring work already is being completed.

The Royal Air Force

A NOTABLE EVENT of the past few weeks was the recent celebration of the 25th anniversary of the founding of the Royal Air Force. On April 1, 1918, the Royal Flying Corps and the Royal Naval Air Service were amalgamated into the R.A.F. This was just seven months before the end of the First World War, and it was a critical period in the last German drive in France. This new air force played an important part in turning back the Germans and at the close of the war it was recognized as the greatest air force in the world. As it observed its 25th anniversary it again occupied this position. The great German war machine met its first defeat at the hands of the R.A.F. in the Battle of Britain, and since then the Germans have learned many times that in planning their strategy they really underestimated the strength of a new-despised air force. In 1918 the R.A.F had 12,000 planes. Since then, guns and bombs and all other tanks. Figures in the present strength are not made public, but it is known that vast expansions have taken place both in the number of machines and in personnel.

R.A.F. Is True Empire Force

The British, Australians, New Zealanders and men from other parts of the Empire wealth have joined the R.A.F and it is rightly called an Empire institution. Of all Empire Among the Canadians who were with the Royal Air Force when it was first established were the two famous aces, Billy Bishop and Billy Barker and they will recall that from this Dominion flight with the R.A.F until the end of the First Great War. Today in addition to the large number of Canadians who belong to the R.A.F there are several Royal Canadian Air Force squadrons attached to it. Canada's satisfaction in the achievements of the R.A.F was expressed in the message sent by Air Marshal L. S. Breadner C.B. D.S.C. Chief of Air Staff R.C.A.F. which said in part: We of the Royal Canadian Air Force share our pride in this occasion not only because we serve with you and alongside you but because on this day the Royal Canadian Air Force embarks up in the 26th year as a permanent arm of His Majesty's service in Canada. With every reader of this article in your accomplishments there goes also an expression of our confidence that success will continue to attend the enterprises of our Air Forces until the victory is won.

Bombers Carry Heavy Loads

The brilliant record of the R.A.F in the present war is well known. Beginning with the Battle of Britain and continuing to the present gigantic air offensive over occupied Europe the Royal Air Force has contributed greatly to the success of the Allied cause, and in it has much of our hope for ultimate victory. In 1942 over 50,000 fighter sorties were made by the R.A.F. from British soil and in the past two years its bombers have sunk over 1,250,000 tons of enemy shipping and destroyed around 2,000 factories and industrial works in Germany. Bombing operations have steadily increased in tempo and in the month of February over 10,000 tons of bombs were dropped by the R.A.F. In the Allied offensive in North Africa, the protection given by the R.A.F to the ships carrying men and supplies was so effective that only one ship was lost in the entire operations. Much tribute has been paid to the gallant men who make up this force. On its 25th anniversary members of the R.A.F look over the guard at Buckingham Palace for the first time in history. On this occasion, His Majesty the King said of them, "theirs is the spirit that attains the stars, however hard the way may be."

EATING RATIONALLY

Present advices from Ottawa indicate that meat rationing will not cover liver, heart and kidney. If a restricted use of the muscle meats leads to a greater use of organ meats a distinct nutritional advance will have been made.

Everyone by now has been informed that liver, calves', beef or pork is good food. Most people know that pork liver is even more valuable from a nutritional standpoint than the more expensive calves' liver. Very few people however know just how good it is. Three essential food elements ought to be lacking in the Canadian diet are iron, Vitamin A and riboflavin. In the light of that fact the following table is extremely interesting.

Average adults daily need	Iron	Vitamin A	Riboflavin
1 small serving of liver (3.5 oz.) provides	12 mgms.	3000 units	2.7 mgms.
	11.8 mgms.	7000 units	2.07 mgms.

No other single food package so much of the protective food elements into so small a space. So everyone should eat it at least once a week. If the family doesn't like it straight try one of these recipes

Liver Loaf

1 lb beef or pork liver
2 cups bread crumbs
1 medium onion
Put liver through the meat grinder. Add bread crumbs onion tomato and salt. Put in greased baking dish and place in pan containing warm water. Bake slowly 30 to 40 minutes

Liver Salad

Chopped cooked liver with raw onion
Chopped celery
Mix with salad dressing and serve on lettuce

Liver Soup

For one serving heat ½ cup chopped liver in 1 cup milk until liver is cooked. Add butter and chopped green onion. Do not boil

Liver Sandwiches

Use recipe for salad omitting the chopped celery. Spread on thinly buttered whole wheat bread.

DOGS QUICKLY RESPOND TO RIGHT KIND OF CARE

A Bright Dog Has a Good Owner

Pretty smart is this pup full of health and pep, and intelligence also. He's a credit to his owner's care. He's quick to learn tricks and loves to show off his knowledge.

Lessons in manners begin with short words of command — "Come," "Go", "Down" taught one at a time and by one person only, using the same tone of voice.

No whippings! When a dog becomes confused, the thing to do is to pet him. Then when he catches on, give him a tasty bit of food as reward.

Properly fed and cared for, your pet should put up a jolly fight against such ills as distemper. That particular enemy of puppies which often strikes at grown dogs, too. Do you know how distemper starts? Its symptoms.

Our 32-page booklet explains symptoms and treatment of distemper and many other doggish ills. Tells how to raise a dog from puppyhood on, give him a proper diet, grooming, training. Explains the teaching of amusing tricks.

Send 10c in coins for your copy of "How To Choose and Care For Your Dog" to Home Service Dept., Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 175 McDermot Ave E., Winnipeg, Man. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

Single Men Will Be In Army Or Essential Industry

Hon. Humphrey Mitchell, labor minister, told a gathering of Niagara district manufacturers that within six months there would be "very few" men or women in this country not in essential jobs.

He said that all single men are being re-examined and reclassified and will be either in the army or essential industry. He added that single men would not be allowed to return to non-essential jobs if they were turned down by the army.

Conscientious objectors, Mr. Mitchell said, would be taken from camps and put on farms to help the war effort. Use of prisoner-of-war labor was also under consideration, the minister said.

Just Stored Away

Farm Tool Sheds Might Be Unsuspected Source Of Scrap

Unsuspected sources of scrap metal are to be found in farm sheds, lofts and garages. Although the Steel Controller ruled last year that farmers may have more than 500 pounds of scrap metal in his possession, there are still long forgotten bits and pieces which were stored away on the chance that some day they might come in handy.

There is precious war material in old binder and mower knives and guards, metal from harness, bolts, nuts, chains, and the hundred and one things that have been thrown aside in nooks and crannies.

"We are hit hard by the gasoline situation," protests a motorist in the press. Not so hard bit, however, as seamen on torpedoed tankers.

We Require More Newsprint

Dear Readers—

Did you ever hear of an Editor turning down the opportunity to add New Subscribers? No, we know you haven't!

Our "PERMIT QUOTA" is just sufficient to take care of subscribers already receiving The Standard.

If the LABEL on your paper still shows it to be in arrears, we advise immediate action to put it in good standing—honestly, well in advance of this date. We cannot guarantee replacement of any name when once taken off the Mailing List . . . others are waiting to come on.

FAILURE TO RECEIVE YOUR COPY OF THE STANDARD NEXT WEEK WILL MEAN THE AXE HAS FALLEN.

The Vermilion Standard - $1.50 a Year

PAYABLE STRICTLY IN ADVANCE

ONE WAY TO MAKE SURE OF YOUR STANDARD

A reader of the Standard from the Scandanavian district came into the office and paid his subscription on his mail. He was already paid in advance until January 1, 1945 and the additional seven years put him in good standing until 1951. He said the result had been taking the paper for 20 years, and that it was a circle they would want it for another ten.

The dates 1945 and 1946 now appear quite frequently on Standard date labels.

One way to make sure of your Standard is to keep the sub paid in advance. After all, when you don't pay for your paper it is natural for the Editor to think that you don't want it so off comes your name from the subscription list.

Sane and sensible laws require that each child in Canada receive a certain number of years of schooling. He receives a rounded education in the arts and sciences during these years. But there is one law that the child should receive training in another very important matter — the subject of himself and his spiritual welfare. Within each one of us are unfathomed spiritual powers—powers which must be directed if they are to aid us in our daily living. Religious education helps us to direct these powers into constructive channels. Without this training spiritual development will have no direction; it will be completely haphazard. Give yourself and your children the benefit of this necessary and needed training. Go to church and church school every Sunday.

VERMILION BOY GRADUATES IN ENGINEERING AT GOLDEN, COLORADO

GOLDEN, COLORADO, April 19. Roman J. Filipkowski, of Vermilion, will receive the professional degree of Geological Engineer at the Colorado school of Mines Sixty-Ninth Annual Commencement exercises April 26 in Golden.

While at the Colorado School of Mines Filipkowski held the Alberta Scholarship.

Graduating in the same class are 126 other student engineers from all parts of the United States and from several foreign countries. All graduates will receive professional engineering degrees in mining, metallurgy, petroleum, geology, or geophysics. Of the 126 who will receive degrees 37 will be commissioned second lieutenants in the Corps of Engineers at Fort Belvoir, Virginia, and other branches of the service, and the remainder will take their places immediately in key positions in industry and will help with the duties of locating, extracting, and refining basic raw materials necessary to the war production effort of the nation.

Diplomas presented by the Colorado School of Mines are unique. They are circular silver plaques rather than the traditional "sheepskins" presented by other colleges and universities.

LLOYDMINSTER HAS NEW STORE HOURS

At a well attended meeting of the merchants of Lloydminster called by the retail section of the Board of Trade, under the chairmanship of R. G. Chapman, it was decided that the stores in Lloydminster shall close at 9 p.m. every Saturday night and at 6 p.m. every other week day night except Wednesday, when they will close at noon all the year round.

CANTON-WATSON RED CROSS NOTES

The last meeting on April 14th, twice postponed on account of bad roads, was poorly attended and only 5 pieces of work were handed in and 6 given out. No regular meeting was held, but it was decided to have a meeting on May 12th at Mrs. Preston's. As there are several matters that need urgent discussion it is hoped that all members will try to come to that meeting and also bring their finished work.

The Auxiliary received two lovely quilts, one donated by the To'land I.O.D.E. and one by the Canton school Junior Red Cross for which they wish to express sincere thanks. Both quilts are being sent to headquarters for early distribution to where they are so badly needed.

The Auxiliary collected in March $26.06 for the drive and received other donations to the amount of $16.50 to pay for blankets and material for quilts.

RED CROSS JUNIORS BUSY AT KOKNEE

Victory Loan Away To A Good Start

The Fourth Victory Loan campaign in the Vermilion Bank unit has made excellent progress for the first three days of the drive, considerably exceeding the response of the last loan. District people appear to be eager to assist in the great struggle by placing their dollars at the disposal of the Government of Canada, as well we all might so feel, having in mind the small part we are actually asked to take.

The local Vermilion area has so far contributed 26% or its $76,000 requirement; Mannville with only one report so far received has slightly exceeded ten per cent of its $30,000 quota and Dewberry in the first two days reached thirty per cent of its allotment of $10,000; Islay district has not yet reported.

WATCH THE THERMOMETERS
Percentages of quota attained from day to day may be observed on the thermometers which indicate the progress in your district; a large percent of a soldier in action is gradually covered by insects of the same Canadian soldier citizens, as he is gradually returned to civil life; your dollars will help in speeding the day of his return to his homeland and you will be interested in helping to bring him home victorious. Many people, when approached by representatives of the loan intimate that their fifty or two hundred dollars is not an important item in the large sum asked for, but it is interesting to note that in the last loan some 555 individuals in the district bought bonds to the total amount of $94,000 and that in order to secure the required district quota of $130,000 in this loan it will be necessary for more than 300 individuals to purchase bonds if we are to be successful. Buy YOUR share of Victory NOW . . . do not wait for a representative to call.

GREAT PROGRESS ON THE VICTORY LOAN

(Special to the Standard)

OTTAWA, April 28. — Canada's Fourth Victory Loan, after two and a half days' canvass for $1,100,000,000, reached the cumulative total of $118,248,250.00, including thousands of individual subscriptions as well as company purchases. Though subscriptions were $54,219,500 compared with $40,800,000 for the same period of the third loan, large subscriptions announced Wednesday include Imperial Life Assurance $6,000,000, General Motors $1,000,000.

Board of Trade Notes

A number of matters were broached at the board of trade gathering on Wednesday, chief among them being a suggestion from the Victory Garden committee that a real gardening campaign be instituted in the town this spring, and that action be taken to provide some kind of a rent roller for community storage. The matter was left lying over and after some discussion the board felt that it could be dealt with very efficiently by the Horticultural society, and was subsequently relayed to that organization.

Some concern was felt over the removal of the dairy herd from the demonstration farm as it was felt that this was just another step to gradually discontinue the farm operations. The dairy herd has also been the source of some of Vermilion's milk supply, a supply which is only too limited at the present time. The herd will be taken to Olds. Letters concerning this will be written to the minister of agriculture.

An unkempt cemetery, which has proved a hardy perennial in Vermilion was brought up and reiterated to the town council who have direct jurisdiction over it.

Action to have the mile of road from the school of agriculture grounds into Vermilion graded up to highway standard was also taken.

J. E. Cox brought cheering news from the oil field to the effect that boarding was being made in in drilling a completely new set up for oil conditioning and that he had high hopes the plant would be operating by May 15.

Visitors introduced included Capt. McMillan, doctor stationed at the C.W.A.C. centre at present; Charles Sinclair of Marshall Wells, and C. J. Algar. Mr. Algar, well known pioneer of Iosvant and Amisk Lake, has moved to Edmonton, and gave a very amusing talk on how a man keeps busy in the city. He is at present back at Dewberry and out with the Victory Loan drive.

There were 27 members present at the luncheon and D.D. Andrew was in the chair.

VERMILION BUSINESS MEN JOIN COLORS

Two more well known young business men of the town have joined the Canadian Active Army in the persons of Bernard Biedale and George Nairn.

Mr Biedale has been manager of the Fenaro service station for the past year while Mr. Nairn has been accountant in the Provincial Treasury branch here.

LAST CALL FOR SALVAGE IT NUMBER !!

The Salvage Corps is shipping a car of rubber weekly next week so quick action is necessary if you have any old rubber around the place, rubber soled shoes are valuable as well as anything largely made of rubber, with tires and inner tubes urgently required. Leave this at the salvage depot (C.N.R. freight sheds) some time this week or tires may be left at any of the garages or service stations.

Drilling Recommences In Vermilion Oil Field

Charlie Withers Sets Rig in Action This Week

The first drilling of the season in the Vermilion oil field commenced when Charlie Withers set his rotary machine in action on the No. 5 Mobilfield well which was started last fall. This is favorably located on Isd. 12 of Sec. 20-50-5W4. The catching in of the drilling season of 1943 is likely to be followed by a year of intense activity. Two more wells will be drilled for the Mobilfield company.

CANNAR COMPANY UNLOADS EQUIPMENT

Preparing to commence drilling operations within the next few days, Cannar Oils Ltd., which has now opened offices in the former Dr. Knoll building, has unloaded railway cars of equipment at the Borradaile siding. The K de K Drilling Co. which has a five-well contract from Cannar, is ready to commence actual operations. The equipment being unloaded at present includes oil well casing, tubing, rods etc.

HOLLINGSWORTH COMPLETING DERRICK

O. R. Hollingsworth is having a new derrick completed. This is just a quarter of a mile east of the Old Discovery well, so is idle ly located.

GOOD PROGRESS AT PLANT

Manager J. K. Swanson of the Oil Conditioning plt reported on Wednesday that . . . good progress was being made in the renovation being carried on there. It is expected that operations will start within two to three weeks. An entirely new process is being installed.

BRAKE HANDLES IN STORAGE

It is estimated that there are approximately 20,000 barrels of oil stored in tanks and pits in the field, accumulated during the shut down of the processing plant.

Golfers Organize For The Season

Elect Jack Beresford President

Members of the Vermilion Golf club have re-organized and elected Jack Beresford as President for 1943, Haden Anderson as vice-president and H. R. Parker secretar-treasurer. A. K. Butler has been placed in charge of competitions and C. L. Whitly will handle the handicaps.

Quite a number of golfers are help ing to get the greens and fairways in playable condition and a good season is confidently expected.

TENNIS COURTS OPEN SATURDAY AFTERNOON

TALES FROM THE TRAINING CENTRE

The C.W.A.C. and the Fourth War Loan

Did some one say the Army is out for "total war"? There is no question about that. The girls of No. 2 C.W.A.C. (T) C. are prepared to sacrifice civilians and other amusements for "total war" actually. Read on:

As we pledged our lives and our all to our new pledge our treasury. Hall measures will be sacrificed. We are aiming at ten per cent investment and by the interest and enthusiasm already shown in the conference we shall be over our objective.

The campaign is in full swing and from the Commandant and officers down to every rank in private staff interviews and lectures.

We are looking for a keen competition between the platoons in our company.

Remember "total war" requires total effort

Vermilion, Alta., April 29, 1943.

Mr. W. J. Blair, former member of parliament for the Battle River riding, whose death is reported elsewhere in this issue, was widely known in this part of the constituency where he addressed political meetings during his campaigns. In the 1917 election he had as his opponent the late D.W. Warner of Edmonton running as a Liberal candidate while Mr. Blair represented the Union Government. The contention at which he was nominated at Wainwright was the most exciting held in the riding, the excitement being created largely by aspirants for the nomination from his own party. Mr. J. W. G. Morrison was chairman and it was mostly through his astute chairmanship that Mr. Blair was cut on the final ballot Forbes in the Vermilion area are in debted to Mr. Blair for the Blair cup which is placed in annual competition between Vermilion, Mannville and Islay. Mr. Blair was remarked in his day as one of the keenest politicians in his party. He retired from active politics some years ago.

DEFERRED PLAN POPULAR WITH FARMERS FOR VICTORY BOND PURCHASE

In order to simplify the matter of bond purchases for farmers whose income is periodic, rather than regular, bonds may be purchased in this loan by means of a deposit of 5 per cent, with the balance payable at any time within six months; this provides for the investment of funds received from livestock during the coming months and also enables the farmer to invest a share of the cash to be received from the 1943 crop. Local representatives will be glad to explain the plan to all who are interested.

ASSIGNED PAY BEING INVESTED

Two district boys who are serving in the R.C.A.F. have invested a total of $600 in the bonds of Canada's Victory Loan, having asked their parents to take the money from bank savings deposits and invest it in the Victory Plan; in this way the youths will receive 2½ interest rather than the much smaller bank interest and will have a nice nest egg tucked away for their use following their demobilization. Those who have been in the services would do well to investigate the possibilities offered.

Army Receives Second C.P.R. Hospital Car

THE second travelling hospital train built by the Canadian Pacific Railway to specifications of the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps, this auxiliary hospital car was turned over to George Hogg, vice-president of traffic, on March 31 at the Windsor Station in Montreal to Col. G. A. Winfield, of Ottawa, deputy director general of medical services(RA).

Converted from a compartment-observation sleeper, the "Mount Kitchener", the new hospital on wheels was remodelled at Angus Shops in Montreal under the direction of H. R. Naylor, works manager, to specifications drawn by H. E. Bowen, chief of motive power and rolling stock.

The picture gives an excellent view of the 14 extremely comfortable double-deck steel beds which will accommodate 28 casualties. In addition the car has toilet and wash rooms, a receiving vestibule with doors wide enough to receive stretchers, a completely equipped dispensary, gas and electric rings, medical cabinet, and ample locker space for medical supplies.

In the inset are shown the Canadian Pacific and Army officials who took part in the actual delivery of the car to the medical services, with those standing in the spacious ward being, left to right: Col. Winfield, Mr. Stephen, Lt.-Col. G. S. Kinsey, of Ottawa, assistant quartermaster general (movement control); and Col. R. H. McGibbon, of Montreal, district superintendent.

VERMILION COMPANIES ASK CONTROLLER'S AID

Operators in Vermilion field who last year appeared to be in a position to build up substantial production of crude oil for use as fuel, are not sure of the future, according to representatives of interested companies who visited Calgary this week.

They are aware, of course that the C.N.R. subsidiary, Canmar Oils, is preparing for big development, financed for which were included in the budget, but they have very little understanding as yet of where the petroleum companies stand in the arrangements.

Several of the companies have been patiently producing oil during the winter and are nearing the returns in large storage pits in the field.

The trucking plant has been closed down for some time and except, in the odd case there is no market for the oil.

Under these conditions it is not unreasonable to expect that some definite direction can be obtained particularly on the development of the field was announced by the representative of the oil controller.

O. R. Hollingsworth visited the AP A office this week and secured the cooperation of the association in an attempt to clear up the situation. The officials of companies operating in the field have very little idea what plans are for the future, and they were anxious to obtain information as to whether they could expect the product of their wells and how soon a market would be provided.

APA has submitted the difficulty to the oil controller for his study and awaits his decision.

The report was made for Norman Cortland, of Lloydminster; W. de Koch; J. L. Wilson; Acme Oil Co., Toronto; Fraser Oils; K. & N. Drilling Co. and Western Drillers.

THRESHING IN FULL SWING

Although it sounds strange, threshing is once again in full spring, and this mixing of the seasonal farm work is not proving very popular.

Threshed losses in grain from mice, moles, prairie chicken, partridges and rabbits vary all the way from 5 per cent to 50 per shot. The chief damage is from mice, with the chickens and partridges wreaking havoc on the outside of stooks near bluffs.

Wise poultry raisers are now using Wampole's Syrupsol to prevent white diarrhoea in baby chicks. A few drops of this powerful antiseptic added to the drinking water is an effective preventative and remedy for this dread disease. Do not put Syrupsol in metal containers. We have Syrupsol in Bile and Iron stock. Long's Drug store, Vermilion.

Extra Ration for Transient Labor

Farmers' wires will be assisted in providing rationed commodities to transient labor now engaged in the spring threshing, through special provision to the ration administration by Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

Where the employer does not make butter on the farm, the ration administration authorizes a standard butter ration. A supplementary ration of sugar, tea or coffee for transient will also be provided where necessary, through application to Local ration boards.

Number of men employed in spring threshing crews and the length of time they will be employed must be stated when application is made for additional rationed commodities.

The same provision may be of value to other seasonal crews such as those assisting with lambing or sheep shearing, officials state, with the announcement that a permanent program for handling transient labor is now under consideration.

Reform Urged In Education For Canadians

Montreal.—A series of sweeping reforms for modernizing and improving Canada's educational system, involving an initial expenditure of more than $100,000,000 over present school budgets, has been recommended by a survey committee of the Canada and Newfoundland Education Association, it was announced here by Dr. F. Cyril James, principal of McGill University.

The long-range program, suggested for post-war implementation and so sweeping that it might take a quarter-century to develop, calls for reform in public school health services, administration, educational personnel, curricula, adult education, voluntary association and financial support. A survey of university education will be published later.

The committee, headed by Dr. W. P. Percival, Quebec director of Protestant education, made its review at the request of the federal cabinet's advisory committee on reconstruction, of which Dr. James is chairman. The advisory committee asked for a "Dominion-wide report on educational needs" and for recommendations to meet those needs.

Here are the salient recommendations:

1. An exhaustive survey should be made at once to ascertain the areas and schools in which health conditions are unsatisfactory.

2. Close co-operative relationships should be established between federal school authorities and public health boards.

3. All schools should be provided with adequate medical, dental, nursing and immunization services.

4. As soon as possible after the war building programme should be undertaken to supply new buildings where necessary and enlarge and reporate those that need such attention.

5. The school leaving age for full-time attendance should be pinned at 16 years, and particular attention should be required of pupils until the age of 18.

6. The salaries paid to teachers should be increased until the median salary throughout the Dominion becomes $1,321.

7. Universities, normal schools, technical schools, agricultural colleges and other institutions of higher learning should accept for admission students who have completed any provincial high school course.

8. Five thousand special classes should be provided for exceptional children that all may have the opportunity to advance at their right pace. The cost would approximate $10 000, 000.

9. A system of scholarships should be set up so that gifted children may continue their education. The immediate cost would be $3,000,000 per annum.

10. One hundred and fifty junior colleges or secondary technical schools should be set up to care for students in centres where universities and other facilities for higher education are unavailable. The cost would approximate $4,500,000 per annum and a capital expenditure of $15,000,-000.

11. Measures should be taken to free school boards from capital expenditures so that their annual revenues may be devoted to the main items of teachers' salaries, equipment and maintenance. The committee felt this would solve "one of the most vexatious problems".

12. School money should be obtained from all sources where the present-day needs of the people is found and not only from levies on real property.

13. Present annual expenditures for education should be doubled.

14. In addition to the present yearly school expenditures of $146,-853,943 throughout the Dominion, an additional annual expenditure of $144,000,000 and an additional capital sum of $50,280,000, a total of $203,280,000, should be obtained to finance the suggested reforms.

Moscow Newspapers Tell People About Medical Aid From Canada

Moscow.—Moscow newspapers published a Tass News agency story dated from Ottawa that the Canadian fund for relief in the Soviet Union has spent $2,646,000 for the purchase of medical supplies in Russia.

It said that altogether the people of Canada have spent $8,623,000 for Russian supplies and that newspapers, magazines and the radio of the Dominion had supported the campaign.

Direct Payment For Canadians In R.A.F. Units

Ottawa.—Completion of arrangements whereby Canada assumes the cost of maintaining Canadian airmen serving overseas involving an additional outlay of $341,000,000 in the fiscal year was announced in the House of Commons by Air Minister Power.

He tabled an agreement with the United Kingdom government supplementing the air training agreement of 1942 and providing for the changes.

The additional amounts payable by Canada include provision of the full cost of 35 Canadian squadrons serving in the R.A.F. and formed under the 1942 agreement; the full cost of certain ancillary air units for the training, administration and maintenance of Canadian squadrons, cost of pay, allowances and clothing of R.C.A.F. men attached to the R.A.F., and not serving in Canadian squadrons, pension benefits for these men and the cost of transporting all R.C.A.F. personnel to the United Kingdom and repatriating them to Canada.

Accounts offices for the paying of R.C.A.F. men will be opened in London, Cairo and Bombay and accountant liaison officers will be located at Freetown, Sierra Leone and Algiers.

Hitherto Canadian airmen who proceeded overseas under the air training agreement were paid as members of the R.A.F. Their pay at R.A.F. rates, pension at R.A.F. rates, clothing, food and equipment were all provided at the expense of the government of the United Kingdom as its share of the reciprocal arrangements under which Canada assumed the cost of training men in this country.

The only cost of these men to the Canadian government arose from the fact that Canada made up for them the difference between R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. rates of pay, allowances and pensions.

The new plan has been effective between the Canadian and British governments since April 1. The supplementary agreement was signed in London by High Commissioner Vincent Massey for Canada.

On May 1 the new base pay offices will start operation. The London office will look after men in the United Kingdom, Ireland, Faroe Islands, Gibraltar, Australia and New Zealand; the Cairo office after men in the Middle East, Malta, Aden, Iraq, West Africa, North Africa, South Africa and Southern Rhodesia; the Bombay office after men in India, Ceylon, Burma and China.

These offices will keep the pay accounts of every R.C.A.F. member serving in the area concerned. As a man moves, his account will move and when he returns to Canada he will be able to draw what is due to him in a matter of days instead of months under the old arrangement.

Projects Constructed By P.F.R.A. Prevents Damage From Floods

Regina. — Although the prairie provinces had the highest run-off of water this spring since 1927, there were no washouts of any consequence in the 30,000 large and small projects constructed under the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Act and only slight damage was reported, according to announcement by George Spence, director.

The projects, all built by P.F.R.A. in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta since 1935, the year P.F.R.A. was established, include dams, dugouts and dikes for utilizing floods.

This record speaks well for the efficiency of P.F.R.A. engineers and other employees who helped build the projects, said Mr. Spence.

Last Year 90 780 578 Barrels Of Gasoline Used In Canada

Ottawa. — Total consumption of gasoline in Canada, including aviation gasoline, was 26,780,573 barrels in 1942, said a return tabled in the House of Commons by the munitions department in reply to a question by J. G. Diefenbaker (Prog. Con., Lake Centre).

In 1941 total consumption was 27,-860,917 barrels and in 1940 25,209,022, the return said. It added it was not in the public interest that aviation gasoline figures be released separately because consumption of aviation gasoline is highly secret commodity it could then be readily computed.

Wheat Acreage Payments To Be Sent Out Soon

Regina - Wheat acreage reduction payments to approximately 2 000 prairie farmers held up through a technicality in the operation of the Wheat Acreage Reduction Act, will be sent out shortly, Hon. James G. Gardiner, federal minister of agriculture, said in an interview at the Hotel Saskatchewan.

The act clarifies the basis of payment in respect to wheat acreage reduction, in 1942 and provides that payments be made for acreage production in 1943.

Mr. Gardiner explained that the amending act was necessary because last year the house, when passing the Wheat Acreage Reduction Act, had retained the wording of the regulations of 1941 in relation to rye — the same time the word "rye" had been taken out of the definition of coarse grains in the act of 1942 whereas it had been contained in the definitions of 1941.

"As a result, when we began to make payments on rye we found we had no authority under the bill to make payments on that part of the rye which was seeded in 1941."

Acreage taken out of wheat in 1942 as a result of sowing rye was taken out because the rye had been sown in the fall of 1941 to produce a crop in 1942. The act as passed last year made it doubtful whether payment could be made on rye other than that which had been sown in 1942 "Consequently those payments had been withheld until the act could be amended."

Mr. Gardiner could give no estimate as to the amount of payments that would be made out to farmers but believed it would run "pretty well into several hundred dollars."

In addition the amending act provides for the payment this year of $2 an acre for wheat acreage taken out of wheat in 1943 as compared with 1940 The flat rate of $2 per acre will be paid to a farmer for every acre he takes out of wheat no matter what he does with the land.

We are not asking the farmer to sow either coarse grains or rye or grass or to summerfallow or do anything in particular with it but if he attaches the land he will not be paid. He can put it to any crop he chooses to. Whether wheat or he can summerfallow it.

Representations that producers of war materials in factories in the same manner might be permitted in areas where meat packing plants operate are not made Mr. Gardiner declared, as the meat packers would be required on each farm in this province and guards would have to be provided for the prisoners scattered all over the province.

Churchill Tells Of Darkest Days Britain Faced

London—Britain had less than 50 tanks and only "a couple of hundred field guns, some of them brought out of the museum," to face an invasion that did not come in 1940, Prime Minister Churchill told a private audience of coal miners and mine owners in a speech Dec. 10, 1942, it was disclosed recently.

Appealing for a stepped-up coal production, the prime minister told his audience in a review of Britain's darkest days that if Hitler had attempted to invade after Dunkirk "there would have been terrible shambles in this country because we had hardly a weapon."

"We had not at that time 50 tanks and now we now have 10 000 or 12 000," he said.

I sometimes have the feeling in fact I have it very strongly, the feeling of a kind of interference," he said. I want to stress that. I have the feeling that we had a guardian because we serve a great cause and that we shall have that guardian so long as we serve that cause faithfully."

We have made mistakes, he went on. We have made miscalculations. We have been saved from the consequences of our shortcomings by the incomparable, greater mistakes and shortcomings which these all wise dictators have produced. Look at the mistake Hitler made in not trying his luck in 1940."

Hitler did try tentatively. Mr. Churchill said but the R A F [illegible] up his plans by smashing a fleet of invasion craft assembled in the occupied channel ports.

Mr. Churchill said another Axis mistake was in attacking Pearl Harbor instead of Britain when she was already fighting Italy and Germany in Europe.

"We were fortunate." Mr. Churchill said "that, led away by their dark conspiracies and schemes, dizzy and deluded by their own plans, they sprang upon a peaceful nation with whom they were at that time in peaceful parley and were led away and tottered over the edge; and for the sake of sinking half a dozen ships of war and beating up a naval port they set out against them the implacable energies and measureless power of the 130,000,000 educated people who live in the United States.

"We have much to be thankful for."

Mr. Churchill said that the U-boat peril was first among all dangers ahead and said that "many more" than the 800 to 400 submarines then operating would be working in 1943.

He told the mining representatives that the danger of a spring invasion of Britain could not be overlooked because the Germans could despatch 60 to 70 divisions to bolster the troops in France.

The third danger presented Hitler in a less precisely-defined form, he said "The last hope of the guilty Huns is a stalemate."

Their idea has been made very plain the idea of making a vast fortress out of the greater part of Europe to hold out for years and years hoping that we would get tired and fall out among ourselves and make a compromise peace." Mr. Churchill said.

Such a peace would mean, "and could only mean, that they would be up again."

"That's the third danger, and in some ways the most insidious one of all," he said

Mr. Churchill made an interesting prediction which now is being fulfilled. He said that in the future the enemy was already receiving what they gave with interest—compound interest—and added, "Soon they will get a bonus."

Sgt. Norman Smith was home on sick leave for five days the month. He returned to duty again feeling much better.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Morsel and children were Sunday April 18 visitors to the Adolf Smith home. All the Smith family except Alex was home that day.

When Russell Cruthers was home this month, Mr and Mrs Cruthers had all their family home for a reunion. It's nice to hear of these gatherings when so many homes are broken up by this cruel war.

Lloyd Howard of the air force, came home for spring work and is now helping his brother run the threshing outfit.

Threshing is going ahead full blast this week around here. But it is an awful mix-up when fall gets tangled with spring. Spring brings a big enough rush without this extra work thrown in. Here's hoping it never occurs again.

Congrats to Mr. and Mrs. Harold Isley of Thorsehjelm on the birth of a new baby.

J. C. Wallington was first on the land in our district. The ice went out of the lake on April 22nd, two days earlier than last year.

EX-BATTLE RIVER M. P. W. J. BLAIR DIES

INGEBOLD, Ont.—William John Blair, at one time M.P. for the Alberta riding of Battle River, died on Saturday at his home near here. He was about 65.

Born in West Zorra, Oxford county, and graduated from the University of Toronto school of science, he moved west in 1911 and in 1917 was elected to the federal house for Battle River. After his term was over Blair was a Alberta Conservative leader, but before he could take his seat in the legislature as opposition leader he became ill and resigned.

SOAP MAKING IS OUT FOR THE DURATION

To many, soap-making sounds like a thrifty, efficient method of helping along the war effort. This is wrong, because fats must be collected for war industries and not for soap making in homes, restaurants and military establishments. Salvage fats are destined to go to a central soap factory where the all-important glycerine by-product can be collected for munitions production.

Soap is made by combining fats and some alkali such as potash or caustic soda. The alkali solution is drained off and in the process it has absorbed glycerol, the basic chemical for glycerine. In homes, restaurants and military establishments, where there are no facilities to extract glycerol from the waste solution, precious glycerol goes down the drain. Whereas, in commercial soap making, the alkali-glycerol solution is allowed to settle, and then the glycerol is distilled off.

No need to say that amateur soap making is not patriotic at this time. These people will have to cut their soap making desires for the duration.

One storage battery can supply all the lead needed for a trio of three inch anti-aircraft guns.

Permits Available

Giving Extra Sugar Tea And Coffee For Prisoner Of War Parcels

For some time now special permits have been available for Canadians sending sugar, tea and coffee, in personal parcels to next-of-kin who are prisoners of war. This good news because it means that purchases of these goods do not cut into their own rations.

A form known as "...-SORY OF War Purchase Permit" is being sent to all next-of-kin by the Department of National War Services. This form is made out in duplicate, one copy to be sent to the Ration Administrator of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board in Montreal, the other to be left with the merchant from whom the rationed commodity is purchased.

Postal Censors check each parcel to prisoners to make certain that articles purchased are sent along to the boys in the prison camps.

Quantities which may be sent in any personal parcel to a prisoner of war includes up to one pound of coffee, and a quarter of a pound of tea, and two pounds of sugar which may be made into hard candy.

LEAVE SINKING SHIP

The Royal Norwegian Government says a notorious Nazi in Arendal, Norway, entered a shop and asked some people why they did not join the Nazi party. A Norwegian replied: "I've heard tell that once you join it it is impossible to leave again." "Nonsense!" said the Nazi. "People are resigning every day."

WAR-TIME has depleted the tin supply — so glass replaces tin. The delicious flavour and fine quality remain the same as ever . . . always deserving your choice and preference.

CHAPTER III—Continued

"Charles!" She was breathless. "It's too beautiful. No, really you spoil me." She fingered the great pendant stones. "You must put it on for me!"

He hesitated. Then his fingers just lightly trailed her skin as he clasped it together. Her head drooped, lazily. Maybe now in this moment he would take her in his arms, unloose the floodgates of his heart.

Finally he stood away and looked at her. "Now you know, you're a very beautiful woman." She didn't reply. "Margaret," he said, "I'm sorry I'm happy."

"Why do you ask?" The moment was gone.

"I don't know. I wondered. Often, I've seen a look in your eyes as if you were thinking of someone." He added gently, "Isn't there something morbid in burying one's heart with the dead?"

There was a tinge of bitterness in her reply. "That's a strange thing for you to say." She went on with suppressed intensity. "Charles, I know you feel there really is someone and that some day you may find her. But doesn't it frighten you sometimes to know that the years are passing and that you may lose the capacity for happiness? You may have come to that point—perhaps on the other side. You may even have met her, Charles, and not known her. It might even be someone you know." She touched his hand. "Charles, it might well be me."

He drew back. It was as if she had desecrated something dear and believed. "Margaret," he said in kindly protest.

Her mouth twisted. She began talking wildly. "Charles, I'm going to change, a rest. I'd like to travel—maybe to Rio. I've been a strain I suppose. I'm just a little nobody you know. It's harder than I thought being the wife of Charles Rainier."

He was gazing at her in vague unease. "You are over tired I think. Shall we talk about it in the morning?"

"In the morning," she said tonelessly. "Yes, Charles. Goodnight." The door closed behind him. Her voice rose in a despairing whisper. "Smithy. Oh Smithy . . ."

Paula's trip to South America was planned and settled by that afternoon. Several days later she was ready to leave. Smithy, with his assistant Harrison, took her to the train.

She stood at the door of her military carriage and he said stiffly, "In this place where you're staying in the country—on your way?"

"Not quite." The little vine covered cottage where she and Smithy had lived would mean her once more and she would bid it a final adieu. "No, it's in Wickham, a quiet little village with a delightful old inn. I want to go there again. I was happy there once.

The train was ready to start. Harrison put the last piece of luggage in the vestibule. Now the train was moving slowly. Smithy walked alongside. "I wish you weren't leaving. It will seem strange not to talk things over with you—" He kissed her cheek. "You'll let me hear from you?"

"Of course. Goodbye Charles. Goodbye . . ."

Her voice came back faintly once more. Then she was gone. He stood there troubled and a bit frightened. He heard Harrison speaking to him. "We'd better start for the Melbridge Club Works, sir. The telegram was urgent."

They picked up some papers at the club and immediately boarded the train. Once in Melbridge, the business at the Cable Works went straightened out. The men had been planning to strike unless their demands were met. However, Sir Charles Rainier settled the matter within minutes, not only by raising wages but shortening hours and bettering working conditions in general.

He was smiling vaguely as he left the place with Harrison. In the back of him, the cheers of the men still resounded. By the time they reached the village it was evening There was still an hour to train departure. They would see a bit of Melbridge He and Harrison made for a small bar. Emerging into the fog a bit later Harrison discovered that they were out of cigarettes.

Smithy nodded briskly. "Well never mind there's a little tobacconist shop just around the corner." Harrison glanced at him in surprise.

They bought their cigarettes but as they came outside Harrison said, "I thought you told me you'd never been in Melbridge."

"I haven't," Smithy returned indifferently. Then, all at once, he paled. Strange. He had said, "There's a little tobacconist shop just around the corner." The shop was off the main main street. He couldn't have seen it on his way from the station. "Harrison . . . I don't understand it. . . ."

Mists were swirling in his head. He could hear bells and whistles too. A sweat broke out on his forehead. He put a shaking hand to a railing. "Harrison, let me think. That little shop around the corner. I've been there on a hill . . . it has wide gates and a high wall all around it . . ."

Harrison was alarmed. "Sir, if you're ill . . ."

"No, no, Harrison. I've got to trace it." He put his hands over his eyes. There were things, shapes at the back of his mind. "I was trying to get away from something . . . trying to escape. And there was a girl . . ." He started forward in excitement. "I . . . I loved her. We were married . . ." He seemed dazed. "Harrison, leave me now. I'm going up there on the hill to that building. There's something I want to know . . . I must know . . ."

Harrison stood there and watched him hurry off. Harrison was a good fellow and now he was terribly troubled. Poor Lady Rainier. What a blow this would be to her. She had said she would be at Wickham. He must seek her out . . . warn her.

It was early the next morning that he found her in the little vine covered cottage. She had been sitting at the piano softly fingering a melody, her eyes on the white mists of the hills.

"Lady Rainier!" He rushed to her and wearily took her hands: "Oh I'm so glad I've found you."

Paula said softly, "Then he is here. What has happened?"

Harrison spoke almost wildly, "I think the world of him Lady Rainier, you know that but he doesn't remember what he's doing." Briefly, he explained the happenings after their visit to the tobacconist's. "And—it it seems there was a woman, a girl he married her. He says he must find her. It's all he seems to care about. It's got to be stopped. It could ruin him and it would be dreadful for you." He looked at her and burst out, "I must say, you take it very calmly. When I try to imagine how you must feel . . ."

Her voice was tender. "I don't feel anything yet—at least not much. But I keep on thinking of what you said, that he doesn't care."

Harrison was miserable. "I know, it's awful. I'm dreadfully sorry."

All at once, she flung out her arms. "Oh no Harrison, it is wonderful. He'd throw over everything, his future, his ambitions, everything if he could for her." Bitterness and relief cut at the window. "And Harrison, there he is. You see. The big willow tree on the corner! He's coming just the church, walking through that little rambling garden.

Yes, it was Smithy, walking very slowly along the road. Paula could almost feel his heart beating. Now he had opened the gate. It creaked a little. He was coming up the path. With shaking hand he touched the knob of the door.

It opened and she stood there. "Smithy," she said, ever so softly.

He faced her. "Paula . . . ." He moved forward and took her in his arms. There were tears and awe in his voice. "Paula . . . I've found you. At last I've found you."

He nestled his cheek against her hair. The lines of his face smoothed out in a deep, quiet peace. The door to that inner room of memory had opened at last and he had found the treasure he had sought for so many years . . . the woman he loved.

The tourist bells softly pealed, sealing their union once again.

Propaganda Minister Gobbels Says Germany Has Britain By Throat

German Propaganda Minister Goebbels, writing in Das Reich, admitted to the German people that Great Britain is superior psychologically in the war because of her air attacks. But Germany has submarine warfare would tell in time.

Excerpts from his article, broadcast by the Swiss radio and recorded by the Associated Press, included the following:

"Up to the time being in this form of war Great Britain is superior psychologically only because the consequences of the German submarine war could be directly seen by everyone while the consequences of the German submarine war could be felt by the masses of the British people after a certain time only.

"If the air war Britain holds Germany at the wrist, but in the submarine war Germany has Britain at the throat. It remains to be seen who will lose breath first."

Reason There Are Fewer Women Now In Russian Army

Although recent communiques have singled out women snipers and women combat pilots in the Red Army, mentioning their fighting feats, it is difficult now for women to get combat duty in the Soviet forces.

During the first year of the war there were more women in the ranks than now. At that time, only physical fitness and a statement of voluntary service were sufficient to let them fight.

Now Red Army commanders are reluctant to accept them—although individuals manage to make their way to the front ranks.

Rumor, has no special branches for women, similar to the Auxiliaries in other countries.

Most women serving with the army are in the medical corps, not only in base hospitals but at front line evacuation points and even accompanying fighting squads on the battle front.

WHEN HORSE STAMPS LOOK OUT FOR MANGE

When a horse stamps its feet in the stable and rubs its hind legs together it is most likely suffering intense irritation from symbiotic mange, one of the three varieties of this disease to horses. In winter time the irritation is much more intense than in summer. Symbiotic mange is generally confined to the legs, more especially to the hind legs and is frequently seen in heavy horses with hairy legs. The disease yields readily to treatment.

The same three varieties of mites cause mange in sheep, but the disease is much more serious in sheep than in horses as cattle because it not only injures the health of the sheep but greatly depreciates the value of the wool. Four mites cause mange in cattle but whether the disease occurs in horses, sheep, or cattle, it is a reportable disease and its suspected existence must be reported without delay to the nearest Dominion Veterinary Inspector who will decide what is to be done.

Canada and the other democracies entered this war almost completely unprepared, whereas Germany and Japan has strenuously prepared for years. We have, therefore, much to do yet to catch up to our enemies. Our farms and factories, however, are now turning out ever-increasing quantities of foodstuffs and munitions, but these quantities are governed entirely by the amount of money the Government has with which to pay farmers for their produce, and to pay wages to industrial workers Some of the money is supplied by taxes, but considerable must also be raised by loans from the people through their purchase of Victory Bonds.

Our gallant lads are risking and giving their lives for our protection, for our freedom. They ask us only to lend our money. How can we do less! Every Victory Bond purchased will supply more and better equipment to protect our fighting men. A Victory Bond can easily save a life.

When we buy a Victory Bond we help our fighting men, and strike a blow for the High Cause of Freedom. Some of interest in the World of Finance

C.W.A.C. GIRLS ENJOY LONDON EXPERIENCES

Something New Every Day

OTTAWA.—A dance at St. James Palace; meeting Anthony Eden and Mrs. Eden; tea at the Mansion House; a visit to famous Madame Tussaud's. These are part of the thrills one of the Canadian Women's Army Corps girls recorded in a letter to friends in Calgary. She is Private Ruby Anderson of Edmonton. She went to England with the first draft of CWAC personnel to leave for a war zone.

Private Anderson says: "We are all very proud of the 'Canada' on our shoulders as we walk down the street. Every day brings something new and exciting. One almost has to pinch oneself to make sure one is awake!"

"I was one of the fortunate ten to be chosen to attend a dance at St. James' Palace as guests of Lady Hardinge. Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Eden were guests of honor and during the entertainment I sat at their feet . . . I also attended Tea at the Mansion House and met Lord Mayor and Lady Joseph. That was quite a picturesque gathering, for all the Armed Forces were represented."

Her description of a visit to Madame Tussaud's (the famous wax works exhibition) contained the following anecdote:

"Two CWAC's trying to find a certain group of models stopped and asked one of the Bobby's (policemen) in the building for directions. On getting no reply it gave them rather a foolish chill to discover they were talking to one of the models. While going out, through what they thought was the same door, one of these CWAC's marched brazenly up to the Bobby and tweaking him under the chin said: 'You can't fool me this time Bobby' (hence her chagrin when he grinned and winked at her. It wasn't a waxen model!"

Private Anderson goes on: "Most of us have been at services in Westminster Abbey and are conversant with such names as Marble Arch, Petticoat Lane, Hyde Park and Trafalgar Square and we have seen where the nightingales sing in Berkley Square . . . and stepped in tea from where King Charles hid . . . We browsed around an old churr' built in the 1200's! The oldest Londoner we could make out was 1617. The inscriptions were so weather-beat-n we couldn't read them."

To Help Him NOW . . . and When He Comes Home

YOUR SON (or your neighbor's son) is in battle dress perhaps . . . on a ship at sea, or flying a bomber. You are proud of him, but you pray for the time when he will be back home. You will do anything you can, you say, . . . everything you can . . . to bring him home safe, and bring him home soon.

Well, here is one thing you can do. You can buy Victory Bonds.

When you buy Victory Bonds you help your boy to do the big job he is doing now. You help to make sure that he has everything he needs; better equipment than the enemy has. And you are saving money to have a better home for your boy to return to.

HAVE MONEY FOR HIM WHEN HE COMES HOME

He will want to work with new farm implements . . . new equipment . . . to replace things that may be worn out. He will have new ideas to improve the farm. He may want to experiment with new crops, new stock, new farming methods. He's young and ambitious as you want him to be.

He will need money to do things he plans to do. Victory Bonds . . . money saved now and loaned to Canada to help win the war . . . will be yours and his to use when the war is over.

We Came to Canada - Why?

The following article has been submitted to this office by a New Canadian and is directed especially to ward persons who have adopted Canada as their homeland

Victory is still a long way off, and thus in these dangerous and difficult times many an individual will be called upon to perform more than his or her share of the burden. We cannot afford to let some willing 'George' do it. This is both an individual and collective duty to us all which should be performed not only willingly but according to our ability, to do the most.

In view of the fearful reality of the situation; in view of the apparent danger facing us; in view of the precarious position of democracy throughout the world; in view of the threatening loss of those precious spiritual, cultural, and political values which we cherish so much on this side of the ocean. What is your standing on the Canadian War Effort? Are you going to sit on the sidelines or are you going to get in there and pitch with the rest of the gang?

Surely the spirit of our forefathers who knew the meaning of LIBERTY and how to fight for it will be our guiding light in this NEW HOME LAND

Let us not delude ourselves with the illusion that Canada is safe from invasion by virtue of the few thousand miles of water that separate this country from the European and Asiatic continent; or by the supposition that the war has not as yet been actually brought to our own shores The French also were fooled by their false security of the Maginot line and look what happened. The progress of invention, both military and commercial, is conquering both space and time, so that oceans and mountains no longer mean anything.

Yes, it can happen here, and if we do not wish to see the enemy near our own doorstep some day soon, let us do something about it in blood and money.

We are now citizens of Canada — are an integral part of this country, and as such, the progress of Canada is our progress; her wealth our wealth; her happiness our happiness, her fate our fate.

And thus each one of us individually and all of us collectively, should do our bit to aid the war effort according to our opportunity and ability to do so. You can make a valuable contribution this month by making arrangements to invest all possible in Victory Bonds. If you have not the ready money other arrangements can easily be made for you.

ROAD CREWS READY FOR SEASON'S WORK

Outlays on roads in northern Alberta will be practically identical with the season's construction program according to information received by the Alberta Motor Association from the public works department.

Just as soon as the ground conditions permit the 1943 maintenance and construction program will be underway. The amount for construction purposes is $500,000 for main highways with $775,000 for maintenance. Crews and machines are ready for work in a northern district and the public works department will reroute the main highway from Beaver Lodge west to the British Columbia border.

In southern Alberta some damage has been caused to highways by spring flood conditions, washouts being reported at some points

Provincial authorities point out that municipalities have the power to impose a ban on traffic within their boundaries if they find that heavy trucks are damaging the roads

Science And The War

IT IS GENERALLY KNOWN that scientific discoveries are important in modern warfare and the recent institution by the British scientists in this connection have been both interesting and important. The British Ministry of Information has published a series of interesting progress made in scientific work in Britain relating to the war but we are told that "for every fact that can be revealed many more developments and discoveries, at least ten must remain pinned until the war is over." Nevertheless, the few things that are known, give the public some idea of the valuable work which scientists are doing to combat the horrors and hardships of war. These men are seldom known to the public and they work in great secrecy but, as the Ministry of Information points out, "they are making history in fields both connected and unconnected with warfare".

* * * * * *

Radio Location Is Important

One of the most outstanding scientific developments of these times is radio location. It is said to be the most important invention made in any country in this war, and certainly it has been of enormous help in the air defence of Britain and her Allies. Its operation is one of the most close guarded secrets of the war, but it is known that it was discovered in Britain and that it was a vital factor in the winning of the Battle of Britain, and during the subsequent heavy attacks on the British Isles from the air. The magnetic mine, a most destructive weapon in the hands of the enemy, was rendered useless in a few weeks by a very clever apparatus perfected by British scientists. They also perfected mine detectors, for combatting this menace and these have been used with great success in the campaigns in Africa. We are told that without them, British casualties there would have been very high. Progress has also been made in the production of explosives, and results of this work include the new "block buster" bombs and increasingly powerful anti-aircraft shells.

Advances Made In Medicine

Much progress has been made in the field of medical research in Britain, and this has contributed to the saving of many thousands of lives. The famous sulphapyridine drug was first discovered in a British laboratory and it has been used with great success both for civilians and for war casualties. It is said that between 1939 and 1941 ten thousand lives were saved in Britain through the use of this drug in combatting spotted fever, and that seven thousand lives were saved by its use in treating pneumonia cases. Penicillin, another powerful drug which promises to be of great value in fighting disease germs, has recently been developed by the British medical scientist, Professor Alexander Fleming. Much valuable work has also been done in food and nutrition with the result that British food has been kept at a high nutritive level, despite the wartime restriction of shipping. One of the most important developments in this connection has been in the dehydration of foods, and through the use of this process, Britain is able to receive greatly increased food supplies from Canada and the United States.

Western Airmen Discuss A Theoretical Route

Flight Lieutenant Victor Mulhall, of Weyburn, Sask., (right), and Warrant Officer I Leonard Plishka, of Myrnam, Alta., discuss a theoretical route for the bombing of Hamburg. Actual route cannot be shown. Mulhall, formerly a constable on special duties with the Canadian Pacific Railway police force, is navigation leader of an R.A.F. squadron flying giant Stirling bombers. Plishka, who is of Ukrainian descent, left his studies at Normal school, Edmonton, to join the R.C.A.F. He was pitcher on the school's baseball team, and used to pitch to catcher Bill Klufas, of Radway, Alta., also of Ukrainian descent. Klufas is now a flight sergeant navigator with another R.A.F. Stirling squadron.

GARDEN NOTES

Late Start

If for some reason one is only able to start a garden now, it is still not too late. In this case, however, one is advised to use already well started plants bought from the florist or market gardener.

The quickest way to start a garden, as anyone with experience knows, is to have a supply of well-started plants, both of flowers and vegetables. These may either have been grown indoors in shallow boxes or purchased from gardeners or nurserymen about this time of year. In an unusually early season as this has proven to be in many parts of Canada, real gardening results can be obtained in an amazingly short time.

In flowers these plants are just about ready to be set out. It is indeed some of them may have the odd bloom on them when still in the boxes. Experts however advise against leaving this bloom on at transplanting. It puts a strain on the plant and a slight delay growth. Pinched off, the plant is recovered from the shock of transplanting and will make stockier and bigger growth.

There is also a wide range of vegetables obtainable as started plants and in some cases, as with cabbage, cauliflower, celery, peppers, tomatoes, etc. this is about the only safe way for the amateur to handle. Planted from seed now these things would not have nearly enough time to reach maturity before fall. They should not be set out until all danger of frost is over.

Garden Enemies

Proper treatment, just as soon as the first pest damage shows, will win the battle. It is amazing the injury disease or insects can cause in a few days once they are well established. Available almost everywhere in Canada are cheap and effective commercial sprays and powders which will handle such pests as fungus, aphids, rust, will, cut worms, potato bugs, etc. In some cases these dusts or sprays are made of a combination of materials to cope with a variety of enemies. The sprays, of course, should be applied when the plants are dry and the dusts stick better when the plants are slightly moist with rain or dew.

Generally speaking, all plant enemies are divided into three types—fungus that must "eat" or with the edge eaten which produces the same results, and the sucking kinds which literally devour the foliage. Burning or drying sprays and dusts will handle the first type, while the "eaters" should be destroyed with a poison.

The Mobile Selling Centre in London received a touching papeon with a request that it should be sold only on condition that it be turned over to the R.A.F. for the Pigeon Service. It was auctioned twice and realised the equivalent of $1,100.

Using Old Nails

Means Great Saving Of Steel For Purposes Of War

Making use of old nails saves steel for war purposes.

Amateur carpenters should try to turn in old nails that have no possible value aside from scrap. If when purchasing nails, the customer turned in an equal poundage of scrap metal to the voluntary salvage depots, one hundred thousand tons of metal would be made available for war production, according to officials of National Salvage Headquarters in Ottawa.

There has been an increase in the annual consumption of nails from 1,560,000 kegs in peace time to nearly 2,000,000 in wartime. This has been caused by the packing of war supplies in wooden cases, building of wartime houses, and the erection of temporary storage for Canada's great grain crop last year.

Interchangeable Terms

What British Empire May Be Called Does Not Matter

Prime Minister Mackenzie King, in reply to a question from Mr. Pouliot informed the House of Commons that the terms, "British Empire" and "British Commonwealth" are "used interchangeably." This is in keeping with Prime Minister Churchill's expressed view—"British Empire, British Commonwealth, if you will, I accept either." It is what the British nations stand for that counts. CHRIST'S CHARGE TO PETER

Golden text: Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends. John 15:13.

Lesson: John 21.

Devotional reading: 1 John 3:13-18.

Explanations and Comments

The Breakfast with Christ by the Sea of Galilee, John 21:1-14.

Christ's Charge to Peter, John 21: 15-18. After they had finished their meal on the shore, Jesus said to Simon Peter, "Simon, son of John, lovest thou me more than these?" "More than these other disciples loved him," reminded Peter of his vain boast recorded in Mt. 26.33. "If all shall be offended in thee, I will never be offended." Had Jesus questioned, Believest thou me? or Will thou obey me? or Art thou willing to carry on my work? such questions would seem to us on first thought more natural than his question of "Lovest thou me?" Yet as we ponder that question we realize that it included these other questions as well. In it Peter will give his love to Christ he will give his faith and obedience and service also.

Peter was no longer self-assertive. He did not boast of excelling the others in love, but humbly replied, "Yea, Lord, thou knowest that I love thee." There is a difference of meaning in the two different Greek verbs used for "love" in Jesus' question and Peter's answer. One is lost in our English version. Jesus asks if Peter cherishes toward him the highest love of all, spiritual love, as in "God is love"; "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart"; "Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends." "Yes, Lord, thou knowest that I love thee," that I have for thee the affection of a friend. Here the Greek word for "love" is the lesser meaning of affection, of attachment.

When Peter was again asked the same question but with the omission of the word "more than these," he still answered that he had the personal love of a friend for Jesus. At the third repetition of the question Peter was grieved. The threefold question recalled his threefold denial of the Lord. Upon each basis of denial he was afforded the opportunity of turning from the light of arrival. His third avowal calls his Master's omniscience to witness to the fact of his love: "Lord, thou knowest all things; thou knowest that I love thee."

After each of Peter's replies Jesus bade him feed his sheep, or his lambs, thus telling his heart-broken disciple that he was trusted, that he would have a chance to redeem himself by carrying out his commission.

SHOULD BE DEFINITE

A man who had business with a big wholesale firm spent a week, while waiting for an interview with a director, two men came out of an inner office, one of them lecturing the other sternly.

"You ought to have been more definite with those people, Harry," said the first one. "With this shilly-shallying you won't get anywhere with them. You should have been decisive and given them a definite answer—yes, no, or perhaps."

RED CROSS NEWS

The following is an extract from "Dispatch" official journal of the Canadian Red Cross society:

"Always in readiness at an East Station of the R.C.A.F. are Sergeant Boss controlling fuel and warm woollens, waiting to be dropped to, torpedoed sailors from reconnaissance planes now hunting for them in the Atlantic Known as 'survivor bags' the containers can be dropped into the ocean from low-flying aircraft without damaging them and will stay afloat even in heavy seas.

Created at an East Coast R.C.A.F. Station, the bags and the food are supplied by the R.C.A.F. The Canadian Red Cross furnishes the warm woollens, knitted and sewn by the women across Canada.

To provide victims of Nazi ruthlessness with warm dry clothing, the station asked if the Canadian Red Cross could supply woollen sweaters, underwear, flannelette nightshirts, mufflers, socks and mitts for bags. These serve a double purpose when wrapped around the injured people. They absorb some of the shock of impact when the bag strikes the water and they give much-needed warmth when the sailors when the bag is opened at sea."

Claire West Lovely Bride Of Cpl. Edw. Langridge, R.C.A.M.C.

A wedding of interest took place in the First United church Tuesday, May 4th, at 7 o'clock when Claire Ekstedah, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Moorby West was united in marriage with Cpl. Edward Langridge, R.C.A.M.C., only son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Langridge of Bangf.

The Rev. L. Sleber performed the ceremony against a background of ferns and tapers.

To the strains of the Wedding March from Lohengrin, played by Mr. W. B. Eford at the organ, the bride entered the church on the arm of her father. She was lovely in a gown of white flowered velvo sheer with fitted bodice, princess sleeve and a full skirt. She carried a shower bouquet of sweetheart roses, lilies of the valley, and fern. Her chapel veil was held in place by a coronet of orange blossoms. The bride's only ornament was a gold necklet, the gift of the Miss Claire West, B.Sc., R.N., who has been in charge of one of the Provincial Health Units at Calgary, resigned from that position and on Tuesday became the bride of Cpl. Edward Langridge R.C.A.M.C., of Bangf. Both bride and groom are graduates of the University of Alberta.

Miss Marjorie West, sister of the bride, was charming in a gown of pink floor length net. She carried a bouquet of pink and white roses with contrasting snap dragons. Her costume was complete with a hair ornament and forget-me-nots.

Little Sandra Mooney of Prince Albert, Saskatchewan, and Betty Ann Stewart, cousins of the bride, were dainty flower girls dressed in ruffled pink organdie frocks, each carrying a bouquet of sweet peas and fern.

The bridegroom was supported by L.A.C. Hugh C. Craig, cousin of the bride, of Prince Albert.

Mr. Elmore Stewart and Mr. Vera Sproule acted as ushers.

During the signing of the register Mrs. M. Hill sang "Because". She was accompanied at the organ by Mr. W. B. Eford.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents where the bride's table was draped with a cut work and eyelet cloth covered by a lace wedding cake, flanked by tall white tapers and spring flowers. Receiving with the bridal party were Mrs. West, mother of the bride, who smartly dressed in a two-piece turquoise blue ensemble; Mrs. Langridge, mother of the groom, chose a black lace floor length gown. Both wore corsages of talisman roses.

A toast to the bride was proposed by Lieut.-Col. Craig, uncle of the bride, of North Battleford, Sask., and ably responded to by the groom.

Several telegrams of good wishes were received from Eastern Canada.

The happy couple left for Camp Borden where the groom is stationed, the bride travelling in a navy blue ensemble with matching accessories.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Langridge of Banff; Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Duncan of Edmonton; Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Craig of Prince Albert, Sask.; Mrs. George Kinnear of High River; Mrs. Charles Mooney Sandra and James, L.A.C. Hugh Craig of Prince Albert, Sask.; Lt. Col. Dominion Day in Canada and Independence Day in the United States will both be celebrated July 5. July 4 in the U.S. coming this year on a Sunday will be observed the next day Dominion Day, for the duration, is to be observed on the Monday nearest July 1, which happens to be July 5 this year.

Jas. J. Part Appointed Town Secy-Treasurer

Assumes Duties July 1st

James J. Part, at present principal of the Vermilion public school, has been appointed by the council as secretary-treasurer of the town of Vermilion. Mr. Part will take over his new duties on July 1, at the close of the school term.

The appointment of a new secretary became necessary when W. H. Graham who had held the position since August 1941, resigned in February because of ill health. Mrs. H. P. Long has been acting secretary since that time and will carry on the duties to July 1.

The new appointee, Mr. Part, came to Vermilion nine years ago as a member of the teaching staff of the public school. For the past seven years he has been principal.

He was selected from some twenty applicants as it was felt that he already had a keen insight into town affairs and is gifted with attributes to efficiently and acceptably fill the position of secretary-treasurer.

VICTORY LOAN ON LAST LAP

Large Amount Still Required

The Vermilion visit for the Fourth Victory Loan has made excellent progress up to the time of going to press but there is still required the big push which is now getting under way. The work of the remaining days during which the loan campaign has to run, will be undertaken by committees of district people there is no reason why the Unit should not live up to its past achievement and go well over the top.

Many people indicate to canvassers that they intend considering their $50 or $100 investment; it cannot be too strongly stated, however, that it is from the smaller subscriptions that a substantial portion of the loan is being received.

YOUR subscription is not only important from the point of view of money for urgent purposes, but also because it assures you as a next war worker the war when readjustments may become necessary and when you will wish to make purchases which are not possible at the present time.

Fire of unknown origin destroyed the large stock barn, several smaller buildings, seed grain, harness tools and two calves, at the Grizzly Bear ranch of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Sanders on Friday afternoon last

All possible help was rendered by neighbors and by the Vermilion fire brigade which was called out from town, but the fire, fanned by a high wind caused a very heavy and total loss.

Members C.W.A.C. Now Have Down-Town Home

Hostess House Officially Opened

The Vermilion Hostess House was declared officially open for the use of the members of the C.W.A.C. by His Worship Mayor Morrison Saturday afternoon. The spacious and well arranged building was crowded for the occasion, and during the sitting hours in the afternoon and evening was inspected by many townspeople and soldier girls.

Tea was served by members of the C. W. A. C. and a short program followed, opening the Hostess House took place shortly after 4 o'clock The purpose of the House and the work turned into a training centre for the C.W.A.C. Shortly after Captain Hawes and the new staff of officers arrived and everyone was thrilled when we saw the smart group of girls in the Khaki uniform parading through our streets.

We all wanted to be of assistance to them in any way possible. With that as our objective, a public meeting was held at which a Citizens committee was appointed for contact purposes between the C.W.A.C. and the townspeople. Almost from the first meeting of the committee, we began working on the idea of a Hostess House, for we felt that it was essential that these young ladies should have a headquarters to which to repair in their time away from barracks.

Many obstacles arose — first a suitable building. That was overcome when M.D. 12 offered us the use of the armory building, with light, heat and caretaking, and which they promptly set to work to prepare splendid quarters for us.

So it has been in the past months difficulties continually presented themselves, but each time they were been surmounted, and this afternoon we have reached our goal.

Mrs. Norton then called upon Mayor Morrison to officially open the Vermilion Hostess House.

Mayor Morrison opened as follows:

MORE THAN TAXES—

One public organization in the province of Ontario is publicizing the Fourth Victory Loan campaign among its members, reduced its thinking to the following wording. "It takes more than taxes to conquer the Axis."

It is interesting to observe how plain ordinary words are often grouped to drive home simply a very important truth. We can take the greater part of Finance Minister Ilsley's able budget speech, analyze it, and find that the sentence quoted above sums up Mr. Ilsley's thinking remarkably well.

If all Canadians thoroughly understood that all our taxes, heavy though they may be, are not sufficient to give our boys in uniform what they need to batter down the citadel of Berlin, the successful sale of Fourth Victory Loan bonds totalling $1,150,000,000 is assured.

Our Canadian heroes will not travel three quarters of the way to Berlin and then call off their mission. Neither will the folks back home stop short of the full financial objective needed for Canada's complete war effort. Tax payments take us only half way. Bond purchases will enable us to go all the way.

WHY MEAT IS RATIONED —

When Canadians are convinced that the rationing of any commodity is necessary; that the plan adopted is the best that can be devised, and that it will be fairly and equitably administered, they will accept it without complaint.

The important thing is to give them the facts; to tell them honestly and frankly, the reasons why.

Meat rationing has become necessary for several important reasons.

First, Great Britain now has to depend more and more upon Canada for meat supplies sufficient to maintain even the present low rations rate in effect there. More than 60 percent of all meat produced in Canada must now go overseas.

Second, the allowances to our armed forces, at home and abroad, must be maintained. Ship supplies is thrown upon this vessel need by the imminence of a second front, when meat resources will be drawn upon more heavily than ever, to feed those who fight to keep the war from our shores.

Third, rationing will prevent to a great extent, the recurrence of the local meat shortages which developed in many parts of Canada last year.

Fourth, coupon rationing is the most satisfactory means yet devised of assuring a fair and equitable distribution of the meat supplies that will remain for the use of our people at home.

MORRISON

We regret that this item was omitted last week: Mrs W. Sherwood celebrated her 75th birthday April 7, at the home of her daughter Mrs. Lily Giles. Miss R Walters was also present.

A very enjoyable time was reported at school Thursday night when a party was held in honor of two young people of the district, namely Rosoe Miller and Lloyd Goold. Both were presented to also welcome Mr. R. Dunn. The three were each presented with [illegible] gift. VICTORY LOAN — ON LAST LAP

Despite the fact that the Unit has not attained the effort of the last loan there is still a long way to go. If we are to achieve the required $130,000 objective and every single resident of the district is going to make it his or her own business to contact their bank or any loan representative and to buy bonds within the next day or so. It should be borne in mind that loan representatives are voluntarily aiding their country, sacrificing their time, their energy and their gasoline ration to aid in this important effort and the fewer trips they have to make to secure an application for bonds the greater their appreciation.

Women's Special Day For Loan

A number of ladies have already bought bonds, some of them on the instalment plan which will be paid for by savings from their house-hold money; it requires only $5 to start on the road to a fifty dollar saving. Tuesday next, May 11th has been set as Ladies Day and every lady who possibly can do so is urged to buy a bond on that day. Let that be your wait a more favourable time, make the present furniture serve its purpose and, instead, subscribe for a bond to help those who are helping to preserve freedom and liberty for Canada. Your bank or your loan representative will be eagerly waiting to hear from you on Tuesday next. Don't let them down.

MR. FARMER

In addition to the cash plan of buying bonds you may make your raised contribution by depositing 10% of the amount of bonds you would like to buy and then completing payment any time within six months without interest cost to yourself. Inquire today for details of this plan; any loan representative will be more than pleased to give you complete details.

The ASSISTANCE of every individual in the unit is required to put the loan over the top.

20 TONS OF SALVAGE RUBBER ON WAY EAST

Leaves Vermilion on Thursday

A 20-ton car load of salvage rubber will leave Vermilion today (Thursday) for Toronto where it will be reclaimed and made into valuable necessities of war. The carload is a co-operative effort and some 15 tons were loaded at Vegreville, the remaining seven being got in here. Bill Mayhew, who has taken a keen interest in the salvage work, did the weighing and loading.

The Vermilion Salvage corps still has considerable rubber on hand and a further shipment will be made soon.

BOARD OF TRADE NOTES

Half the time duly here of the school of agriculture will remain in the district, having been taken over by Mr. Bill Barr, possibly the district's leading dairy farmer. This was the cheering news given the Board of Trade on Wednesday by Mr. E. H. Herkimer. Last week the boat members were somewhat startled over the fact that the department planned on moving the dairy herd to Olds. The move was protested on the grounds that this herd was one of the sources of milk supply for the town and from the standpoint of entailment of the activities of the demonstration farm.

The matter of organizing a real Victory garden campaign, patterned on the Horticultural society last week was turned back to the Board and the horticultural committee will take the lead in getting people to make the plans within six months without interest cost to yourself. Inquire today for details of this plan; any loan representative will be more than pleased to give you complete details.

The ASSISTANCE of every individual in the unit is required to put the loan over the top.

Cover More Ground Per Gallon On "99" Gas---"Polymerized" To Fight Knock and Engine Wear

New Refining Process Gives New High Rating To Famous "99" Brand

IN the Autumn of 1942, a new and better gasoline came into being in Turner Valley, when the completed "Polymerization Unit" of Gas and Oil Products Limited started turning out a fluid with an octane-rating just under 90!

Blended with regular refinery-run gasoline, this "Polymerized" fluid produced a motor fuel with an amazingly high anti-knock rating that required the addition of less ethyl lead. Farmers on the land this Spring are learning what motor... ed last Fall—that "99" gasolines go farther and cut down "knock" and engine wear.

Benefit Scale For Ex-Soldiers Has Been Raised

Toronto.—Substantial increase in the scale of post-discharge benefits to members of the armed forces pending re-establishment and improvements in the scheme for the treatment of men suffering from disabilities were announced by Pensions Minister Mackenzie speaking before the Toronto Business Men's branch of the Canadian Legion.

The scale of benefits has been raised from $8 a week for a single man and $13 for a married man to $10.20 a week for a single man and $14.40 for a married man. In addition allowances for children on the same scale as the dependents' allowances paid during service are authorized, together with an allowance for a dependent parent.

The minister announced three orders-in-council affecting men discharged from the forces were passed. They were:

1. An amendment to the post-discharge order increasing benefits and making other improvements.

2. Amendments to treatment regulations to provide complete treatment of non-pensionable disabilities and higher cash allowances plus allowances for dependents of men undergoing treatment after discharge.

3. An amendment to the War Veterans' Allowance Act to do away with deductions from allowances because of casual earnings.

Mr. Mackenzie also announced a plan for creating special reconditioning centres for problem cases, men who believe they are suffering from some physical disability which is not pensionable and still not able to earn a living.

Under the revised post-discharge order a single man may receive $44.20 a month while he is engaged in vocational training, completing his education or settling himself up in some private enterprise where earnings are slow in materializing, such as farming or a small business. The benefits available to married men start with $62.40 a month or a man without children and range up to $120.40 a month for a man with a wife and six children.

Men with dependent parents may receive $15 a month in addition to the allowances payable on account of their own status.

Formerly post-discharge allowances were cut down to the extent of the pensions received by a disabled man.

"We shall not hereafter deduct from any vocational training grant awarded to a disability pensioner, the full amount of his pension," said Mr Mackenzie.

"In the case of an unmarried pensioner whose disability is assessed at less than 35 per cent, his pension will be completely ignored in awarding vocational training benefit. That is, he will receive his pension and the full allowance.

"In the case of a single man whose disability pension ranges from 35 per cent to 55 per cent, we shall pay the amount of the vocational allowance necessary to bring his income up to $55 a month instead of $44 20

"In the case of a married man in receipt of both vocational training allowance and pension up to 55 per cent, we shall allow him to receive up to $75 per month before taking cognizance of the pension although the normal rate of benefit under the post-discharge order would be a maximum of $62.40."

Where there are children a married pensioner's $75 will be augmented by children's allowances.

Where a pension is for more than a 55 per cent. disability the man will receive his normal rate of pension plus a post-discharge grant to the extent of 25 per cent of his pension.

(Children's allowances in all cases are $12 a month for two children, $10 for a third and $8 for a fourth, fifth and sixth.)

Helicopter Will Be Useful As Rescue Craft

Ottawa.—The R.C.A.F. has announced that it has ordered six helicopters the "flying windmills" which can take off and land on your front lawn, and remain still in mid-air.

The Royal Canadian Air Force has purchased them from the United States and may use them in its anti-submarine campaign against U-boats of Canada's east coast, because of the special adaptability of these aircraft for this type of duty.

However, the helicopter's immediate job will be to rescue airmen forced down in otherwise inaccessible places, and to serve outposts now dependent on uncertain sea communications.

If it spots a submarine a helicopter can stop right there and drop its depth charges, whereas the modern bombing aircraft usually has to take many minutes and miles to do a run up on a submarine which by that time often disappears

It is said that if the visibility of the water is sufficient the helicopter can hover over a submarine like a shadow until forces are brought up to destroy it. In convoy protection its slow speed permits it to hover over the convoy and be a constant guardian angel against submarines.

The helicopter's speeds range from 30 miles per hour down to zero miles per hour and it can stop dead in midair, and descend or ascend vertically at will, as well as fly backwards.

For this reason, ferry pilots are enthusiastic about its possibilities, in effecting rescues of airmen forced down in the wilderness.

In these cases, the usual rescue aircraft generally can never land within miles of the lost airmen, and a rescue party on foot takes days to get to them.

With the helicopter, that problem is solved It can land anywhere, with its huge horizontal revolving blades. It lands like an elevator straight down. If there is no room for the helicopter to land which is very unusual then the machine will hover motionless in the air while a rope ladder is lowered and the rescue is completed.

It is claimed that the helicopter can fly through high winds and storms which keep birds on the ground and that it can land readily on water, mud, ice or snow.

The helicopter can be used for sea rescues

Searching For Wartime Metals In Far North

Vancouver.—The northland, scene of many an epic gold rush, is undergoing a new-type mining stampede today as spring sun melts back the winter snows and opens up the waterways.

It's an organized rush of veteran prospectors, some independent, some financed by big mining companies, all with the blessing of a government hopeful a few of them at least will stumble over rich finds of vital war metals.

To companies ready to grub-stake mineral-wise explorers, the Federal government grants liberal tax concessions. To the prospector on his own it releases wartime controls governing rationing, travel and work.

The B.C. chamber of mines at Vancouver, a clearing-house for northern mining information, is thronged daily with seasoned men preparing for head northward. Plenty of problems attend their departure. Can they use up ration coupons in advance to stock up with supplies? Get a pass to travel over the Alaska highway, still closed to civilian traffic? Get a selective service permit to quit their winter job in a shipyard?

If an applicant can establish proof of his experience and ability as a prospector the answer usually is yes.

On the maps northern B.C., the Yukon territory and Alaska show as a vast, unspoiled wilderness. But under the pointing fingers of men who have learned about the country the hard way, mineral locations make up for the scarcity of place-names.

"There a coal here," they say, tapping the map spread out on a table at the chamber of mines "and here's where you'll likely find antimony."

Tungsten, chromite, manganese, tin, molybdenum mica, mercury and quartz crystals are only some of the strategic metals for which they are searching and which have already been found, often in impressive quantity Gold is there too—cast into the background by war needs, but saw the prospectors bound to come back after the war.

They're storing up knowledge now too which will be used in post-war rehabilitation Information of mineral occurrences is freely given to the chamber of mines which logs it faithfully on a big map that caught the attention of R. K. Odell of the federal department of mines and resources on a recent visit.

Mr. Odell, at present engaged in studies for the North Pacific Planning Project, told the chamber he was keenly interested and urged it to continue assembling such on-the-spot information.

Canada Is Third Largest Trading Nation In World

Vancouver Canada now is doing the greatest export business in its history and the Dominion's export position is "little short of incredible," Hon. J. A. MacKinnon minister of trade and commerce, said here.

Speaking at the annual meeting of the British Columbia division of the Canadian Manufacturers Association, Mr MacKinnon said 1942 exports left all previous records far behind and this new high level of export business is being carried forward during the present year.

Mr MacKinnon said Canada now is the third largest trading nation in the world and he emphasized the country s post-war welfare depends to an important extent on ability to find world markets for its products

Referring to Britain's Beveridge plan and Canada's Marsh plan the minister asserted all these programs of social security when it is possible to fully proceed with them, will never prosper within a country if markets for its goods abroad are shrinking."

Mr MacKinnon said the great potential markets for Canada s post-war export boom are China, the Caribbean countries and Central and South America.

Referring to proper foundations for postwar trade, Mr. MacKinnon reported that in some parts of South Africa he heard complaints that Canadian firms refused to send samples of their goods and were not particularly prompt in handling correspondence dealing with trade possibilities

On the other hand, he continued, he found in the same countries that Canadian goods enjoyed a reputation of being high standard and of excellent quality

He said that a great fleet of steel cargo ships is being built on the west coast for the war duty and the extent to which those ships can be used by Canada in postwar trading and how the ships can best be distributed and operated is something on which great thought is necessary but the whole question is being given most careful consideration.

Praising wartime services of Canada's merchant marine, he said there are more than 38,000 merchant seamen serving on vessels of Canadian registry and that 642 of these men have been lost at sea through enemy action

Referring to British Columbia's wartime industries, Mr MacKinnon remarked "there might have been a wider distribution of Canadian wartime production but that is another story"

DANGEROUS JOB

Picked Group Of Pilots Called "Seeing Eyes" Of R.A.F.

Valetta, Malta.—A picked group of young empire pilots, flying in what the R.A.F. calls photographic reconnaissance units now is doing a job which is one of the most dangerous and exacting known in the air.

Pilots of these units are the "seeing eyes" of the R.A.F. Their job is to avoid fights and the Germans know that one British P.R.U. safely returned to its own base may mean more grief for the luftwaffe and its earthbound comrades than a whole squadron of fighters or bombers.

Plt. Lt. Malcom Brown, 29 a former press photographer of Toronto and Montreal, has rung up a total of 300 hours of operational P.R.U. flying time 100 in England, 75 in the western desert and the rest in Malta.

Brown's R.C.A.F. comrades include Edwin Maloney of San Jose, Calif., a native of Edmonton Maloney is a 230-hour man on P.R.U. work.

STICKERS MUST BE DISPLAYED ON CARS

EDMONTON.—Many vehicles, both trucks and passenger cars, are reported to be attempting to obtain gasoline without complying with the regulations of the Oil Controller, which state that stickers must be posted on the windshield.

The offence has been drawn to the attention of the Enforcement Administration of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. Prices and supply representative Walter S. Campbell has issued the following statement:

"Filling stations are still supplying gasoline to some few without stickers on the windshields. This is contrary to the Oil Controller's order OC 12 and a warning is given to all filling stations and owners of automobiles that this practice must be discontinued immediately."

$1,577 INCOME YEARLY NECESSARY FOR DESIRABLE LIVING STANDARD

$1,134 Needed for Minimum

OTTAWA.—An income of $1,134 a year is necessary to maintain a minimum standard of living for a family of five under average conditions in Canadian cities, it was assumed in the Marsh report on a social security plan for Canada, tabled before the House of Commons social security committee.

The report, drafted by Dr Leonard C. Marsh, technical adviser to the James advisory committee on reconstruction, takes that figure, based on data collected by the Toronto welfare council as the goal at which minimum benefits under social insurance, like retirement pensions, children's allowances and disability pensions should be based.

It works out at about $11.5= a month for a man and wife and $11.5= for each child.

Such an income the report said, would place a family in crowded housing accommodation and provide no allowance for advancement expenditures or savings. It was a standard in the remedial, rather than recommended" — a level which should be raised.

On the basis of a compilation of family incomes by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics for the year 1941, the report said, 33.1 per cent of urban families were below the minimum standard. In rural districts nearly 50 per cent were below it.

For a desirable minimum standard the report found an annual income of $1,567 necessary for a family of five, or $69.29 per month for man and wife and $17.81 for each child.

Another 22 per cent of urban and another 23 per cent of rural families were between this level and the minimum standard.

For the lower income strata, the need for insurance techniques to ensure even a maintenance minimum is even more clearly indicated," the report said.

The Aldrich Family celebrated its fifth anniversary on April 13 for it was on that date that the "family" was born in Clifford Goldsmith's literary comedy "What a life". Since that time Henry Aldrich has become America's favorite adolescent, as aired each Thursday by millions of American families and their Canadian neighbors. Although "The Aldrich Family" has made radio history right from the start, none of the original cast members remain. At present Henry is played by Norman Tokar, House Groom by Jackie Kelk, Mrs. Aldrich by House Jameson, Mrs. Aldrich by Katharine Raht and Henry's sister Mary by Mary Rolfe. When the fifth anniversary celebration loomed up the four girls who have played "Mary" since the Goldsmith comedy started on the air, got together with the author to blow out candles on the anniversary cake. Pretty Ann Lincoln is now starring the lucrative lead in "Life with Father" on Broadway; Mary Shipp is Henry's girl friend Barbara; Jean Ellyn, Aldrich episode; Charita Bauer has played leading and featured roles in two Broadway plays in the interim, as well as the title part in the CBS Mazzio's Diary, series. As for Mary Wickes, the fifth and present Mary who bears up under Henry's enthusiasm very well, thank you

PATTERN FOR DISASTER

BY J. B. RYAN

CHAPTER I

THE dining room was beginning to thin out when Chris Morgan, dawdling over a leisurely meal, finally made up his mind. He had carried out the assignment in Buenos Aires; the minutes had been few and in the dark that had found no mark. The only thing left for him to do was to return to the United States and report a complete lack of results to his superiors.

Another man, who also had just finished eating, stepped to the desk ahead of Morgan, and the American waited while the other man paid his bill. Da Nova, the manager of the Casa Grande, was serving as cashier, and he turned smilingly to Morgan as soon as he was free.

"I'm checking out tomorrow," said Morgan. "Have my bill ready and I'll settle up in the morning."

Abruptly Morgan turned around. While he had been speaking to De Nova the other customer had been moving toward the exit and as he crossed the floor there was about him something vaguely familiar that caught Morgan's attention.

Chris Morgan grinned to himself, then shrugged. He was quite a detective! The man was an utter stranger. That was what weeks of snooping did to a fellow: made him suspicious of everything, and everyone.

"Yes, I am leaving in the morning," Morgan faced De Nova once more. And once again he was conscious that his brows were knitting puzzledly. The tantalizing sense of familiarity would not down; in his mind's eye he saw the departed man once more, the well-built figure with the slightly rolling gait.

Morgan's head jerked for the second time. That was it! The man had the walk of a sailor and it was that walk that had evoked a sense of recognition within Lt. Christopher Morgan of the U.S. Navy. Was this a straw in the wind—a clue turning up at the very moment Morgan was preparing to abandon his quest?

ALREADY the fellow was gone—out in the street.

"Excuse me, senor," Morgan interrupted De Nova. "I've got to see a man about a dog." Then he turned away from the desk, and ran toward the street door. It would be just his luck for the man with the sailor's walk to have vanished by the time Morgan got outside.

He sidestepped a waiter without slackening speed, then pushed open the doorway his haste was such that he was unable to avoid a collision with a man on the point of entering the hotel.

The shoulders of the two men struck, but since it was Morgan who was moving the faster, the other man was bumped aside, to strike in turn against the man who was accompanying him.

"I beg your pardon," said Morgan, without slackening. The man he was seeking was up ahead, almost at the street corner. A man in a hurry, bent on Morgan's ear, and he halted, realizing that his haste had put the couple in the doorway; that the young woman had been bowled over completely.

The man, helping the girl to arise, paused to shake a fist at Morgan. With sudden dismay, the American realized that the man he had jostled was Colonel Miguel Velazquez y Cuyas and that the girl was Senorita Rosita, the colonel's niece. Intent on apologizing for his rudeness, he did an about-face and had taken one step back toward the hotel door when the man with the sailor's walk rounded the distant corner and passed out of sight.

The senorita, on her feet now, was being escorted into the hotel lobby. As though freeing himself from a vise, Morgan turned his back on the Casa Grande and hurried toward the street intersection, his overpowering desire had to be squelched under the sternest demands of duty.

He reached the corner barely in time to obtain a glimpse of his man shuttling through the pedestrians on this more crowded street. Morgan quickened his pace, venturing to close the gap between them, since there was no reason why the fellow should suspect that he was being shadowed. In the thickest portion of the crowd, Morgan lost sight of the man and when he had crossed through the press the fellow had disappeared. Morgan's swift stride became a scamper as he craned his neck in all directions for a sight of his quarry.

Then, unexpectedly, the square-shouldered man was on the sidewalk less than an arm's length away, tearing the top from a package of cigarettes. He had merely stepped in and out of a convenient tobacco shop. The man, a cigarette in his fingers, looked directly at the American just as Morgan was on the point of edging away.

"You have a match, senor?" he inquired.

Morgan nodded and extended his cigarette lighter. The square-shouldered man was blood of hair and flannel, and his Spanish was fluent to lose.

The cigarette lighted, the stranger returned the lighter, with a word of thanks. Morgan said, in German: "I'm not mentioned it, mein Herr."

The other's sandy eyebrows went up in surprise. "You are German?" he remarked politely. "I would hardly have thought it." His manner to step around Morgan, but the American reached out to grip his arm suddenly.

"I am not German." Morgan said curtly. "But I rather think you are."

Patiently, the man tried to free his imprisoned arm. "Suppose I am?" he said, with a tinge of asperity. "Aren't Germans welcome in this country?"

"Not when they enter as you did, mein Herr," said Morgan, tightening his hold. "I am from the Buenos Aires police. You will come with me for a word or two with Capt. Rojas."

The man seemed amused. "Very well, if you insist, senor. But I warn you that if you are inconveniencing me without cause I shall go hard with you, whoever you may be. I have friends in Buenos Aires."

"At the German embassy," Morgan, once more sure of his ground, grunted. "Even that outfit will have quite a time explaining the presence of a submarine commander in the capital of a neutral country."

A VOICE spoke at Morgan's elbow. "His friends are here, senor." And Morgan pressed against Morgan's touch the hard metal of a gun to the American's side. "You will unhand the gentleman."

Morgan was taken completely by surprise. The surprise enabled Pablo to twist out of Morgan's grasp. At the same time a third figure moved into Morgan's range of vision and a swinging fist crashed like a flung rock against Morgan's jaw.

When Morgan recovered from that blow to the chin, he was lying in the alley behind the tobacco store. Pablo and his companions were nowhere to be seen. He got up, thankful that the Germans had been content merely to sling him. His pockets were turned inside out, evidence that he had been searched. But Morgan had been warned from the beginning to carry no papers that would reveal his identity in such a case as this.

He must have been unconscious for some little time, for the crowded lobby of the Casa Grande was practically deserted when he returned to the hostelry. One of the first persons he met was De Nova, the manager.

"You found the man with the dog, senor?"

Morgan grinned. "False alarm. By the way, De Nova, I've changed my mind about leaving Buenos Aires. Just forget what I said about making up my bill."

A girl moved across the lobby in the direction of the elevator. Senorita Velasquez, the girl Morgan had spied in the doorway. Before the girl could step into the elevator, Morgan was at her side.

Even then she did not see him, and he was forced to touch her elbow. "Senorita," he said, clearing his throat.

She favored him with the blank stare only a South American lady can turn on a presumptuous stranger. "Do I know you, senor?"

"No," he said. "You see—" he stammered. "I am the fellow who bumped into you and your uncle—"

"Oh," she said, and a flush crept into her face. "Isn't it a trifle late to appear with your apologies, senor? You ran halfway down the street, then stopped to watch while others were compelled to help me up."

"Senorita—I—I was in a hurry—I did not have time—"

"America?" She had completed her survey of his features. "That explained everything, I presume. The Americans, then, knock a lady out of their paths when they are in their everlasting hurry to get somewhere?"

A short stocky man appeared beside the couple at the elevator and the girl turned to him. "I have been waiting, Uncle Miguel," she said in a voice dripped her hand through his arm. Together they moved off to the elevator, and disappeared.

Care Of The Piano

Pianos, Both Old And New Are Worthy Of Attention

With pleasure driving out, homes in town and country are coming into their own once more. The focal point of each living room and a source of entertainment is the piano. Old or new, large or small, it is worthy of the best possible care.

Piano experts say that a piano should not be placed near an open window or radiator. Swelling of the sounding board and rusting of nickel parts may occur.

From time to time it is advisable to clean the sounding board by inserting a soft dry cloth under the strings.

Moths have no love for music for without a thought they will damage the felts on the hammers. If the house is moth infested or during a period of storage, small bags of camphor suspended inside the piano will offer protection against the pests.

Keys can be cleaned with a cloth dampened very slightly with water, and wiped with a dry cloth. Some "piano lovers" prefer to use a little milk instead of water on the principle that it prevents the ivory from yellowing.

Cosmic Rays

Russian Expedition Has Made Valuable Contributions To Science

An expedition of the Institute of Physics of the Academy of Sciences of the USSR has returned to Moscow from the mountain peaks of the Eastern Pamirs, where a study has been made of the chemical and physical properties of cosmic rays.

For six months, at altitudes of five to six kilometers above sea level, the expedition studied the effect of cosmic rays on the splitting of the atomic nucleus. Experiments revealed that the splitting is effected by cosmic particles with an absolutely small amplitude of oscillation closely adjoining the ultra-violet part of the spectrum. —USSR Bulletin.

Montreal Man Too Old To Fly Doing Valuable Work

Keenly interested in planes but too old to fly, Ernest Boucher, 48, is providing the R.C.A.F. with model aircraft.

Hearing of the need for 50,000 model planes, he bought himself a model-building kit. His first plane, a Vought Sikorsky Vindicator, was delivered to air force headquarters in Montreal and he obtained plans for a Blohm and Voss 142. Five weeks later he returned with his second completed model, accurately constructed to scale. Then he got plans for a Junkers 88 and found that he is now busy on a model aircraft carrier.

Occupied Europe

Property Valued At Billions Of Dollars Taken By Nazis

German looting of Occupied Europe was pictured by the U.S. board of economic warfare as surpassing in "magnitude and ruthlessness" all previous conquests of history.

The board estimated Germany had plundered $36,000,000,000 by the end of 1941 and the rate since is accelerating into "tens of billions of dollars per year." It added: "Not only has wealth, accumulated over centuries, been carried back to Germany, but the industries, mine resources, and labor power of the occupied countries are under absolute German domination."

Its reports, the board said, show that armaments and other military equipment have been taken from all the vanquished armies of Europe.

Thousands of machines have been dismounted and moved to Germany, with laboratory and scientific equipment from the greatest institutes in Europe," the board reported. Horses, cattle, sheep, pigs and fats have been confiscated, public galleries and private collections stripped of art objects, and office furniture, park benches, and garden tools taken.

Describing Poland as the outstanding example of confiscation of public property, the board estimated the loot there at $2,000,000,000.

Military equipment from Austria and Czecho-Slovakia was traded to southeastern European countries for foodstuffs and raw materials, the report said, but was recovered later when Germany invaded those countries.

How Are Things At Home?

The preservation of the home is the essential foundation of our democratic way of life. All social classes from baronial castles to slum tenements have been made in defence of the home which remains the first line of defence both for faith and the social order. Yet today starvation, a materialistic view of life, separation and death, and deprivation of parental care are delivering mass attacks upon the home such as no other institution has been called upon to bear.

Hence the film issue of Queen Elizabeth appeal on April 11th in her broadcast message to the spiritual revitalization of our homes. "It is on the strength of our spiritual life," she declared, "that the right rebuilding of our national life depends. Our homes must be the place where it should start. It is the creative and dynamic power of Christian life which can help us to carry the moral responsibilities which history is placing on our shoulders."

The home, moreover, is the natural defence of the government as indeed it was one of the earliest forms of organization. All other civilized institutions are of minor importance to it. In this belief we differ with totalitarian nations wherein the home and its individuals are pawns subservient to an impersonalized state. When the moral force that emanates from a religious home leaves its effect, there is little for which we may hope. The community is simply a group of families; towns and cities and countries are groups of communities, all resting upon the home as their common base. To build the kind of home our country needs is a full time job for every one of us.

BEATLESS TUESDAYS TO CUT CONSUMPTION

OTTAWA. — Meatless Tuesdays will be commenced Tuesday, May 4, eliminating all meat dishes from the bill of fare in public restaurants in Canada, through recent regulations of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. Henceforth hamburgers and meat sandwiches will be off Tuesday's quick lunch menu.

Reduction of consumption of meat is the object of the new order officials of the ration administration state. Canadian shipments of meat to Britain, where Canadian armed forces as well as the civilian population is supplied must be maintained.

The order does not apply to use of meat in the home, but when meat rationing is launched in Canada meatless Tuesdays will help to prevent those who eat out from obtaining more meat than those who eat at home, or carry a lunch.

Hospitals and ships, and catering places for people engaged in manual labor are exempted from the order.

BOARD OF TRADE MEETS EVERY WEDNESDAY NOON

EVERYONE GETS FULL ALLOWANCE OF MEAT

Suggest "Stretchers" to Supplement Ration Plus Unrationed Substitutes

The proposed weekly meat ration of approximately two pounds per person, applies to every class in Canada and covers every age group. The advisory committee on nutrition, which was consulted before the rationing plan was finalized, was unanimously of the opinion that "dietetical rationing" of meat, on the basis of occupation, was unnecessary from the view-point of nutrition.

Two pounds of meat, plus customary amounts of milk, eggs, cheese, fish and poultry gives more protein from animal sources to satisfy nutritional requirements than is required for a person of any occupation and no extra rations of meat are necessary to keep Canadians healthy, according to the committee's report.

Consumption of meat must be cut but there are many "off-the-ration" meats which may be used to extend meat menus in homes across the Dominion.

Fish and poultry are not rationed, nor are the "fancy" meats such as liver, kidney and any cuts with more bone than meat.

Whether they dig ditches, build tanks, or sit at a desk all day, the proposed meat ration of approximately two pounds a week is more than enough to keep Canadians healthy, in the opinion of the country's leading nutrition experts.

WOODVALE

Spring is really here, but with no leaves out yet and threshing outfits working overtime everywhere one wonders sometimes, who rhymed in the cold winds, if this long winter will be followed by heat, and we're still in the late fall. Luckily there are the many birds, crocuses and longer days to remind us that warmer weather and summer is ahead of us. Threshing, we are told, is an picnic right now, what with the loose bunches which blow and scatter so easily in the wind and the thousands of more scurrying everywhere from under the stook with a preference for trousers legs, also quite a few mice make the one-way journey through the mill, coming out an hamburger, nicely mixed up with the grain.

Mrs. T. Hobbs came home on Thursday after almost two weeks in the hospital recovering from a bad case of flu and now Mrs. Roger Watt has been taken to the hospital. It seems this year that we have to most of hospital cases in almost every week. Hem.

Ruth and Jean Rankin, Verna Potter, Martha Sweeney and Kay Van Wanzeningen all were home from school for the Easter holiday. The Vegreville school division had quite a few days free for Easter and so the Goutier children stayed there.

Roger de Breville was a recent visitor to Edmonton.

Arnot Brown and family have now moved into the new home on the Ole Landjora place, which he bought a year ago.

Mrs. Alec Ross has come to live with her two little boys in the vacated Brown house for the duration probably, as her husband is overseas.

Mrs. Johnny Tattersall got kicked by a horse recently and needed quite a few stitches in her leg. Ruby, John and Gordon came to help her run the threshers are there.

Georgette Young rode out on her bike to spend the week end at home.

Marjorie Young after finishing her business course at Camrose, is working at the Imperial Bank of Canada in Dunalda.

Clifford Crocker spent a few days at his parents' home in Hindville.

A Red Cross meeting is scheduled for May 12 at Mrs. Proctor's home.

"By Jove, I am not covetous for gold nor care I who doth feed upon my cost; it yearns me not if men my garments wear; such outward things dwelt not in my desires; but if it be a sin to covet honour I am the most offending soul alive."

King Henry V, Part 1, Act 4, Scene 3.

Said King Henry V of England on the eve of an invasion of the continent of Europe five centuries ago. At Agincourt the arms of England won a victory that lives inscribed for evermore on the national scroll of honour. Today Shakespeare's words re-echo in our ears as we Canadians prepare to offer our wealth, our goods, our blood, in a cause more honourable than Henry's; more honourable than any that history has yet recorded. Do we, too, covet honour more than cost, more than gold, and outward things? Let it not be said that even the least one among us has failed to back the attack.

McMURRAY ASPHALT FOR ALBERTA ROADS

The Alberta government is rushing plans to obtain road oil supplies from McMurray, according to information given to the Alberta Motor Assn.

In order to keep Alberta's [illegible] it is necessary to obtain 1,500,000 gallons of asphaltic base oil will be needed this year.

Tests of the McMurray oil have been made at the University of Alberta and these have shown that the northern product is satisfactory for surfacing highways. It has a high asphalt content and no gathering material has to be mixed with sand or gravel, heated and then laid out. The material has been used on Edmonton streets and given good results.

Meantime, the province has revealed some of its major building plans for this year. In the south the highway to Carleton will be shortened by three miles and an overpass or some system will be made. The large highway between Edmonton and Lloydminster also will be improved particularly in the vicinity of Mosburn.

Just what volume of M.M.'s oil will be available to the province will depend on what is required for military purposes, but a considerable amount for the various grades, is expected to be available.

THE WORLD OF WHEAT

By H. G. L. Strange
Director, Research Department, Security Grain Co., Ltd.

TREATING SEED GRAIN

Farmers I suggest should be very careful this year in the treatment of certain seed grain, particularly flax and oats. From all that one can find out wheat and barley seem to be germinating well this year, and to have strong vitality it might therefore be quite proper, if desired, to treat wheat and barley this year with formaldehyde, but if this is used the farmer must be absolutely certain that the solution is no stronger than recommended by the manufacturer as stated in the directions on the package, for a very little extra strength in the solution will certainly lower germination.

Flax and oats, however, I suggest should be treated this year only with mercurial dust if cream of Lycopodium [illegible] some of the [illegible] are [illegible] germination of [illegible] tests [illegible] germination [illegible] germination [illegible] germination

Wartime Adjustments

TO THE AVERAGE CITIZEN in Canada, it often appears that life under wartime conditions is becoming increasingly complex. The farmer faces many problems arising from the shortage of labour, scarcity of new equipment, and marketing difficulties. In most urban centres there exist acute housing shortages, congestion of public transportation systems and numerous other inconveniences. Civilians find that troop trains, and shipments of war materials hold priorities on our railroads, and rationing and the income tax might also be added to that list of inconveniences. Canadians at home bear all this cheerfully, as their part in the winning of the war, but it would be well for us to consider occasionally the effort that many of our business institutions are making to minimize the wartime complexities. It is well known that the railways are doing magnificent work in giving full support to the war effort, and at the same time curtailing their regular service as little as possible. In the same way, the Canadian banks are doing much to assist in solving the problems of wartime restric-

Bankers Helped By New System In this connection it is interesting to consider the newly organized service of the banks in collecting and checking ration coupons. On March 1, of this year, a system of "ration banking" was inaugurated which will mean a great saving in time and labour to dealers in rationed goods, and to large institutions who handle quantities of ration cards. Under the new system does not affect the consumer in any way, the details of the plan will not be of great general interest. Consumers will continue to give their coupons to their retailers when purchasing rationed goods. However, dealers must keep strict count of rationed goods exceed $5,000, and others who handle large numbers of coupons may now open "ration accounts" at their banks. In these accounts they may deposit the coupons they take in, and receive from the banks vouchers which will be negotiable for renewing their supplies of rationed foods.

* * * * *

Review is Given In Bank Report In a recent report issued by the Royal Bank of Canada, a review of this new plan is given. It is pointed out that this method is now used in Great Britain and in the United States, and that it is generally agreed that the banks are particularly fitted to undertake this service. Something of the magnitude of the work which rationing involves, and of the way in which the banks are helping to simplify it, is contained in the following paragraph from the report: "It is estimated that butter rationing alone involves the use by Canadian consumers of approximately ten million coupons a week. When it is remembered that this is not the only commodity rationed, and that each coupon had to be transferred three or four times in the process of controlling trade at various levels, the magnitude of the problem becomes clear. The checking and rechecking of the individual coupons at every stage, and the actual handling of millions of small pieces of paper had become an additional burden upon the available manpower of the country." In assisting to cut down the work of business concerns in this manner, the banks are rendering an important wartime service

Crown Is Liable

For readers interested in the English language, we beg to report that a new expression has been coined in Chicago. "Impeccadistication". Its meaning is evident: a tasteful word, no doubt, but we hope its life will be a gay and short.

His Great Hope

General Montgomery Wants To Meet Rommel In A Pasture

Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery hopes to meet Nazi Field Marshal Erwin Rommel—"as a pasture"—and probably will follow up his capture by being in the forefront of any European invasion, Lady Montgomery, the British general's mother, said.

Lady Montgomery was interviewed at her home, an old fashioned Georgian mansion on the shores of Lough Foyle, county Donegal, Eire. She spoke proudly of her famous son, whose pictures, along with those of his four brothers, adorn the walls.

"I read the newspapers anxiously every day," she said. "I look for the news of the deeds of my boy's gallant Eighth Army. He writes me often from the desert and I know his great ambition is to meet Rommel as a pasture."

Bernard loves the army. From the time he was a small boy he wanted to be a soldier. He is hard as nails but very religious—which is understandable since his father was a bishop."

Lady Montgomery's sons are scattered over the world. Bedden the general in North Africa, one is an army chaplain in Durban, another is manpower director on Bevin, another is a regular army officer and the youngest, Col. Brian Montgomery is in India.

The Montgomery family have been landlords in Eire since the middle of the 18th century.

Co-operation Needed

If Losses From Forest Fires Are To Be Kept Down

Fewer forest visitors meant fewer forest fires last year, but fewer men to fight such fires as occurred. Answers when blazes did start, the resources department said in appealing for public co-operation in keeping down fire losses this year.

Last year's forest fire damage and costs of fighting fires were estimated at $3,550,191, against an average of $3,378,122 for the past 10 years. The area burned over was 1,538,471 acres against a 10-year average of 2,438,668.

"The number of fires was less than the average for the previous decade in all provinces," said the department.

"However, in spite of the reduced number of fires, British Columbia, Saskatchewan and Nova Scotia reported the areas burned and the acre plus damage to be very considerable above normal. This may be explained as the result of a reduction in skilled staff and a shortage of manpower for fire-fighting due to the war effort."

Car Batteries

Storage Batteries Have Long Life If Properly Looked After

Many automobile owners are prone to neglect their car batteries. For this reason the question arises why should always receive consideration. Consumer Information Service says a battery should last an average of two years on a passenger car. Then it will be driven to a garage, where its life will be in proportion to its use. On the other hand, neglect invariably shortens battery life, and frequently is the cause of premature failures.

Under the limited driving conditions of today, all car owners should have their car batteries thoroughly checked every two weeks. The service station attendant should be asked to add distilled water if necessary, and definite reading of the specific gravity and record it. Any indication of electrical discharge should immediately suggest to the car owner that the battery be removed for a thorough recharge. A check should be made of the electrical system of the car to determine whether the charging rate is sufficient to maintain a constant state of full charge under the driving condition or habits of the individual owner

That's why it's so important to avoid the common type of constipation caused by lack of "bulk" in the diet. And do it by getting right at the cause instead of "doing in" with harsh purgatives that give only temporary relief. Just follow this simple plan. Eat KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN every day! GARDEN NOTES

When Vegetables Are Really Fresh

There is no substitute for the really fresh quality of vegetables grown at the door and picked when they reach just the right stage of maturity. Such have a flavor all their own. But there are plenty of people with big gardens that do not enjoy as much of this freshness as they should. With them there are a few meals of green peas, baby carrots and beets, new potatoes and corn, and that is all. Either the rows are finished or else there is nothing left but peas, beans and corn which should have been eaten days or weeks before.

With a little planning, however, these people could have had really fresh vegetables coming on all through the summer. There is time yet to achieve this. First, the second planting in any row, and one over several weeks. In most parts of Canada it is still not too late to sow many beans carrots, corn, beets and many other vegetables. Intensive making at least three sowings of practically all vegetables. A second way to extend the season is to use more different types. In practically every line it is now possible to get an early, medium and late maturing kind. By sowing all three one automatically extends the harvesting season.

Cultivation

Killing weeds is only one of the functions of good cultivation. Of equal importance is the stirring up of the soil to prevent packing of it, and to check evaporation of valuable moisture. In the dryer sections of Canada the latter point is vital. By breaking up the surface we produce a blanket which checks the capillary action or upward movement of moisture to the top of the soil surface where it might be evaporated by the sun.

Hot Weather Hints

To keep grass, flowers and vegetables coming along all through the hot summer, there are three or four points that the old gardener never overlooks. If one has a supply of water and a hose, of course the job is easy. One good soaking a week will keep things green and growing. A little garden fertilizer applied carefully according to directions is also helpful. Some people use mulch of strawy manure, grass clippings and such things. Cultivation will be found a most useful help. This will conserve moisture and keep growth moving even in very dry weather.

FAIR ENOUGH

"So you and your neighbor are not on speaking terms?"

"No, all diplomatic relations are suspended."

"How did it happen?"

"My neighbor used me a can of oil to use on my lawn-mower when I started to cut the grass at 6 a.m."

"What did you do about it?"

"I sent it back and told him to use it on his wife when she started to sing at 11 a.m."

Frederick J. Fowler, of Malmsbury, Wiltshire, England, a farmer, who married Miss Elizabeth Johnson, a farmer's daughter six miles away, was fined about $30 for wasting gasoline.

GEMS OF THOUGHT

CONSCIENCE

Conscience is the reason, employed about questions of right and wrong, and accompanied with the sentiments of approbation or condemnation.—Wharton.

A tender conscience is an insensible blessing; that is, a conscience of the soul is very quick to discern what is evil, but instantly to shun it, as the eyelid closes itself against the mote. —Nehemiah Adams.

It is far more important to me to preserve an unblemished conscience than to compass any object however great.—Channing.

God has endowed man with inalienable rights, among which are self-government, reason, and conscience.—Mary Baker Eddy.

Conscience tells us that we ought to do right, but it does not tell us what right is—that we are taught by God's word.—H. C. Trumbull.

A conscience void of offense, before God and man, is an inheritance for eternity.—Daniel Webster.

VICTORY BONDS

Dr. Wheeler says:

"If Canadians were asked to give money to help to win the war we would not be asked to make a big sacrifice. Some are giving their lives. We are asked to lend money. I am sure that farmers throughout Canada will be glad to lend money to their country, for like all other Canadians, they know we must do all we can to help.

"There is a practical reason for buying Victory Bonds, too. The money we lend to Canada now, to help to win the war, will be ours to use as we please after the war has been won. Ready cash will be handy to have when we will want to replace farm equipment that is wearing out now. A farmer can always find a use for savings, and there is no better way to save than by investing all we can in Victory Bonds."

Dr. Seager Wheeler was born in England, "the Wizard of Saskatchewan" spent his early years as a clerk in the Bank of Commerce. In 1888 he emigrated to Canada, and homesteaded north of Rosthern where he learned the elements of farming. In 1900 he was attracted to the Northern district where he purchased, for less than one thousand dollars, the 160 acre farm on which he celebrated successive wins which made his name a household word in Western Canada and overseas.

One of his initial achievements was producing 40 bushels of wheat to the acre on these inches of rainfall.

In 1911 he scored one of his greatest successes when, with a bushel of Marquis wheat, he won the "world's championship" at the New York land show, and was awarded the prize of $1,000 offered by Sir Thomas Haughmeny. In 1914 and 1915 he won similar honors, and earned for himself the appellation "The World's Champion Wheat Grower".

For his services to Canadian agriculture, Seager Wheeler was honored in 1918 by a doctor of laws degree conferred by Queen's University.

WHAT A VICTORY BOND IS:

A Victory Bond is the promise of the Dominion of Canada to repay in cash the full face value of the Bond at the time stipulated, with half yearly interest at the rate of 2½ per cent per annum. Victory Bonds are issued in denominations of $50, $100, $500, $1,000, $5,000 and $10,000. Canada has been strong bonds for 75 years, and has never failed to pay every dollar of principal and interest. A Victory Bond is an asset more readily converted into cash than any other security

Tailored on the lines of the recently re-designed blue uniform, it is of khaki cotton (no collar pin, in summer), black tie and oxfords, blue cap and shoulder bag, khaki stockings. In The Aleutians

Wild Bird Life Said To Be Flying In Formation To Imitate Planes

Even the wild-life in the Aleutians had been militarized, according to Capt. Aaron Blewitt, of Cul De Sac, Idaho, company commander of a unit camped in a wild valley on the slopes of an Aleutian volcano.

"Since our arrival here," Captain Blew it said, "the blue foxes have learned to stand in the chow line and the ravens are beginning to fly in military formations."

The men in Captain Blewitt's company support his assertions that the fat, playful, highly intelligent ravens imitate the manoeuvres of fighter planes based in the Aleutians. They maintain that the birds act only by in echelons and peel off in attack dives but they also occasionally poke fun at the air corps by making extremely bumpy and unbridled landings

"But the best stunt they have pulled off here," Captain Blewitt said, "was when they gave our terrier mascot a shellacking. They circled over him in an echelon of echelons and came down one at a time, clawing the pup and whacking him so hard with their beaks that half the company had to knock off work to rescue him."

Wartime Meals

How To Overcome Shortages And Rationing Of Food

Adequate wartime meals can be prepared in spite of shortages and rationing of food.

The dietetic study points out that with a plentiful supply of cereal foods and a fair supply of milk, potatoes and vegetables, the average family can maintain a vigorous diet, even if further cuts in rationed foods become necessary.

Here are some ways nutrition experts suggest to vary wartime menus:

Use muffins, johnny-cake and other quick breads in place of standard dark and enriched white breads.

For breakfast, alternate cooked cereals with ready cooked package cereals.

Serve a tray of attractive sandwiches for lunch or dinner.

"Hiberty" meat and fish croquettes, meat loaves, hash and stews with bread crumbs, oatmeal, soy flour.

Puff up toast with ginger, nutmeg, cinnamon or honey and syrup.

Fill out your meals with bread puddings, rice puddings and cereal "brown betty."

Work milk and cottage cheese into as many of your dishes as you can.

The praying palm of Pariapore, India, bowed down each evening as the temple bells were calling the people to prayer. It was later found that temperature was responsible for the peculiar actions of the tree.

Bread baked on Christmas never becomes stale, according to an old superstition.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

MAY 9

PETER AND JOHN LEADERS IN THE EARLY CHURCH

Golden text: Now when they beheld the boldness of Peter and John, and had perceived that they were unlearned and ignorant men, they marvelled; and they took knowledge of them, that they had been with Jesus—Acts 4:13.

Lesson: Acts 2:37-41; 3:1-8; 4:13, 18-21.

Devotional reading: Psalm 33:12-22.

Explanations and Comments

The Day of Pentecost, and the Conversion of Jews From Many Countries, Acts 2:1-13.

Peter's Sermon, Acts 2:14-36.

Peter's Exhortations and Its Result, Acts 2:37-41. Peter's words about the Christ were convincing to his hearers, and his home thrust at their consciences—"Ye did crucify and slay" pricked their hearts, convicted them of their sin, and they cried, "Brethren, what shall we do?" How can we be forgiven for our guilt?

They must not only repent of their sins, but they must change their opinion of Jesus Christ, Peter told them; the one whom they had regarded as a false Christ they must accept as the true Christ; and they must acknowledge this by being baptized, and then they would receive the gift of the Holy Spirit.

"For to you is the promise, and to your children," Peter further told them, "and to all that are afar off." A footnote in the new Catholic Bible states that "to them that are far off" meant the Gentiles, but Peter at this time had not had his vision of clean and unclean and it seems more natural to refer the phrase to the Jews that were scattered at a distance. His hearers heeded his words and there were added unto them in that day about three thousand souls.

Peter Heals a Lame Man at the Door of the Temple, Acts 3:1-8. Nine in the morning and three in the afternoon were the hours for sacrifice and prayer in the temple; it was the ninth hour, three o'clock in the afternoon, when Peter and John went one day to the temple to pray. At the door of the temple called Beautiful they saw a man about forty years of age, one of all worshippers. The man had been lame from birth, and as he was daily carried to that spot to beg, he must have been well known to all in Jerusalem. "He was part of the city landscape, the people knew him as they knew the curved cornice of the temple doorway."

The man was not expecting alms from every worshipper, and probably glanced indifferently at Peter and John. To rivet his attention upon them and arouse his expectations, Peter said to him, "Look on us." Then the beggar gave heed to them, doubtless expecting to receive of them coins. But Peter said to him, "Silver and gold have I none; but what I have, that give I thee. In the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth, walk."

Immediately the man's feet and ankle-bones received strength; he leaped up and began to walk, and entered the temple with the apostles, all the time leaping and praising God.

Oranges have long been known for their Vitamin C content. Research workers now tell us that red currant juice has just as much of this vitamin, and black currant juice has twice as much.

Health League of Canada presents TOPICS of VITAL INTEREST

V FOR VEGETABLES

"Grow the fighting foods at home
It's a job we all can do.
The 'Feather' foods will do you good
And you'll help your country, too."

That jingle may not be the last word in poetry . . . but it's sound advice reprinted from a Victory Garden poster designed by nutrition and gardening experts for the Health League of Canada. Never before have vegetables in your back garden meant so much to Canada . . . and to your health.

Gardening is patriotic. Government authorities say that supplies of certain commercially grown vegetables will be limited this year. Manpower and transportation are twin headaches. Large quantities of canned vegetables are being sent overseas to our men in uniform and the people of the United Kingdom. All of which means that we should grow our own vegetables if we want to make sure of an adequate supply. By so doing, we will release valuable man hours for more essential purposes.

Gardening is fun. Once gardening gets into your blood it's there to stay. Not only is it a hobby packed full of interest but it contributes to your sense of health and well-being. The fresh air of the out-of-doors and the healthy exercise are of great value, particularly to the man who sits at an office desk all day

Vegetables you can grow at home . . . carrots, spinach, peas and tomatoes, are loaded with vitamins and minerals which will give you energy. Beside these you can try your hand at cabbage, beans, onions, and lettuce. Interested? You can get additional information from your federal or provincial agriculture departments.

Let's make our slogan this spring: "Vegetables for Victory."

BAD FOR DICTATORS

Mussolini has been ordered by his oculist, Professor Lenzelni, to wear glasses. The increasing strain on his eyes has damaged his eyesight, which is rapidly deteriorating. Mussolini has always prided himself on having good eyesight. It therefore remains to be seen whether he will have courage to wear the glasses in public. For dictators, glasses are a sign of fading powers

British Women Assist In Collection Of Herbs For Medicinal Purposes

In Britain many women's organizations, particularly Women's Institutes, aside from their regular wartime jobs, are assisting in the collection of herbs which may be used for medicinal purposes. These herbs are collected to take the place of those formerly imported from territories now under enemy control.

As well as herb collection, during the year 1941-1942, two hundred tons of rose hips were collected and made into vitamin-giving syrup for the use of Britain's youngest fry—the babies and children. In round figures this meant picking about 134,000,000 individual rose hips. These produced nearly 600,000 bottles of the syrup.

World Still Rolling

In Spite Of Prophecy Made Over Four Hundred Years Ago

In 1526 a French Jew by the name of Michel de Notre Dame or as now commonly called, Nostradamus, penned one of his celebrated prophecies. He forecast that the world would come to an end when Good Friday fell on April 23, Easter on April 25 and the Feast of Corpus Christi on June 24. This year fulfilled these conditions! But another fact also stands clear. The same sequence occurred in the Year of Relative Grace 1886—and the world has kept on rolling without substantial let or hindrance during the intervening 57 years

RUN OF MISS T. DAVIS IS MISSING OVERSEAS

Sgt. Morris Westman in Heroic Action in Mediterranean

Sgt. Morris Westman, captain of an R.A.F. torpedo carrying aircraft, stationed at Malta, has been reported missing as from April 29th. He is a son of Mrs. F. Davis of Vermilion. On April 27th Sgt. Westman received special mention in despatches from Malta. The despatch on that occasion read as follows:

"Valetta, Malta, April 27.—An air court manned by Canadians has just concluded with flying echoes from one of the tightest scrapes that this island and its enemy infested environs have produced for some time.

The crew consists of Sgt. Robert Morris Westman, captain of an R.A.F. torpedo-carrying aircraft; Sgt. Daniel Somers, second pilot; Sgt. Donald Cameron, navigator; Sgt. Gordon Banks, wireless operator air gunner; Sgt. R.C.F. Palmer and Sgt. Bob Grasley, also wireless operator air gunners.

Westman, brought up near Kenaston, Sask., came to the air force from a mining job at Mayo Landing, Yukon Territory. His wife lives at Smiley, Sask., and his mother, Mrs. F. Davis at Vermilion, Alta.

Their aircraft was one of a number sent out to seek and attack an enemy convoy of two large steamships and three destroyer escorts between Sardinia and Sicily. It was a very black night and they came right in between two of the destroyers and were immediately caught in a cross fire from the three destroyers. In a few moments the plane was a flying mass, hydraulics went completely. The wheels flopped down and stayed down. The flaps were knocked out of commission and holes appeared everywhere. One engine started to cut out. Their torpedo was laid at the leading merchant vessel and all direct hit scored.

"Westman turned the rocking engine and coaxed the battered old plane 200 miles back to Malta. How he ever did it is not known but he managed to bring the wreck in for a perfect landing."

It was only two days after the above heroic exploit that Westman was reported missing. Hope is held out he will turn up safe and sound.

Effective Pensions to Be Added

The Federal government proposes to amend the Farmers' Credits Act in such a way that every farmer in Western Canada who is an efficient food producer and who is in debt will be protected by a virtual moratorium. The idea behind the amendment to the act is that farmers in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta who are doing a good job in producing food will not be dispossessed of their lands through the process of debt for foreclosure. Farming is recognized as an essential industry.

In case, province two judges will head boards on which will be representatives of debtors and creditors. These boards will have the power to adjust debts.

RENE M. HAWES, C.W.A.C. PROMOTED TO MAJOR

Posted To Ste. Anne de Bellevue

Effective today, the promotion to the rank of major of Captain Renee M. Hawes, C.W.A.C., has been announced at headquarters Military District No. 12.

Miss Hawes is now posting to Ste. Anne de Bellevue, P.Q., where she will be Officer Commanding No 1 C.W.A.C. (A) T.C.

Major Hawes has a quite teaching-military history already. She enlisted in Vancouver for active service Sept. 17, 1941, and after promotion to rank of sergeant was commissioned in October and received her full lieutenancy in December. She was platoon commander in Vancouver and Victoria, and just over a year ago took an administrative course at Ste. Anne de Bellevue.

In July 1942, she took charge of the C.W.A.C. Depot Training Centre at Vancouver. In the autumn of that year she was promoted to the rank of captain a month later.

Last fall she was posted overseas, and returned from England only last month.

Prior to her enlistment in the C.W.A.C. she organized in Vancouver in 1939 the Canadian Women's Training Corps, which is now defunct. When she left them, there were eleven detachments with a membership of about four thousand, British Columbia.

Her life previous to the war has played its part in fitting her for the position she will now occupy. Born in London, England, she has lived abroad for a number of years, and has travelled extensively all over the world.

CHILDREN GET MEAT RATION

Meat rationing in Canada affects every Canadian equally, "from the Queen to the Cadet," Martins Priest and Trade Board announcements have shown. Infants will be entitled to their weekly ration because meat enters into their diet after they are a few months old.

HEAVY RAIN TUESDAY STOPS THRESHING, SPRING WORK

Heavy rain on Tuesday amounting to .80 inches stopped all threshing and seeding which were in full progress throughout the district. Much winds over the week end were also proving a hindrance to threshing operations.

Threshing will not be fully closed up here for two weeks. A dribble of threshing is being carried on here from other districts where the harvest work has been completed.

Farmers think that acreage for wheat will be greatly reduced due to late seeding and the consensus of opinion is that practically all wheat planted will be on summerfallow.

Growth so far has been very slow due to the cool weather and frosty nights.

MORE FARM MACHINERY

A recent government announcement states that an increase in the production of certain farm implements of 15 per cent is to be put into force. The original order provided that the manufacture of farm implements should be restricted to 25% of the 1940 figure. Now 25% of the 1940 figure will be allowed in the case of well pumps, pressure systems, grain grinders, milking machines, cream binders and combine harvesters. General restrictions' repair replacements will be increased from the figure of 150% to 165%.

Even in the face of this announcement it is no assurance that farmers can obtain these machines. The manufacturers have a hard time to get steel and the total supply is still far short of normal demand. Only the most essential needs can be taken care of.

A $100 Victory Bond will maintain a soldier in Canada for nearly three weeks, or for two weeks overseas. Buy all you can!

WILDMERE WINKS

W. wish to extend congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Alex Smith, who were married last Friday evening in Vermilion. Alex is one of our district boys, and his wife is a former Auburn dale girl. Best wishes go to them from all their many friends for a long and happily wedded life. They will live in Edmonton.

Sgt. Norman Smith of Edmonton and Miss Mary Sonder of Bon Accord attended the Smith-Cleland wedding. They spent Saturday at the A. Smith home in Wildmere returning to their respective duties on Sunday morning.

Threshing is still going ahead on our way. If weather holds it should see the finish this week. Lots of folks will be plenty late enough getting their crop in.

Here is an item we are very pleased to send in: The eight pupils at our school had bought up till Easter, 215 War Savings stamps amounting to $89.50. Real good for such a few children we'd say.

Bachelor assault: Geo. Swafford out working on his summerfallow; The Monaghan Bros., Islay, buying seed oats from J. Wallington; Mr. and Mrs. A. Rendell of the Riley home on Sunday and T. Best at the same home. Mrs. G. Cruthers and Child visiting H. Phillips at Heinsburg over the week end, bringing back Mrs. Cruthers grand-daughter Leona Phillips for the summer; Andy Carlson threshing for Mrs. Stranahan, Bellevview last week; Mrs Wm. Frizzell and daughter Carl visiting at the Paddon home for a few days; Mr. and Mrs. J. Batke and family visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ken Islen Sunday; Mr. J. Reid, Victory Island salesman out through our district this week; David Dibben working at Burns creamery in Vermilion; Pte Tommy Riley made a hurried visit to his home on Saturday April 24th.

A REAL BIG ONE

Mrs. J. Wallington on gathering eggs the other day got a hen's egg that measured 7 inches one way and eight the other and weighs one-quarter of a pound.

Every year more and more poultry raisers are proving the effectiveness of Wampole's Hyprol as a dependable preventative and remedy for white diarrhoea in baby chicks. A small amount daily in the drinking fountains may save you the loss of many valuable chicks. Do not put Hyprol in metal containers. Get a 25c or 50c bottle here today. Long's Drug Store, Vermilion.

Empire Youth Sunday May 16th

Will be Observed by Vermilion Air Cadets

Empire Youth Sunday has grown out of the Empire Youth Movement which was born partly of the enthusiasm accompanying the Coronation of Their Majesties in 1937. Its aim is to unite and to inspire the youth of the Empire in the service of life-giving ideals. One of its purposes is to inspire youth to a greater appreciation of spiritual values and a readier sense of responsibility for the building of that new world order which youth everywhere demands and for which so many are valiantly dying and dying.

We know the strength and sacrifice which springs from the devotion of youth to an ideal. That the devotion of youth be not misplaced and that they follow a sound patriotism based on Christian principles a Youth Sunday has been named. This year it is May 16. On this day youth all over the world in the British Commonwealth of Nations and in the United States will consecrate themselves to those things that are "true, honest, just, pure, lovely and of good report".

The inauguration of the Empire Youth Movement was due to Canadian initiative. It is Canada's privilege to take the lead in this great movement to develop a spiritual fellowship which seeks the service of mankind. Vermilion is observing Empire Youth Sunday.

The Cadets in observance of the day are parading to First United church. Cadets kindly meet at the Memorial hall at 7:15 p.m.

Victory Loan Over the Top

THE TRAINING CENTRE VICTORY BOND DRIVE

To date the Training Centre is well over its quota and still moving ahead. We are proud to report that we have three Honour Subscription Units — No. 7 Platoon of "D" Company, Vermilion Military Hospital and the Officers. That means they have attained an average of $20 per girl and that at least 75% of the personnel have subscribed to the loan. In the case of the Hospital Staff and the Officers 100% have pledged their help and the others are all working with that figure in mind.

With $4000 as our quota we have already reached $16,050.

So, it's "ON TO VICTORY".

BYE-ELECTION FOR TOWN COUNCILLORS TUESDAY, MAY 25th

Two Vacancies — Nomination Day May 18th

By-election to fill two vacancies on the Council of the town of Vermilion will be held on Tuesday May 25th. Nominations are from 11 a.m. to 12 noon on Tuesday next, May 18.

The two vacancies on the council were created by the resignations of Capt. W.H. Scott who was transferred and James J. Part who has been appointed secretary-treasurer of the town. Capt. Scott's term has nearly two years to run and Mr. Part's practically three years.

CITIZENS URGED TO INCREASE GARDEN SPACE

Storage Facilities To Be Provided

The Agricultural committee of the Board of Trade, which is the Victory Garden committee for the town, urges all citizens to increase their garden space wherever possible. The demand for vegetables this fall will be terrific and already huge orders have been placed for the armed forces of both the U.S. and Canada. The demand is going to be tremendous and if you do not grow your own vegetables it is very likely that you and your family will go without.

The matter of storage space is now being fully investigated by the committee and this problem will be solved long before the vegetables are ready to be gathered in. However, be as independent as possible and try to provide storage for your own garden produce. If you haven't a basement perhaps your neighbor has ample room in his. Much can be effected by a little co-operation.

Chas. W. Hudson Scott, D. D. S. James J. Part, resigned

THE VICTORY LOAN CAMPAIGN

First Unit with Quota of Over $100,000 to Achieve Objective

The Vermilion Unit of the Fourth Victory Loan Campaign, with the increased quota of $130,000, sprang into prominence throughout Western Canada last week end by reaching 94% of the amount requested at the time of the official report at five o'clock on Saturday May 8th; by midnight the entire quota had been subscribed and Vermilion Unit thereby was enabled to claim the distinction of being the first unit in Alberta, with a quota of more than $100,000 to attain the objective.

Hard work on the part of the loan representatives and the ready cooperation of the people of the entire district made this desirable situation possible and the thanks of the committee responsible for the organization for the loan is extended to district residents for their help.

Mayor Morrison, in Calgary on business, telegraphed his congratulations on learning of the fine attainment of the Unit.

H. C. Hockbert, Unit organizer, when interviewed by the Standard, expressed his appreciation of the work done by G.J. Algar, Frank Irwin and Norman Morrison in the Derwent sub-unit with only two and one-half months in which to complete their campaign these workers demonstrated early in the game that they intended to secure their quota of $10,000; at the time of writing this has been well over-subscribed and it is estimated that they have not covered their entire area.

Messrs. E.A. Mercer, A.E. Williams, George Pheasey and R. W. Sinden, responsible for the important subunit of the Manville district, have also achieved outstanding success and once again placing Vermilion Unit in the front rank in securing money for Canada as the district has been on the forefront in providing men to serve the attack against the aggressor nations.

Our hats are off to Manville, to Derwent, to Derwent sub-unit and loyal people of the district for their continued support of all that leads to Victory.

BRIDGE DAMAGED

High Waters [illegible] Buttress [illegible] Unit Traffic

The steel girder bridge over the Vermilion river, which was washed out on Tuesday, May 4, when water from the spring freshet overflowed the valley is now open for traffic, the water remaining high longer than at any time in memory.

While the bridge has dropped some two feet on the north end, it is still passable and is being used, although loaded trucks are warned against crossing. George Cocks was put as guardsman and at 7 p.m. Wednesday had put in 24 hours straight on the job of parring travellers of the dangerous condition existing there.

The water apparently undermined the huge cement buttresses on the north end, causing these to drop and break badly, and the whole north end of the bridge fell some two feet. Considerable of the dirt approach from the north has been washed away and the gap thus caused has been bridged by heavy timbers. Practically every Vermilion river crossing from Vegreville east to the junction, has been out this spring with the exception of the one here and it finally succumbed. Fortunately some of the crossings to the east and west are usable in use.

The present bridge was built in 1912, back in the horse and buggy days.

Road superintendent Ritchie of the Provincial Dept. of Public Works was very much on the job being here early Wednesday morning and on Thursday the Department had an experienced bridge gang effecting temporary repairs. Permanent repairs will be made as soon as the waters return to their normal level.

MORE HONEY PRODUCTS BY DISTRICT FARMERS

District Agriculturist R.H. Bonnycastle was very busy this week handling out package bees. Vermilion farmers obtained enough bees for 73 hives. Mr. R. Khabbaby has been in the bee business for some years and will have seven hives this year. Other orders were mostly for one or two packages. Mr. A. G. Sinclair, C. N.R agent, has located 25 hives along the river bank. It would appear that there will be plenty of honey around Vermilion next fall.

The Unanswerable Argument

The principal appeal for support to the victory loan does not lie in the safety of the investment, in the 2 per cent interest paid, nor in the fact that the bulk of the money goes back to workers and farmers in payment for armaments and food.

The real appeal lies in the fact that hundreds of thousands of Canadian boys are in the fighting forces. They need the best weapons and the best food that we can give them. This can only be provided through the loaning of our money to the government.

This is the one appeal that should have a strong effect on Canadian people. It is the unanswerable argument.

DEATH OF FRANK LAWES

A letter received by the editor from Eastend, contained the announcement of the death at the home of his sister, Mrs. Julia Brown, "Oakhurst", Nettleheil, Bushby - on - Thames, on March 27th of Frank Lawes, aged 80 years.

Mr. Lawes was one of Vermilion's pioneer settlers, locating in the Wellsdale district in 1906 where he and Mrs. Lawes resided for many years, later moving to Vermilion, where they made their home. After the death of Mrs. Lawes, he returned to England in 1938.

The many old friends and acquaintances of the deceased here will learn with deep regret of his passing.

The following extract is taken from the Nettleheil Church Magazine;

March 27th—Frank Lawes, aged 80 years.

IN MEMORIAM

FRANK LAWES—Returning to this country from Canada in 1930, after the death of his wife, he had been an active member of our Church and also of the Parochial Church Council until compelled by disability from attending. His rugged, honest, yet always kindly personality was a tribute to that hard life which had to be faced by all in those early days in Canada, and he never tired in telling of all the difficulties and hardships that had been to be contended with, particularly with regard to religious life and how by acting as practical "fellow workers with God," building their own churches, serving in days of Faith, in their duty to God and to their neighbour, they overcame all obstacles. We can be thankful for the witness of his life and that he allotted span completed he has passed peacefully in his sleep on to the presence of his Master. R. I. P.

Our sympathy goes out to his sister and her family in their loss.

Pattern For Disaster

BY J. B. RYAN

CHAPTER II.

"YOU will be careful, Senor Morgan?" suggested the manager. "Colonel Velasquez was quite angry when you collided with him in the doorway. If you will tell me where you left the hotel in such a hurry, perhaps I could smooth out this little misunderstanding."

Morgan eyed the man sharply. Was this a natural desire to be helpful, or was De Nova fishing for information. After all, if Pfahls was a subversive commander, he had come to the Casa Grenada to contact the spy ring Washington was certain existed in the building. Had De Nova whispered a message to Pfahls while the German had been paying his bill?

"Cruzan," said Morgan, "I prefer to talk to Colonel Velasquez myself." He left the lobby to enter the dining room, and regretfully he related now that he had noted just which waiter had served the German, on just which patrons of the Casa Grenada he might have spoken.

The dining room was practically deserted, for it was the slack period of the siesta hour. The waiters were all off duty; only De Nova being present to care for such infrequent patrons that might turn up at this time of day.

Only one table was occupied; that by a tall individual whom Morgan knew to be one Don Pablo Guilleno, a retired music teacher. Don Pablo was eccentric and morose, and not the above suspicion. But Morgan was certain that no one had not been seated in the dining room when Commander Pfahls had been there. If Pfahls had secured any information, it had not come from the musician.

Morgan stepped into the dining room and his face lighted up at sight of the American. "Ah, Senor Morgan," he exclaimed, "you will share my table, no?"

Morgan could not refuse. Senor Raymundo Verde was the newest guest of the Casa Grande, and a ready Morgan, in line with his policy of ingratiating himself with every new arrival had purchased quite a number of highballs for Verde.

De Nova, the hotel manager, brought the whiskies-and-sodas and placed them on the table before Morgan and Verde.

"Why did you not tell me you are the writer of books, Senor," Verde inquired as the two men sipped their drinks.

So Verde had been inquiring about Chris Morgan. The American glanced at his rotund companion. Had he been wrong in voting the babbling little fellow a clean slate? Should he have investigated Verde as thoroughly as he had everyone in the Casa Grande?

It was then that Morgan found himself staring at the half-emptied glass from which he had been drinking. What had caught his attention was a small thing merely the fact that the surface of the glass was still dry and lustrous.

A small thing, yes, and one that would have gone unnoticed had not the outstanding characteristic of the Casa Grande been its spick-and-span cleanliness. The blurred glassware was quite a contrast to the sparkling tumblers to which Morgan had become accustomed.

Of course, one overwhelmed glass could be an understandable accident. Senor Verde's glass, however, was the family ensemble. Somehow, this coincidence disturbed Chris Morgan, and his glance moved restlessly over the room.

"YOU are not drinking senor," murmured Verde, as De Nova, arriving at the table with another round of drinks, looked inquiringly at the partly filled glass about which the American's fingers were still clasped.

Don Felix Guilleno, across the room, bent his head as if to bring his eyes closer to a bit of fine print on the newspaper. The act screened his face entirely. Without relinquishing his hold on the glass, Morgan shook his head at the dapper De Nova. "I have had enough," he said.

His tone and manner were casual, but inwardly Morgan was as alert as a man who senses sudden danger. Something was wrong. Don Felix, instead of being in the dining room at this hour, should be in his suite on the fourth floor playing the violin as was his daily habit. Did Guilleno know that Morgan had searched his rooms that very morning while the misanthropic musician was out?

The American twirled the glass between his fingers. He could feel the faint greasy film responsible for the clouded appearance of the surface. The coating of oil was unmistakable; as the glass revolved, he could see his own fingerprints outlined clearly on the curved surface.

Fingerprints . . . was that it? Morgan straightened a trifle in his chair. Was the whole setup engineered for the sole purpose of obtaining his fingerprints? His glass and Verde's —both smeared so that whichever one Morgan touched his hand would leave a mark——

"Before you leave Argentina, senior," the garrulous Verde was babbling away, "you must visit us at my estancia."

Morgan barely heard the chunky little man. Who was after his fingerprints? Verde himself? De Nova? Guilleno or even Col. Velasquez, the two whose quarters Morgan had ransacked a few hours earlier? What

½ cup Bee Hive Golden Corn Syrup
½ cup brown sugar

CAMEL IS STRONG

Only the elephant is stronger than the camel when it comes to carrying burdens. A good riding camel will cover 150 miles in a day, over desert ground, and a good baggage camel will carry more than 1000 pounds.

W.A.C. GIRLS SPEND SPARE TIME AT NORTHERN HOUSE

Anxious parents need wonder no longer how their darling daughters, recently enlisted in the Canadian Women's Army Corps, spend their leisure time during basic training in a small town they may never have heard of before, let alone have any friends there. Probably half that spare time will now be spent in the Vermilion Hostess House, officially opened on May 5.

In the spacious lounge, which is comfortably furnished with chesterfields and easy-chairs, there are books and magazines for those who seek relaxation. Tea, coffee, sandwiches and cookies can be purchased for a moderate price at the coffee bar situated at the end of the lounge, adjoined by a small kitchen.

A partition separates this social corner from a large games room, where more energetic souls may play table tennis or dance to Wurlitzer music. Cards, jig-saw puzzles, Chinese checkers and other table games are also available, and for those behind in their correspondence there is a writing room.

Situated in what had been the Vermilion Armories, the Hostess House will be open every evening and Saturday and Sunday afternoon for personnel at No. 2 C.W.A.C. (B) T.C. and their friends.

A committee composed of members from the Training Centre and from the townspeople includes Mrs. R. H. Norton (convenor), Mrs. H. Scott, Mrs. R. Cuthford, Mr. L.G. Sieber, 2nd Lieut. Dolly Lagace, R.S.M. Agnes M. Cardy and Pte. M.J. Graham.

Stepping Stone Islands Have To Be Cleared First

London.—Attention is focusing increasingly on the Mediterranean stepping stone islands, some of which the Allies are expected to clear out before launching their anticipated assault on the soft underbelly of the Axis.

The chief stepping stones include Sicily, which bristles with Axis air bases and is regarded as the main concentration point for Axis air power in the central Mediterranean. A mere glance at the map makes it appear almost inevitable that the Allies will attack Sicily before lavishing the ire of the Italian boot.

Another stepping stone is Pantelleria, midway between Cape Bon and Sicily and the main protection point in Axis efforts to control traffic through the narrow Sicily strait. However, Pantelleria never has been regarded as important to the Axis as, for instance, Malta has been to the Allies.

Another and even smaller island is Lampedusa, which lies about 75 miles to the east and the half way point between Sousse and Kfax on the Tunisian coast. However, there is no apparent necessity to clear out Lampedusa before attacking Sicily as it never has bulked large in tactical operations in that region.

Sardinia is another major island objective and the concentrated Allied bombardment of Cagliari shows its importance as a reinforcement station for the Axis. However, it would be wholly possible for the Allies to sidestep Sardinia during the initial phase of the coming attack and concentrate instead on Pantelleria and Sicily.

Further east lies the whole complex of island groups which presumably must be cleared out before the Allies invade Greece, Yugoslavia or Bulgaria.

The closest Axis targets for the Allies are Crete and the Dodecanese group. Crete is the main stepping stone in the Axis air ferry system for bringing planes south through the Balkans and then west i" ugh the Mediterranean to the central Mediterranean theatre. It also is a formidable obstacle athwart any invasion route to Greece and Yugoslavia.

Twelve Dodecanese islands in all hug the Turkish coast, some only a stone's throw from Turkish territory. The islands are mountainous and the problem of attack is similar to that which the Nazis faced at Crete.

AIR CADETS

Summer Camps To Be Held At Various Training Centres

Winnipeg (R.C.A.F. News Service) —Canada's future sky warriors, trim, smart air cadets, 3,000 strong, in No. 2 Training Command, Royal Canadian Air Force, will get a full-dress inspection within the next six weeks command headquarters announced.

Proof of the vigorous expansion of air cadet squadrons in the Command is the announcement that 47 squadrons will be inspected—a long stride from this time last year when there were only 17 squadrons in the command.

Flight Lieut. H. V. Bell and Flying Officer J. S. Hughes, Command cadet officers, will make the tour of inspection. Wherever possible, air cadet squadrons will be reviewed by the commanding officer of the nearest Royal Canadian Air Force station. Squadrons have been advised to have their units in readiness for the inspection itinerary.

Air Cadet squadrons in many of the smaller localities throughout the Command are playing an important part in stimulating interest in the cadets by providing entertainment for the public with their bands. For example, at Roland, Manitoba, the band of the air cadets plays at the theatre, skating rink, concerts and forth. Many of the regular civ. ·s bands, hard hit by enlistments, have had to break up. The air cadets often fill in this gap by raising bands of their own, and they are quite capable musicians too.

After the inspections, the next big moment in the lives of young cadets will be a period at Summer Camps held at . rious R.C.A.F. Training Schools. Here the cadet, dressed in regulation uniform, becomes acquainted with actual station life, its discipline and its routine, its studies and its pleasures and, above all, he learns what will be expected of him if he decides to follow the R.C.A.F. colours.

MUST BE ALGIERS

De Gaulle Insists On City As Meeting Place With Giraud

London.—Gen. Charles de Gaulle voiced again his willingness to hold an immediate conference with Gen. Henri Giraud in North Africa, but implied that he is insisting on Algiers as the meeting place.

In an address welcoming 200 Frenchmen who escaped from the continent to London in the past month, the Fighting French leader said "the French national committee has many times made known it is at Algiers, the capital of the empire, that broad agreements ought to be made and consultations held which are necessary for the establishment of "joint central authority."

CONSERVING MEAT

Approximately 20,000,000 Pounds Saved In Year By Meatless Tuesday

Ottawa.—A prices board spokesman said that Canada's first "meatless Tuesday" conserved sufficient meat to stock a large British battleship for five months at sea.

The spokesman estimated that on one "meatless day" diners in public eating places contributed more than 350,000 pounds of meat to vital purposes. "Meatless Tuesdays" throughout the year, he said, will save approximately 20,000,000 pounds of meat.

Gallant Airmen Of Small Allies Win Decorations

London. — Airmen of the many squadrons of the free forces, Polish, Czechs, Fighting French, Netherlands, Norwegians and Belgian squadrons, have won more than 200 British decorations, chiefly D.F.C's and F.F.M.'s.

They have had part in virtually all Britain's aerial activity, the defence of Britain, sweeps over France and Belgium, anti-submarine patrols, shipping "strikes," and bombing raids over Germany and the occupied countries.

Nearly all these air heroes to whom British awards have been made anonymous because they still have families living in Nazi-occupied countries. Outstanding among these who have been named are Wing Cmdr. Le Roy du Vivier, D.F.C., Belgian fighter pilot, who was the first Allied airman to take command of a British squadron; Commandant Jean Maridan, D.S.O., D.F.C. and bar, a French "ace" with 21 planes to his credit, and the renowned "intruder" pilot from Czechoslovakia, Flt. Lt. Karl Kutielwascher, D.F.C. and bar. "Kutz" has 15 planes downed at night, three in daylight.

The Polish air force, largest of all the Continental Allied air forces, has won more British decorations than all the rest put together, more than 120. They have destroyed 509 German aircraft and one squadron alone has shot down 170, while Polish bomber squadrons have been on all the important raids and made more than 5,000 sorties.

There are nearly 20 Polish squadrons in Britain now.

French fighter pilots, operating from British bases, destroyed 278 German planes. Belgium now has more pilots operating in Britain and Africa than she had before the German invasion. They have won 10 D.F.C's.

The Czechs, who have three fighter squadrons, a bomber squadron and a coastal command squadron, have won 47 British decorations. The Norwegians flying in Britain have accounted for 43 enemy aircraft, while Netherlands fliers won five British awards.

In London

General George P. Vanier, arrived recently in London to take over his post as Canadian minister in London to Allied governments and Canadian representative on the French national committee.

ARRIVE IN BRITAIN

R.C.A.F. Draft Of Reinforcements Represents Most Of Canada

London.—Arrival in Britain of a draft of reinforcements for the R.C.A.F. overseas has been disclosed.

The airmen, representing nearly every corner of Canada, included pilots, observers, navigators, bomb-aimers, gunners, wireless-air gunners and radio mechanics.

As the air crews piled out of their ships they were unanimous in naming Berlin as the place they would like to attack first when they are posted to operational duties.

One newspaperman among the party was FO. Bill Dunaday, Toronto, formerly of Moose Jaw and Regina, press relations officer and former Canadian Press staff man.

Former sportsmen included FO. Don Wickens, member of the Moose Jaw Canucks, Saskatchewan junior hockey champions.

TO OBSERVE EMPIRE YOUTH SUNDAY

May 16th, Under The Patronage Of His Majesty The King

Toronto.—Under the special patronage of His Majesty the King, Empire Youth Sunday is this year to be observed on May 16th. Originating at the time of the Coronation in 1937, it has been marked each year by increasing numbers of young people throughout the Empire, and to some degree in the United States. The observance is an integral part of the British Empire Youth movement, the purpose of which is to assist the churches in imbuing our youth with a profound loyalty to the things of the spirit just as Nazi youth have been systematically fired with loyalty to the principles of Evil. Two ideologies, the one represented by the Cross and the other by the Swastika, face each other in a fight to the finish.

The character of Youth Sunday observances will necessarily vary in different localities and denominations. In some places processions and mass meetings are held. Schools and Sunday Schools naturally fall into the picture. Specially suitable hymns and scripture readings are used and sermons for the young are preached The "I believe" poster, sent out by the National Council of Education to thousands of the clergy, are posted on church doors, above the pulpit or in some other prominent place.

All the leading religious bodies in Canada are co-operating, as in former years, in making Youth Sunday a milestone in the advance of Christian civilization. The Anglican, Baptist, Presbyterian, and Roman Catholic Churches, the United Church and the Salvation Army have distributed to individu , clergy all across Canada about twelve thousand leaflets, posters and brochures provided through the National Council of Education and featuring the victory of the Cross over the Swastika. The literature and the posters have all been donated by individuals and companies interested in the Youth of Canada. The headquarter offices of the churches have carried out the work of distribution at their own expense.

In the revised programme for Youth Sunday, May 16th, the service at St. Paul's Cathedral, London, England, is to commence the Trans-Atlantic broadcast. the Dean of St. Paul's being the speaker. The second part of the broadcast will relay the service at the Metropolitan Church, Toronto, the Very Rev. Peter Bryce, former moderator of the United Church officiating. This reciprocal broadcast across the Atlantic is available through the kindly co-operation of the British Broadcasting Commission and the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation. It will be heard over the C.B.C National network at 4 o'clock to 4 40 p.m. E.D.T. Major Noy will be the guest speaker at the great rally of youth in Manchester, England The Church Committee of the National Council of Education.

VISIT UNCERTAIN

Ottawa — Prime Minister Mackenzie King told the House of Commons that the proposed visit of Mme Chiang Kai-Shek to Canada is still uncertain.

Group Affected By Transfer Of Workers Small

Ottawa.—Selective Service Director Arthur MacNamara told The Canadian Press "Your guess is as good as mine," when asked if he had any idea of the number of men who will be affected by the order providing for the possible compulsory transfer to essential employment of workers now engaged in some 20 occupations or industries regarded as non-essential.

He said, however, that workers in the industries designated in the order represented only a "small percentage" of the population.

"There are 850,000 men in Canada who had been granted postponement on medical grounds," he added. "Our purpose is to go through these 850,000, and our next move will apply to a much larger group."

The selective service department did not anticipate that there will be much trouble in replacing the workers affected by the first order with women or men outside the age groups designated in mobilization regulations.

Groups covered by the order include those in any occupation in or directly associated with entertainment, including bowling alleys, pool rooms, film agencies, motion picture companies and theatres.

A departmental spokesman said no hard-and-fast ruling could be given as to whether those in the radio industry would be classified as in an occupation directly associated with entertainment. He said each case would have to be judged on its merits.

For instance, a full-time entertainer on the radio would probably be subject to the order. But a station manager, a technician or a full-time announcer would probably be considered as coming under the communications industry and thus would not be affected.

Canada Urged To Arrange For More Settlers

Ottawa.—Assisted mass immigration of British settlers to Canada immediately the war is over was advocated here by Garfield Weston, 45-year-old Canadian-born member of the British House of Commons.

In an interview with The Canadian Press Mr. Weston said Canada had so far failed to impress upon British people the opportunities here for them to establish successful and happy homes.

He said Britain and Canada should begin at once to plan "with care and thoroughness" to promote the transfer of millions of British people to Canada, and for the integration of British and Canadian business inter-

A few weeks ago he put that latter theory into practice when he purchased from Viscount Bennett, former prime minister of Canada, the latter's holdings in the Eddy Paper Mills in Hull, Que. The sum involved is estimated around $5,000,000.

"I am definitely for assisted immigration plan," he said. "Almost anything we could do to get several million English, Scotch and Irish settlers into Canada would be worthwhile, even if we had to support them the first year."

With Canada now experienced in raising and spending great sums for the war effort, the cost of an immigration scheme would be "a mere bagatelle," said Mr. Weston.

"We complain about high taxes in Canada. The only way to cut them down is to double the population."

PATRIOTISM IS NOT RATIONED

LET'S EACH BUY MORE VICTORY BONDS

This community has already exceeded the quota set for it and every citizen will be proud of the results obtained through the unselfish work of the Loan Representatives and the splendid co-operation of the public generally.

It will be agreed that there should be no quota for Victory Bonds . . . . until the war has been won there must be no halting for any of us. Our fighters are not working on a quota basis; they are "all out" for Victory and we must deny them nothing that will speed the day of the return when their task has been finished successfully.

WILDWOOD WINKS

The B.W.B. Club meeting was held at Mrs. W. Garlett's, Beaverhill, on Wednesday last. A nice crowd attended despite very muddy roads and a nice lot of finished work was handed in. The club donated $5 to the Milk for Britain fund; more sewing material was ordered. After the business was over Mrs. Garnett and daughter Anne served a tasty lunch and a good cup of tea to which the members did ample justice. Our visitor Mrs. S. York, was present. Next meeting is at Mrs. Osterberg's on June 2nd. Keep it in mind folks. It's a day of meeting all your friends and neighbors.

Wm. Garnett Jr. is home on seeding leave at present.

Mrs. T. Cairns was stranded in town last Sunday when the rain came, as the roads got too bad for Adam Simon to make another trip to bring her home. However, Mr. R. Spencer brought her out on Wednesday evening by car.

You can hear tractors humming all around these days as everyone tries to get a bit of seed in the ground. Threshing still to be done and the help shortage sorely is a handicap this spring. The rain makes wet spots in the fields still wetter.

Mr. Bruce our station minister, came last Thursday and held church Sunday morning. We gave a very nice Mother's Day sermon. It is nice to have church again so we can assure you. Mr. Bruce boards at Mr. Walters in Battleview.

Mrs. Wm. Primett returned to Battleview to the Abe Primett home on Sunday. She leaves this day for her sister's at Biggar, Sask.

There may not be any Winks next week as the printer is quite busy three days with gardening, house-cleaning and looking after children and chicks.

Messrs. Woodstra, Meadors and Halliday were all the Wallington home this week buying seed grain.

NOW MAKING AVIATION GASOLINE

As a direct result of installing the only "Polymerization" unit in Canada at their refinery in Turner Valley last autumn, Gas and Oil Products Limited, independent Alberta oil producers, refiners and marketers, are now making aviation gasoline for use by the Royal Canadian Air Force at training centres throughout Western Canada. Company officials announced this week.

The first aviation gasoline of Dominion Government standards was run off a few days ago on completion of a desulphurization unit which has been under construction since the "Polymerization" process was installed, and supplies are building up rapidly at company storage points ready for delivery to R.C.A.F. stations it was stated.

Octane, or anti-knock, standards set by the government for aviation gasoline call for ratings of 87 and 90, both of which the Turner Valley refinery is able to supply through utilization of the new polymerization plant.

The catalytic polymerization process was first put to practical use in the United States only a few years ago, and the first plant in the Dominion was completed at Turner Valley in August, 1942.

"Our Turner Valley refinery consists of two units, the topping process, which refines crude oil, and the cracking procedure used to refine the residue from the topping unit", an official of Gas and Oil Products stated in explaining the new process.

Under the new process, the vapor gases from the cracking unit are compressed and then scrubbed with a solution that removes sulphur compounds found in the natural gasoline. These sulphur-free vapor gases are further compressed and heated to the desired reaction temperature at which time they are passed through a bed of material known as a "catalyst"—which converts them into a high grade gasoline. This polymerized gasoline is then separated from the residual gas and blended with regular refinery motor fuel.

"The polymerized gasoline has an octane blending value of 90, which means that when it is blended with the refinery gasoline, the total blend is a higher quality product than it was formerly possible to produce. It is therefore now possible to produce a higher octane Ethyl gasoline, using less tetra-ethyl lead fluid than formerly, not only saving the lead fluid for aviation gasoline, for which it is urgently needed, but also producing a better quality motor fuel at the same time", he stated.

CHATSWORTH CHATTER

The weather conditions are quite cold, with high winds and frosty nights. We have had several showers of rain and a few snow flurries, the last snow falling on Saturday morning May 8. The most springlike rain we've had fell during the night of April 19th, a warm soft rain.

Threshing is suspended once more due to rain on Tuesday night and rain and snow on Friday night. Jim Thompson finished threshing for Good's and E. Thompson's but has about 100 acres of his own crop to do. Joe Farkas' pea bury at Anderson's; Hasanuik's at Forbes' place and at Mr. Enst's of Indian Lake (General) opinion is that remaining threshing will have to be completed after spring seeding as everybody is most anxious to get on the land and help is difficult to get.

Roads are in very poor condition horsebacks as trucks have been busy hauling grain and have cut deep ruts in most grades.

Mr. Ferguson came back from New Westminster on Saturday May 1. He and the family motored to Wainwright on Sunday May 2nd and Mrs. Ferguson returned with them that evening.

THE STORY BEHIND MEAT RATIONING

Food is a weapon of war, and we must share our supplies with those who are fighting to keep the war from our shores. After all special wartime demands are taken care of, only one half of the meat produced in Canada will be available for ordinary domestic consumption at home.

Meat supplies for our Armed Forces must be maintained at all costs.

Great Britain has to depend more and more on Canada for supplies to maintain even its present low ration rate of 28 cents worth of meat per person, per week.

Since the war started the consumption of meat by civilians has increased in Canada. Great defense projects such as the Alcan Highway and the Skiphakar Power Development have created new and large demands for meat in areas where practically no demand existed before.

Canned meat is required in huge quantities by the Red Cross to send to our boys who are prisoners of war.

Places like Newfoundland and the West Indies, which previously secured their meat from other sources—must now depend to a great extent on Canada.

The many extra ships of the United Nations now calling at Canadian ports, must be furnished with meat.

RATIONING IS INTELLIGENT FORESIGHT — INTELLIGENT PLANNING

Coupon rationing is the only way of ensuring equal sharing of the meat available for civilian consumption in Canada. Those with lots of money will not get more than their share—and those with less money will be assured of getting their fair share.

Rationing will help prevent local meat shortages such as occurred last year from becoming widespread and continuous throughout the whole Dominion. The incentive for panic-buying which empties butcher shops early in the day, will be eliminated.

THE MEAT RATION WILL BE AMPLE FOR HEALTH AND NUTRITION

Fortunately, our meat production in Canada has increased. So, although only half our production will be available for civilian use, it will mean a reduction of only about 15% to 20% in the average household consumption.

The proposed ration of 2 lbs. (carcass weight) per person, per week, has been approved by the country's leading food and nutrition authorities, as ample for the health and nutrition standards of everyone—regardless of age or occupation.

DATES AND OTHER DETAILS REGARDING MEAT RATIONING—SOON TO BECOME EFFECTIVE IN CANADA — WILL BE ANNOUNCED LATER

WESTERN GIRLS

Many Are Engaged in Essential War Work in The East

There are a lot of Western Canadian girls in Eastern Canadian factory plants and more arriving all the time.

We were in St. Catharines, Ont., recently at the very busy McKinnon Industries, and while there were struck with the fine women from the West who are to their especially helping the war effort. There were hundreds and this condition is repeated at many Eastern war plants.

They come from Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta mostly and the majority have never worked away from home before.

Their chief problem was that of adjustment to their startlingly new surroundings in a very busy war plant and away-from-home living quarters and being on their own financially. They have shown themselves entirely capable of making their own way, in the majority have never worked away from home before.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

MAY 16

PETER AND JOHN PREACH TO SAMARITANS

Golden text: Lift up your eyes, and look on the fields, that they are white already unto harvest. John 4:35.

Lesson: Acts 8:4-25.
Devotional reading: Psalm 96:1-9.

Expansion and Consolidation

Result of Persecution and Persecution of the Early Disciples led by Saul, Acts 8:1-3.

Philip Preaches in the City of Samaria, Acts 8:4-13. Among those who were driven from Jerusalem by persecution was Philip, one of the seven deacons who had been appointed to help in the work of the church. He is called Philip the Evangelist in Acts 21:1-8, because of the success of his ministry. While preaching in the Samaritans he had among his listeners a man named Simon, whom we always call Simon the Sorcerer. He had proclaimed himself to be some great man, and had so amazed the people by his sorceries that they said, "This man is that power of God which is called the Great." Many legends have grown up about Simon, but the statement of Justin Martyr may deserve credence that in Rome Simon and many followers who worshipped him as God. Men and women of Samaria believed Philip's good tidings concerning the kingdom of God and Jesus Christ, and were baptized. Simon evidently deemed Philip a greater magician than himself, and so declared himself a "believer" and was baptized.

Peter and John Sent to Samaria to Investigate the New Departure, Acts 8:14-17. The Samaritans, being of mixed race, were not accounted Jews by those in Jerusalem. It was decidedly a new departure for Philip to preach to them, and when the apostles, who were rigid Jews and had not yet realized that the gospel was freely given for all, received the news of the result of his labors they sent Peter and John to see if all were right and good. The two apostles approved of what they learned in Samaria, prayed for the people, laid their hands upon them who had been baptized in the name of the Lord Jesus, and they received the Holy Spirit.

Peter Denounces the Sin of Simon, Acts 8:18-24. When the visible signs of the coming of the Spirit were we do not know, but Simon the Sorcerer beheld them and coveted what he thought to be in the power of the disciples to give. Simon was greedy for power and determined to get it by whatever way he could. He offered Peter money to tell him how he, too, could lay his hands on others and bring upon them the Holy Spirit.

Peter's reply, "Thy silver perish with thee, because thou has thought to obtain the gift of God with money," sounds like an imprecation, but he was only forcibly expressing his detestation of such a spirit as Simon's.

YOUNGEST PRISONER

Youngest Briton known to be a prisoner of war is Jack Hipkin of Newcastle. He was 14 when he went to pen two years ago and on his first voyage he was captured. Letters from his parents accompanying his detention of such a spirit as Simon's.

Taste show that glass slowly changes shape and size even at room temperature.

GARDEN NOTES

War Gardens

There has been a good deal of publicity in the newspapers and over the radio this year about special war gardens. Quite a lot of this publicity originates in the United States, and while the information is highly suitable for our neighbors it may not be adapted to our more rigorous Canadian conditions. One should be careful in using varieties mentioned. Many of these are not obtainable in Canadian seed stores for the simple reason that they have not been tested and approved by Canadian authorities.

Garden Enemies

Weeds, insects and disease are the natural enemies of the garden. If combated quickly by continuous cultivation, some quick-acting commercial fertilizer and various sprays and dusts, there will be little trouble. The best thing is to start the counter attack before the enemies get their offensive underway.

It is a mistake, for instance, to dust potatoes, and if done just as soon as the second set of leaves develop and followed again at intervals of two weeks during the early period of growth, there will be no trouble. The same is true with mildew on roses and other plants, with attacks of aphids, with the various insects that prey on so many of our cultivated plants.

Thorough and early cultivation will soon check weeds and will encourage growth of the things we are trying to grow. If at the time of these first cultivations a little garden fertilizer is added carefully, close to, but not actually touching the plants, favorable growth will be further encouraged.

Soil Time To Plant

In any well-ordered garden there will be a succession of vegetables in the ground left until at least the second week in June or even right to July. Here should be planted those vegetables which are not started far use in the early fall when in too many gardens practically everything is past its best, except stock lines like potatoes and those late maturing vegetables that are not ready for use until August, anyway. It is still not a bit too late to plant beans, carrots, beets, and in fact about half the vegetables that can be grown in Canada. In most parts of the country it will not be too late to continue such plantings right up to the first of July. Even if we do run into a drought, some of this will come along and be appreciated and the cost of the seeds amounts to only a few cents.

HIS CONTRIBUTION

Vegetables were being discussed in the classroom and after covering the entire garden the pupils were getting down to finer classification. Beans were up. How many kinds of beans could they think of, asked the teacher of the pupils. Answers came: "String beans." "String beans." "Butter beans." "And human beans," added little Jim.

The Merchant Navy

THE NAVY IS SOMETIMES called "The Silent Service," and this term describes well the great secrecy which surrounds all the operations of ships and sailors in time of war. It is generally known, however, that the British Navy has from the beginning had a vital part in defending the Allied cause. In addition, the service which the Merchant Navy has rendered in transporting men and materials has been enormous. There is universal recognition of the gallant conduct of the men of this branch of the service since the beginning of the war, and we all know that but for them Britain and her allies would not be as successfully on the offensive as they are today. Some very interesting figures on the work of the Merchant Navy have recently been released in England and they tell a part of the story of this phase of the war at sea.

* * * * *

Figures Show Gigantic Task

We are told that each year between twenty and forty million tons of vital raw materials are brought to the factories of Britain by the ships of the Merchant Navy. In addition, the Merchant Navy has taken the place of equipment in every fighting front, and some figures are given to show the gigantic task which this represents. It is said that in 1942 the equivalent tons of stores and one-half million men were sent around the Cape to Australia. For the campaign in North Africa, the Merchant Navy transported over two million tons of stores and one-half million men before November 1942. Other interesting statistics reveal that there are about two thousand British Merchant ships at sea all the time, yet in spite of intense enemy attack by mines, U-boats and aircraft, only one-half of one per cent of all these convoys fail to reach their destinations. Loss of life is also kept at a remarkably low figure. We are told that eighty-seven out of every hundred men saved from ships which are damaged or sunk, and the loss of life in rafts and life boats is less than two per cent.

* * * * *

War Materials Carried Safely

In addition to carrying men and supplies for the British armies, the Merchant Navy has taken large quantities of war materials to other countries in the Commonwealth, and to Britain's Allies overseas. Between June 1941 and December 1942, 2,974 tanks and 2,960 aeroplanes were sailing to supplies shipped from Britain to Russia, and in that period 3 million large British convoys travelled safely to Russian ports despite the dangers and other hazards of the Arctic. Seven hundred officers of the Merchant Navy have been made members of the Officers and Commanders of the Order of the British Empire, and 2,251 officers and men have received orders and decorations for gallant conduct. Among these are two hundred foreign nationals who are serving with the British Merchant Navy. The valuable contribution of this branch of the service to the successful conduct of the war has been summed up by a British writer in the following words: "Without the Merchant Navy, Great Britain would have come perilously near to starvation, her armies could never have been supplied, nor could the products of her factories ever have reached her allies overseas."

TRAINING IN EATING

AS CHILDREN GROW out of babyhood they enter a very important period in their lives, the one in which they acquire both the social and personal habits necessary to adult civilized life. Among other things to be learned at this time is the habit of eating the proper foods.

AS EVERY MOTHER knows this is sometimes a major problem. It should be approached with patience and ingenuity for it must be solved if the child is to grow up strong and healthy.

TWO SIMPLE RULES should always be observed. First, there should be no discussion among the parents and older children at the table, or in the presence of the child, of personal likes or dislikes in the matter of food. Second as the child becomes interested in his food he should be told why each item is good for him.

FOR THE REST—Introduce each new food in very small amounts until the child has developed a taste for it. A little difference in flavoring, a few grains of salt mixing a new food with an accustomed one (as chopped spinach with mashed potato) may make all the difference in the child's reaction.

SOME CHILDREN like hot foods some cold and a little juggling will sometimes save the mother a lot of worry and the child unnecessary correction.

Pet Or Pest?

The House Spider Is Said To Rid The Kitchen Of Flies

Now that spring house-cleaning has been completed, housewives will be particularly conscious of new cob-webs which appear. Cob-webs in houses are made by two species of spiders, according to T. B. Kurata, the spider expert of the Royal Ontario Museum. Although both kinds make an irregular, tangled, silken web in corners and crevices of buildings, one species is usually much more plentiful indoors and can well claim to be the Domestic Spider. Its body, which is slightly less than ¼ inch long, varies in coloration from a dirty white with a few dark spots, to almost black. It weaves its eggs in a dense silken case and hangs it from the web. This spider is quite harmless. In fact Mr Kurata would like to convince housewives that it is somewhat beneficial because it preys on insects such as the domestic fly and the clothes moth. He keeps one domestic spider in his own kitchen for observation. Most persons, however will consider the dust gathering webs a nuisance. According to your point of view, then, the domestic spider is either a pet or pest

Take Time To Play

People In Britain Do Not Neglect Opportunities For Relaxation

The Huron Expositor, Seaforth, says: Possibly no people in any country in the world have had their mode of living more greatly changed by the war than have the people of Britain.

In no other Allied country, at least, has the war taken as complete control over a man's time and his energies, and in no place in the world has that time and energy become more cheerfully surrendered to the country's need.

But the people of that country have not forgotten how to play and when the opportunity offers no people put their whole heart into it as the Britons do.

That fact was evidenced on Saturday, when 100,000 people attended the annual England-Scotland football game in Glasgow.

Rheumatic heart disease is said to occur more frequently among fair-haired people than among dark-haired people.

Started Busy Trade

R.A.F. Man Taught Cairo Chef How To Make Pancakes

Some months ago, says the Sheffield Telegraph, a Sheffield man walked into a Cairo cafe and said, "I would like some pancakes, please."

The proprietor was puzzled. "What are pancakes? How are they made? Can you tell me?" he asked.

"Yes," replied the Sheffielder. "I'll show you how to make them if you will let me."

And so a busy trade in pancakes for the British troops was started.

The Sheffielder, we are told, was Corporal George Simpson, R.A.F.

Studies by the National Safety Council show that it takes nine times as long to stop your car on ice as it does on dry concrete pavement.

Youngsters and grown-ups, too, love Nabisco Shredded Wheat and shouted hurrah! And it's right in line with what our Nutrition Authorities advise us to eat — whole grain cereals and fresh fruits.

Serve Nabisco Shredded Wheat—100% whole wheat in its toothsome form—its nutty flavour blends delightfully with milk and most of our Canadian fruits.

Used To Wide Vision

One Reason Why Prairie Boys Feel Affinity With Sea

Boys born in the prairie land unconsciously may feel an affinity with the sea. They are accustomed to the wide vision. The vision that sweeps across the vast plains are in their blood and those winds, after all, are much like those that sweep across the mighty main. The sailors who hail from the prairies are more likely to feel at home on the wastes of waters than lads who come from the cloistered valleys of Eastern Ontario, where hills and woodlands draw the horizons close. There is a fact of nature that links together the prairies and the sea and that makes of many a young prairieman a potential mariner.

LEFT A RECORD

Paddy Finucane was shot down over the English channel last July, but fighter pilots still watch in airdrome movies how he shot down enemy planes. The famed wing commander who held the D.S.O and triple D.F.C. took films of his actual fighting through cameras fitted into the wings of his Spitfire

Unemployment Insurance Fund Income is Now $5,000,000 Each Month

Eric Stangroom, of Ottawa, chief insurance officer, said in an interview that benefits paid out under the federal unemployment insurance fund total $908,000, while the fund's earnings on bond interest and investments amounted to $1,000,000.

There is $130,000,000 in the fund and it was being increased at the rate of $5,000,000 a month, he said.

TO SAVE POWER

Electric trains on the Euston-Broadcasting-Watford lines in suburban London now coast down grades to save power. Signals tell the drivers just where to turn the power off and authorities estimate this coasting saves nearly nine tons of coal daily.

Air Cadets Feted By the Red Shield

At 7 p.m. on the evening of May 5th the local Flight of the Air Cadets marched from the Canadian Legion Hall to the Salvation Army hall, where they sat down and did real justice in a wonderful banquet put on for them by the ladies of the Red Shield Auxiliary. This very fine exercise was highly appreciated by the boys and their officers, being as it was a recognition on the long time they had all put in training through the past season. No one can say after seeing them parade that these efforts have been wasted. - Mrs. A. Holte presided at the table and announced the program. Here on the list being a short sing-song under the capable handling of OC. Taylor, after which Mr. S. C. Hewlett President of the Provincial Command Canadian Legion gave the boys a short interesting talk on discipline. Mr. Smith of the Salvation Army welcomed one and all. The program being finished the boys and officers were treated to the show by the ladies after which O/C Taylor heeded them into George's for a fill of ice cream. All voted to the success of an enjoyable evening, and extended their thanks to the personnel of the Red Shield Auxiliary.

On May 16th the flight will parade to the United church in full dress, for a participation in the nation-wide Youth Sunday, hours of parade at the Legion hall will be 10:15 hours.

Another special event this month will be the inspection on May 23th by the Hon. F. Lucas, Minister of the province Mr. Bowman or Coleman. On previous inspection it has been said of the boys here that the only thing holding them back from making an excellent showing is the smallness of their numbers, and the officers and local committee are looking forward to this fall when there will be several new applicants, who up to the present have been unable to get age for admission into the flight.

This is a day of strong living. There has grown up in our land, villages, towns and cities, to say nothing of great training camps, commencing organizations, businesses and churches. We live as groups and strong ideals are as necessary as individual ideals to lead to and to reinforce right living.

Many of the fine things of life come from these relationships with others; from contact and fellowship. Satisfying fellowships are found in clubs, schools, in factories, work and play, and in the various organizations of the church. In the church these contacts with our fellows take on new meaning—a spiritual meaning. Are you giving yourself and your children the benefit of church contacts and fellowships. Go to church and Sunday school this Sunday and every Sunday.

KENNY MILKS NOW "TOPS" AS "HEP-CAT"

Great five Artist in the City

Kenny Milks, Vermilion born boy who loved to sing dance from the time he could toddle and used to practice tap dancing even when walking, is now the greatest jive-artist in Edmonton if all rates from that centre be true. Kenny was featured in a three-column story in the Journal last Friday and several pictures show him in dramatic action. When Kenny met a certain young lady partner take the floor, everybody just naturally stops dancing and watches the young hep-cat champ do their stuff. Several Vermilion girls who work in Edmonton and visit home occasionally say that this happens quite frequently at dances which they have attended in the city. Kenny apparently has a routine which packs in every gyration imaginable, including that of whirling he partner around he hips between his legs and over his head. Here is how the Journal reporter, sent specially to cover young Milks at the Barn one Saturday afternoon describes it:

"Suddenly the floor clears, except for a guy and his girl. Someone tells me it's Kenny Milks and Esther Ament, and they're solid. I see that for nearly 10 minutes, and then I don't believe it. They stop the show cold and the place is a howling, hilarious madhouse as these two groovy jitterbugs go to town. Kensel gets out his saxophone but the five artists prove so fast that he says his camera won't get them.

Milks, a rangy chap from Cheyenne looks as if his knees are turning to water as he dives and dips through a routine of impossible steps. Sometimes he dances on one foot, then on two, leaping into the air and landing "splits" fashion, collapsing into a shimmying heap of jitterbug debris. Then he's up again, and like a French apache, tosses Esther into the air, and she sees sliding along the floor between Ken's legs, like she has roller skates on."

NEW REFINERY IN OPERATION

5289 Barrels "Through-Put" For First Day

OIL CO. DIRECTORS MEET HERE

The new plant of the Vermilion Refinery Company commenced working on Tuesday and J. K. Swanson, general-manager, states that the first day's operation was most satisfactory, a total of 5289 barrels of clean oil being the "through-put" for the day. Mr. Swanson went on to say that the present plant, with its new equipment, is in a position to take care of the entire production of the field. Production operators will be six delivery to the plant on Monday May 24.

The new plant has met complete expectations of the management and has proven to the field, an air of confidence not heretofore experienced. The plant has been modernized with up-to-the-minute equipment and now provides a service to the producers not possible by methods of cleaning previously used. "The luck of this facility", Mr. Swanson stated, "was a distinct bottleneck and from the time that the plant was closed down last fall. Managing-director Brown carried out exhaustive investigations of oil cleaning methods which would meet the requirements of this field as fast as additional production was procured." Interest in the field due to the complete solution to the oil cleaning problem, has been given added impetus. Mr. Swanson confidently believes that this summer will witness the greatest activity in the Vermilion field since its discovery.

DIRECTORS MEET

C. O. Brown of Rochester, Minn., who is managing-director of the Vermilion Refinery Co. and Franco Oils Ltd., as well as president of Vermilion Consolidated Oils, was here holding a directors' meeting of the various companies. Making an inspection of the field, as well as conferring with the local management regarding the operation of the refinery in operation. Present at the directors' meeting with Mr. Brown were Walter F. Thorn, Regina; Wm. Lawless, Regina; John Smith, Carduff, Sask.; J. K. Swanson, Vermilion; Wm. Hoppe, Minneapolis, Harold Riley, St. Cloud, Minn., Messrs. Arnold and Hal Penny of Kindersley, Sask., who are directors of the refinery company.

BIG BOOST IN PRICE OF VERMILION CRUDE

Will Remove Stumbling Block To Development

Removing what has been regarded as a stumbling block to oil development in the Vermilion field, the C.N.R. has arranged to pay $1.50 per barrel for conditioned oil from the plant of the Vermilion Refinery Co. Limited.

From the producer's standpoint this is an increase of 35c per barrel, as the producer will now receive $1.25 at the plant for conditioned oil, compared with 90c a barrel paid before the plant was closed down last fall. This is to say that if a producer delivers 100 barrels a well and after the same is conditioned, the net residue is 100 barrels, he shall be paid on the basis of 100 barrels at $1.25 per barrel. The old price was 90c which was for unconditioned oil.

According to common report in Toronto, the railway company has agreed to take delivery of all oil produced up to 100,000 barrels at $1.50 per barrel for conditioned oil. The rate after the first 100,000 barrels will be $1.15 per barrel.

When the cleaning plant at Borradaile was closed down, it was claimed that the price paid for conditioned oil was not sufficient to keep the plant in operation. At the time, closing down of the plant was regarded as a serious blow to development of the field.

Under the arrangement, Canada Oils Ltd., a subsidiary of the C.N.R., is to sell its product in the conditioning plant on the same basis as other producers, $1.25 per barrel.

A.T.A. Hold Final Meeting of Term

The Vermilion Sub-Local Alberta Teachers' Association held its last meeting of the present term in the Elks hall on May 15. Miss M. Nugent gave the delegate's report of the annual general meeting held in Edmonton during the Easter holidays.

FIRE CALL TUESDAY

Smart and efficient work by Jim Swanson with the chemical equipment of the Vermilion fire brigade was effective in quenching what might have proven a dangerous fire early Tuesday afternoon. The blaze was in a pile of rubbish at the rear of Vermilion Motors property and dangerously close to a large pile of shingles just beside the Crown Lumber yard.

As a result of the quick work with the chemical, damage was nil

Vermilion Co-Op. Buys Economy Store

Take Over Building and Stock on June 1st

A real estate deal of more than usual size and importance was completed only recently when the Vermilion District Co-operative Association purchased the fine brick store building and stock of the Economy Food Market on Main street. The Co-operative Association will occupy their new and spacious premises on June 1.

The Economy store was built by Safeways Limited in 1928 and embodied everything that was modern for retail merchandising. Safeways operated here until two years ago April when they sold to local interests, and now the Co-op have purchased the building and stock outright.

The Vermilion District Co-operative was organized in 1935 when a small store was opened in the Pimsemobe block, more space was subsequently taken here and then in 1938, again troubled by growing pains, the Association bought the store building on Bulyea avenue where they have been since. From all the information gleaned he was satisfied that he had a very clear view of the entire oil field picture.

Co-operators were very pleased with the visit of Mr. Cottrelle, as they feel that he has always laid a friendly hand on the Vermilion field, and to him too, must go the credit for framing out many local problems, in finding and securing a market for the oil and arranging of an equitable market price

Victory Loan Campaign An Outstanding Success

On April 24th the Vermilion Victory loan workers started out to achieve what many would have termed to be impossible, the raising of a sum more than sixty per cent higher than the quota of [illegible] previously [illegible] Vermilion [illegible] of $120,000 those responsible on the success of the campaign in this area certainly did take on an effective canvass within the boundaries of the unit.

On May 8th just two weeks after the campaign had opened, the full quota of $120,000 had been subscribed by district residents, and by May 11 when the loan officially closed over than $180,000 in Victory bonds had been purchased within the unit. With later returns added the grand total is expected to reach at least $165,000 or approximately 45% over the originally established quota.

Whereas in the last Victory Loan the Unit secured 558 applications for a total of $89,800, this loan canvass produced 1015 applications, indicating that the good people of the district are gaining confidence in the lending of funds and that they are willing to place their money at the disposal of the nation when it is so really needed for the protection of equipment for the fighting forces.

The young ladies of the C.W.A.C. Training Centre placed themselves most definitely on record as favoring a policy of total war by subscribing well over $17,000 with exactly [illegible] applications. When it is considered that the members of the C.W.A.C. have, in many cases left excellent positions and good homes to [illegible] for Canada and the Empire, and that in consideration of their [illegible] are paid the [illegible] of ninety cents a day, we must all be grateful to the example they have set for us.

Several small [illegible] were [illegible] from Clover Bar, Dewberrie and Clandonald, but the bulk of the [illegible] was made in the Vermilion district. Vermilion [illegible] in the basement [illegible] and [illegible] the [illegible] and [illegible] and [illegible] and

FARM CASH INCOME RECORD IN YEAR 1942

The estimated cash income from the sale of farm products in Canada in 1942 at $1,683 millions was the highest on record, states the Cur-rent Review on Agricultural Con-ditions in Canada. The figure was more than double the total for 1935 and 21% million higher than in 1941. Sales of meat animals and livestock products in larger volume and at higher prices was the greatest con-tributing factor to the increased in-come, which was larger in all provin-ces than in 1941. Sales of dairy pro-ducts totaling $284 millions was the largest single source of income to farmers, with hogs ranking next at $181 millions. The estimate of farm income does not include all Govern-ment payments to farmers, which would further increase the total.

MEAT CHARTS WILL OUTLINE COUPON VALUE OF EACH CUT

Stores Will Show Bone Content and Weight Classes

Deciding what kind of meat to spend ration coupons on won't be a complicated problem for Canadian housewives. Comprehensive charts are now being prepared by the War-time Prices and Trade Board which will be on display in every meat store when rationing begins.

The charts will show exactly how much of every type of meat and every kind of cut can be had for ra-tion coupons. They'll be the official guide for both butcher and customer. Rationed meats are beef, pork, veal and mutton. "Fancy" meats, such as kidney, liver and brain, will not be rationed. Fish and poultry will not be rationed, nor will cuts of meat con-taining more than 50 percent bone.

Preparing the charts now are men with long years of experience in the butchering trade, who have the best skill of experts in every field to assist them. It is no mean task. The charts must include all the information necessary for buying at the different cuts of meat. Although the weekly ration of meat is to be about two pounds per person, the coupon value of different cuts has still to be an-nounced.

The ration charts to be displayed in all stores selling meat will divide beef, pork, mutton and lamb into three value cuts, and into their weight classes, to compare with the value of the coupons, so that the housewife may tell at a glance just how much.

CARS MUST DISPLAY WINDSHIELD STICKERS

Carrying Old Plates Confusing

Warning to motorists that it is essential that they display prindelaide stickers showing their gasoline ration category, has been given by police authorities.

In some parts of the country, car-bureau plates have been seized for a period of two weeks, thus suspending the car owner's right to operate for that period. This action has been taken with a view to curbing infrin-gements of regulations that require wind-shield stickers to be displayed.

The need of observing gasoline ra-tioning regulations has been emphas-ized by the Alberta Motor Associa-tion which has pledged its full co-operation to the dominion authorities.

Car owners also have been urged not to carry their old 1942 plates. Under the present Motor Vehicles and Highway Traffic act, a single plate which must be carried at the rear of the car, is required for the current year.

Carrying of old plates is unneces-sary. Don't carry them. They are not needed and only serve to create confusion.

Household Comment

Although Germany is still fairly well supplied with essential foods, many of the occupied countries are very short, especially Holland, Bel-gium, France, etc. England has fur-ther reduced the cheese ration to ½ ounce as many boats as possible for the war effort. Finland reports that starving people attacked German mil-itary food store around Petsamo and several were shot. The Russians are receiving fats and food from the U.S. and it is expected that considerable quantities of American rye flour will be shipped into that Allied country soon. Americans butter has already been shipped to the Russian hospitals and refined linseed oil is going to Russia under lease-lend. The Ger-mans, with undoubtedly try hard to hold the Ukraine at all costs until the crops have been gathered in July. They were able to ship away only 9 million bushels of wheat and rye from the Ukraine into Central Germany in 1942. Finland still not get any new grain until late August. Very little food is now available and Germany is not supplying the amounts which were promised.

HAIL SPRING WEATHER

Fine spring weather is at last being experienced and generally is evident now in grass, trees and gardens.

With the warmer days, clouds of mosquitoes have arrived to take their place in the community life and garden-ers are seen with weird and wonder-ful garbs to ward off the pests.

Farmers are on the last bit of threshing, some 5% being left to do. Seeding of wheat is being rushed and about 60% completed. Oats and bar-ley seeding also down. Wheat acreage will be greatly reduced this season.

HOUSEWIVES ASK FOR TOO MUCH SUGAR

MONTREAL—One hundred million pounds of sugar (about half the amount asked by Canadian house-wives) will be available for home can-ning purposes the Ration Admin-istration, Wartime Prices and Trade Board announced.

Applications for 200,965,568 pounds of sugar for preserving were asked. Because the total of the 100,000,000 amount is not available include the facts that Canada produces about one-fifth of the same consumed in the same of North America's largest sugar supplies are now in enemy hands; war on the high seas has greatly cur-tailed imports from other available sources, and importing sugar is done at the risk of lives and shipping.

The 100,000,000 pounds of sugar must be divided among those request-ing sugar for canning. Distribution will be in the hands of over 800 Lo-cal Ration Boards from whom Cana-dian housewives will receive their canning coupons in June.

The Battle of Agriculture

The course of wars is determined by the winning of battles. In this global war battles on the home front must be just as competently planned and executed as battles between the armed forces. Although the conflicts between the armed forces are the most spectacular and more often make the headlines than the on-devours on the home front, industrial and agricultural production is of es-pecial importance.

The battle of agriculture is the battle for life itself. The objective of production of the greatest quantity of essential foodstuffs under handi-caps of labor shortage and limitation of equipment, calls for sacrifice and work. The demand must be met. Foods are needed for Canada's armed forces, civilian population, ship's stores, the Red Cross and to meet export commitments to Great Britain and other United Nations.

The soldiers engaged in the battle of agriculture are the farm families and such hired help as are available. The implements of war are the soil, the crops, the live stock, the build-ings and equipment and all things used in the production of crops and live stock. The first duty of a soldier is adequate care of his weapons. With the land army this involves soil con-servation, correct cultural methods, quality of crops and stock and pre-vention of losses due to diseases, in-sects, weeds, unsanitary conditions and incorrect feeding.

The army in this battle of agricul-ture is suffering from lack of sup-plies, lack of manpower, of farm machinery and other equipment. The fight has been in our favor, but there are indications which give cause for alarm. Unless adequate manpower is available, further increases in pro-duction are doubtful and the main-taining of present levels questionable. Every man born is of importance. Many veterans in agriculture will re-turn to the fields in an endeavor to replace sons and grandsons who are serving with the armed forces. The task must not be left to the older generation. Boys and girls must do their share. Residents of cities and towns will be called on for an ever greater contribution in farm work this year.

The battle of agriculture will be won in the fields, in the barns, and in the homes of this country. It will be won only through the most effec-tive and efficient use of all the fac-tors of production.

Big Merchant Marine Fleet is Being Planned

Ottawa.—Canada has in sight a government-owned merchant fleet of some 300 cargo ships if the present ship-building program is carried out. Munitions Minister Howe told the House of Commons.

The present policy is to continue building slower ships which are more economical for war transport service but plans are being studied to con-vert some of the present ship-build-ing capacity to faster ships after the war.

The minister made his statement on the mutual aid bill in answer to questions from Howard Green (Prog.-Con., Vancouver South). He said while some 75 Canadian-built ships have been sold to the United States to obtain United States dol-lars, the exchange situation now has been eased, and he hoped it would not be necessary to sell more. Can-adian retained the ownership of ships placed at the disposal of the United Kingdom under mutual aid.

The government, said Mr. Howe, is retaining all the ships which can be manned but there is a shortage of crews which cannot be fully met by the merchant training schools.

With sales to the United States stopped the remainder of the ships would be retained either to be manned by Canadian crews and operated for Canada or chartered to the United Kingdom. Ships operated would be reclaimed after the war when it was hoped they could be manned with officers and sailors from the Can-adian navy.

"We expect therefore, that the gov-ernment merchant marine will be a substantial source of employment in the post-war years and will be of real benefit to Canadian post-war economy," said Mr. Howe.

"That is the policy. In the mean-time we are following the same pro-cedure as is followed in the United Kingdom and operating her ships directly."

They are turned over to an oper-ating company, known as the Park Steamship Company, that is, the ships that are operated with Canadian crews. The Park Steamship Com-pany allocates ships to existing ship-ping lines which have, over the years, operated certain routes from Can-ada.

"These lines have their agents in ports of call to be made by the ships and the ships are chartered for one voyage only. They may be trans-ferred from one operating company to another depending on the service in which they are placed for a par-ticular voyage."

The ships, said Mr. Howe, were operated for the government on a small fee. The earnings are being placed in a special fund to pay for the cost of the ship and by the end of the war it is expected a substan-tial part of the cost of the fleet will be paid off.

By the end of 1941 four or five cargo ships had been built in addi-tion to ships sold to the United States and transferred to the United Kingdom, Canada had 18 or 17 new ships in the mercantile marine.

NEW SUPPLY ROUTE

Being Built For Alaska Highway By U.S. Army Engineers

Fairbanks, Alaska.—A new 146-mile auxiliary route to funnel sup-plies for projected U.S. Army bases in the Alaskan area is under construc-tion by U.S. army engineers from Haines, Alaska, to a point on the Alaska highway 100 miles to the west of Whitehorse, Y.T., officers to the U.S. army here disclosed.

The road winds across the Chilkat pass from Alaska into the Yukon and for 43 miles follows a remnant of the old Jack Dalton trail. It crosses the coastal mountain range and continues in a northwest direc-tion.

Supplies and equipment for the road-building project have been car-ried in to the bottom of the long climb over the pass. The Chilkat pass has long been held to be the easiest route in the opinion of northern In-dians, but will present unusual snow problems in winter.

WAR LOAN IN AFRICA

Algiers.—Gen. Henri Giraud, open-ing a French war loan drive, offered the French in North Africa an oppor-tunity to stake their money on the future of France. The bonds will pay three per cent. and mature in three years. They are in denominations of 1,000 francs upward.

Details Of The Billion Gift To United Kingdom

Ottawa.—Finance Minister Ilsley announced in the House of Commons that of the $1,000,000,000 gift to the United Kingdom last year $680,-000,000 was represented by munitions of war and $311,000,000 by foodstuffs and raw materials.

Explaining the arrangements made for the supply of goods under the gift, Mr. Ilsley said it was not pos-sible to declare that specific items had been paid for out of the gift. Actual shipments to the United King-dom had exceeded $1,000,000,000 and, of the total, part had been financed by means other than the gift.

In a tabulation dealing with "sterling area" purchases, the min-ister reported that shipments in the period covered by the gift totalled $1,440,000,000.

Mr. Ilsley said that "arbitrary" esti-mates had been made of the amounts shipped under the $1,000,000,000 gift and those sent under other methods of financing.

From the shipments made under the gift on this basis, it was known that supplies valued at $61,000,000 had been transferred to Russia—in-cluding tanks and armored fighting vehicles to the value of $49,000,000, shells and ammunitions valued at $8,000,000 and base metals valued at $9,000,000.

Also from the gift, mechanical transport valued at $71,000,000 had been transferred to Australia, New Zealand and other parts of the sterling area.

In the breakdown of the portions attributed to the $1,000,000,000 con-tribution, Mr. Ilsley listed outlays for aircraft and parts, $31,000,000.

Aircraft and parts, $31,000,000; armored fighting vehicles and me-chanical transport, including tanks, $343,000,000; chemicals and ex-plosives, $32,000,000; guns and gwall carriages, $50,000,000; shells and ammuni-tion, $170,000,000; and other munici-tions of war, including naval and air equipment, instruments, communi-cations equipment and the like, $54 -000,000.

Also under the gift portion, the minister listed wheat valued at $87,-000,000; bacon and pork products, $75,000,000; lumber, $28,000,000; cheese, $20,000,000; base metals (in part only), $101,000,000.

In the breakdown of purchases by the sterling area, but attributed to other sources of financing than the $1,000,000,000 gift, Mr. Ilsley listed commodity exports totalling $319-000,000 and services totalling $321,-000,000.

In the commodity exports section, a total of $140,000,000 went to the United Kingdom, represented by: Foodstuffs, $60,000,000; base metals, $19,000,000; wood products, $29,000,-000; and miscellaneous, $32,000,000.

Commodity exports to the sterling area other than the United Kingdom were valued at $79,000,000.

London.—Russian Foreign Commis-sar Molotov, in a note to all foreign diplomats in Moscow, charged that the German government sponsored systematic deportation of hundreds of thousands of Soviet civilians into slavery in Germany last winter, the Moscow radio said.

Might Discuss New Far East Offensive Plan

Washington.—Prime Minister Win-ston Churchill brought with him to Washigton his top military, naval and air experts from India, leading to strong belief that the prime min-ister's conferences with President Roosevelt will include plans for new offensives in the Far East.

With the prime minister were Field Marshal Sir Archibald P. Wavell, commander-in-chief of British forces in India; Admiral Sir James Somer-ville, commander-in-chief of the eastern fleet, and Air Marshal Sir Richard Peirse, commanding British air officer in India.

The main strategists of the United Nations' cause, enthusiastic over the Allied victory in Tunisia, are holding their fifth conference—the third to be conducted in the White House — in 17 months. They are cit-ed-ed by top British and American experts.

Only the brief announcement of Churchill's arrival was made, but ob-servers here believe that in addition to Far-pean military plans they would give keen attention to these matters:

1. Plans to re-emphasize their "unconditional surrender" declaion reached at Casablanca last January and to re-assert their lack of interest in peace offensives, except on that condition, whether emanating from the Axis satellite or through such agents as Gen. Franco of Spain.

2. Incessant demands of the Axis

Resistance In Low Countries Is Increasing

London.—Rioting in Berlin among anxious relatives of German soldiers killed, wounded or captured in the concluded Tunisian fighting and spreading violence in The Nether-lands and Belgium against occupa-tion forces has been reported.

The attacks on military establish-ments in the low countries and the reported movement of German troops into Belgium and Holland were taken as signs that an Allied invasion of the continent may be imminent.

The Netherlands news agency Aneta reported that Radio Orange, the Dutch station in London had warned Holland's population that the Germans are trying to provoke a premature revolt.

The broadcast charged that the Germans are distributing forged calls to rebellion to provoke the Dutch people to violence, and added:

"Resistance is only good if it is carried out in concert. Do not be provoked."

The report of riots in Berlin was carried in a Reuters news agency despatch from Stockholm which was based on an account published in the Aftonbladet (Swedish Handelstidnin-gen.

PRAIRIE FARMERS' DEBTS DISCUSSED IN PAMPHLET

That the granting of further debt adjustment legislation at the present time would hinder rather than aid farmers or Western Canada is the conclusion reached in a statement entitled "The Prairie Farmer and His Debts," recently issued by the Dominion Mortgage and Investments Association.

Companies represented by the association are trustees for the funds of many thousands of life insurance policy holders and depositors in trust and loan companies. Already they have seen the security of their loans reduced to a state where many farm land mortgages have become unsatisfactory investments. The application of prairie province government acts of some western farm debt limits to further such legislation would be granted, only aggravate a condition already far from sound in the Association's claim.

The point stressed is, that to bring about a return of prosperity in Western Canada the credit of prairie agriculture must be restored in these days of improved conditions the redevelopment of a normal attitude of mind toward payment of obligations, rather than a demand for relief for their concessions from parliament, would, it is argued, remain that confidence of investors so necessary for any well rounded future Canadian prosperity

BY J. B. RYAN

CHAPTER III

MORGAN'S room was on the fifth floor. In keeping with his appraisal intuition of the man, the American had to let the elevator operator see him return to his room. But as soon as the coast was clear, Morgan was climbing the stairway to the fifth floor. Verda would be busy for some time developing the fingerprints on the switchblade, and this would be an excellent opportunity to search the little man's baggage.

Not even the owners of the Can Grande knew that one of the guests carried keys that could open any door from top to bottom of the edifice. Those keys had been obtained for Morgan by Capt. Rojas of the Bureau Aires Police Department, the only man in the city who knew why Chris Morgan had come to Argentina.

Morgan had searched Verda's room three days before, when it had been occupied by a Chilean couple since checked out, and it required very little time to go over the room once again. There was nothing but a small suitcase, support to Verda's claim that he was in Buenos Aires only for a short visit. There was a letter, however, that established him as a gentleman, owner of a ranch near Santa Rosa.

The American descended to the fourth floor. The rooms of Guillermo and Col. Velasquez, in one of which he must have left the fingerprints that had aroused suspicion, he was impatient to examine again.

OF COURSE, Guillermo's presence in the dining room might have been chance. The musician was something of a recluse, seldom speaking a word to anyone; he had exchanged no words with Verda since the arrival of his switchblade knife. But Verda and Col. Miguel Velasquez y Cuyas, Morgan knew, had met before. They came to find would not prove to be Velasquez. In spite of the presence of brusque words, the American liked the looks of the seedy, old-eyed soldier.

To enter the room of Col. Velasquez was out of the question, few minutes at least. Morgan had seen the Argentinian army officer in the lobby, had seen him enter the elevator. Perhaps if Velasquez absented time this evening with that aloe-eyed beauty, Juanita Morgan knew would the couple together on several occasions the American would be able to steal unobserved into the soldier's quarters.

Was Guillermo in his suite? If Don Felix was helping Verda photograph the fingerprints the operation might be taking place in the room of the suspected musician. Morgan tapped on the door and listened, prepared to dart down the corridor toward the stairway if he heard any sound within.

But his knock produced only silence. Morgan inserted a key in the lock, opened the door and stole into the room. As he closed the door he heard a sort of shout or cry from the hall as the light suddenly failed him. The sound of rapid footsteps strengthened the idea that Verda had fallen went past the door, rounded the corner of the passage and hurried on.

Morgan approached a desk set close to the double-windowed wall. On it there must be found a letter that published surface that he had left the imprint of a thumb or finger. He would have to be more careful this time. He draped a handkerchief over his hand before he touched the handle of the top drawer.

HE LIFTED a handful of papers and spread them on the desk, and at that moment a voice, vicious, "You are seeking something, senor."

Morgan tried not to look up too quickly. The door leading into the bathroom, closed when he had tiptoed toward the desk, was open now, and in the doorway stood the tall, slightly stooped figure of Felix Guillermo.

"You seek something, senor?"

"Don Felix!" Morgan swallowed, and grinned roguishly as he stared around in apparent astonishment. "I seem to be in the wrong room."

"Si, senor," agreed Guillermo, leaning one slow step forward. "So it seems. The wrong room." The aged musician was wearing a dressing-gown and his hands were in the pockets of the garment.

"Pray excuse my intrusion, Senor Guillermo," said Morgan. "I thought this was the fifth floor and mistook your location by one."

The American turned toward the door. Guillermo said, "Senor, where you are, Senor Morgan." The musician's use of the name Morgan's first indication that this man who seemed to notice no one was aware of Morgan's identity.

"Do you open your own desk with fish-covered fingers?" asked Guillermo. "Do you walk soundlessly across your own floor?" He stepped to the small stand in the corner of the room and, without taking his eyes from Morgan, lifted the handset phone from its cradle.

"Don Felix!" protested Morgan.

"Do not move, senor!" Guillermo's other hand came out of the dressing-gown pocket holding a squat blue-steel pistol. "I can shoot you for the thief you seem to be—Hello? There is a thief in my room. I—what's that—?"

Don Felix listened, then replaced the phone carefully. Behind the mask of his spectacles his myopic eyes showed the certainty at Chris Morgan. "It appears, senor," he said, "that you are a thief, too. I did not think you were a murderer also—"

"Murderer?" Morgan repeated sharply. "What do you mean?"

COL. MIGUEL Velasquez y Cuyas had been found in his room, stabbed to death. That was the report of the commotion we heard in the hall."

There was a long moment of silence during which Chris Morgan stared unbelievingly at the gunsat man holding the pistol with a steady hand. "What—" Morgan had to moisten his lips that were suddenly dry. "What makes you think I killed him?"

The stooped shoulders shrugged. "The conclusion is obvious. If you broke into my room, you would also enter that of Col. Velasquez. I presume the colonel surprised you even as I did. If I did not have this gun you would probably kill me as well—"

"It is not true," interrupted Morgan. "I am no murderer!"

Again Guillermo gestured with his shoulders. "I am not accusing you, senor. As soon as I mentioned that I had captured a prowler, the desk clerk informed me that it must be the killer of Col. Velasquez and asked that I hold you—"

The door behind Morgan opened with a force that slammed it against the wall and two men entered with drawn guns. One of the men Morgan recognized as his friend, Police Capt. Rojas.

"This is the man, senores." Don Felix lowered his own pistol and stepped back, relinquishing the situation to the proper authorities. Capt. Rojas eyed Morgan, and was unable to conceal his bewilderment. "But—from Felix! This is Senor Morgan, the American—"

Guillermo smiled coldly, and the grimace gave his parchment-light face a sardonic cast. "Then you be hide in my room?"

Morgan glanced at the musician. Guillermo had not mentioned that he had caught Morgan rifling his desk.

THE tall man crowded when Morgan and Rojas, followed by Guillermo and the second policeman, reached the room of Col. Velasquez. The colonel, clad in the uniform of the army of Argentina, was sprawled on the door beside a table and an overturned chair. A knife was buried to the hilt between the shoulder blades of the dead soldier. Beside the corpse knelt a doctor.

At one side of the room was a third police official questioning Senor De Nova and the youth who ran the elevator. Captain Rojas immediately joined his colleague. Morgan noted all this subconsciously, for his attention was focused on the table where, obviously, Colonel Velasquez had been seated when stabbed.

There was a second chair, pushed back slightly, and on the table was a siphon and a bottle of whisky. What must have been Velasquez's glass was lying on its side as though knocked over when the soldier had received his death blow. But there was another glass, so familiar that a slight shock coursed through Chris Morgan.

The second glass was half-filled, and faintly dull as though it had been cleaned with a greasy rag—the escape glass, apparently, into which Morgan had poured his own unfinished drink.

Morgan's eyes roved over the room. On a divan Rosita Velasquez was being comforted by an elderly woman; the doctor had joined the group about Captain Rojas; but Senor Raymundo Verda was conspicuous by his absence. Felix Guillermo, his face expressionless, was watching Morgan.

The American's gaze returned to the table. He had guessed wrong concerning the reason Verda and Don Felix had desired his fingerprints. That glass had been placed in his room as evidence that Morgan was the killer of Velasquez.

Had the plot been built up since Morgan had bumped into Velasquez and knocked Rosita off her feet?

Capt. Rojas touched Morgan's arm. "Is this the man who was with Col. Velasquez?" he inquired of the elevator boy.

The youth hesitated and studied the American most carefully. "I would not say, Senor el Capitan," he said. "He is tall, si, as was the man I saw, with the same brown hair and gray eyes, but—"

"It was he—it was Senor Morgan." A shrill-faced De Nova was beginning to regain his identification. "We happened to be shortchanged downstairs this afternoon and it was I, who am interested only in the welfare of my guests, who called into this room the liquor, soda and glasses ordered by the colonel. The colonel's guest was standing at the table. I came back was I came as though he did not wish me to see his face. But I am certain, the man was Senor Morgan—"

Sweeping The Streets

London Women Have Taken Over The Job And Like It

In wartime British women do everything from shipbuilding to street sweeping. As you watch them sometimes at laborious, crude work, you wonder how they feel about it.

In Soho, peace-time home of quaint foreign restaurants and European shops, plump Florence Sharp was discovered plying her trade as street sweeper. She was induced to go before the microphone and tell how it felt to be a woman working at what one time was essentially a man's business. In her narrative she told how she "liked road sweeping better than anything else" she ever had done before her husband was killed during an air raid.

It also developed within her a keenly philosophy. She notices things about people and life that she had never realized before. "You see life on the job," she said thoughtfully. "You really do. You see how people are happy and you see how they are sad and miserable. You see everything that's going on in life."

HOT WEATHER

1 cup milk
½ cup rice
2 tablespoons Bee Hive Golden Corn Syrup
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup cream, whipped

Heat milk in top of double boiler. Wash and drain rice, and cook in hot milk until tender—about 45 minutes. Add corn syrup and salt. Chill. When ready to serve, fold in whipped cream. Pile lightly in serving dishes and top with [illegible] cream. In serving Morocco sauce with the above dessert, the sauce may be used either hot or chilled. If it is served cold, the sauce will be thicker

Morocco Sauce

1 cup Bee Hive Golden corn syrup
1 tablespoon butter
1 square unsweetened chocolate
Few grains salt

Melt chocolate in top of double boiler. Add corn syrup and bring to scalding heat. Add salt and butter and serve hot over rice. Or, if preferred, chill before serving

The contrast of a hot sauce on well-chilled desserts is delightful. This Morocco sauce is delicious with hot baked pears, plain cottage pudding, steamed pudding, [illegible] rice, and is served hot or cold with ice cream.

VERMILION OIL FIELD GAINING IN IMPORTANCE

Receives Prominent Mention in Survey

The Editor has received an interesting pamphlet on the Development of Alberta's Oil Industry in 1942. It is written by the well-known geologist J. L. Irwin and is issued by the Dept. of Trade and Industry of Alberta.

After dealing with Turner Valley the report deals with other Alberta fields as follows:

"Production from oil fields outside of Turner Valley for 1942 show:

Field	Bbls.
Vermilion 9	68,793
Taber	29,819
Wainwright	14,819
Princess	10,478
Red Coulee	10,167
Tilley	5,718
Lloydminster	1,739
Iwl Bonita	1,653
Lloydminster	477
TOTAL	139,335

In comparison with last year's production of 78,304 bbls. Fields on the side of Turner Valley, this total for 1942 shows almost 100% increase.

Vermilion and Taber are mainly responsible for this performance. As stated in a preliminary (10 months) review of 1942, Vermilion field is developing into a producing area of considerable importance. A further quotation from this review reads as follows:

The Vermilion field was discovered in 1939 and drilling became active in 1940 and 1941. Production is secured from a shallow horizon (Lower Cretaceous) at depths in the neighborhood of 1,300 feet and 1,500 feet. Drilling time is consequently short, and in certain individual cases wells have been completed in 36 hours. The oil which is viscous and heavy, has a gravity of from 14° to 20 A.P.I. Gas in some instances is in sufficient quantity to maintain flowing wells for a short time.

The Vermilion product is of a classification which blends with the fuel oil demands of the railways. In this connection, a recent statement was published, a part of which reads as follows: 'Have reported He use has increased given highly satisfactory, in fact, the best we have used yet.'

Oil production from Vermilion field during the past two years has advanced in a manner which has been definitely encouraging. With an established market for its product, which is recovered by speedy drilling from shallow horizons, coupled with its brief but successful history, there is justification for the hope that this prairie oil field may develop into another major producing area within the province, of which there is now such urgent need."

TRADE CAR OWNERS GET NEW LICENSES

More than 70,000 car owners in Alberta already have taken out passenger car licenses for the present year that opened April 1, according to information received by the Alberta Motor Association from the provincial secretary's department.

The number is about the total at this time last year, but the showing is surprisingly good, in the opinion of government officials, in view of wartime restrictions on gasoline and tires.

With the advent of the summer holidaying period, it is anticipated that the license total will be materially increased. Greater demands on the use of autos for essential business purposes also should serve to swell the license total. Officials believe that the year's total will still come within striking distance of the 90,000 total for the previous year.

Of the 70,000 car owners who have been issued "AA" tourist coupons, it is believed that approximately one-third, or 22,000 have been issued special category ration books. These books are issued by the regional controller for essential driving purposes.

After travelling back and forth across Canada for thousands of miles, during eight years, an envelope used in Canadian National inter-department service has just been retired.

WILDMERE WINES

We did find a spare moment to send in a few news items again this week.

We wish to extend congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Alex Stone, Cummings, on the birth of a baby son; and to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith, Beaverod, on the birth of a baby daughter.

Tractors are humming day and night trying to rush the seed into the ground. Some threshing is still to be done but farmers are planting what land they have ready before going on with the threshing. Andy Carlson is almost done with his run we hear. Threshing has been very slow with only a couple of teams to haul the sheaves, help being so hard to get. There is quite a reduction in wheat acreage in this district, some not seeding their land to grass owing to the shortage of labor.

Yvonne Morand of Triangle spent the week end with her grandmother Mrs. Adam Smith.

Mrs. Cliff Crathorn and three children and Miss Leona Phillips visited at the Jack Marfleet home in Tuesday night on Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Tommy Wilson took little Lee Morand to the hospital his Saturday night suffering from pneumonia. Reported back to the little chap. His mother Mrs. Chas Morand is staying with him.

On Sunday May 9th Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Crathorn and family spent the evening with Mr. and Mrs. Albert Smith and family at Beaverod.

Mrs. Eric Madill, Vermilion, who has just returned from a couple of months spent at Dawson Creek, B.C., where her husband is working, was out visiting her parents Mr. and Mrs. G. Gilmour, Beaverod, on Sunday. We understand she and her husband spent Easter Sunday with the writer's cousin and family at Arras, P.O., B.C.

Quite a nice crowd attended the church service Sunday. The writer and family were unable to attend owing to duties at home, but hope that doesn't happen very often.

We are sorry to hear that Billie Myron Carlson has been confined to the house with a very sore ear, may it soon be alright Myron as that you may be able to be out to enjoy this nice sunny weather.

Women may be able to take men's work in lots of places, but one place they don't fit in is announcing over the radio. They just can't get it across like a man. What do others think?

This monthly letter is a resume of the news of the past month, specially prepared for mailing to the boys overseas or in distant parts of Canada.

so so so

Vermilion, May 1, 1943.

Spring threshing (something very unusual) is pretty well cleaned up. In some places the yields were quite disappointing; in others not so bad. On a good many farms spring plowing followed close on the "harvesters" as they gathered the stooks which they found colonized with mice. There was much scampering of the little squeakers as the stooks were lifted. Anyway harvesting is nearly over and spring work is on. Labor is scarce and soldiers have been given temporary furloughs to relieve the situation. In all probability there will be less acreage sown to wheat this year than for the past several years. This spring threshing reminds one of last fall when the Government sent hundreds of high school boys to the West to assist in the harvest fields, only a few of whom had ever seen a farm and a great many could not speak the language of our farmers.

Everybody now appears to be inflicted with a yearly recurring disease known as "spring fever". There is a warning there may be a food shortage next winter and we are all asked to plant Victory gardens. So every spare nook is supposed to produce enough vegetables to carry us over the winter months. The people are responding heartily to the call. There is also a threatening fuel shortage and a similar warning goes out to stock up a coal supply that will carry us through the winter months. E.H. Buckingham reports that 91 per cent of the bags marketed in Alberta show some traces of T.B. and a marked increase is prevalent T.B. in hogs going into the packing plants. He warns that if farmers continue to send bags in this condition packers will refuse to take them which will mean much loss to the producers.

Trees are coming into leaf, shrubs are in bud, the grass is green and nature is coming into her own for another season.

A well-known veteran of the last war, Allan Pilgate, passed away suddenly April 21. The deceased was gassed twice and never fully recovered from the effects. He was 57. W. J. Blair, wartime M.P. for Battle River died at his home in Ingersoll Ontario recently at the age of 65. He donated the Blair cup to the Vermilion curling club for inter-town competitions.

The Queenie Creek association under whose auspices several stampedes were held, ceased to function 14 years ago last month. The balance of moneys held by the Association when wound up was donated to the Town of Vermilion for the purpose of installing shower baths in the Vermilion arena. This was done only a few years ago.

The golfers have organized for the season at Vermilion. The President is Jack Beresford with Baden Anderson vice president. H. R. Parker is secretary. The grounds are being conditioned for the season's play.

Miss Vera Peart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W.H. Hallburton, Edmonton, was married recently to Pumak, Milton, son of Postmaster and Mrs. Taylor, Vermilion. They will make their home in Edmonton where Mr. Taylor is connected with the military forces.

The strike of the coal miners in the Drumheller area has been settled. A miner had been discharged and his fellow workers sought his reinstatement and upon being refused tied up every colliery in the district. Work was resumed on the 3rd when a vote of the miners went back to work. Over 2000 men were involved.

Horse racing in Canada opens on May 15th at Victoria Park, Calgary. A feature of the show will be the 12th running of the Alberta Derby on March 24 western bred three-year-olds are eligible.

Among the R. "A.F." student pilots receiving their wings recently was Maurice Pallow formerly of Vermilion now of Edmonton and son of the Hon. W. A. Pallow, former resident and Mayor of Vermilion. Maurice got his wings at Saskatoon.

Meat rationing on a slight scale came into force on May 4. Patrons of restaurants and hotels dined without meat but there were sufficient other eatables on the menus.

For the month of May beer devotees will be entitled only to one dozen small bottles of the amber liquid and one of hard liquor. The funny thing is that the local hotels are hanging out the signs "Closed—No Beer", in the middle of the month. The vendor store reports increased sales of hard liquor, more permits, because of the shortage of beer. Although the monthly ration had been two dozen for about three weeks in April there was no beer, with stocks exhausted and no additional quota obtainable. Hard liquor supplies were running low in Edmonton but the first of May saw shelves loaded up again. Locally it is expected that the Mother Hubbard's cupboard will be replenished shortly.

Subscriptions to the Fourth Victory Loan are mounting day by day and the prospects are that the town and district will easily reach their quota, $130,000. In the three previous appeals Vermilion went over the top on each occasion.

The Ottawa Commandos defeated Victoria Army to win the Allan cup, emblematic of the Canadian Senior Amateur Hockey championship by a score of 2-1 in the final game. The Coast team won one game in the series. The West crowned up honors last year by the spectacular win of the Drumheller ares has been settled. A miner had been discharged and his fellow workers sought his reinstatement and upon being refused tied up every colliery in the district. Work was resumed on the 3rd when a vote of the miners went back to work. Over 2000 men were involved.

WHEAT ACREAGE REDUCTION

Farmers of the Prairie Provinces, including the Peace River and Creston areas of British Columbia, who desire to divert wheat acreage to the production of any other crops or to summerfallow in 1943, may claim payment for doing so.

Payment of $2.00 may be made for each acre by which the wheat seeded on any farm in 1943 is below that seeded on such farm in 1940. If there was no wheat on a farm in 1940 but there was wheat in 1939, the 1939 acreage may be used instead of those of 1940. Any crops or summerfallow may be substituted and no payment will not be made on abandoned lands.

Payment on any farm is limited to an acreage not greater than 80% of the total cultivated acreage of such farm.

To obtain payment farmers must make a sworn statement of claim immediately seeding is completed. They should plan to do SO WIT LATER THAN JUNE 30th.

Any farmer who did not apply for Wheat Acreage Reduction payment in either 1941 or 1942 and intends to do so in 1943 must notify his municipality of his intention before May 31, and then make his claim after seeding.

Forms are available in the offices of the municipalities or direct from offices of the Wheat Acreage Reduction Administration in Winnipeg, Regina and Edmonton.

Statements of claim may be submitted to Municipal Offices or to Offices especially arranged to receive them in localities not served by municipalities. Delay in making claims should be avoided; they may be filed immediately seeding is completed. Persons having interests in farms as landlords may submit applications at once.

Women And The War

IT WAS RECENTLY STATED that this is a war in which civilians are in "the front line," no less than those in the armed forces. In the countries which have been bombed by the enemy, this has already been shown to be true. In Canada civilians have not been called upon so far to meet with the horrors of war in their own homes, but in all walks of life they have shown themselves ready to give full support to a gigantic war effort. The large numbers of men who have joined the armed services, and the way in which industry has geared itself to the production of war materials have all shown the readiness of the people of this Dominion to support to the utmost the cause of the United Nations. That women have taken a full share in all that has been done is well known to most of us, but some details concerning their part in Canada's war effort reveal that their contribution is greater than is perhaps generally realized.

• • • •

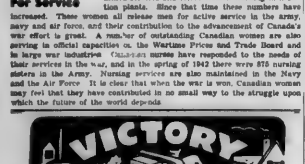
Much Work Done By Volunteers

In the national registration, taken in August, 1940, 2,285,370 women in Canada were listed as housewives. While some of these women have since entered war industries, the majority are still in their homes and their service in maintaining the home life of the nation and in keeping up the morale of those who are in the fighting forces or in war industries is recognized to be very great. Those women, too, form a vast army of volunteer workers who contribute greatly in providing comforts for those in the services and for their families. Members of women's patriotic organizations undertake the collection of salvage, work for the promotion of better nutrition and national health, place evacuees and refugees, assist in blood donor service, and in countless other ways meet and deal effectively with the human and social side of wartime problems. Several million dollars are raised every year in Canada, for war services, and voluntary women's organizations are instrumental in raising a large proportion of this money.

• • • •

Men Released For Service

In 1943 it was estimated that there were 5,500 Canadian women wearing official uniforms of the armed services and 75,000 women working in munition plants. Since that time these numbers have increased. These women all release men for active service in the army, navy and air forces, and thereby make their contribution to the advancement of Canada's war effort is great. A number of outstanding Canadian women are also serving in official capacities on the Wartime Prices and Trade Board and in large war industries. Canadian women have responded to the needs of their services in the war, and in the spring of 1942 there were 875 nursing sisters in the Army. Nursing services are also maintained in the Navy and the Air Force. It is clear that when the war is won, Canadian women may feel that they have contributed in no small way to the struggle upon which the future of the world depends.



In these days when everyone's time is so much occupied, and when minutes are precious, the housewife can reflect with pleasure that the simpler the meals she serves, the better they are for her family's health. The fuel is that elaborate preparation of foods, especially of vegetables, causes the loss of much of their vitamin and mineral content.

Some of this was found in the Ramona Boys' & Club experiment with noon meals conducted in Toronto from February to March 1943, offer suggestions to mothers of school children. Here are three typical ones:

Baked Potatoes - Cheese	Baked Lima Beans	Tossed Cheese Sand-
Wedges of Raw Cabbage	(Canned) with Tomato	wiches on Whole Wheat
Tomato Juice	Sauce	Bread
Buttered Whole Wheat	Raw Turnip Sticks
Bread	Oranges	Milk
Oranges	Milk	Cocoa
Milk	Cocoa
Cod Liver Oil	Cod Liver Oil	Cod Liver Oil

Simple aren't they?

Yet each of those meals gave every boy all or nearly all of his day's requirements in the protective food elements, the vitamins and minerals, and more than ½ of his calorie needs for the day. All this at an average cost of less than 18 cents per meal! And before you say, "But they won't eat brown bread or raw vegetables" please remember that the thirty K club boys, who were just ordinary boys like any others, did eat them without protest and enjoyed them. You may have to do a sales job but it can be done because it has been done. And it's well worth doing.

Joining The Allies

French Fishermen Accept Invitation To Depart From British Ships

The Nazis have threatened to stop French fishing boats from operating off the Atlantic coast near Gibraltar, because of the large number of crew desertions to the British, says the Washington Merry-Go-Round.

Wherever the French boats show up in this area, the British Navy sends out small, fast ocean-going cutters with loud-speakers. The cutters pull up a short distance away and soon the fishermen hear a rumbling voice announce:

"If any of you men want to join up with the Allies to fight those so-and-so's, jump in the water and start swimming. We will pick you up."

Sometimes the French boats have been left without a single man on board, so great has been the response to the invitation. Several times the Vichy Government sent a small warship along to protect the fishing boats, with instructions to fire on deserters.

However, this precaution did little good, because gunners on the escorting vessel deliberately shot over the heads of the swimming figures.

Biscuits And War Jobs

Soda Crackers Are Very High In Calorie Value

(By Molly O'Dale)

While few civilians on the home front are suffering hardships as a result of the war, a great upheaval has been caused in settled habits of living. At this very moment thousands of women, in peacetime, would be engaged exclusively in their domestic duties, are now working in munitions plants or devoting a lot of their time to civilian defence, Red Cross and other wartime activities.

This leaves them little time for cooking. Meals have to be prepared in less time so biscuits and crackers are in greater demand than ever before. The soda cracker, for instance, is a great time-saver, being a tasty and highly nutritious kind of diet that needs no special preparation and goes well with soup, cheese, jam, marmalade, salads and so forth.

The remarkable thing about soda crackers is that they compress a lot of nutrition into a very small compass. This is due to the fact that they contain very little moisture. In a loaf of good bread for instance, moisture constitutes about 36% of its total weight, while there is less than 8% of moisture in a soda biscuit. This dehydration enables soda crackers to be kept without spoiling, and without any special storage facilities.

Moreover, soda crackers are very high in calorie value, too—they give you 109 calories for one cent which is 92 calories more for the money than you get in beef steak which averages only 17 calories for a cent. So—it's no wonder that 96 homes out of a hundred use biscuits and crackers regularly.

NO MORE "DOSING" MY CONSTIPATION —I'VE CORRECTED THE CAUSE!

"Regularity" is important any time, but it's vitally important in these busy war days when all of us are working harder than ever. Don't you be "slowed down" by that common type of constipation due to lack of "bulk" in your diet. And be sensible . . . correct the trouble right at its source instead of "dosing" with harsh purgatives that give only temporary relief.

Eat KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN . . . granulated as a cereal or in bot, crispy muffins . . . eat it every day . . . drink plenty of water . . . then see if you don't begin to get real, common-sense constipation. For ALL-BRAN supplies the "bulk" your diet needs . . . promotes natural regularity. Your grocer has ALL-BRAN in two convenient sizes. Made by Kellogg's in London, Canada.

Victory Gardens

Pointers On Sowing Certain Vegetables In Succession

If your Victory Garden is to supply your family with fresh health-giving vitamin-rich vegetables throughout the summer and early autumn, it should be planned to give an all-season yield.

Take radishes. The early ones are edible for about one week. Suppose you want a six weeks' supply. If you sowed all six weeks' at once you would have for one week many more radishes than you could use, and then no more.

There are only certain crops that require succession growing. Several plantings of carrots, beets and beans are advisable. Beans will give a long harvest if picked clean and not allowed to make seed. It is best never to let beans form in the pods. Use the pods when they are in the tenderest stage. Carrots and beans are still sweet, tender and nutritious when they are big in the fall, but they are still better when younger.

When making succession sowings, remember your second sowing will mature faster than the first because of the warmer weather Your sowings should be sufficient for a definite period, so that there will be no wasteful over-production.

Kohlrabi, spinach, peas and radishes have particularly short harvests and successive plantings are necessary for continued supply.

When estimating the season's needs, imagine you are a market gardener with one customer, with whose buying habits you are familiar.

You can estimate your average gardening season and arrive at the number of vegetable dishes your family is likely to need, taking into account also your canning requirements. Of course, many Canadians take pleasure in providing apartment-house friends with fresh garden foods. Others send surplus production to charitable institutions, such as homes for dependent children. The point is to avoid waste. Food must not be wasted in wartime.

For further information to assist you with your Victory Garden write to the Federal or provincial department of agriculture.

Result Might Be Tragic

Inflammable Articles In Parcel May Cause Fire At Sea

Fire at sea! This is the fear of all those "who go down to the sea in ships." If parcels containing inflammable substances are sent overseas this may be the tragic result.

Heat is generated in parts of ships' holds when the hatches are closed. Merchant ships are now armed, and when fire breaks out, the ammunition on board may cause a serious explosion.

Postal authorities point out that it is contrary to law to send matches, lighter fluid, or any inflammable substance through the mails. By doing this Canada's war effort may be impaired, and the lives of sailors and railway employees, as well as the lives of those on ships, are endangered.

Red Cross News

The following translated letter is just one of many thousands of appeals sent to the Red Cross, some of which are unheeded or unanswered.

"I am Alexander, son of Stanislaw Ostkovski. I am not quite 16 years old and am maintaining my mother, who is ill, as well as a little brother and sister. I am the fourth and am working with all my might and main but have no more strength left to maintain my whole family. I work extremely hard for those 8 kilos of wheat to keep my mother. Suffering from hunger, her health is failing and consequently misery and crying fill my home. She was ill when she was deported. They put her on a stretcher and carried her to the train. Now I must tire myself so because my mother cannot walk and because my father has been put in prison as a Polish spy and surely he is perishing somewhere, the same as we are. My father was in the Polish Legion and as a volunteer was invalid-ed during the war and was paid a pension and now he has been labelled a spy and interned—taken into prison. I am his 16 year old son and stretch out my hands to you, begging you to help me to maintain my ailing family so that they may not perish from hunger in Siberia. My youthful forces are deserting me. I am almost naked and go barefoot, my rags fly wild in the prairie winds. I am sick of life. I wanted to live in my father's room, but I was called to voluntary service in the army as my father has done but I have not the heart to leave my sick mother and beg you to help me."

Mr. and Mrs. Goulette and Mr. H. Kirkpatrick are leaving this week for the west coast where they expect to make their home in future. They have farmed in this district for a great number of years and it is with deep regret that their many friends and neighbors see them go. Every good wish and success is extended to them in their new home.

Threshing is practically cleaned up in the Claysmore district and every one is busy with field work. There is a great need to rush the seeding as this is the latest spring we have had in many years. People are beginning to wonder if it will ever warm up enough to make the leaves come out.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

BIBLE TEACHINGS ON WINE'S DECEITFULNESS

Golden text: At the last it biteth like a serpent. And stingeth like an adder. Proverbs 23:32.

Lesson: Proverbs 20:1; 23:29-35; Matthew 24:45-51.

Devotional reading: Galatians 5: 7-10.

Explanations and Comments

What the Wise Man Knew about Wine, Proverbs 20:1.

What Wine Drinking Does, Proverbs 23 29-35. By a series of questions verses 29 and 30 give us a vivid picture of a drunkard. "Who hath Oh! Who hath Alas!" the Hebrew literally reads, for the words translated "woe" and "sorrow", we are told, are interjections rather than nouns. "Who hath complaining? Who hath wounds without cause?" Drunkenness embroils men in quarrels and strife. They come to blows over nothing, without knowing why or wherefore. "Who hath redness of eyes?" Bleared eyes are one of the conspicuous signs of a drunkard.

The speaker then answers his own questions: "They that tarry long at the wine; they that go to seek out mixed wine." By "mixed wine" may be meant wine mixed with spices or with opiates. "There is a touch of sarcasm in the answer; the verb elsewhere used of diligent search after knowledge is here used, as if ironically of the investigations of connoisseurs in wine, meeting to find its qualities" (Plumptre).

The writer now counsels everyone to keep away from temptation: "Look not upon the wine when it is red." "Critics judge wine, among other indications, by the color of it; some wine they say, looks so well that it even says 'Come and drink me'." (Matthew Henry). "When it sparkleth in the cup, literally, when it gives its gleam, or eye, in the cup, that is, when it is 'full of life' (Toy). Nor when it "goeth down smoothly"; see the song of Solomon, 7:9. The wine which fascinates like a serpent is also as poisonous as a serpent; "at the last it biteth like a serpent, and stingeth like an adder."

It is seemingly delirium tremens which the next verses describe. "Thine eyes shall behold strange things, and thy heart shall utter perverse things"—things contrary to reason, religion, and common civility, which one would be ashamed to speak if sober.

"Yea, thou shalt be as he that lieth down in the midst of the sea, or as he that lieth upon the top of a mast." "Drink tempests and boasts men. The heads are giddy, their hands swim, and when they lie down in their drunkenness as if they were tossed by the rolling waves of the sea, upon the top of a mast." (Matthew Henry).

Not High Enough

American Lady Just Thought She Saw Africa From Air

An American lady, in a flight over Brazil at 20,000 feet, declared she saw Africa, 1,822 miles away. She may have thought she did, but her statement has brought out the mathematicians, square-rooting the altitude and giving the exact distance one can see, after allowing for the curvature of the earth. The Minneapolis Journal produces a table which is said to be approximately correct:

At 1,000 feet you can see 39 miles.
At 2,000 feet: 55 miles
At 3,000 feet: 62 miles
At 4,000 feet: 77 miles
At 8,000 feet: 83 miles
At 10,000 feet: 123 miles
At 15,000 feet: 150 miles
At 20,000 feet: 178 miles
At 25,000 feet: 194 miles

Such is the visibility on a clear day with powerful binoculars. And the table must be important for the airmen hunting German U-boats in the Atlantic. What about night visibility? When fliers have returned and told of seeing fires in German cities 100 miles away their reports have been trustworthy, as a mere matter of mathematics. At 30,000 feet, a big fire would be visible easily at 170 miles. But the American lady in Brazil needed to climb to 25½ miles in the air to have seen Africa in day time.—St. Catharines Standard.

APPROPRIATE

A man who had made his fortune to the liquor traffic built himself no ingoming house out of his profits. He wanted a name for the new mansion and consulted a friend about it

"I want a fancy name," he explained, "some hall or other, you know."

"Something appropriate, I suppose?" remarked the friend. "Why not call it Alco Hall?"

Non-Essential Travel Liked South Africa

Besides Being Very Uncomfortable It Is Not Patriotic

Until the war-created emergency is over there is no place for nonessential travel on the various transportation systems in Canada. The railroads are handicapped by a shortage of equipment, as are buses. All available equipment, therefore must be left free for the movement of munitions and service personnel

It has become patriotic, and a good deal more comfortable, to stay at home rather than to go on a trip Sitting room is not assured in railway coaches, chair cars and diners are not available on many trains, and altogether travelling during wartime is anything but pleasant

Aside from the inconvenience, travelling costs more these days with heavy taxes on, and with week-end and other special rates off. This may not make a difference to some people, but it does make a difference to know that unnecessary travel does its bit to hinder the war program.

Montreal Nurse Enjoyed Life There While On Military Service

A Montreal nurse, Sister Janet Dunn, back from military service in South Affica, gives an interesting account of her adventures and experiences. Along with the 49 other Canadians who joined the South African Army Medical Service nearly two years ago, she was at first stationed at Pietermaritzburg, 40 miles from Durban. She was transferred to Johannesburg, where she cared for casualties from North Africa. There is plenty of food and no rationing in Johannesburg, says Miss Dunn, but there is a shortage of goods, and prices are high. Stockings are scarce and there is tea in abundance. She says that South Africans drink tea steadily from six in the morning until bedtime. And in this Canada is the prevalence of squash and pumpkin on menus. Her one regret is that she was absent the day the Canadian nurses were presented to Field Marshal Smuts.

GARDEN NOTES

General Care

Once the garden, both vegetable and flower, is fully planted, their care will be principally cultivation and hoeing or spraying against pests, and thinning and staking.

One can hardly over-emphasize the importance of thinning. Those small seeded vegetables like lettuce, carrots and beets, for instance, should never be allowed to grow as they would germinate. The same is true of flowers whose seeds are so fine that it is impossible to prevent their being planted too close. Carrots, beets, lettuce etc., should have two to three inches apart in the row, and the first thinning should be out every other plant to give the survivors more room. With flowers, give at least half as much room as the packet says they will finally grow.

Cultivation, too, is vital, not only for keeping down weeds but for keeping soil open and loose, thus pushing growth of flowers and vegetables. Often the difference between a really fine garden, productive in both vegetables and bloom, is regular, weekly cultivation. Not heavy digging is necessary but just once over, preferably after an evening rain, with a light cultivator. Of course one must wait until soil is dry.

In most parts of Canada the average garden will now be planted with the earlier types of vegetables and flowers. This does not mean, however, that it is too late to make a start. As a matter of fact, most authorities agree, the average beginner makes a mistake in ensuing planting too soon If one desires continuous bloom throughout the season or a continuing supply of really fresh vegetables, planting should be continued right up to the 1st of July.

Late Plantings

This is especially true of vegetables, particularly the semi-hegiers things like beans, carrots, beets, corn, cabbage, etc. Most vegetables are best when they just reach first maturity, and if one wants to continue eating the finest carrots, corn, beets, beans, peas, etc., all through the season then plantings should be continued at intervals of from two to three weeks right from the time the soil is first ready up to about the first week in July.

With flowers, it is still not too late to most parts of Canada, and only early enough in the colder sections to plant autumn-type gladioli, dahlias and to set out well-started bedding plants of cosmos, zinnias, alyssum, etc., obtainable from the nearest seed house, nurserymen or greenhouse. These started plants in both vegetables and flowers will allow one to have blooming flowers or maturing vegetable gardens in a few weeks.

LADY PASSES AWAY

Death of Mrs. Elizabeth Leitch

Mrs. Elizabeth I. Leitch, beloved wife of Murdoch Leitch, well known resident of Mannville since 1921, passed away at her home on Tuesday, May 18th. She would have been 72 years of age on May 28. The funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock in the afternoon on Friday May 21 at the United church, Mannville.

The deceased was born in Carlton Place, Ont., on May 25, 1872. She lived there for nine years when the family moved west to Manitou, Man. In 1907 she was married to Murdoch Leitch and they moved to Saskatchewan to homestead. In 1909 they opened a hardware store in Islay where a very successful business was carried on until 1921. The store was then sold and another hardware purchased at Mannville where Mr. and Mrs. Leitch and family have since made their home.

Mrs. Leitch was very active in church circles and was a member of the mural interest in missionary work. As well as making a happy and comfortable home for her family she was the book-keeper for the hardware from the day the business was opened in 1909 to just a year before her death.

Left to mourn the loss of a loving wife and mother are the sorrowing husband and one son Ross, one sister Mrs. McCrimmon at Meadow Lake, Sask and one brother Duncan Hamilton at Altamont, Man.

The sympathy of a wide circle of friends is extended to the family in their bereavement.

ALBERTA PREMIER DIES IN VANCOUVER

Funeral Services Held Wednesday

Premier Aberhart, who as head of the Alberta Social Credit government for nearly eight years gained international fame, died in hospital at Vancouver at 8 a.m. Sunday (Pacific time). He was 64 years old.

The funeral service was held at Vancouver Wednesday afternoon at the Canadian Memorial church. Services were conducted by Rev. G. Harrison Villett, formerly of Edmonton and a personal friend of the premier for the last 18 years.

Six Alberta cabinet ministers attended the funeral, the only one remaining here being Hon. D.B. Mac-Millan, minister of agriculture. Under the constitution, it is necessary that at least one cabinet minister be in the province at all times.

Mr. Aberhart became one of the outstanding advocates of monetary reform on the continent and at a convention in Winnipeg two chances at national leader of the Democratic Monetary Reform Organization.

As minister of education, he took a leading part in improving the status of school teachers, giving them professional standing. He also took the lead in establishing the larger school units in the province, and has been commended even by political opponents for his progressive policies in the field of education.

Mr. Aberhart was world-wide fame in fighting for farm debtor relief, and introduced much sweeping legislation along this line. In speeches in the legislature, he declared his firm determination to give debtor relief, and did the interests of the underprivileged, who, he contended, were the victims of a financial system which did not provide adequate purchasing power.

Mr. Aberhart left Edmonton about the middle of April for a visit to his family in Vancouver. On April 18 he entered the Vancouver General hospital for a check-up.

Later he was released from hospital but on May 15 he re-entered the hospital on the instructions of doctors following an emergency operation.

On Thursday Mr. Aberhart took a turn for the worse. It was reported at the time that he was suffering from a liver ailment.

While hope still was held for his recovery on Friday and it was stated by relatives that he was holding his own, the premier's condition on Saturday was reported to be critical. Local people were hopeful of his recovery stating it was only a matter of hours before death.

Mrs. Aberhart and their daughters, Mrs. J. M. Cooper and Mrs. C. A. MacNeil, both of Vancouver, were at the hospital when the premier died.

Burial was made in the Forest Lawn Memorial Park, Vancouver.

LIKELY TO RAISE NEW PREMIER IN HOSPITAL

Hon. Solon Low, Alberta provincial treasurer, said Wednesday that "in all probability" a successor to the late premier would be named in Edmonton next Monday.

The cabinet will probably have a meeting on Friday to discuss future plans" said Mr. Low. "Following the meeting of cabinet which will be held in Edmonton on Sunday, we will meet again. On Monday night a caucus is planned and in all probability the new leader will be named at that time."

In the mixed competition the honors were captured by the visitors, this time by 2467 against 2377. Border-town bowlers were Ann Whitley, Tom Dupuis, Mary Robertson, Freddie Dupuis and Mrs. Edie Falkinetham. Vermilion entry was comprised of Mrs. Rice, Carl Thomasser, Mrs. J. Goode, Tom Keeling and Mrs. C. Miller.

ANNUAL FIELDERS' DAY IN EDMONTON JUNE 5th

The Department of Animal Science, University of Alberta, has announced the annual Fielders' Day to be held in the livestock pavilion, University Farm, on Saturday, June 5th, commencing at 10 a.m.

In view of the special demand at this time for the production of livestock and animal products, this year's program should be of special interest. The reports and discussions will be based on the results of experiments that have been in progress during the past year. These include a comparison of different grains and protein supplements for swine, the use of clover crop and home-grown feeds for cattle finishing, the use of whey for feeding dairy cows, together with the value or cobalt in the winter ration for pregnant ewes.

Farmers and feeders will find it worth while to visit the University on June 5th and take part in the discussions.

Lunch will be available.

While a good many trees and shrubs are being planted all over the town, possibly the palm for greatest effort should go to Harry Jeallous, Lloyd Dowsett and Mayor Morrison, who are really landscaping their new west end properties in lavish style.

Vermilion Fair Carries On At Request of Agriculture Minister

Dates Are July 29, 30, and 31

Sitting in special session with the Executive of the Western Canada Fairs Association in Regina early this month, the Dominion Minister of Agriculture, the Hon. Jas. G. Gardiner expressed the hope that the Western Fairs would find ways and means of carrying on for 1943.

Mr. Gardiner stressed the necessity of continued pressure looking toward the further development of the livestock industry and the directors of Vermilion Fair have acceded to the request and are now making plans for the annual fair to be conducted as a livestock show.

The Alberta Government some time ago expressed their willingness to make the usual grant for the improvement of livestock and the Canadian Shorthorn association has selected Vermilion as the locale of their Alberta Provincial show for the present year.

The Alberta Hereford association and the Provincial Swine Breeders association have also intimated that special awards will be made to their respective classes and every inducement is to be given to breeders from all over Alberta and from western Saskatchewan to bring their select animals to Vermilion so that farmers of the area may have the opportunity of seeing these in the judging ring.

A feature of the Fair will be the auction sale of dairy beef, baby beef and sheep which will be placed for sale on conclusion of judging; authority having been received to sell all prizes beyond the usual wartime ceiling and breeders are urged to ask for details of the sale which is expected to have a most beneficial effect.

The famed Cruickshanks Clydesdales of Saskatchewan have already been entered for Vermilion Fair following their showing on A Circuit and with the Bryden entries of Manitoba, W.D. Williams & Sons of Vermilion and others there is reason to believe that the horse show will rival those of even the larger fairs in the West.

EDUCATIONAL FEATURES

It is with pleasure that the Fair Board is able to announce that the Provincial Government is sending to Vermilion Fair a large and entire display exhibit, featuring essential products in time of war.

The North West Line Elevators Association is also assisting by presenting to our public the most modern exhibit that we have had yet, whilst the Searle Grain Company is to present an exhibition of weaving and in addition have instructors in the art available for Fair patrons.

GRANDSTAND ATTRACTIONS PAR EXCELLENCE

The Hamilton booking agency of Winnipeg has lined up the best selection of outdoor attractions that has ever been presented in Western Canada; those who have seen the attractions assembled on their New York and Chicago engagements aver that the people of the Western Canada Fairs Circuit are due for a pleasant surprise.

OBJECTIONABLE MIDWAY FEATURES ELIMINATED

Taking advantage of the existing situation representatives of the Western B Fairs have finally been able to wholly eliminate the long complained of undesirable features of travelling midways; for the 1943 circuit each fair will conduct its own ground entertainment, there being rides for the kiddies and clean, wholesome entertainment for all, without gambling build-up games which have been unpopular with patrons and fair boards alike

HARNESS RACING

An endeavor is being made to bring to Vermilion track some of the fastest horses in the West and further announcements will be made regarding this feature as entries are received. The renowned Carrot Rover Racing association, comprising more than 100 horses from thirty stables operating in northern Saskatchewan have evinced interest in the Vermilion Race meet and if present plans are followed lovers of the track will be insured an interesting series of races.

MILITARY DISPLAY

In view of the present intense interest in all things military, the directors have extended an invitation to the Military District to send to Vermilion displays of modern fighting machines and to provide precision drills to the accompaniment of a military band; with an extensive mobilization by Brigade training at Wainwright it is fully expected that khaki will be much in evidence at Vermilion fair, as the six hundred members of the C. W.A.C. whom you are so fond to have in Vermilion are undoubtedly an attraction in themselves, to old and young alike.

THREE DAYS PICNIC

Coming at a time when the farmers will be enjoying a respite from their arduous war time production the Vermilion fair on July 29, 30 and 31 will offer an excellent opportunity for visiting friends and neighbors under the most favorable surroundings and in view of war time restrictions, including rationing, an effort will be made to have available for purchase on every picnic meals under canvas with necessary hot water for tea and coffee provided.

Vermilion's 1943 fair will surpass in entertainment and educational value any event in the previous years and will have the added interest of being entirely free of objectionables usually the case in times of stress.

MEAT RATION ENDING FAIR DISTRIBUTION

Canadian system developed for the rationing of meat, to be launched in Canada, Thursday May 27, was the approval of a conference of newspaper editors in Toronto recently. Delegates were given a preliminary outline of the plan agreed that rationing of meat is the safest means of distribution for all people.

It was pointed out that not only great Britain depends upon meat from Canada, but supplies in Canada, down the Alaska Highway, across to Newfoundland, south to the West Indies, and to prisoners of war, through the Canadian Red Cross.

Officials also point out that meat, like ammunition, must be stored in Canada for the duration of the war, so on Thus Canadians on the home front see where the ration plan for sharing meat is vital to them.

From on May 27 consumers going to the meat markets will present ration books with brown coupons figure "A" designated for meat. These are double coupons, two No. 1 two No. 2, etc. A set will become available each week.

Coupons which become valid before the 1st of the month will expire at the end of that month. Coupons becoming valid after the 15th will expire at the end of the following month.

Five coupons are attached to each card, each good for the purchase of five pounds of sugar. For small families or two where only 10 pounds of sugar will be allotted one coupon will be detached before mailing to large families where 40 or 50 pounds are allotted, two cards will be enclosed containing coupons to the value of the amount stated.

First two coupons become effective in June, the third in July, the fourth in August and the fifth in September. All coupons expire September 31, 1943 and any coupons lost or destroyed will not be replaced, officials state.

VALUE OF AGRICULTURE PRODUCTION, 1942

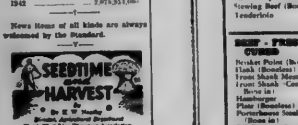
The value of agricultural production in Canada in 1942 is estimated by the Federal Bureau of Statistics at $2,875,364,000 which is 44% above the 1941 estimate and the largest total since 1919.

Record yields of all grain crops particularly in the prairie provinces, as well as moderate increases in the prices were responsible for the great expansion and the value of field crops. It should be clearly understood that a very large percentage of the 1942 grain production is still in farmers' bins. On the first of April the total wheat, oats, barley, rye and flax in that position was close to 500 million bushels. Because of market lag quotas the bulk of this grain must be kept on the farms and so its value is potential rather than actual.

The following table gives the gross value of agricultural production in Canada in the years from 1926 to 19[illegible]

1926	$1,619,455,000
1927	1,710,319,000
1928	1,724,177,000
1929	1,553,597,000
1930	1,171,184,000
1931	836,141,000
1932	747,148,000
1933	778,198,000
1934	921,855,000
1935	929,172,000
1936	1,067,585,000
1937	1,672,583,000
1938	1,564,340,000
1939	1,204,340,000
1940	1,982,149,000
1941	1,436,122,000
1942	2,875,364,000

News items of all kinds are always welcomed by the Standard.



Putting First Things First

When this Department was organized, nearly three years ago, we decided that besides providing farmers with timely information and specific services, we would put all our weight behind what we considered the four most pressing agricultural problems. These were: (1) weed control (2) soil erosion (3) dairy feed including the problem of saving protein concentrates (4) [illegible]

Only the other day, a local bank president "Weed Control" [illegible] our office. The bank, quote a report, prepared in 1939 by the Agricultural Service Department of the United States Chamber of Commerce, in which estimates of losses in farm crops due to various causes are given. Of 30 items of waste, soil erosion was given first place and weeds second. The following figures on losses in the United States are interesting:

1. Decrease of livestock (not including deaths from eating poisonous plants) $ 200,000,000
2. Plant diseases (10 leading crops plus forest trees) $1,100,000,000
3. Insect pests of plants and animals $1,125,000,000
4. Weeds $2,000,000,000

Of course, erosion losses are for summer and, worse still, permanently injure or ruin the land.

One of these days—we hope soon—we shall learn what sort of average palsey or guidance the government will undertake. Farmers, insurance companies, bankers and municipal officials makers all depend on the land. It is high time all realized that the land is being damaged. Summerfallowing aggravates erosion unless very carefully done, and coarse grains do no good unless fed on the farm and the manure returned to the land.

There is not wholesale theory, but hard reality. What shall we do about it? In the next issue we shall offer a few suggestions.

[illegible] Bush Company.

Farmers Carry Out Objectives

The changes revealed in the April 30, 1943, survey of farmers' intentions to plant show that farmers are making every effort to carry out the objectives which were placed before them by the Dominion-Provincial Agricultural Conference held in December of 1942. There is a reduction of 21 per cent in the wheat acreage of all Canada compared with 1942, the total 1943 acreage being placed at 17,087,100. Substantial reductions are shown for all of the three Prairie Provinces where increased acreages of coarse grains and flaxseed are in prospect. There is little change in the prospective area to be summer-followed in 1943 as compared with 1942, 980 acres compared with 19,379,000 acres in 1942.

The barley area for 1943 is currently estimated at 4,047,100 acres, an increase of 16 per cent over 1942, and the largest area ever devoted to this crop in Canada. The acreages to be seeded to oats in 1943 is also substantially above that of 1942. The flaxseed area at 2,556,200 acres is 69 per cent, or 1,034,100 above the 1942 acreage. The acreage devoted to fall and spring rye has been sharply reduced but some increase occurred in the acreage planted to mixed grains. While the acreage changes are most pronounced in the Prairie Provinces, the figures indicate that farmers are endeavoring to increase their feed grain production in almost all the areas of the Dominion.

Field Inspection of Crops

Because of wartime restrictions and shortage of trained inspectors, it is essential that field inspections of standing crops of cereals or forage be made as economically as possible. It will, therefore, be necessary that growers wishing such inspection make their applications in good time. It has been decided that applications for forage crop inspections must be made prior to July 1st and those for cereal inspections before July 10th.

Applications forms can be secured from, and must be returned promptly to:

Production Service, Plant Products Division, Dominion Department of Agriculture, Immigration Building, Calgary, Alberta.

Growers who neglect making application prior to the specified dates may not receive service this season. It is, therefore, to the grower's interest that his application for this service should be filed promptly.

MEAT RATIONING AS IT AFFECTS FARMERS

Farmers may slaughter their livestock for their own consumption—but must turn in to the Local Ration Board at the end of each month, 1 coupon for each two pounds of their own slaughtered meat consumed on their own premises. Farmers need in no case surrender more than half the number of each month's coupons for meats for home slaughtered meat.

The remaining half of farmer's meat coupons may be used for ordinary retail purchases of meat, on the basis of coupon values as shown on the chart above.

Farmers may supply meat from their own slaughterings to other farmers for consumption on their own farm premises. Local farmer "Beef Rings" are also permitted. Farmers providing meat to other farmers, or "Beef Rings", must collect meat coupons on the basis of 1 coupon for each two pounds of meat, gross weight. Self-addressed and stamped envelopes for mailing in coupons can be secured at your Local Ration Board.

CONSUMER MEAT IN LOCKERS

Before June 30th all consumers (including farmers) who store meat in lockers must declare in writing to the nearest branch of the Ration Administration, the quantity of rationed meat they have in storage over and above eight pounds per person in the household. Declarations must be accompanied by sufficient ration coupons to cover the quantity of declared stored meat at the rate of 1 coupon for each two pounds of meat in the above groups.

The number of persons to be declared by the locker user need not exceed those [illegible] 20% of the total meat coupons in the possession of himself and his household. Locker users may retain for retail purchasing one of each similarly numbered pair of coupons.

NOTICE TO THE MEAT TRADE

Retailers of meat must collect coupons for any rationed meats sold on or after May 27th. They need not turn in coupons to their suppliers for meat purchased up until June 10th. This arrangement is made to enable them to build up stocks. A Special Food Bulletin giving complete details of meat rationing is being mailed to all food stores.

Speculation On Collapse Of Axis Through Air War

Washington.—The possibility that Allied military leaders are trying to shatter Axis Europe by aerial bombardment so that when invasion is attempted it will meet resistance only by a demoralized army was read into Prime Minister Churchill's speech by competent observers here.

A flurry of speculation was stirred by two remarks made by Mr. Churchill, who omitted any direct reference to the long-discussed invasion.

He said:

(1) It is "worth trying" to bring about a collapse in Germany and Italy by air power alone.

(2) The Allies must do everything "sensible and practicable" to divert Axis strength from the Russian front.

In view of the devastation wrought in Germany and occupied Europe by recent round-the-clock bombings, chief interest in official Washington centred around what seemed to be a hint that the cherished theory of "pure air power" enthusiasts—a victory by air alone—was being put to the test.

"Opinion is divided," Churchill said, "as to whether the use of air power could by itself bring about a collapse in Germany or Italy.

"The experiment is well worth trying, as long as other means are not excluded."

While informed persons agreed that this seemed to bode an even greater scale of bombing than anything yet seen, they were sceptical of any deduction that invasion by ground troops would be withheld or even delayed.

More likely, they suggested, the Allied high command knows that the problems of invasion will be enormously simplified by calculated destruction beforehand. And they hope that the ground forces when they do invade the continent, will find a demoralized foe.

Observers were reluctant to infer from the prime minister's cautious phrasing of "sensible and practicable" moves to divert German attention from Russia by "hedgin, on second front plans. Two possible explanations were suggested for avoiding discussion of an invasion—a desire to "keep the enemy guessing," and the possibility that the operations are so near that Churchill thought it wisest not to give out any hints.

Whether or not the all-out aerial offensive produces collapse or complete demoralization in Italy or Germany, observers agreed that it is inevitably would make the invasion by ground forces a much easier job.

MUST HAVE FOOD

President Roosevelt Addresses Delegates At Opening Session Of Conference

Hot Springs, Va.—President Roosevelt told the United Nations food conference that "no hindrances, whether of international trade, of transportation or of internal distribution," must be permitted to keep the people of the world from receiving the food necessary to health.

"Society must be full to the obligation to make available to all its members at least the minimum adequate nutrition," the president said in a message to the conference's opening session.

Delegates of 43 governments, a French representative and the Danish minister to the United States assembled in the Homestead hotel for the first plenary session of the first United Nations conference on post-war problems.

Mr. Roosevelt reminded them that "the broad objectives for which we work have been stated in the Atlantic Charter, the Declaration of United Nations, and at the meeting of the 21 American republics at Rio de Janeiro in January, 1942."

"It is the purpose of this conference," he explained, "to consider how best to further these policies and also as they concern the consumption production and distribution of food and other agricultural products in the postwar period."

DEPORT STUDENTS

4,000 Set From Netherlands For Forced Labor In Germany

London.—German occupation authorities have deported 4,000 Netherlands students to Germany for forced labor, the Netherlands agency, Aneta, said.

Aneta quoted Marshal Goering's paper, Essener National Zeitung, as saying the students had been deported after 90 per cent. refused to sign "a declaration of obedience" to all Nazi regulations.

Thousands Of Recruits Must Be Furnished

Ottawa.—Defence Minister Ralston told the House of Commons that "this year looks like a year of action and Canadians will be in the thick of it," and he announced that this year's program will be planned to keep the army overseas reinforced and equipped. He said that it was the intention to send 75,000 men overseas in the current fiscal year, but that he was not announcing any new formations.

To supply adequate reinforcements and equipment and maintain proper reserves was the program in brief, and for this purpose the minister said 177,000 new recruits for the three armed services would be required in the current fiscal year.

The winding-up of Col Ralston's statement on the army's $1,764,000,000 share of this year's $3,890,000,000 war appropriation bill contained these points:

1. The year's program calls for 100 000 new recruits for the army, including 75,000 for overseas; 24,000 for the navy and 53,000 for the air force.

2. Distribution of available manpower as between the armed forces and vital industries called for integration of defence and national selective service departmental activities and teamwork by all citizens.

3. He hoped to get for the armed forces some of those likely to be released through layoffs in certain war industries which have filled immediate requirements.

4. The Canadian Women's Army Corps has been the most satisfactory experiment in the war effort and plans are under way to accommodate 1,400 recruits a month where only 700 were enlisting.

5. Canada is just beginning the rationing of manpower and he has confidence the people will accept industrial discomfort with the same spirit as that displayed by those in the services.

He warned against over estimation of the significance of the North African victory. It was part of the preliminary, but not the decisive, stage of the victory Canadians might fight as an army or broken up into units, Col. Ralston said.

ORDER PLACED

United States Is Supplying Helicopters For Use In Canada

Washington.—The Canadian wartime information board disclosed that six helicopters have been ordered from the U.S. for possible anti-submarine work.

The R.C.A.F. also may employ helicopters to rescue airmen forced down in areas inaccessible to any other kind of conveyance, the announcement said.

EVERYTHING READY

Council Of French Resistance Has Made Invasion Day Plans

London.—A new decree settling the death penalty for "severe cases" of strikes or slow-downs was reported from Holland, while from France and Yugoslavia came fresh news of resistance to the Axis overlords. The new decree applies to physicians, veterinary surgeons, dentists and druggists as well as workers.

As in France, Fernand Grenier, former Communist deputy who now is with the Fighting French, reported that the underground had issued an "Invasion Day" plan to go into effect when the Allied attack comes.

Describing the "Invasion Day" plan distributed to the recently organized Council of French Resistance, which embraces underground organizations, Grenier said it instructed Frenchmen that:

Mobilization should start the moment of invasion, with arms supplied them; a general strike should paralyse all economic and industrial activities throughout France; Vichy military or police forces attempting to hinder the patriots should be killed or captured; prisons and jails should be opened and political prisoners freed.

ITALIAN AIR FORCE

Even With German Help Could Not Withstand Allied Attack

London.—The British air ministry said in a summary that "the total Italian air strength is so small and so technically inferior to the Allies that its best efforts, even in conjunction with the German air force, could not effectively protect Italy from Allied air attack."

The bulk of the Axis air strength in Africa, the ministry statement said, was the German air force, and even with that trained personnel and with planes superior to those of the Italians the Axis lost at least four times as many aircraft as did the Allies.

The statement pointed out that Italy was vulnerable to air attack from both North Africa and from the Middle East.

A Berne despatch quoted Milan sources as saying that Gen. Vittorio Ambrosio, chief of the Italian general staff, had presented his resignation to Mussolini.
